Several Homes Shaken by Heavy Blast

Shortly before noon on Monday several homes shook when jets, flying over the city broke the sound barrier.

Rumors were heard that there had been an explosion at the Shopping Plaza, but city police after checking this out found it to be untrue.

Another rumor was that two railway cars, owned by the CNR were blown up near Point Anne, but this was also found to be untrue, as was the rumor that blasting was being carried out at the site of the new sewage disposal plant in the city.

JOHN HENRY LAFFERTY

TRENTON — On Friday, Rev. M. E. Farrell of New York City celebrated Requiem High Mass in St. Peter's Church, Trenton for John Henry, (Jack) Lafferty, of R. R. 4, Trenton. Mr. Lafferty died at Trenton Memorial Hospital last Tuesday. He was 58.

Present in the Sanctuary for the Mass were the Very Rev. J. G. Clancy, P.P., St. Peter's Church; Rev. W. H. Dunphy, of the Sacred Heart Church at Bataws and Rev. G. F. Sullivan of St. Alphonsus Church at Wooler. Mr. Lafferty was a member of St. Alphonsus Church, Wooler, where John McCormick, Ambrose McAuley, Alec Rutherford, Fred Morgan, Basil Brooks and Jack Alyea. Interment was in Mount Calvary Cemetery. The service was under the direction of the Weaver Funeral Home of Trenton.

Born in Murray Township, Mr. Lafferty was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Francis Lafferty. He had farmed in Murray and was engaged in business in the township for many years. He had been in poor health for the past year and a half.

Mr. Lafferty is survived by his wife, the former Lillian Mary Eves; a son, John, at home; two sisters, Miss Wilhelmina (Jennie) Horsley, R. R. 4, Trenton and Mrs. William (Evelyn) Finlay of Glendale, California and three brothers, Harry of R. R. 8, Trenton, Frank of Rosenesth, Ont., and Wilmot of R. R. 3, Trenton.

MRS. ROY GOODMAN
Frankford—Trenton

Living in Trenton with her sister for the past four years, Mrs. Roy Goodman, of College Street, Trenton, died suddenly at her home on Sunday. She was in her 74th year.

Born in Scotland, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mills and had lived briefly in Frankford before going to Trenton. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Twice married, she is survived by her husband, Roy Goodman and a son, Robert Kidd of Stockdale. Her first husband, James Kidd, died some years ago.

Also surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Frank Hutchison of Parkhurst, Trenton; Mrs. Lawrence (Kitty) Moore of B.C.; Mrs. William (Jean) Shilcock of Trenton, and Mrs. William (Janet) Wood of Stockdale, and three brothers, George of Hearn Bay, Sandy of McArthur's Mills, and Jack of Belleville.

HUGH WILBUR PHILLIPS

The funeral of Hugh Wilbur Phillips was held Monday at Frankford United Church. Rev. Charles Judd officiated.

Interment was in Frankford Cemetery.

The bearers were Mac Claire, Alman Spencer, Clinton Cooper, George Montgomery, Philip Turner and Brennan Wannamaker. Honorary bearers were Frank Loso, Douglas Ketcheson, Ed McGeechy, Fred Stucky, Walter Broadbent and Gerald Richardson, all members of the Bataws, Frankford and Stirling police departments. Bataws firemen formed a guard of honor. Miss Bonnie Rowe sang at the funeral.

HERBERT ASHLEY KEEGAN

The funeral of Herbert Ashley Keegan was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon. Rev. D. W. Sinclair conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites in Belleville Cemetery.

Funeral services for the late Harold E. Martin were held Saturday at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, with Rev. E. W. Coleman officiating. Interment was in the Martin Family plot at Riverside Cemetery, Napanee.

The bearers were Ross Schryver, Wayne Simmons, Lyle Twiddy, Ira A. Morton, F. A. Roper and H. Haley.

Many Subjects Discussed at H&S Course

The use of Parliamentary Procedure is definitely conducive to effective meetings, so observed those attending the second night of the Leadership Course being presented by Belleville and District Home and School Council at Bayview School.

The guest of the evening, Mr. D. Maddocks, District Representative Community Programs Branch of Department of Education, presented, to the group, a film entitled "Effective Meetings" which illustrated the effect, on a meeting, when it gets out of hand. Later on the film used proper procedure which led to a more organized and effective meeting. After the members had time to discuss the film and its values they were reassembled and Mr. Maddocks led the group in analyzing the purpose of the film and pointed out its benefits in relation to their respective association/meetings.

Policies and Public Relations were handed three True or False questions. The group as a whole reported their answers giving the reasons why they picked a True or a False answer which many times was enlarged upon by the group as a whole so that many points were quickly covered which often all could not benefit by associations.

Mrs. D. Jones pointed out some publications, pertaining to the subjects covered by the evening's programs, for the group's attention to the excellent display on hand for their benefit.

Chairman for the evening, Mrs. S. Stenson, thanked Mr. Maddocks for his part and extended an invitation to all present to attend the 3rd and last night next Thursday, October 11th, when the Role of Home and School, namely Programs and Policies, will be discussed.

It will be held at Bayview School on Highway No. 2 just east of Fairley Ave., Belleville, at 7:30 p.m. Everybody is welcome to come and receive help with their association's programing.

IN MEMORIAM

BUSH — In loving memory of Mrs. William Bush, who passed away October 9th, 1960.

Sadly our hearts we must again. Some day we know not when. To God's will we bow in submission.

Never to part again.

—Lovingly remembered by her husband William Bush.

COOKE — In loving memory of our dear father, William Cooke, who passed away October 9th, 1959.

You're not forgotten, father, dear, As long as life and memory last, For you're remembered Every hour.

—Sadly missed by Vera, Lena and Clifford.

ROWE — In memory of my brother Raymond Rowe, who passed away October 9th, 1959.

Time heals a heart but not forgotten Though on earth you are no more. Still in memory you are with us, As you always were before.

—Sadly missed by your brother Jim, sister-in-law Peggy and family.

ROWE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Raymond Rowe, who passed away October 9th, 1959.

Nothing can ever take away The love a heart holds dear, Fond memories linger every day, Remembrance draws you near. Forever remembered by wife and family.

COOKE — In loving memory of a dear father, William Cooke, who passed away October 9, 1960.

True was his heart, his action kind His life was a blessing, his memory is dear, Reminds us of the face, the smile, the body, Now lying silent here.

—Missed by Harold and Rosanne.

DOUGLAS — In loving memory of our father, Lorne Douglas, who passed away, October 9, 1958.

Gone dear father, gone forever, From our home you used to dwell, Your loss is more than we can tell, None on earth can take your place, A happy home you always made, How sweet the memory still, That death has left a loneliness, The world can never fill.

—Remembered by Shirley and Marvyn Scott, Jack and Edna Douglas.

COOKE — In loving memory of a dear grandfather Will Cooke who passed away October 9, 1954.

Time speeds on, two years have flown, Since death its gloom, its shadows threw, Within our home, where all seemed bright, And took from us a shining light, But memory keeps his face in view, His voice, his smile, the same as true.

Here we mourn, but not in vain, For up in heaven we will meet again.

—Ever remembered by Everett and Grace.

DOUGLAS — In memory of my husband, Clarence Douglas, who passed away October 9, 1960.

The face I loved is now laid low, Your happy voice is still, The hands so often clasped in mine, Lies now in death's cold chill. Often at night I think of you, When I am all alone, And wish that you were much I miss you dear, No one knows the bitter pain, I have suffered since you left me, Life has never been the same, Ever lovingly remembered by Agatha.

HOLGATE — In memory of our sister-in-law, Wanda Holgate, who passed away October 9, 1961.

As the gathering sad is an open gate,
Through which our loved ones go,
To a place of far more peace and joy,
Than we could ever know.
Our hearts are sad and weary, waiting
Our call,
To give her strength and rest;
May we then find our comfort,
In the thought that God knows best.

—Always remembered by Freeman, Helen and family.

Interment, Stockdale Cemetery.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to take this opportunity to say a most sincere "Thank You" to all our relatives, friends and neighbors who sent cards and called to see us on our golden wedding anniversary. We would especially like to thank Rosslyn Stenabaugh for their lovely gifts, the United Church congregation for the lovely flowers and the Rev. Mr. Coleman for his visits. To all others for their beautiful cards and kind thoughts and to everyone who helped in any way in making our anniversary such a happy one. The memory of the occasion will remain with us always. Thank you one and all.

—Mr. and Mrs. Rosie, Roslin, Ontario.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, floral tributes and Sacred Bibles, during our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear husband and father. A special thanks to Dr. Lawson, Whitney Sagon Chapter, Rev. K. Winter, Hillcrest Choir, Mr. Bert Smith undertaker.

Mrs. Harold Groves and family.

Three Canada Geese Shot Near Kaladar

There will be three less Canada geese flying south this year due to the fine marksmanship of Leo Hay, an employee of the Aluminum Star Products.

He was out hunting yesterday down Kaladar way, when he spotted a flock of geese coming in for a landing to rest and feed. Sneaking up through the underbrush, he got within range and knocked down three of the birds.

Doug Burns of Harris Dr., got his Thanksgiving dinner the easy way. He was sitting in his own home when a partridge crashed into the window of his home and was knocked out. Mr. Burns soon had it in the pot for a game dinner.

Two Remanded Until Friday

Two local men appeared in city magistrate's court here this morning, charged with breaking and entering the Club Canara on Hambley Street, with intent.

Appearing before Magistrate T. Y. Wilkes were Robert Clipp, age 18 and Thomas H. Keck, age 21.

The two were remanded until Friday.

East Germans Block British Aid to Refugee

BERLIN (AP)—The Western allies apparently have decided to do nothing except protest the refusal of East German guards to let a British army ambulance go to the aid of a man shot just across the Berlin wall. The protest Monday.

The East German action was seen as a blow to Western prestige in Berlin.

Western officials were reluctant to predict what further action might be taken. From their remarks it seemed unlikely that anything would be done.

Some acknowledged that the East Germans could cite their successful blocking of the ambulance Saturday as a precedent for stopping other Western military traffic in East Berlin. They pointed out that this had not happened yet.

They also pointed out that the East Germans could halt all Western traffic unless the Allies gave it armed escort. The Allies did that with some military vehicles last October when the East Germans began stopping Allied cars. The East Germans backed down after the Russians and the Americans each rushed tanks up to the wall.

SUGGESTS BAN

Mayor Willy Brandt's socialist party said Soviet vehicles should be banned from West Berlin in retaliation for the East German action.

There was no indication, however, of any such Allied plans.

East German guards Monday apparently killed two East Germans trying to swim the Spree River to the West. The mother of one of the men trying to escape saw the shooting from the Western bank and collapsed.

A witness said he saw a second swimmer with his feet in the air, either hit by the gunfire or diving to avoid it.

The East German guards also fired on a West Berlin police car that had rushed to the scene. The West Berlin police returned the fire. More than 50 shots were fired but no one was reported hit.

life sentence as a spy for the Soviet Union.

Instead, he was taken to Hillington Hospital. He died nearly five days later after a series of convulsions attributed by his doctor to a brain hemorrhage.

The prison guard, Wilbur Burrows, said the last - minute search of Sobien yielded handkerchiefs, a ball point pen, an empty glass vial and a paper pie packet labelled "sunflower kernels."

He testified that the search was so thorough it would have been impossible for Sobien to have concealed anything on his body.

FOUND PILLS

Earlier, an official of the Brixton Prison hospital said Sobien had been caught hoarding doses of a mild tranquilizer prescribed by a doctor. Three pills were found hidden in a locker by his bed.

The official, William Murray, said the prescription was then withdrawn.

Coroner H. G. Broadbridge asked the prison doctor who attended Sobien, Dr. Dudleigh Ormer Topp, if the police had showed him "some little pink tablets that had been found."

"Yes," replied Topp. "I had never seen them before and I understand they are not of English manufacture."

"As far as you know they were not prescribed for Dr. Sobien in the prison hospital?"

"We had never seen any of those tablets in the hospital," said Topp.

Constable Victor Renshaw, who guarded Sobien in the exam-unit of Lincoln Center for the bulance on the way to the air- Performing Arts. Pritchard's port, said the pink tablets were secretary came on stage later found in one of the spy's pock- and told the audience the pianist ets after he collapsed and was appeared to have been affected taken to the hospital. by nervous exhaustion.

Vanier Unveils Memorial at Vimy Barracks

KINGSTON (CP) — Governor-General Georges Vanier Saturday unveiled a memorial dedicated to Canada's war dead erected by the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals at Vimy Barracks near here.

A life-size statue of Mercury, mythological messenger of the gods, is the central feature of the memorial. The statue, cast in bronze by an Italian craftsman, is flanked by low stone walls which create an entrance to Vimy Barracks.

The Governor-General, speaking to an audience of about 500, said: "Each time a member of your corps lays down his rifle, so each time does a man register his conviction that the values and ideals we hold in common are worth dying for."

The memorial also unveiled a plaque carrying the corps badge and the inscription in both French and English: "To those in the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals who gave their lives for their country."

A telegram from the Princess Royal, colonel-in-chief of the corps, who turned the first sod for the memorial last June, said she was impressed with the "concept and simple design of the memorial."

First Aim Was To Kidnap Gen. de Gaulle

PARIS (Reuters) — Three men arrested in an attempt on the life of President de Gaulle were held on examining magistrate Monday their first aim had been to kidnap de Gaulle and "try" him.

Police sources quoted Lt.-Jean Marie Bastien-Thiry, Lieut. Alain Bougrenet de la Tocnaye and Jacques-Charles Prevot as saying if the attempt at kidnapping had succeeded de Gaulle would have been "tried" by a military tribunal of the outlawed national resistance council, an extremist group.

Asked by Magistrate Maitre Georges Reynaud why they had no handcuffs on rope with them, the three replied: "We knew de Gaulle would behave with dignity and calm and ropes to tie him would not be necessary."

They admitted that if the kidnapping attempt failed the second aim was to kill the president, the sources said.

Full Timetable Arranged for Market Talks

BRUSSELS (Reuters)— Britain and the six European Common Market countries today were agreed on a full timetable for further ministerial talks on Britain's market entry after talks here Monday.

Britain's chief market negotiator, Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath, said after discussions with Market ministers "we can now get down to hard work again."

He said a "sound program of meetings has been worked out together with a comprehensive program of work for deputies".

He added, however, that "no deadline of any kind" had been set for the conclusion of negotiations, adjourned in August in near-deadlock, largely over the question of foodstuffs from the Commonwealth if Britain joins the trade group.

Informed sources here said the ministers would meet again Oct. 25, 26 and 27 to discuss Britain's agriculture.

If Britain and the six also will meet at Ministerial level Nov. 13, 16 and 17 to discuss food products from Canada, Australia and New Zealand and the financial requisition of the Common Market's common agricultural policy, sources said.

Curling Club Getting Ready For Season

TRENTON — For the past month the draw and bonspiel committee at the Trenton Curling Club has been busy compiling the 1962-63 curling schedules.

November 6 to 10 will see the men's opening bonspiel, with the club opening bonspiel coming at the end of the month. In December, such events as a men's one-day invitation spiel; the club Christmas mixed spiel and a one-day Saturday mixed will take place. January and February will see several one-day invitational events, with the men's Bay of Quinte Bonspiel being held from Jan. 30 to Feb. 3; March is highlighted by the St. Pat's Bonspiel on the 16th, and the final, closing bonspiel will be held from April 2 to April 6.

CONTINUE PROBE

Constable Sidney Vickers of the Trenton Police Department is continuing an investigation into the cause of a fire, believed to have been set intentionally, in a large shed owned by Joe Dale, on the riverfront in east Trenton, which occurred last Tuesday night.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said today that quick action on the part of Mr. Dale had saved the shed from complete destruction. "Captain" Joe noticed the fire and attempted to put it out himself, burning his hand badly in the process. When he saw that it was beyond him, he put in a call to the fire department and concerted effort extinguished the blaze.

$275 Damage In Three-Car Collision

TRENTON — In spite of increased holiday traffic on Trenton streets over the week-end, only two accidents were reported at Trenton police station, both of which ocurred on Saturday.

Damage estimated at around $275 was the result of a three-car collision on Front Street, around 11.30 a.m.

Police say that a car, driven by Peter Cosgrove, R. R. 6, Belleville failed to stop because of the wet condition of the road, when the driver applied the brakes, and struck a car in front, driven by Wayne Panko, R. R. 1, Trenton, which slid ahead into a third vehicle, driven by Pet. Ronald Weaver of Camp Borden. The Panko car was damaged to the extent of $250; the other two vehicles sustaining minor damage only.

Later on Saturday, damage estimated at $700 re-sulted when cars driven by Michael Thomas McDonald, 28, of 147 Henry St., and Ross Alexander Hoffman, 43, 8 Henry St., collided at the intersection of Henry St. and Victoria Ave. The road was wet and covered with sodden leaves at the time of the accident, and rain was falling. Drivers and passengers in the two cars were uninjured.

WILL HOLD CLASSES

Hunter safety classes will be held in Trenton prior to the deer hunting season. On Monday, Oct. 22 and Tuesday, Oct. 23, classes will be held in the town hall, with lectures each evening and a test at the end of the session. Instructor Dennis Atkins and other members of the hunter safety committee will be present to instruct and answer queries, conduct tests etc.

Two Hercules Transports Fly Otters to Papua

BIAK, West New Guinea — Two C130B Hercules aircraft of the RCAF's Air Transport Command landed at this far eastern air base in early September.

Carrying two amphibious Otter aircraft complete with RCAF technicians and aircrew, the Hercules left the RCAF Station at Trenton on Thursday, August 30. The Hercules stazed through California, Honolulu, Wake Island and Biak. The first aircraft completed its 8,000-mile journey about 7 a.m. on Monday morning, tactually Sunday evening Trenton time as the crew had flown over the International Date Line after leaving Honolulu).

The Otter aircraft were unloaded from the Hercules using local Papuan laborers and offloading equipment carried in the aircraft, again demonstrating the Hercules' outstanding versatility in loading or offloading bulky items with a minimum of external ground handling equipment. The Hercules' rear ramp was lowered and, using wooden rollers, the Otter floats, skis and floats were rapidly off-loaded and soon ready for assembly shortly after the Hercules shut down at Biak.

Donald Dishart Is Assistant Post Master

TRENTON — Donald Dishart, 35, who has been with the Kingston Post Office since 1947, has been promoted to assistant postmaster at Trenton. He assumes his new duties today.

Mr. Dishart, born and educated in Kingston, joined the RCAF and served during the Second World War as a wireless air gunner in Canada and overseas following his graduation from KCVI in 1943. After the war he worked with the department of veterans' affairs for six months, before joining the post office department as a letter carrier.

He was promoted to a supervisor's position in September of 1959, and last June he was promoted again to the charge of financial services at the local post office.

Active in community affairs, Mr. Dishart served as a captain with the PWOR since 1948 and is still a member of the board of managers, serves as an elder of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and is assistant superintendent of the Sunday School. He is also a member of the RCAF Association.

Prior to his promotion as a postal officer in 1959, he served terms as secretary, then president of the Kingston branch of the Canadian Postal Employees Association.

Mr. Dishart married Eugenie Marie Babin of Baiawa in 1947. They have four sons and a daughter, ranging in age from 5 to 14.

Mr. Dishart finished his work at the Kingston Post Office on Friday and is planning to move to Trenton over the Thanksgiving weekend.

Quinte Stamp Club Plans Exhibition

Stamp collectors of the Quinte district should find much of interest to them at the Kiwanis Centre this Saturday afternoon and evening. The Quinte Stamp Club will be host to a large group of philatelists, with visitors expected from the district bounded by Toronto on the west to Ottawa on the east.

This fifth annual exhibition will feature attractive competitive displays of stamps, a dealer's bourse where stamps may be purchased and educational talks about stamps and the hobby.

Kiwanis Centre doors will be open to visitors from 2 p.m. on, with a special evening program commencing at 7 p.m.

The evening program will be highlighted by an auction sale of philatelic material plus an illustrated talk by Mrs. Laura Barnard of Ottawa, whose subject will be "Philatelic Collecting—How and Why."

Peace Is Their Poison

The trouble—life is too quiet.

Settlement of the Algerian question, and withdrawal of French troops, has robbed the Legionaires of their traditional marching and battle ground. No longer will they be baked in the Sahara sun, abraded by its sands and fought by rebellious nomads.

There was a time when many alternative places of employment would be open to them, but despite the existing world situation this number has declined sharply in recent years. In most of the world's potential powder kegs, restraint is of more importance than valor. Nobody with any sense would suggest sending the Foreign Legion to West Berlin or to Viet Nam, or even to Aden.

There are, however, a few remaining possibilities for the useful employment of men of their temperament.

They might be used in the Deep South, at Ole Miss and its probable successors.

British Columbia authorities might find them useful as a substitute for the Mounties in dealing with the Sons of Freedom.

Or we might make a clean sweep of many of our major problems and round up the Legionaires, Doukhobors, Mosleyites, everbody who salutes the Confederate flag and all bearded Cubans and send them all to South Africa, where they could fight it out amongst themselves and with the Afrikanners.

Scientific Saturation Point

So runs the TV advertisement for a certain brand of margarine.

Amongst the doctors who do not consider polyunsaturated fats unimportant is Dr. A. L. Tappel, professor of food science and technology at the University of California.

Dr. Tappel, however, is no asset to the margarine merchandisers, who have been enjoying a payoff while the animal fats fried in the fire of a hot controversy. Not only does he regard as unproven the contention that animal fats cause the hardening of the arteries, but he says there is a danger in substituting vegetable and fish oils for animal oils. If polyunsaturated fats are used to an extreme degree, says Dr. Tappel, the result could be the formation of uncombined groups of atoms called free radicals. These would damage body tissues in the same way radiation does.

This seems to even the scales in the battle between butter and margarine from the standpoint of health.

It is now a question of whether one prefers heart attacks or radiation illness.

Some say some scientist is going to prove beyond peradventure of a doubt that if we would only stop breathing we could live forever, if we did not die first.

Whale Wail

The whaling industry on the west coast has had reverses this year, for the first time since 1989. Part of the loss has been due to a Japanese austerity program, which cuts off the foreign exchange that would otherwise have been used to buy Canadian whale products in Japan.

But another main problem is the reduced catch. Only 606 whales were caught this summer, compared with 769 during the preceding summer. Further, most of the whales caught were small ones.

All this is hard on the west coast economy, of course, but the thought of bad luck in the whaling fleet brings up one interesting question.

How does a whaler indicate the size of "the one that got away?"

"Even in monkey societies, the mothers selectively encourage or discourage particular patterns of behavior in their young; and so they pass on the traditional behavior of the group. Sometimes the mother accepts a new pattern adopted by her more experimental offspring." A few years ago, a young female monkey on the Japanese island of Kosima adopted the practice of washing sweet potatoes before eating them. The new pattern spread first to her maternal family, but within six years it was common to all the monkeys on the island." Dr. W. M. S. Russell speaking on the BBC about the group and the individual.

Commons Speaker Calls The Shots as He Sees Them

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — . . . notes off the reportorial cuff . . .

The new Commons Speaker, Marcel Lambert, shapes up to be exactly the type of tough-minded, no-nonsense arbiter this rambunctious House needs to keep it from blowing its roof.

It was only his second day on his yet-hardly-warmed Throne that the new Speaker reminded Prime Minister Diefenbaker of the rules.

While Prime Ministers never actually put themselves above the Parliamentary law, invariably they get to consider themselves as something special, which, considering their awesome responsibility, perhaps they are.

It was that way with Mackenzie King, and Louis St. Laurent, and it is this way now with John Diefenbaker.

Seems that if Prime Ministers have anything in common, it could be an impatience with Speakers who get in their way with the rule book.

Speaker Lambert, calling the shots as he sees them, not only has thumbed down the Prime Minister, but flattened both Work Minister Fulton and — a more difficult feat — Justice Minister Fleming.

And keeping his credentials of impartiality in order, Mr. Speaker has ticked off Liberal Leader Pearson and his two men Friday, Paul Martin and Jack Pickersgill.

Of course, few people, politicians included, like having the whistle blown on them.

But Speaker Lambert, early and amply demonstrating that he'll do it without fear or favor, has commanded a quick respect and ready obedience on all sides of the House that will make his hard job the easier as the impatience and tempers shorten.

As the Parliamentary clock of Canadian political history ticks the slow measure of the years, Rhodes Scholar Diefenbaker Veteran Marcel Lambert has been in only a split second of time . . . but already he's a hard ten-minute egg.

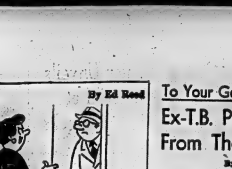
HILL WILD LIFE

Happen to catch that crazy little news report in the paper the other day . . . about the Toronto tourist, taking in the sights of Parliament Hill, being bitten by a squirrel?

Not a little old teensy weensy six-inch pipsqueak either, but a respectably-sized 16-inch reptile.

Never happened before. Nobody ever thought of there being snakes — or the wild life type anyway — on Parliament Hill. Certainly not of a size that could tempt with a bite requiring hospital treatment.

Wild life there is . . . rabbits, groundhogs, even last Summer, a fox. But snakes!



The rabbits dart out at night and show up on the lawns of Parliament Hill silhouetted in the floodlights against the dark and creeping and leaving the Senate parking preserve.

The groundhog, mindful of nobody, including both the RCMP and even, on one occasion, the Governor-in-Council of the Canadian Guards who were performing their celebrated changing of the guard ceremonial, loaf around on the side lawns night or day.

Hill snakes, not so long ago, became a cause in the Commons. The Public Works Department is reputed the great stone slabs in front of the Centre Block, accidentally had bricked in two pits. Peregrine and Pauline, pets of the Government chairwomen who last before dawn do Parliament's housekeeping.

One of the charladies told a newspaperman who told an MP who raised cain in the Commons with the Minister of Public Works. The cats were released at once from their prison and continue flourishing on the county of the charwomen.

Then there was former Justice Minister Stuart Garson, a bird-watcher, who would bolt out of Cabinet, at word that a flock of cedar waxwings was stripping the crabs from a Hill-side apple tree. Garson cutting Cabinet to watch birds was one of the sights that knowing tourists used to come to Parliament Hill, to see. You could always get this kind of action out of him, to oblige and convince an unbelieving friend, by having word, true or false, bootlegged in to him at Cabinet that wedges of Canada geese were overhead, bound north or south. He would probably rush out if he heard the goose migrating, east or west, although as far as is known, nobody tried that one on him.

"An old army buddy of yours dropped in to see you — she's in the living room."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 9th, 1942.

Yesterday Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced a new agreement with Britain's Food Ministry, under which Canada will send 675,000,000 pounds of bacon and pork products to the United Kingdom during the coming year, at a price 10 per cent higher than paid during the current year. He said it would require the largest production of hogs in Canada's history — approximately 7,500,000 head — to meet the shipments requested by Britain and to fulfill domestic requirements as well. The Dominion undertook to send 36,000,000 pounds to the United Kingdom in the 1941-42 year, which expires in about five weeks, which will be successfully provided the Canadian public co-operate by putting off purchases of pork until next month.

Returning as special guests, the senior non-commissioned officers of the Belleville company of the C.W.S.F., the sergeants of the Argyll Light Infantry (Tank), and of the 34th Battery, R.C.A. held their annual "Ladies' Night" in the sergeants' mess in the armouries last night. Dancing and cards predominated as the evening's enjoyment, with Mrs. J. Nixon and Sergeant-Major Lacey winning prizes at bridge, and Mrs. D. Ridley and Sergeant Fissell the euchre trophies. Highlighting the "At Home" was the presentation by his sergeants of a handsome pen and pencil set to the Argyll Regimental Sergeant-Major T. Willerton, who R.S.M. made an appropriate reply expressing his appreciation of the gift.

Ex-T.B. Patients Get Help From The Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We are a group of women in a TB sanatorium who would greatly appreciate a through article on "cured" tuberculosis patients as to activities and socializing with people when they resume their normal lives.

There are people who are ignorant of the facts, and a few actually embarrass and insult ex-patients through their ignorance. Perhaps a few words from you would enlighten many who are not aware, or are unwilling to admit that we are perfectly safe. — M.B. and others.

Sometimes members of the medical and public health professions get downright discouraged. People on occasion have the dreadest knack of being stricken deaf if they aren't interested. As when polio vaccine first was available, but people ignored it by the millions - until the outbreak of 1958. Then they scrambled for it!

It's the same with TB education. People are deaf to what we say until suddenly they have some personal interest in it.

Maybe your most trenchant remark about expatients being embarrassed and insulted is not so much dent, because people who don't understand TB can, indeed, be insulting without intending to be.

The truth is that an ex-TB patient is safer to be with than the average person we meet. For among the average, a certain percentage of people are bound to be carrying TB but has not yet been recognized.

The ex-TB patient, however, not only has had his disease up to prevent the spread of TB (covering a cough etc.) but does not become sick from ordinary ill safe.

Only an "active case"; can spread the disease - when the lung tissue is loosed with TB germs which work their way to the sputum and finally are sprayed around by coughing.

There are these five steps in making sure that a patient no longer is spreading active germs:

1 - Daily sputum examinations under a microscope. When none is visible, the sputum is cultured to see whether germs are still there and can multiply. (Animal inoculations sometimes may be added)

2 - Seven pocked sputum is test. ed: that is, three are collected over, say, a 24-hour period.

3 - Gastric lavage, or washing to test whether the germs are in the stomach.

4 - Mean time X-rays must show no sign of active tissue.

5 - Then, as a final safety measure, discharged patients continue at the sanatorium for months or more to make sure the germs cannot flare.

Average treatment of a patient is now about 10 months in a sanatorium, followed by two to five years in the early 30's before we had suitable drugs and were not so safe. But we can agree now being done in TB cases. Many more to die: today few do unless they are aged or otherwise infirm, or the case has been neglected for a long time.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I have read where sugar and candy can dull the mind and give indigestion. Is this so? — H.M.

Dear H.: Most of those made-up scare stories such as the old find disproved fable that smoking will "stunt your growth" or that you what sugar and candy will rot, though, if you eat too much. They can make you fat and can be rough on your teeth.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it wise to have daughter-in-law and dogs around sufferers from active TB cases? — E.W.

For tuberculosis, this is not a matter of any significance. For asthmatic cases, it depends on whether the patients are sensitive to animal danders. A few are.

1940—Compulsory military training begins for 29,750 Canadians.

Exasperating Repetition

Milwaukee Journal

Probably the most famous letter to the editor in journalistic annals was the one written by little Virginia O'Hanlon to the New York Sun, asking whether there was a Santa Claus. But the most exasperating one, certainly, was written by "Old Philadelphia Lady" and published every day for decades, in the Paris Herald.

The editor and founder of the Herald was James Gordon Bennett, Jr., a colorful eccentric with a whim of iron. One day he spotted this brief item in the letter column:

"I am anxious to find out the way to figure the temperature from centigrade to Fahrenheit without a book, in other words, I want to know, whenever I see the temperature designated on the centigrade thermometer, how to find out what it would be on Fahrenheit's thermometer."

It was signed, "Old Philadelphia Lady."

Bennett, a schoolboy knows, or has forgotten, there is a simple formula for this. To convert centigrade to Fahrenheit, you multiply the centigrade reading by nine-fifths and add 32. To convert Fahrenheit to centigrade, subtract 32 from the Fahrenheit reading and multiply the difference by five-ninths.

But Bennett refused to print this explanation. For some strange reason, the letter illicited his sense of humor, and he ordered it reprinted every day under the heading editorial reply.

The repetition amused Herald readers for a few days, but many became fed up with the gag as the letter kept running. Soon in fact, cancelled their subscriptions in outrage. But Bennett stuck out the joke, and "Old Philadelphia Lady" kept asking her daily question in the letter column almost until the rest of his life. It became an institution.

Bennett died on May 14, 1918, some 30 years after founding the Herald. A few days later, "Old Philadelphia Lady" disappeared from the letter column, her plaintive query still unanswered.

Eaton Wins Fame for N.S.

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Whatever the final assessment of the role established by Eaton, there is no doubt that the famous American industrialist has been among the foremost publicists of this province, Nova Scotia.

Scholars and students may read of our Joseph Howe; editorial writers may hymn the praises of the many famous men which have been sent forth to serve Canada and the world; travel magazines may devote multi-page articles to our scenic beauties; and tourists, in the thousands, may return to their homes to tell of the very fine place that is called Nova Scotia.

But few, if any, have accomplished deeds as mighty as Mr. Eaton for his adopted province in a field important to it—the granting of its name.

Chiefly, he has done this through his sponsorship of the peripatetic Pugwash conference, which, since 1957, have not only brought together celebrated scholars of East and West, but made conversational references to the name of Pugwash and this province common coin in many languages and many lands.

The importance of the meetings themselves is not much to do with this state of affairs; but so, too, has the fact that the Pugwash events are held in fixed geographically, but have been held on occasion in Austria (twice, at Vienna and Baden), in Russia (once, in Moscow), and in the United Kingdom (only recently in London).

The importance of these gathering de feel constrained to mention that the Daily Mirror of London felt the sight of Khrushchev frolicsly upon the principles behind these meetings in a headline entitled The Name is Pugwash. That newspaper (whose circulation, incidentally, considerably exceeds the total reported by all French and English language dailies in this country) found happy irony in the fact that a substantial contribution to the event thought was being made by an institution carrying the name of "an obscure place in Nova Scotia."

So do we — as also must Mr. Eaton himself, who was born there 77 years ago this December.

Strictly Personal

Professionals Leave Talents At the Office

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

After my talk, when some sweet little lady comes up to me (as so often happens) holding a sheaf of paper in her hand, I usually know just what to expect.

She has a niece away at college, or a nephew married abroad, and they write the most charming and delightful letters. Would I be good enough to take a look and see if I don't agree that the niece or the nephew should be encouraged to become a professional writer.

It is curious how deeply this legend persists in the lay mind — that a person who writes interesting letters has making of a professional writer. Nothing could be further from the truth; the talent for letter-writing has no relationship to writing of any other kind.

Most great writers have been wretched correspondents, when we find an exception, like Byron, it is because his letters were written for posterity in public (and posterity) in mind from the first. They are as written in letter form but they are carefully calculated works of art.

Writing good letters is a knack, like being able to play the piano with your toes or picking up a long column of figures without pencil or paper. Some people have it, and others don't.

In many areas of this kind, the public tends to confuse a part with the whole of life. The arithmetical freaks, for instance, who can do amazing computations in their heads, usually are capable of making no contribution to mathematics; while an Einstein, with a mind of stupendous originality, could scarcely add up a grocery bill correctly.

Likewise, the chess masters who could play a dozen games simultaneously blindfold were not necessarily first-rank players; Capablanca, perhaps the greatest natural player of modern times was extremely deficient in blindfold play. Yet none of the blindfold masters could beat him in tournaments.

Real professionals, strangely enough do not exercise their professional skills in their personal lives; I have known lawyers who can't change a light bulb in their own house, psychiatrists who treat their children as if Freud had never existed, accountants who are chronically broke and always out of balance.

On a letter-writing contest, Shakespeare would probably be beaten to a frazzle by the little old lady's niece at college.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A lady of our acquaintance has spent several luxurious months visiting distant relatives and friends. She has now come home with an accent that influenced many foreign ones she encountered there. She must, she simply must have her tea each afternoon. But her worst pick-up his to do with the telephone. She was tremendously impressed with the way English ladies ignored the telephone when it rang during tea-time and ready to answer it. It struck her as much more fashionable than the way we Canadians jump at the first tingle. So she began letting the thing ring ten, fifteen times, before languidly getting up, in gentlewoman style and answering.

With the help of a few friends she succeeded in breaking her of various hours of the day; and when, after fifteen rings, she answered sweetly, the caller would say "There is no answer," or "She must be out," and hang up.

After about thirty of these calls, she began to realize she was missing something. Lately, she has been answering about the third or fourth ring, as formerly.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market opened on the downside in post-Thanksgiving Day trading today.

Although losses were mostly fractional in the main list, they were widespread across the board. Western oils took a breather after their furious trading pace late last week.

Industrials saw losses in a ¼ to ½ range to Algoma Steel, Aluminium, Steel Company of Canada, Salada Foods and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Canadian Oil dipped ¼, while Power Corporation fell ½. Consolidated Paper continued to weaken, falling ⅝ to 35—lowest price this year.

Gainers included Atlas Steel and Ochawa Wholesale A, both ahead one point, Shawinigan, up ⅛ and Canadian Hydrocarbons, up ⅜.

On the exchange index, industrials slipped .94 to 529.06, golds .39 at 90.21 and base metals .62 at 174.38. Western oils rose .15 to 115.55. The 31 a.m. volume was 1,122,000 shares compared with 1,453,000 at the same time Friday.

Among base metals, Falconbridge declined ¾ and International Nickel ½, while Consolidated Mining and Smelting and Noranda both advanced ¾.

Western oils saw Husky Exploration A fall 20 cents to $8.45 and Central Del Rio 10 cents to $9.

Railways reported in Toronto that heavy bookings were made to Montreal and Detroit and airline companies scheduled extra flights to Montreal and New York to satisfy holiday weekend customers.

Most of the one-quarter inch of rain that fell in the Toronto area during the weekend came early Friday. Southwestern Ontario was generally overcast with some rain during the weekend.

The sun came out Sunday in Ottawa after about 1½ inches of rain fell on the capital from early Friday to late Saturday.

The duck hunting season opened in Manitoba Friday, bringing many from urban centres to the marshlands. Stores, business firms and all beer and liquor outlets were closed for Thanksgiving.

The weather was good for the long weekend in both Saskatchewan and Alberta, with temperatures in the low 60s and skies mainly sunny with only a few light clouds.

A storm on the West Coast curtailed many activities planned by British Columbians and continuous rain kept most people indoors during the weekend.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the service of a professional accountant or to visit an income tax office.

By C. A. MILLER

Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Department

If you have followed these articles in your paper and now find you have made an error in your tax form, do not file an amended return. You should write your income tax office explaining your error and ask them to adjust the return they already have on file. Once you have filed a return, the tax office can make any number of adjustments necessary to arrive at the correct assessment.

If on receiving your assessment notice, you find some of your claims have been disallowed by the assessor, you should take the problem up with the tax office immediately and if you still cannot agree and you believe your claim was in order, you should file a "Notice of Objection" within 90 days after the date on the assessment notice.

The "Notice of Objection" forms should be filled in and filed with the District Inspector of National Revenue for Taxation, in Ottawa. These forms are obtainable from any income tax office. When these forms are obtained, sent in and are received in Ottawa, your local tax office where you return is held, will be advised, and they will call you in for an interview. At that time your problem will be thoroughly reviewed and you should be prepared to submit facts and figures to back up your claim. Please bear in mind there is no cost to you regarding the objection, up to this point.

After this review of your case, you will receive notice in writing as to the disposition of your objection.

If you are not satisfied and still believe your original claim was valid, you may file an appeal with the Registrar of the income tax appeal board, within 90 days after receiving your notice from the local office regarding your objection. A fee of $15 should be remitted with your appeal.

Question 1 — I disagreed with the tax office regarding my assessment, and after several interviews, they refused to make any change. How do I get it to the attention of higher authorities?

Answer — File a Notice of Objection with the Deputy Minister of Taxation in Ottawa. There is no fee attached to this.

Question 2 — I live a considerable distance from my local tax office and I cannot get there to discuss my assessment, which I believe to be in error. What do you advise?

Answer — Write a letter to your local tax office, stating the points in question, and ask for three copies of "Notice of Objection". Your return will be thoroughly reviewed before these notices are mailed to you.

Ole Miss Has Been Open Since 1848 Excepting From 1861-1865 Due to Civil War

By KEN DAVIS

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The clerk in the general store said: "Let's call it Oxford. But they'll locate in the new university here."

So, the leaders of the 400 people in the north Mississippi settlement in 1836 followed clerk Thomas D. Martin's advice and called their place in the forest "Oxford," presumably after the British university.

Leaders of Mississippi, 10 years later, opened the University of Mississippi here.

From that day to this—Ole Miss has been educating many thousands of the youth of the south—except for four years, from 1861 until 1865, when the students and faculty were busy fighting for the Confederacy.

Tragic events are no stranger to the 114-year-old campus. The most tragic than the integration riots that cost the lives of two men. Take the time on Aug. 22, 1864, that—as old court records put it:

"The public enemy under A. J. Smith came to Oxford."

This means the Union Army under Gen. A. J. Smith, and it didn't explain that during the few hours the soldiers were in Oxford they burned the town.

They've cleaned away most of the debris from the integration riots by now, leaving modern trucks and equipment. And, mostly, it was simply gas grenades, splintered glass and bricks. Certainly, the burned-out ruins of automobiles looked nothing at all like the town of Oxford when daylight of Aug. 23, 1864, came.

The Oxford Falcon, a newspaper of the day, described the destruction and quoted travellers as saying Oxford was the most completely demolished town they had seen.

BRICK WALLS

An historic picture shows only a few brick walls standing "casually against the skyline."

It was a strange and terrible bit of war/the burning. Howard P. Dimick, writing in the Journal of Mississippi History in 1946, said:

"The burning of Oxford does not appear to have been necessitated by any situation which

Volkswagen is batting a thousand.

And now it looks as if our new model (the 1500) will be the rookie of the year.

The immediate success of the Volkswagen 1500 wasn't much of a surprise. (Especially for the 200,000 Canadians who have proven the reliability of "old faithful".) Our reputation for quality, dependability and economy means that you can buy this brand new car with complete confidence.

And the 1500 is a completely new automobile.

For a start, it has two luggage trunks. One in the back (like a conventional car) and one in the front (like a Volkswagen).

We managed this unique feature by designing a flat engine and putting it under the back trunk. It gives the 1500 amazing traction in snow and makes it even better at holding the road.

Take a look at the luxurious interior and you may start to worry about the price.

Relax. Everything in sight is standard equipment. And that includes seven heater vents, five arm rests, three ash trays, two padded sun visors, one electric clock but no radiator. (We still think it's better to cool a car's engine with air instead of water.)

Visit your Volkswagen dealer soon. He'll let you drive our newest (and most unique) Volkswagen.

Believe Youth Walked Miles With Broken Leg

Saltfleet constables Andy Pasaruk and William Farnell arrested Gordon van Dusen, 18, of Grimsby. Van Dusen was found walking on a highway about one mile from the accident scene, police said.

Van Dusen was charged with theft, leaving the scene of an accident and careless driving.

Women's Activities

The afternoon branch of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church held its first fall business meeting recently with an attendance of 21.

Mrs. W. Ashton, vice-president, opened the meeting in the usual manner, followed by special prayers. The devotional period emphasized Thanksgiving and was taken by president, Mrs. H.

The business meeting was conducted by the president and excellent reports were heard from the various departments, indicating progress.

Money was voted to the Church Wardens and to the Deaconess Dorcas Secretary, Mrs. Goddon, for several worthy projects including Over-Seas Hospitals and assistance to needy families in the Yukon and Alaska.

The president called the attention of the members to the Nursery meeting to be held shortly at St. Mary Magdalene's Church in Picton.

POISON!

Last year, in Canada, there were 12,000 cases of accidental poisonings!

Don't let them happen this year.

- Don't store anything in empty "pop" bottles, old cans or open glasses.
- Don't put poisons in the garbage can. Pour poisons and old medicines down the sink.
- Label all containers, and read instructions carefully. The contents may be poisonous.
- Dispose of old medicines.

IF YOUR CHILD HAS TAKEN—lye, drain cleaner, kerosene, or strong acid—take him to your hospital emergency department immediately and notify your doctor on arrival. Do not make him vomit.

IF HE HAS TAKEN OTHER POISONS—Give him some milk or chocolate milk. Then make him vomit by sticking him on your lap and prodding the back of his throat with the handle of a spoon, fork or table knife. When he begins to vomit, place him face down with his shoulders lower than his hips. Don't waste more than five minutes trying to produce vomiting.

THEN CALL YOUR DOCTOR—If he is not available take the child immediately to your hospital Emergency Poison Control Center.

If you live in a grape-growing area they are so abundant at harvest time that you can buy them by the bushel. But paradoxically a fruit that can be bought so cheaply makes up into what are considered exotic comestibles.

Some of these purple products are easy for you to make. If you are forewinded about Christmas you could buy some pretty jars and bottle the grape conserve (below) in them for food gift packages. TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Sliced Cold Roast Turkey; Cranberry Jelly; Scalloped Potatoes; Savory Creamed Spinach; Celery Hearts; Peach Upside-down Cake with Top Milk; Tea.

GRAPE CONSERVE

6 cups prepared fruit (about 3 quarts ripe Concord grapes), 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup seedless raisins, ½ cup chopped nuts, 7½ cups (3½ lbs.) sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

Slip skins from about 3 quarts ripe Concord grapes. Add 2 cups water to pulp; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Press through sieve to remove seeds. Grind skins or leave whole and add to pulp. Measure 6 cups into a preserving kettle. Add lemon juice, rind, raisins, and nuts to fruit in kettle. Measure sugar and set aside. Add powdered fruit pectin to fruit in kettle and mix well. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into sterile glasses. Cover at once with ⅛" hot paraffin.

GRAPE SHERBET

1 cup sugar, 2 cups water, 2 teaspoons gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1½ cups unsweetened grape juice, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 egg whites, few grains salt, 3 tablespoons fruit sugar.

Boil sugar and water together for 3 minutes. Soak gelatine in cold water. Add softened gelatine to hot syrup and stir to dissolve. Cool slightly and add grape juice and lemon juice. Pour into refrigerator trays and freeze until almost firm (about 1 hour). Beat the egg whites and salt until stiff, gradually beat in the 3 tablespoons of fruit sugar. Break up frozen mixture with a fork and beat very quickly until smooth but not melted. Gently fold in meringue; blend thoroughly and return at once to freezer. Serve with a fork 4 times during the next hour. Freeze until firm (about 5 hours) before serving. Serves 6 to 8.

Practical Periwig

By ALICE ALDEN

Something very new is an alliance that unites hat and hair and offers a fine alternative to the full wig.

Don Marshall, famous for his veil hatlets, has come up with the answer—periwigs. These are partial wigs of real or synthetic hair, shaped into 5-inch triangles. The triangles snap onto tiny combs and have ribbon, jewel or fur trims.

For after-five glamor, these periwigs give the hair a note of elegance regardless of its condition underneath.

Don Marshall's invention serves the same purpose as do regular wigs, but are so much easier to wear, so much less expensive and provide for a variety of coiffure changes at will.

A fashionable Marshall Plan!

Women Playing Big Roles In Renaissance of Theatre

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women are playing "an enormous role" in a renaissance of the theatre in Canada, says Richard Mansfield, Donald of Ottawa, national director of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Large and well-equipped art centres are springing up in larger Canadian cities and the amateur dramatic organizations that use them boast more women than men, he says.

Mr. MacDonald found from visiting theatre groups that men rely more on sports for their recreation.

"Perhaps women lean more to the theatre because they enjoy the varieties and complexities of the plays in which they can express their emotions freely," he said.

They like to act, but they are also invaluable in makeup and costuming. "It provides recreation and relaxation away from their household work."

The average amateur actress in "spends, or should spend, at least a part of four or five evenings a week, plus extra time and weekends" in her craft. "This does not continue all year round, necessarily, but during the production, this is essential," he said.

"About 40 years ago, if you went into a play you got nothing else. Every night, weekends, right into the wee hours, we worked. This was when baby sitters were easier to get, and there were not so many distractions of our accelerated lives.

"But not every woman goes into the theatre because she wants to be a great star. She just wants to do her best, to enjoy herself, express herself."

Mr. MacDonald believes theatre can become a family venture.

"Under proper direction they receive the satisfaction of taking part in a play, gain understanding of the theatre and, in turn see that their families have a feeling for it and support community theatre. Thus they become future audiences, essential to the arts."

He sees the three-year-old National Theatre School of Canada in Montreal as an important training ground.

"It will be very interesting to watch the progress of these young people—interesting to see how many stay in the theatre and make it."

Sidney South W.I. Hears Talk on Holland

The October meeting of Sidney South W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Wilmot Shortt.

Mrs. P. Sutherland introduced the speaker, Mrs. R. Postma, a fellow member. Mrs. Postma gave an interesting and informative outline of life and customs of her native country, The Netherlands.

Many comparisons were pointed out between Canada and Holland. Some of these were, the eating habits, which differ greatly from Canadians in that the average "Dutch" family eats smaller quanties of staple foods, and, on the whole, much simpler dishes than do Canadians.

Their monetary system is quite different and the cost of living seems quite high—groceries alone sometimes take half of the earnings.

The climate is much like England, with the exception of the heavy fogs, Mrs. Postma pointed out. The homes are heated quite differently from Canadian homes, often only one room in the home is comfortably heated.

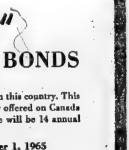
PEOPLE UP-TO-DATE

On the whole, the people from The Netherlands are modern, up-to-date individuals in their mode of dress, home furnishings and make-up. Cars are more and more replacing the bicycles.

Farmers are specialists of both dairy and crop farming. The average farm allotment is one acre per man—comparatively smaller than Canadian farms.

A high standard of education exists in Holland in all fields.—

Mrs. Postma closed by stating that both she and her husband are proud of their Canadian citizenship.



Many questions were asked by the members and Mrs. Postma was assisted in answering them by Mrs. M. Mywaart.

Mrs. R. Windsor thanked both Mrs. Postma and Mrs. Mywaart for a delightful report on their country and its people.

The lunch committee served refreshments which were enjoyed by all.

The date of the November meeting has been advanced one week to November 14th at Mrs. D. Plumpton's.

THE FAM COUNC

EDITOR'S NOTE, The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Milton Z. — How can a woman suddenly get so helpless?

Milton Z.: We've always had comfortable, attractive home. I've been proud of Pearl, the way she can take an old bed-spread and make it look like a new with a fresh slip cover. She's handy that way and has excellent taste. That's why I'm mystified over her plan to hire in a decorator now that our apartment is about to be painted.

We haven't suddenly come into money. Suppose the guy tells Pearl to throw out all the furniture and buy new stuff? We can't and she'll only feel frustrated. We've been married 10 years and she's never had any trouble deciding what color to use for the walls, where to place the sofa, and what to hang between the windows. But now she's at a loss!

Somebody's been putting fancy ideas in her head.

Pearl Z.: — Milton must trust me. I want to make some major changes in our apartment, along with this painting job, and I need advice. He has some old-fashioned ideas about decorators, and he believes all the jokes about them. But I know there are some who show you short cuts and tricks you'd never think of yourself. I'll find one who'll save us money instead of costing a spend widely.

Actually I plan to use all our old furniture, but in different ways. Our son is 17 and his bedroom looks too childish. I want to turn it into a den for him. And there are other problems, such as whether to give away an old table from my mother or pronounce it an "antique" and have it prettied up. I'd like an expert's views, not Milton's on that.

The Council: All jokes aside, Milton, life and apartments can be beautiful with the aid of a decorator — provided Pearl tells him, her or them that all she wants is advice, not furniture! Nowadays one can pay a modest flat fee for aid as to what to keep, what throw out, what match, what contrast, and where to place that handy, but ugly, sewing chest.

What's your alternative, Milton? You and Pearl will push furniture around, trying various

Playing Shadow Wife Is Unrewarding

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I am a divorcee with four children. I have been going around with a married man with two boys of his own. He and his wife have been on the verge of separating for as long as I've known him, or so he has led me to believe. He keeps insisting that if he left her she would claim the children and so he is waiting for her to make the break.

I am living on government assistance, but he spares no expense on behalf of his own children without any thought of mine whatever. It hurts me to end envy in the eyes of my children. He constantly drops into my home in the afternoon for coffee, always with a buddy or two, but without any thought of bringing coffee or anything else with him.

I don't enjoy living the life of a shadow wife; it is a lonely and unrewarding existence. But I do know that I could never love another man as I do him, and if there is the slightest chance of us making a life together I would wait without complaint.

Am I to believe him when he says that these things will happen in the near future or am I only wasting time on wishful thinking?—STILL HOPING.

DEAR STILL—You're dreaming. And it could turn into a nightmare.

He is cheating on both you and his wife. If you compared notes with her you'd both be amazed. His use of you is unkind in the extreme.

Throw him out and lock the door.

DEAR DORIS—Is it wrong for a girl of eighteen to be in love with a boy of seventeen. We both have steady, reliable jobs and there is no objection from our parents about our plans for the future. They know that nothing could ever break us apart and that our love is not "puppy-love."

There's a saying that, as we grow older, we'll mature more and our views will change. Well, we've talked about this, but he says he'll never love anyone else and I know that I won't either. Ours is the "old-fashioned" love and not the "sexual" one.

I was going with another guy last year that I grew quite fond of, and I found it hard to forget him after we broke up. We're good friends now, and every time I see my boy friend and him together, my heart goes all out to my boy friend, so I know that I've gotten over my heartbreak—TWO WHO ARE VERY MUCH IN LOVE.

DEAR TWO—It could be for real. But the statistics on what happens to teen-age marriages would suggest you keep things just as they are for a while. Could you hold off from taking the plunge until you are at least 21?

DEAR DORIS—Could you give me the name of any coin collector in Ontario? My son has collected coins for years and has several as far back as 1909 and up to the present. He would like to get rid of them now.—WALLY.

DEAR WALLY—Coins are popular and I'm sure there'll be some ardent collectors writing in. I'll pass them on. (What's his hobby now? Live pearls of even greater price?)

Things Columnist Might Never Know if He Didn't Open Mail

By HAL BOYLE

U.S. high school history teachers say the name most often misspelled by their students is Nikita Khrushchev.

Here's something to brood about: If someone gave you a million bucks in new one-dollar bills, it would take you at least 25 days, working eight hours a day, simply to count it.

Money is nothing but trouble, double, trouble.

Women have always been willing to undergo any ordeal in the quest for beauty. . . . Example: Cleopatra used a heavy application of river mud to set her hair, and pinned it into place with a polished stick.

Big gamble: The odds against a player getting four cards of a kind in a poker hand are 4,164 to 1.

WHERE THERE'S SMILES

It is just as normal for you to grow down as it is to grow up. . . . After the age of 40 you shrink about a quarter of an inch every 10 years.

Executive dietary: Irving J. Bottner, head of the Esquire shoe, hired survey people to find out that seven out of 10 Americans don't shine their own shoes. . . . This doesn't fit in with our experience . . . most of the people we know put their best foot forward by rubbing the toe of the shoe against the back of the pant leg. . . . This system has enabled many career officials to stay in business.

Rich bivalve: Word has just reached us that someone in Tokyo searched a four-square-inch oyster—or was it just a two-inch square oyster an overtime?—and found it contained 120 pearls.

ONLY ELEMENTARY

For the literati: The expression, "elementary, my dear Watson," became for a while a cliche in intellectual circles. . . . The historical fact is that author A. Conan Doyle never allowed Sherlock Holmes to address Dr. Watson, his foil, with quite all that condescending . . . a murmured "elementary" did it.

Health note: Don't stand in front of a man driving a golf ball. . . . It can leave the tee at a speed of up to 135 miles an hour.

Honesty is the best policy: The Hoyle Edition here reports a sharp drop-off in guests who steal lowgls for souvenirs. . . . Now they take soap and ashtrays.

Nature notes: The awkwardly graceful giraffe, the tallest animal on earth, is so timid and fearful that it can die of fright while trying to avoid capture. . . . A spider is one of the fastest creatures on earth for its size . . . it can travel 50 times its own length in a second. . . . How far can you go in the same time — unless you're in the driver's seat?

Pattle Lines Clearly Drawn In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Another non-confidence vote comes before the Commons tonight with the political battle lines clearly drawn.

The question is whether the Social Credit group will again oppose the motion and thus prevent the overthrow of the minority Progressive Conservative government.

Last Thursday night the 100 Liberals and 18 New Democratic Party MPs joined forces to support the government on two non-confidence motions. But the 115 Conservatives got help from the 25 Social Credit MPs in the house to defeat both motions, 140 to 118.

There is a chance that another non-confidence vote will posed today by the NDP, making two back-to-back votes starting at 9:30 p.m.

MAY BE CRUCIAL VOTE

If the government survives tonight's non-confidence issue, a final crucial vote may still lie in the offing.

This will come Thursday night at the close of the eight-day throne speech debate.

But whether the final motion to adopt a thank-you message to the Governor-General for the speech from the throne opening the new session on Sept. 27 will go to a formal vote depends on the temper of the House at the time. There are precedents for avoiding such a vote in ticklish situations, as well as for holding formal divisions.

Plenty of Culprits in B.C. Cheating on Insurance Fund

VANCOUVER (CP)—A crackdown on people who cheat the unemployment insurance fund has found plenty of culprits in British Columbia.

William Begg, insurance commission lawyer, and a team of 16 sleuths last year studied 14,000 cases.

He says it's a strange experience—planning down the violations of people often no different from others but nevertheless convinced the government is fair game for a few more dollars.

Many are easy to find. Commission auditors turn up inconsistencies in applications and claim files. Police, social welfare, sales tax and income tax officials relay tips as well.

Ordinary citizens will inform on a cheat too, realizing it's their money that is being stolen. Mr. Begg says he gets a lot of help from anonymous phone calls.

Investigators read newspapers for birth notices, a man advertising professional services, a family holidaying in a distant place-all possible hints to dishonest claimants.

Mr. Begg calls most violators "quasi-criminals." He believes investigators must be sympathetic. Behind many fraudulent claims is desperate need.

Conviction can bring six months imprisonment, a $500 fine or both. But prosecution is often avoided for a punitive penalty, usually a penalty of $75, repayment of the money swindled and disqualification from further benefits.

The commission's painstaking men have a limited quarry. They can seek out only the person "who in relation of say claims or benefits makes a statement or representation that he knows to be false or misleading."

Thus the insurance recipient who removes her makeup and rake teeth to discourage her hiring by a new employer is beyond Mr. Begg's scope.

170 CONVICTED

Of the 14,000 cases last year, 70 per cent turned out to be innocent, or as one of the investigators put it, "innocent enough." Most of the rest got off with a talking-to and an out-of-court settlement.

There were 190 others who went to court, 170 receiving jail sentences, fines or both.

This group included a cross-section of the labor force, hotel clerk, bar waiter, construction worker, door-to-door salesman and housewife.

Together with the ones who slipped away unnoticed or with a warning, they contributed to the $2,000,000-a-year fraud loss being suffered by the fund in B.C. alone.

Mr. Begg has developed a scheme to make cheating even more precarious.

He has formed a blitz squad of two to four investigators who make spot checks in an area even if there is no concrete evidence of skulduggery.

"It's strictly a fishing expedition," Mr. Begg says. "But it's surprising how some people will hang themselves."

Thinks Loot From Havelock Bank Robbery Still in Bush

COE HILL, Ont. (CP)—Hunting bank robbers is more fun than deer hunting, says accountant Robert McGeachie, and when it comes to tracking them down he has bloodhounds beaten all the way.

His tracking skill earned a $600 reward from the Canadian Bankers' Association after he trailed five men who robbed a Havelock, Ont., bank of $232,000 in August, 1961.

The stolen money is still missing, but four of the men are in prison and the fifth is dead.

"I believe the loot's still here in the bush," says Mr. McGeachie, an expert woodsman. "In fact, one of the robbers boasted as much when he was caught. Said he could go back and find it some day."

In the meantime, Mr. McGeachie, between working as accountant for seven townships and 13 school boards, spends a little time each day hunting for the money.

He concentrates his search around his 300-acre farm about 30 miles northwest of Peterborough.

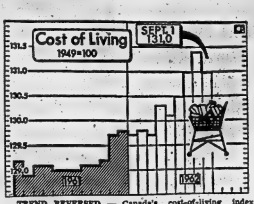
OFFER REJECTED

The day of the robbery he offered to help track the culprits but was turned down. Bob was dressed in old bush clothes and had a beard and police were concerned lest other members of the posse take him for one of the robbers.

The next day, after dogs failed to sniff out the men, his offer was accepted. He set out without a gun because he felt the robbers would be less likely to shoot him if he was unarmed.

He started by finding two sets of footprints near the abandoned getaway car. He discovered the gunmen were rubbers and walked on the railroad ties in the dark, thinking they would leave no tracks. But the heat had sweated the ties and the rubber soles stuck to them.

"Those rubbers were Japanese-made and I'd never seen their treads before," Mr. McGeachie said. "It was just like writing your name."



Four men were caught three days later. As police questioned them, Bob spread dirt on the floor and had the men walk in it. He looked at their prints and said there was a fifth man.

"There were only four men in the bank and we were sure we had them all until Bob told us differently," said Staff Sgt. Stanley Palmateer of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The fifth man was captured several miles away next morning.

Explaining why he participated in the search, Mr. McGeachie says:

TREND REVERSED — Canada's cost-of-living index dropped for the first time in four months to 131.0 at September 1, four-tenths of a point down from the record high in the previous month. In September, 1961, it was 129.1.

Graph traces monthly index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, from January, 1961. (CP Newsmap.)

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

An invitation to a dance, especially if it's her first, always marks a high spot in a young girl's life. Naturally some questions arise. These are typical:

1. What shall I wear?
2. What does semi-formal mean?
3. What does informal mean?
4. Is only a floor-length gown worn to a formal dance?
5. May I tell my date what sort of corsage I'd like?
6. Suppose I don't want a corsage. May I specify another flower arrangement?
7. If there's a receiving line, we go through it, and, if so, what do I say?
8. Should I keep my gloves on when I do down the receiving line?
9. When should gloves be removed?
10. May I dance with boys other than my escort?
11. Which dances must be reserved for my date?

ANSWERS

1. That depends on what type of dance you're invited to — whether it's formal or semi-formal.

2. This means that a boy wears his best dark-colored suit and a girl wears a dance dress, but in a short, rather than a full, length.

3. A floor-sweeping gown may be worn, but a dress that is ankle-calf, or knee-length is also correct.

4. If he asks, you may specify what type of flowers you'd prefer and what color you'd like, but try not to choose something that might be too hard on his wallet.

5. Yes. You might ask for a band of flowers to wear on your wrist, or you might prefer a single flower to pin on your bag or at your waist. It's permissible to state a preference when asked.

6. Everybody should go through the receiving line before making a bee-line for the dance floor. If there's no official announcer to give your name to, you give it to the hostess at the head of the line. It is then passed down the receiving line. As you go through, you smile, say "good evening" and shake hands with each chaperone if he or she offers a hand. If a member of the line does not offer a hand, then just offer a greeting and continue along.

7. Yes, gloves should not be removed before greeting the reception line.

8. Gloves may be worn when dancing, but must be removed when refreshments are served.

9. If there's a stag line, a young lady dances with boys who cut in. At a program dance, your date has his friends sign up for each dance in advance, and you dance with each boy whose name is on your card.

10. The first and last dances of the evening belong to your date. Dances just before and after each intermission also should be reserved for him, to be perfectly correct.

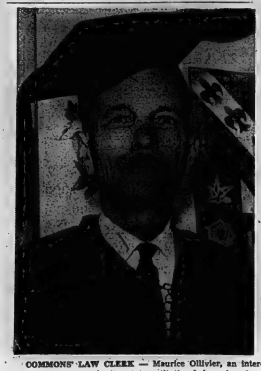
NICKEL IN WORLD MARKETS...JOBS FOR CANADIANS



How Canadian Nickel helps make seawater drinkable in Kuwait

It wasn't so long ago that Kuwait's drinking water had to be imported in goatskin bags; the natural sources of water being particularly foul and brackish. Today, however, the world's largest seawater evaporation plant supplies six million gallons of fresh water daily. Nickel alloys helped make this plant possible, just as they help in similar ways in other countries. Why nickel? Because nickel alloys can best withstand the punishing effects of corrosive salt water. The growth of nickel markets at home and abroad helps strengthen Canada's economy and helps provide more jobs for Canadians.

Norse Plowman Places First In World Match

DRONTEN, The Netherlands (CP)—Hans Sylling, a 32-year-old farm boy from Norway, chalked up 48.56 points to take first place Friday in the world plowing championships.

Eero Aalto of Finland was second with 147.76 points and William Wright of Northern Ireland was third with 146. The first-place prize was a miniature golden plow valued at about $6,000.

The two Canadian entrants, Tom Heckman of Chilliwack, B.C., and Cyril Heynes of Emerson, Man., placed 22nd and 24th respectively.

Sylling succeeds a Canadian as champion. The 1961 world match at Brignon, France, was won by William Dixon of Brampton, Ont. The championship returns to Canada next year, when it will be held on the Conn Smythe farms at Caledon, Ont.

Heynes, 32, was the 1961 Canadian plowing champion and Hickman, 44, was runner-up.

Too Much Stress Being Placed On University

MONTREAL (CP) — Arnold Edinborough, Toronto television commentator and associate professor of English at the University of British Columbia, says Canada's education systems are laying too much stress on high school and university training.

"This is poppycock," he told the annual convention of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers.

"We should be aiming the majority of our students at vocational schools and technical institutes and colleges."

Mr. Edinborough, former editor of the magazine Saturday night, said Friday there still is a "money barrier" at Canadian universities.

"I'm not saying that possession of money and no brains will get you in. I do say that lack of money, even when you have brains, can keep you out."

Present education systems in Canadian provinces were not suitable for training future leaders.

"The deadweight of bureaucracy and the lingering passions of politics lie heavy on our systems," he said. "The curriculum is not being changed radically enough to meet the changing needs of our society, nor is the provision of specialized schools keeping up with the demand."

Sallal Appears to Have Won Revolt in The Yemen But Al-Badr Fate Mystery

The following story is from Reuters' staff correspondent Ronald Batchelor, who has arrived in San'a—one of Yemen's two capitals — after an overland trip from Aden. Batchelor and five other journalists with him are believed to be the first Western correspondents to gain entry to Yemen in six years.

By RONALD BATCHELOR

SAN'A (Reuters)'— Brig. Abdullah Sallal appears to have won his "quiet revolution" in the Yemen but the fate of Imam Mohammad Al - Badr, who reigned a brief eight days, remains a mystery.

Sallal, the tough 40-year-old former chief of the royal body-guard, sent tanks against the imam's fly-blown palace hide 12 days ago. He now is firmly in control of San'a, the diplomatic capital of Yemen and seemingly most of this land on the Red Sea.

The only signs here of the revolt which topped the monarchy after a 47-year reign are bullet were gaping shell holes in the upper storeys of Al Bashair and the ruins of Yemen's only royalist supporters in Saudi Arabia.

Sallal and his lieutenants insist the Imam Mohammad Al-Badr body is buried beneath Al Bashair's rubble but a group of Western correspondents, flown in just spent three days in the country and inspected the palace could find little evidence to support this claim.

FLOORS DAMAGED

Only the lowest floors of the brick - built palace building showed signs of heavy damage and it seemed possible the rubble could conceal the body.

Reports that the young imam, who gained the throne following the death of his father, had escaped appeared to carry as much weight as the coup leaders' assertion that he had been killed.

But all the evidence both here and in Ta'iz supported Sallal's claim that his coup has succeeded and that the people of Yemen are backing his regime.

The 70-man group of Western correspondents to enter the country since the coup found complete calm.

In three days in the country, they encountered not a single piece of evidence to support rumors outside this country that royalist tribes are actively attempting to stage a counter-coup.

LEADING BRIEF

Sallal, leader of the revolt who became premier of the Yemen after the revolt, said that the uprising Sept. 26 was just 19 hours to complete.

Russian-built T-34 tanks moved toward the two royal palaces in the centre of this ancient mud-walled city, which sprawls on a 7,100-foot-high plateau.

Al Bashair fell to the besiegers after a few hours and the artist supporters manning machine-guns in Prince Hassan's residence held out for several hours longer.

KAMPALA (Reuters) — Uganda joined the roster of independent African states today, ending 68 years of British rule.

The Duke of Kent, representing Queen Elizabeth, was on hand for the lowering of the Union Jack and the unfurling of Uganda's black, red and yellow flag.

Meanwhile the Kabaka (King) of Buganza, a kingdom within Uganda, issued a statement saying that during British rule "we have experienced some difficulties but at the same time have enjoyed good times."

The Kabaka was exiled to Britain for two years in 1955 for alleged disloyalty.

KEPT 25 ARMS

With independence, Uganda finds itself facing the economic dilemma of every newly-freed but underdeveloped state.

The East African country, the biggest exporter of coffee in the Commonwealth and one of the largest producers of cotton, has, during the last decade, been confronted with a drop of one third in these two principal pillars of its economy.

Because of the drop, and because of recent catastrophic rains, the Uganda budget has shown a deficit for the last two years.

Adding to the problems faced by Prime Minister Obotte, who led his Uganda Peoples' Congress to victory in elections earlier this year, is the possibility of Britain joining the European Common Market.

It has a population of 6,700,000.

Chiang Still Talks of Return To Mainland

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — President Chiang Kai-shek said today he will personally head his Chinese Nationalist armed forces in a return to the Communist-held mainland.

He made his pledge in a message commemorating the Oct. 10 revolution in 1911 which led to the establishment of the Republic of China.

"Today," Chiang said, "our more than 500,000,000 people both at home and abroad, both behind and outside enemy lines, are joining together in the great nation-wide revolutionary task of achieving national recovery through counter - offensive."

Chiang, who will be 75 Oct. 31, said the people of the mainland are only too ready to rise in support of a Chinese nationalist counter-offensive.

He said the long mainland coast "offers numerous beach heads for our armed forces to land in a counter-offensive" and the whole vast territory "is covered with the volcanic lava of human hatred."

Rock Showers Glass on Table As Negro Eats

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—A flying rock and a crowd of jeering students conversed tensions at the University of Mississippi campus after Negro James Meredith's second week as a student began in comparative calm.

The incident occurred at the University Cafeteria Monday, after Meredith arrived for dinner. No one was hurt but some broken glass sprinkled on the 29-year-old Negro's table.

Earlier, Meredith attended classes without having to walk through crowds of booing students, a sharp contrast with last week. Two unidentified white students shook Meredith's hand as he walked toward his apartment.

Asked if he felt the atmosphere lessened him was improving, Meredith said he didn't feel he was in position to judge.

"I think you people (reporters) are better able to tell about that than I am," he replied.

The army said it would release another 4,620 Mississippi National guardsmen tonight. That will leave 3,000 of the 11,000 guardsmen originally called up in the Oxford area. Some 1,000 regular army troops are on duth there.

India Rejects Offer for Border Dispute Talks

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India has rejected a Communist Chinese offer for border dispute talks in Peking on Monday next week, it was disclosed Sunday.

An Indian note told the Chinese there would be no "talks and discussions under duress or in continuing Harassment and accused China of "specific policy aiming at creating confusion."

The Indian note delivered Saturday insisted on the Chinese withdraw from the northeast frontier area before any talks could begin.

Typhoon Hits Weather Post

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese weather bureau said typhoon Harriet was moving inland with 121 - mile - an - hour winds today and badly damaged its observation post there.

The meteorological agency said there were no reports of casualties among the 37 Japanese weathermen stationed on Marcus, 700 miles southeast of Tokyo. They are the island's only inhabitants.

The Air Force reported another typhoon, Freda, was 1,000 miles north of Wake Island with maximum winds of 75 miles an hour and moving northeast.

Waterford Chief Resigns After Being Rehired

WATERFORD, Ont. (CP)—Police Chief Frank Turner, fired for incompetence and then rehired, has resigned.

He was rehired a week after he filed a writ in the Ontario Supreme Court seeking damages for wrongful dismissal.

The chief, who served this town 20 miles south of Brantford for three years, said rehiring "vindicated" him but the acting council action had made his position untenable.

In a letter of resignation Friday, Chief Turner said he had decided that "I can best serve the citizens by resigning."

Mayor Stanley Mott said council would attempt to find a replacement from among 16 applicants who sought the job after the Aug. 21 firing.

After 45 years with the C.N.R., Conductor John T. (Jack) Ross retired Saturday, after the run on train 14 to Montreal. He is shown here with Mrs. Ethel, next him at the station in Belleville and finished the run as a passenger on the train.

John T. Ross Retires After 45 Years Service on CNR

Getting his orders for the last time at the Belleville terminal, John T. "Jack" Ross of 32 Geddes Street, stepped off the No. 14 passenger train at Montreal early Saturday night for the last time and completed 45 years of excellent service with the C.N.R. Mrs. Ross, the former Ethel Benedict, accompanied him to Montreal on the last part of the run and they returned to the city early on Sunday morning and Jack Ross is now starting a retirement he has so richly won.

Mr. Ross started with the railway as a call boy in 1917 and the next year entered the running trade as a brakeman, a position he held until 1946. During those years he was classed as a conductor and in that year he took over the highest duty on the tail end, served on freight service and sometimes was called as an extra conductor on passenger runs. In the last few years of his service he ran exclusively on passenger trains and was well known and highly respected by management, his fellow employees and the travelling public.

Jack Ross is a native of this city, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James V. Ross. His father was well known in the city as a contractor in cement and bricklaying. Mr. Ross was also a member of Bell's Academy, and as many young boys did in those days he went to the railway service and as he says "I have never regretted the move and would do it again if I had it to do over."

Accompanying Mrs. Ross to Montreal were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gros of Herchimer Ave., and on arrival at the end of the run, Mr. Ross was taken by his two brakemen, Clarence Weese of this city, and Harry Alsone of Montreal, along with Stanley Carter and Ray Savage, conductors, to the Board Room at the terminal, where a large number had gathered to wish him farewell and the best of luck in his retirement.

As was mentioned before Mrs. Ross is the former Ethel Benedict, and they have a family of three children, daughters, Mrs. Frank (Margaret) Edwards and Mrs. Larry (Bernadette) Mavety, both of this city, and one son, James Ross, a student of Nicholson College.

Mr. Ross is an ardent sportsman and has followed the fortunes of Belleville teams in baseball for many, many long years. He was a regular attendant when the Grand Trunk Nationals were cutting a wide swath in baseball circles and he never missed a game when the McFarlands were trying to put the Cup and World's title in hockey.

Struggle for Power in Yemen Rips Apart Seams of Unity

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The struggle for power in Yemen, a hot, barren little land on the Red Sea, is ripping apart the already strained seams of Arab unity.

There has been little reliable information on the progress of revolution and counter - revolution inside Yemen. But on the outside the struggle is being fought by President Nasser's United Arab Republic against a coalition with Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Nasser has put his money on the revolutionary government in power. Jordan and Saudi Arabia, both monarchies, are backing royalist counter-revolutionaries.

The great powers of East and West meanwhile are waiting and watching silently to see what emerges.

Whatever the outcome, it could hardly be anything but an improvement for the 4,500,000 people of Yemen.

The late Imam Ahmed, whose death Sept. 18 touched off the present crisis, ruled the country in almost feudal style, living lavishly in the midst of poverty, keeping slaves and beheading opponents publicly. He supervised some of the executions personally, including those of his own brothers. The new regime claims to have freed 73,000 persons imprisoned by the late Imam.

With this background, it is scarcely surprising that Prince Mohammad Badr was overthrown only a week after his father's death. The military leader, Brig. Abdullah Sallal claimed to have killed the Prince, but this has never been confirmed.

The leadership of the royalist faction has been taken over by Prince Hassan, Crown Prince Saif al Islam al Hassan, former head of the Yemeni delegation at the United Nations.

He claims support of the entire northern part of Yemen bordering Saudi Arabia. Sallal charges that Saudi troops and Jordanian planes are backing al Hassan.

The outcome probably will depend on which faction the Yemeni tribesmen decide to back. Tough and experienced fighters, they outnumber Sallal's army.

Riots in Town Near Rostov Are Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persistent reports of disturbances near Rostov in the Soviet Union last June have reached the United States and other Western governments during the last few months, diplomatic officials report.

U.S. experts have been piecing together bits of information they have received them that some kind of public disturbance did occur at the town of Novocherkassk after the June 1 announcement instituted new food prices. Contrary to earlier press reports, unconfirmed here, that some changes may also have been made in wage scales in industry affecting workers at Novocherkassk.

Diplomats attending western of ficials told of intervention by Soviet troops in an effort to put down the disturbances. Some accounts said that troops here, firing over the heads of the unruly crowd. There also were reports that a number of people were killed, though it was not known whether there were any deaths.

Mother Saves Three Children in Windsor Fire

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A woman saved her three children from fire that destroyed her Maidstone Township home early Saturday by calmly passing them out a first-floor window.

Mrs. Patricia Walker, 25, told firemen she fell asleep with the children when she climbed into bed with them to quiet them down.

She was awakened by an exploding fuse box. The house was filled with smoke and flames. She smashed the bedroom window and passed the children, Brenda, 5, and Scott, 4, on the ground, then crawled through the window herself to her two-year-old daughter, Lea Ann.

Mrs. Walker then ran around to her own bedroom, shattered the window and roused her husband, John, 27.

None of the children was hurt but Mrs. Walker cut her feet when she crawled through the broken glass. Firemen said they believed the explosion occurred in the furnace.

Schirra Would Have Liked to Orbit Longer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Walter M. Schirra Jr. says he came back from his "textbook flight" six times around the world with one suggestion for the next U.S. space venture—add a move up its launching date."

And he came back from that flight reluctantly, said the 39-year-old navy commander.

"I would liked to have gone for 12 more (orbits)," he said. Schirra also said at his press conference Sunday that at one point in his nine-hour, 13-minute flight he completely cut himself off from ground control.

"To conserve the power supply of the Mercury system which he said, he threw a switch cutting off the electrical system which would have allowed ground control stations to bring him out of orbit in an emergency.

Sunday this city turned out to give the astronaut a welcome. Police estimated 300,000 citizens applauded the 36-year-old navy cheered Schirra as the motorcade moved through the city. With him was his blonde wife, Jo, and their children, Suzanne, 5, and Marty, 12.

Castro Still Unchallenged Leader of Cuban Revolt Not Puppet of Russians

The following account on Cuba has been written by John Bland following a two-week sojourn as Reuters correspondent in Havana. Bland, 21-year-old Briton assigned to Cuba in September, 1960, was detained by Cuban authorities Sept. 5, held incommunicado in jail for six days and then deported to Jamaica.

By JOHN BLAND

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters)—Fidel Castro is still the unchallenged leader of the Cuban revolution.

No evidence that I saw during two weeks in Havana as Reuters correspondent lent any credence to the view, popular among Cubans exiled in Florida, that the bearded prime minister is merely the stooge of the Cuban Communists or a puppet of the Soviet government.

Clearly a struggle for power took place in February this year. Ne 14 days — unprecedented since the 26-year-old leader came to power 3½ years ago — Castro disappeared from the nation's press, radio and television.

Almost certainly the old guard Communists made a bid for a greater say in Cuba's management — and lost.

HE IS SURE

No one who has met Castro can deny his self-confidence. He is sure he knows where he is going.

But, no one who has lived in revolutionary Cuba can fail to see that there is no longer certain of the immense popular support he once enjoyed.

The secret police of former President Fulgencio Batista, whom he overthrew, have been replaced by his own secret police, the opposition is stifled, its leaders imprisoned or shot. Press and radio are geared solely to the one permitted dogma, that of Soviet-orientated communism.

For the first half of this year, life for the man-in-the-street plunged almost into despair, with less and less for sale in shops.

Since March 19, strict rationing has restricted each Cuban to four eggs, three pounds of meat and two pounds of butter a month. There is a scarcity of the commonest vegetables and even fruit, like oranges and grapefruit, which grow in profusion in Cuba.

Ernesto (Che) Guevara, the minister of industries, has repeatedly taken Cuban workers to task for absenteism, underproduction and poor workmanship.

My own impression was that he is dedicated to Cuba as a leader and even puritanical in his idealism.

General Walker To Undergo Examination

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former Maj.-Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who denies he's guilty of federal charges evolving from riots at the University of Mississippi, will undergo psychiatric examination here this week.

The former army officer, charged with inciting an insurrection and seditious conspiracy, was home in Dallas Sunday and was greeted by about 200 flag-waving supporters of his conservative cause.

He was released Saturday from the U.S. Medical Centre in Springfield, Mo., on $50,000 bond posted by his family.

Release came only after he agreed to submit to a psychiatric examination.

Walker was jovial and talkative when he point his lawyers would allow.

During a press conference, however, he repeatedly advised him not to answer questions surrounding his actions at Ole Miss, where violence erupted when the federal government forced the enrolment of Negro James H. Meredith in the previously all-white school. Walker has been accused of leading rioters against U.S. marshals.

Secret Agent Admits Killings With Poison

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (Reuters) — A confessed Russian secret agent went on trial Monday for the murder of two prominent West German Ukrainian exiles with a cyanide gun.

Bogdan Stashinski, 31, a Ukrainian-born Soviet citizen, was charged before the West German federal high court with murdering Lev Rebet and Stefan Bandera by spraying cyanide in their faces with a poison pistol.

Rebet, a writer, was killed in October, 1957, and Bandera, chief of the Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists, was killed two years later.

Stashinski fled to West Berlin in Aug. 2, 1961—the day the Communists walled off East Berlin —and told West German police he had received his instructions on the orders of the Soviet secret service.

Stashinski is alleged to have waited for his victims on staircases and sprayed cyanide in their faces. Both appeared to have died from heart failure in fact, the poison had paralyzed their lungs.

A post mortem showed mysterious traces of cyanide in Bandera's body but Rebet's death was attributed to heart failure.

U.S. Proposals for Restricting Cuban Trade Thought Absurd

LONDON (CP)—The United States proposals for restricting trade with Cuba are generally considered in Britain to be either ill-conceived or absurd.

Britain, the NATO ally likely to be hardest hit by any shipping ban, newspapers are insisting that the Cuban problem has illustrated how wide apart Britons and Americans are on their basic thinking about communism and coexistence.

British officials, although sympathetic to the Kennedy administration's fears about Russian influence in Cuba, are seriously disturbed by the "do something and damn the consequences" mood of the American public.

"It is not simply that there are undertones of snapping nerves which make one wonder how American public opinion is going to stand up to the inevitably prolonged strain of a East-West contest," says The Economist.

"There is also the more immediate danger that the president may be pushed against his will into doing the wrong thing under Cuba's shock.

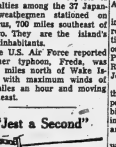
But the British approach is by no means universal. Newspapers note that the U.S. has troops and bases all over the eastern hemisphere many of them close to Russian territory. They see it as illogical for Americans to establish one kind of defence doctrine and forget that they promised to renounce American interest in Europe as well.

"In the eyes of the rest of the world an American attack on Cuba would no more be justified than Russia's action in Hungary," says The Observer.

"We believe that American public opinion on Cuba is mistaken and even perverted but it is a real factor in the political balance.

BOAC Loss Sets Record

LONDON (Reuters) — British Overseas Airways Corporation, one of Britain's two state-owned airlines, said today it lost nearly £15,000,000 ($45,000,000) during the year ending last March 31, the largest loss in its history.



Along with other items on the debit side, including writing off the value of the old aircraft fleets and previous years' losses, the corporation's total deficit is £16,800,000 ($12,800,000), the annual report disclosed.

The other state airline, British European Airways, lost £1,488,965 ($4,464,195) last year.

Ah, twas a great Saturday for us "Giants Si—Yanquis, Go Home" guys. A guy named Hiller figuratively sneaked into the Yankee dugout, purloined their big weapon and used it as a detergent to clean the socks heavily peopled by Giant buddies.

That made it a new series with the great big game probably now under way if rain didn't force a holdover.

The Coogan's Bluffers, New York's die-hard Giant fans, raised a howl of victory that went clear across the continent to mingle with that of the Frisco faithful.

But it is not over yet. The Yankee artillery spiked to a certain degree by Giant pitching, could explode any minute. You never know when these guys are going to put a match to a dynamite fuse.

"Highball Roulette" they called the "Million for Mahovlich" caper in Toronto the other night with Chicago's Jim Norris pulling the trigger on the chamber loaded with a million-buck cartridge.

"Quite a publicity stunt," said Conny Smythe in the canny manner of the cooling-off Saturday morning period. All a newspaperman hadn't crashed the party the deal wouldn't have gotten out of the suite."

But it was not a publicity stunt with Norris. He wrote the cheque, handed it to a pair of Leaf executives after producing $1,000 cash in $100 bills as down payment. Then he told Tommy Ivan to release the word to the press services. You know the rest.

And as Toronto sports editor Jim Vipond wrote "As a result the million-dollar gamble may develop into one of the most interesting legal argument in the history of pro sport.

Meanwhile Judge Punch Imlach sentenced Mahovlich to four years' hard labor with the Leafs at a reported remuneration of over $100,000. "Red" Kelly, Allen Stanley and Billy Harris were committed with minor sentences in time for the Leafs to crawl out of their exhibition games coma and trounce the All-Stars 4-1.

Twas a happy holiday for good "Old Hogtown." Not only did the Leafs emerge from the pre-season anasthesia but the Argos snatched a 16-9 win from the Hamilton Tiger-Cats with a last minute field goal. Out west the B.C. Lions whipped the Blue Bombers and the rushing Calgary Stamps licked the Eskimos to crawl within a point of top spot. And Ottawa is tops after shading the Larks.

Hiller Grand-Slams Giants To Win

Terry Met Sanford Today

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Managers Ralph Houk of New York Yankees and Alvin Dark of San Francisco Giants agreed that the World Series, now all even at two victories apiece, will go the limit of seven games.

Of course, the rival skippers disagree on the winner.

Although the Giants pulled even Monday with a 7-3 victory in the fourth game, in which the brilliant Whitey Ford was lifted after six innings, Houk said he wasn't worried.

He said he planned no changes in the lineups and confirmed that Ralph Terry, his 23-game winning right-hander, would be the pitcher.

Dark's choice was right-hander Jack Sanford, a 24-game winner who defeated Terry 2-0 with a three-hitter in the second game of the series.

"I'm not worried about the way our boys are hitting," said Houk, although the Yankees have hit only one home run in four games. "We're hitting the ball all right, but not to the right places."

Dark pointed out he had predicted as far back as three weeks ago that a Giant-Yankee World Series would go the limit. At the time the Giants were four games behind Los Angeles Dodgers with only nine games left to play.

USED IN RELIEF

Dark had planned to pitch Billy O'Dell, who lost the opener to the Yankees, but the southpaw was needed in relief Monday after the Giants took a 6-2 lead in the seventh on Chuck Hiller's grand-slam homer off relief pitcher Marshall Bridges.

Jim Coates, a right-hander, began the inning after Ford was taken out for a pinch hitter in the bottom of the sixth as Houk tried for a big inning. Coates gave way to Bridges after giving up a walk to Jim Davenport and a one-out double to pinch hitter Matty Alou.

The left-handed Bridges purposely passed pinch hitter Bob Nieman to load the bases, disposed of Harvey Kuenn on an infield popup, then threw the grand slammer to Hiller, the first of the Giant second baseman's professional career. The chunky little infielder had hit only three home runs all season.

The Giants were riding along with a 2-0 lead on the strength of a two-run homer by catcher Tom Haller in the second inning when things began to go wrong in the fifth inning.

Starting pitcher Juan Marichal, attempting to bunt home a runner from third base, was hit on the finger and had to retire. Pitcher Bob Bolin took over, survived a bases-loaded situation in the bottom of the fifth, and then ran real trouble.

He opened the inning by walking Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris. Elston Howard filed out but successive singles by Bill Skowron and Clete Boyer drove in the tying runs before Don Larsen came in to put out the fire.

After Hiller's grand-slammer, the Giants picked up an insurance run in the ninth as Matty Alou scampered home on a throwing error by Bobby Richardson.

The Yankees got their third run in the bottom of the inning on successive singles by Tony Kubek, Richardson and Tom Tresh after two were out. O'Dell then got Mantle to hit into a force play for the final out.

"I plan to start Sanford today, Billy Pierce in the sixth game on Thursday and come right back with Sanford in the seventh game on Friday," said Dark.

If the series goes the limit, the seventh-game pitchers will be Sanford and Ford, each making his third start. Bill Stafford, who went all the way beating the Giants in the third game, will pitch the sixth game for the Yanks.

The odds still favored the Yankees, both for today's game in the series. They were rated 8-5 to win today and 8-to-5 to take the series.

Boosters Meet Tonight!

The Booster Club holds forth tonight in Memorial Arena to discuss ways and means of financing the city's junior "B" hockey club.

Booster president Jim Mathews appeals to all club members past and present and others interested in keeping the club "alive" to attend the meeting.

Plans formulated by the executive will be aired at the get-together which gets under way at eight o'clock.

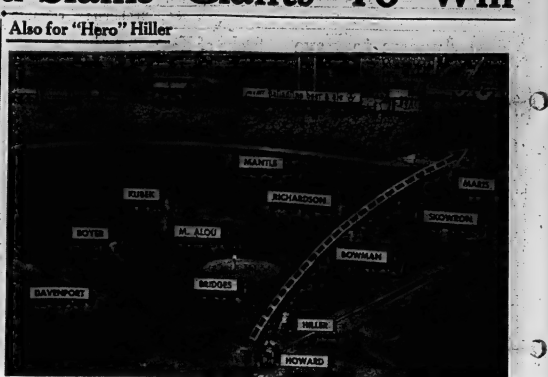
Badminton Starts New Season

The Belleville Garrison Badminton Club gets under way this Wednesday night, 9 o'clock at the Belleville Armouries.

President Merv. Potts and his executive have plans for an active and successful year.

The club is gaining popularity each year and there are openings for new members.

There will be play each Wed nesday at 9 o'clock and Friday and Saturday at 8 o'clock in the Armouries.



Ambers Win Over All-Stars

The Trenton Ambers scored two unanswered goals in the game's second half to defeat the Bay of Quinte All-Stars 4-2 in an exhibition soccer game played over the weekend.

The clubs were tied 2-2 at half time but Amber goals by Gallaway and George Lewis provided Trenton with the 4-2 victory.

All-Stars led twice in the first half on a pair of goals by Greg Zorbas. Gary Aldsworth tied it 1-1 on Trenton's behalf and a fluke goal scored by Jim Blair of the Stars into his own net made it 2-2.

Big Clout National Loop First

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP)—"I hit it pretty good—for me."

That was Chuck Hiller's description of his grand-slam home run in the fourth game of the World Series. It gave San Francisco Giants a 7-3 victory over New York Yankees and evened the series at two games apiece.

"When I hit it I thought it might go out, but I hit so few . . . I couldn't be sure."

Hiller, who struck out with the bases loaded in the fifth inning, earned the hero's role in the seventh when he turned the Yankees' own weapon on them.

The blast into the right field seats, which came with two out and the score tied 2-2, was the first homer with the bases loaded ever hit by a National League player in a World Series—and only the second hit by a non-Yankee.

Elmer Smith of Cleveland hit the first series grand slam in 1920, followed by Yankees Tom Lazzeri, Gil McDougald, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron and Bobby Richardson, who hit the last one in 1960.

NEVER HIT ONE BEFORE

"In all my life—majors, minors or any place—I never hit a grand-slam home run before," Hiller said. He only hit three homers during the regular season and only five in the majors before.

"I thought he would throw a fast ball," Hiller said, "and I was hoping he would. It was a bad pitch, for him. It came right over the plate."

Hiller, who turned 27 on Oct. 1, is a modest boy who looks like a little Bing Crosby and has anyone on the Giant club.

"Nobody knows me on the streets," he said. "Oh, sometimes, when I'm going down the street somebody will recognize me, but it's not like the other fellows on the team."

What were Hiller's thoughts as he circled the bases?

"I was just happy to get back to the bench. I didn't even see the ball go into the stands. There were two out and I was running hard.

"After I got back to the bench, I was so nervous I couldn't sit down."

Nicklaus Collects Two Grand

CINCINNATI, (AP) — Jack Nicklaus added another $1,000 to his bulging golf winnings Sunday as he and Pandel Savic, a Columbus, Ohio amateur, romped to a four-stroke victory in the $10,000 Cincinnati Invitational pro-amateur golf tournament.

Nicklaus and Savic had a six-under-par 64 Sunday over the Losantiville Country Club course to go with their 61 of Saturday for a 36-hold total of 127. That was 13 under par.

Bob Shave, Clevelagd pro, and Don Albert, Columbus amateur, took the second spot with a 64-67—131. This was worth $1,250 in Shave.

Don't knock the three-point field goal.

It may not be as valuable as the six-point touchdown, but when used properly it can be a dangerous weapon.

Two field goals revised the standings and the outlook in the Eastern Football Conference this weekend.

Moe Racine booted a 40-yard field goal on the last play of the game Monday at Montreal to give Ottawa Rough Riders a 25-24 win over Montreal Alouettes and first place in the standings.

Bill Mitchell kicked one 19 yards from a sharp angle Saturday night to keep Toronto Argonauts' playoff hopes alive with a 10-9 upset win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Toronto. That one came a minute and 22 seconds before the final gun.

The Argonaut triumph allowed Ottawa to move one point ahead of the Ticats in the standings. Toronto has a share of the third and last playoff spot with the Als.

The Argonauts and Alouettes have each played ten games and meet twice in their four remaining bouties.

The Rough Riders, trailing 24-23, moved into field goal position on an eight-play drive from their own 25-yard line. Racine, a 230-pound native of Cornwall, Ont., in his fourth year as an Ottawa tackle, booted the ball cleanly between the uprights.

INTERCEPTS PASS

The Ticats seemed to have the game wrapped up at Toronto, especially when halfback Don Sutherin thwarted a late Argo touchdown attempt by intercepting a pass in the Hamilton end zone.

Ernie White scored two touchdowns for Ottawa and Len Chandler scored the other. Racine added an earlier 28-yard field goal to his game-winning kick and booted two converts.

Russ Jackson, who played the whole game as Ottawa's quarterback, threw a touchdown passes to White and Chandler.

Bobby Lee Thompson, George Dixon and Marv Luster scored the Montreal touchdowns. Bobby Jack Oliver also had a good kicking day with a single, two converts and a field goal.

Thompson's touchdown ignited the crowd of 19,288. He ran back a kickoff 106 yards.

Oliver had a chance to wrap it up for Als when he attempted a field goal with four minutes remaining in the game. It was wide and the Als had to settle for a single giving them a 24-23 lead.

Jackson completed 11 of 15 passes for 206 yards and Ottawa rolled for 268 yards on the ground. Using only three ball carriers, the Als made 222 yards rushing and quarterback Sandy Stephens tried 11 passes with all four of his completions to Luster for 81 yards.

The Ticats, in a slump, missed quarterback Bernie Faloney at Toronto. The team seemed improved over its performance against Ottawa last week when it lost 27-0, but quarterback Frank Cosentino had a bad day before 25,174 fans.

Hamilton led 2-0 at halftime on two singles by Sutherin but Argos took a 7-2 lead when Joe Hernandez scored a touchdown on a 75-yard pass-and-run play in the third quarter which Mitchell converted.

Hamilton grabbed the lead for the second time five minutes later when Carney Henley scored a touchdown and Sutherin converted, setting the stage for Mitchell's big kick.

Rote, conducting his usual aerial show, completed 23 of 44 passes for 329 yards. The Tiger-Cats, with Cosentino throwing all but one pass, connected on only six of 20 for 51 yards. Argo gained only 93 yards on the ground compared with 154 by Hamilton.

Million Dollar Publicity Help

Leafs Drub All-Stars 4-1

By PAUL RIMSTEAD

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, their lineup bolstered by $1,000,000 worth of left winger, drubbed the National Hockey League All-Stars 4-1 Saturday night.

Frank Mahovlich, a marked man as a result of the astronomical bid for his services by multi - millionaire Jim Norris did his best to make the Chicago Black Hawks owner look good by scoring one of the Toronto goals.

Norris made the original offer at a gay party in a Toronto hotel Friday night after the All-Star dinner. He peeled off $1,000 in bills before a gathering which included several officials from the six NHL cities.

Stafford Smythe, Leaf president, said Saturday: "No human being is worth $1,000,000— to buy or sell. "I consider this to be a publicity stunt."

Smythe told reporters Friday night that Norris would have to repeat the offer Saturday at noon before he would accept.

"We'll get the World Series off the sports pages," he told newspaper men at the party.

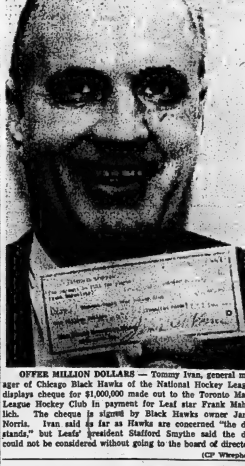
ARRIVES WITH CHEQUE

Norris had Chicago general manager Tommy Ivan take a certified cheque for $1,000,000 to Canadian funds to Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday.

Smythe then said he would have to take it up with his board of directors. Saturday night he said he had no intention of calling a directors meeting.

"I'm not doing anything about it," he said in an interview. "You'll have to see the general reaction."

Harold Ballard, Leaf vice-president, and Jack Amell, a Leaf director, are reported to have accepted the down payment.



Ballard and Amell then signed a piece of paper which read: "We accept for Maple Leaf Gardens." No one, apparently, noticed the misspelling of accept.

Most NHL officials joked about the offer.

"It's ridiculous," said one.

"If it is a publicity stunt, it isn't working," someone said to Smythe Saturday night. He smiled and replied: "That's what we want."

OFFER MILLION DOLLARS — Tommy Ivan, general manager of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, displays cheque for $1,000,000 made out to the Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club in payment for Leaf star Frank Mahovlich. The cheque is signed by Black Hawks owner James Norris. Ivan said as far as Hawks are concerned "the deal stands," but Leafs' president Stafford Smythe said the deal could not be considered without going to the board of directors. (CP Wirephoto)

All the fuss didn't do Mahovlich any harm. He had been having contract difficulties but the Leafs signed him to a four-year contract for a reported $130,000 Saturday — after the Chicago offer.

Mahovlich was among the game's three stars chosen by members of the 1946-47 All-Stars, who were the guests of honor.

The man helped most by the win was Eddie Shack, Leafs' robust left winger. He scored a goal and played so well he now is back in the good graces of manager-coach Punch Imlach.

"On tonight's performance," said Imlach, "I'll have to go along with Shack as one of my regular wingers."

Harvey Kuenn Says

"Think We Can Win It"

This is the third in a series of stories analyzing the World Series by San Francisco outfielder Harvey Kuenn.

By HARVEY KUENN

NEW YORK (AP)—"Oh man, that's great."

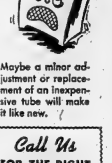
That's what old Charlie Hiller said when he came into the dugout after hitting the grand slam and it made me feel great after leaving those three men on base.

I came up in the seventh with one out and the bases loaded. I knew Marshall Bridges wasn't going to give me a fast ball where I wanted it, so I was trying to get at least a sacrifice fly. At all costs I wanted to avoid the double play.

I guess I must have fouled off half a dozen pitches because they were too close to let go by and then I undercut one too much and popped up. I felt terrible going back to the dugout but the next thing I knew old Charlie had tagged Bridges and picked me up.

And now we're assured of getting the Yankees back in our own ball park and I think we can win it. I've thought so all along, but the way this club keeps coming back, I'm more convinced all the time.

Charlie used one of Billy Pierce's bats when he went up to hit and maybe I ought to try and borrow one from somebody. Ming seems to be out of hits.



Charlie exemplifies what we have been doing all year. A guy who hasn't really been going well comes up in the crucial part of the game and all of a sudden he smacks the big hit that puts you ahead, and we win 7-3.

We got good pitching from Billy Pierce Sunday, although he didn't seem to be as fast as he was in the playoffs. The day off before Sunday's game helped.

Bill Stafford surprised us Sunday and maybe that threw some of the batters off balance for a while, but I know that wasn't the entire reason because someone remarked in the dugout in the third inning: "He's throwing a lot of breaking stuff." So we knew what he was doing, we just couldn't do anything with it.

From our scouting reports we expected him to be more of a fast ball pitcher, and he might have fooled some of our fellows.

Outsider Wins Rich Stakes

NEW YORK (CP) — Fams Ego, a 12 to 1 outsider, won the $110,500 Prizette Stakes in rain and mud Saturday at Belmont Park and threw the two-year-old filly championship into a merry mixup as Affectionately finished third and favored Sweet Deb ran out of the money.

Manuel Ycaza, the Panamanian jockey, swung Fams Ego outside of Sweet Deb and deflectionately rounding the turn to the homestretch, and she pulled away in the drive to win by 1½ lengths over the Wheatley Stable's Doll's Play.

Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Affectionately, placed third.

Fams Ego, owned by the Clear Springs Stable of W. G. Reynolds, earned $73,000. She returned $26, $10.60 and $5.10.

Doll's Play, ridden by Johnny Sellers, paid $8 and $4.20, while Affectionately, piloted by Ismael Valenzuela, returned $3.80.

In Chicago, Fred W. Hooper's Sky Gem won the $30,000 Hawthorne for two-year-olds, defeating Salesman Prize by three-quarters of a length in what proved to be a two-horse race.

From start to finish of the 1 1-16 mile feature, Sky Gem and Salesman prior led a 13-horse field and were never more than a length apart.

Salesman Prize took the lead from the start until the stretch, when Hartack pushed Sky Gem into the lead and kept him there.

Cosmic Tip finished third.

Sky Gem returned $7.20, $3.80 and $3.20. Salesman Prior paid $6.40 and $4.40 and Cosmic Tip $5.80.

In Camden, N.J., Ada L. Rice's Try Yash won the $27,500 Quake City Handicap by two lengths over the favorite, Ogden Phipps' Tilting Away.

Mary G. Christmas' Towson came from last place to lead in the 1¼-mile event which drew only five starters.

The longer paid $9.80, $3.60 and $2.20. Hitting Away returned $2.60 and $2.20 and Towson $2.20.

MOSS CAUGHT SPEEDING

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—England's Sterling Moss was charged Sunday night with driving his 1962 sports car at more than 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone.

Moss, a leading race - car driver, was given a summons and told he could pay the $10 fine by mail since it was his first offense.

Moss was en route to New York City after having served as an honorary track steward at the Grand Prix in Watkins Glen. Because of injuries suffered last April in an accident, he was not entered in the race.

Looks Like 'Lotsa Loot' For Players

NEW YORK (AP) — The player pool for the 1962 World Series amounted to $863,281.71, third largest in the span of 59 series.

It was topped only by the $883,301.40 of the 1956 Chicago-Los Angeles series and the $881,763.73 of the 1954 Cleveland-New York Giant series. Players' shares in receipts for only the first four games.

Of the total player pool 70 per cent goes to the two series teams and the other 30 per cent is divided among clubs finishing second, third and fourth in the regular National and American League races.

The 70 per cent to the series players totalled $604,297.20. Sixty per cent of this will go to the series winner and 40 per cent to the loser.

The winners will split $362,578.32 and the losers $241,718.88. Baseball rules do not permit the clubs to announce how many shares they have voted until after the series.

On the basis of 30 shares for each club, each winner would get about $12,000 and each loser about $8,000.

'Television' Death Caused By Trouble Over Contract

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeff Baker was killed in a car accident while accident the last week in August.

It came as a great shock to viewers of CBS' daytime "As the World Turns" who for six years had been following the ups and downs down in Jeff's relationship with Penny, his wife. Repercussions are still being heard.

The "accident" occured on a Monday, and by Wednesday he was gone. What made it even more upsetting was that after a long, complicated marital tangle, Jeff and Penny seemed to be getting along.

Daytime serials don't kill off leading characters very often. Usually the authors merely write them out of scripts by sending them to distant places for a spell so that if they choose, a character may be brought back, usually with a different face.

When a regular is killed in the script, all sorts of violent reactions come from the faithful viewers—including, probably, a notice that the actor who played the character also shuffled off the mortal coil.

Mark Rydell, who played Jeff for all those years, is very much alive. His television "death" came after the actor and the advertising agency which produces the serial were unable to get together on a new contract.

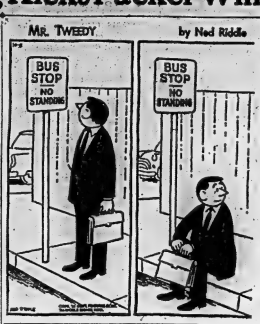
Hornung Kicks Packer Win

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP)—Someone hung the "golden boy" tag on Paul Hornung because of his curly, blonde hair. This was a misnomer. The gold in Hornung is to be his toe and his ability to win the "money" games for Green Bay Packers.

The former Notre Dame star booted the defending National Football League champions into sole possession of first place in the Western Conference Sunday, kicking three field goal in a 9-7 victory over Detroit Lions.



As usual, he saved the best one for when it was needed—this time 33 seconds from the finish.

Washington Redskins also have that golden feeling today, having put together their first three - game winning streak since 1957 with a 20-14 decision over Los Angeles Rams that kept them in their lead in the Eastern Conference. with a three-one won-loss record.

GIANTS WHIP CARDS

In other NFL games, New York Giants stayed hot on the trail of the Redskins with a 31-14 victory over St. Louis Cardinals; Cleveland Browns defeated Dallas Cowboys 19-10; San Francisco 49'ers rolled over Baltimore Colts 21-13, and Chicago Bears shut out Minnesota Vikings 13-0. Pittsburgh Steelers won over Philadelphia Eagles 13-7 Saturday night.

In the American League, Houston Oilers defeated Buffalo Bills 17-14 and San Diego Chargers handed Dallas Texans their first loss, 38-28 in the only Sunday games. Boston Patriots licked New York Titans 43-14 Saturday.

Clark Wins U.S. Grand Prix

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) Jimmy Clark of England, driving a Lotus, edged out Graham Hill, also of England, by nine seconds Sunday to win the U.S. Grand Prix and retain at least a mathematical chance of gaining the world drivers' title.

Bruce McLaren of New Zealand was third in a Cooper.

Under the complicated formula on which the drivers' standings are based, Hill now has 39 points, Clark 36. A first-place finish is worth nine points. Only one race in this year's series, the South African Grand Prix, still is to be run.

Should Clark win that one, he would tie Hill in the point standings and would be declared the winner on the basis of first place finishes. So far, each has won three races. The drivers' five best races only are figured in the standings.

Lions Whip Bombers

Eskimos' Backs To Wall

Saskatchewan Roughriders have placed Edmonton in a position the Eskimos haven't experienced since the first year they rejoined the Western Football Conference.

The 28-20 defeat handed the Eskx by the Riders in Regina Monday put Edmonton's back to the wall. The once powerful Eskimos now have to win all three of their remaining league games to stand a chance for the final conference playoff berth.

On Saturday they took their third straight loss from Calgary Stampeders, 22-15 in Edmonton, while British Columbia Lions were whipping Winnipeg Blue Bombers 35-6 in Winnipeg.

The B.C. win marked the first time the Lions have ever managed to beat the Canadian champions twice in one season, let alone in successive games. They defeated Winnipeg 27-22 in Vancouver Sept. 24.

PTACEK IN FORM

Quarterback Bob Ptacek had one of his more successful passing days for the Roughriders, connecting 13 times in 18 attempts for 281 of Riders' total offensive of 353 yards.

He scored one touchdown and passed 72 yards to end Jack Gotta for another. Fullback Ferd Burket accounted for the third.

Steve Myhra, picked up from Baltimore Colts of the National Football League 10 days ago, scored 10 points in his first game on two field goals, three converts and a single.

Edmonton got touchdowns from Jackie Parker, E. A. Sims and Tommy-Joe Coffey, who also booted two converts, Coffey filled in at fullback for injured Johnny Bright.

The weekend games left Winnipeg holding first place by one point with two games in hand over Calgary, who have 15 points. Saskatchewan is third with 12 and B.C. fourth with 11 points. Edmonton is last in the league with nine points.

WINS FUTURITY

OTTAWA, (CP)—Uncle Spud, owned and driven by Dr. John Findley of Arnprior, Ont., won the $4,380 Zone 3 Futurity Monday at suburban Rideau Carleton Raceway. The three-year-old gelding paid $3.00 and $2.40 in the race that had not third-place betting.

Woman Golfer Sets Record

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Judy Kimball set a tournament record of 282 for 72 holes Sunday to win the $15,000 Women's Professional Golf Association championship tournament.

Miss Kimball, of Sioux City, Iowa, fired a 72 to add to her previous scores of 70-69-71. Her prize money was $2,300.

Says Bobby Richardson

"Didn't Figure On Hiller"

This is the third in a series of stories analyzing the World Series, written for the Associated Press by New York Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson

By BOBBY RICHARDSON

NEW YORK (AP)—We're all tied up again and must fly back to San Francisco after today's game, something we had hoped to avoid in this World Series where sound strategy seems to backfire.

I never want to manage. It's the pressure riding on every pitch. Baseball is a game of fun but it's no fun for a manager.

Take the seventh inning of Monday's game when the Giants won 7-3 on Chuck Hiller's grand slam home run.

Alou swings late at a 2-2 pitch and slices it down the left field line for a double. With first base open that dictates an intentional walk to the next man (Bob Nieman). Then Harvey Kuenn pops up and Hiller makes our hearts sink down to our shoes.

COULDN'T GET RUNS

Our manager (Ralph Houk) played the percentages but we just couldn't deliver with men on. Those 90 feet from third to home seemed like a mile to us.

Bill Stafford was breezing along with a one-hitter for seven innings Sunday. But in the eighth Pagan led off with a single to left. Matty Alou, batting for Billy Pierce, forced Pagan at second. Then Felipe Alou hit a shot back to the mound and it caught Stafford flush on the left shin just below the kneecap. Bill scrambled for the ball and got Felipe at first but then hopped around in tremendous pain.

Ralph came out and our other infielders gathered around the mound. Everybody wanted Stafford to stay in and finish up. Bill had the same thought.

Just as we were about set at our positions, Tony ran to the mound. Tony had seen Stafford wobble backwards.

"He turned white," Tony told me as he dressed in the next locker. He said to Tony: "I see two Howards." That's Ellie, our catcher.

Tony pointed to his eyes and looked at in the dugout to get Ralph's attention. But Ralph knew how badly Stafford wanted to finish this game. It was two out and he let him face Hiller, the next batter.

I was relieved to get Hiller's grounder and throw to Moose (Skowron) to end the inning.

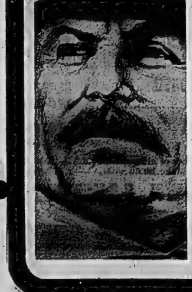
Wanted, League For Smokies

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters, bound for the world hockey championships in Sweden next March, may have no league in which to play this season.



The club was advised Saturday that Nelson Maple Leafs have decided to drop out of the Western International League, leaving the circuit on the brink of collapse.

Smoke Eaters will continue operating regardless of what happens to the league, club president A. N. Soles said.

The Nelson club decided Friday night to bow out of the WIHL after more than 60 years of continuous operation. No one could be found to stand up for a executive position to get the club moving. Spokesmen for Rossland Warriors said the Nelson decision may mean Rossland will quit, too. That would kill the league operation.

Giants Manager Predicts

"We'll Take It In Seven"

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Alvin Dark of San Francisco Giants predicts his team will win the World Series in seven games.

"I've thought so all along," he said Monday. The Giants and Yankees clash today in the fifth game with the series tied at two victories apiece. "Nothing has happened to make me change my mind."

Dark first began thinking of a seven-game series nearly three weeks ago. Since the Giants were then in second place, four lengths behind Los Angeles Dodgers with only nine games left to play, it was more of a wish than a prediction on Dark's part.

"I remember that day very clearly," said Dark. "I was talking to Jose Pagan, our great little shortstop."

"He had played all but one of our games and he was tired. Trying to buoy up his spirits, I said to Pagan: 'Keep your chin up, Jose. We've still got 19 games to play.' He looked at me kind of wonderingly.

KEEP HOPEFUL ALIVE

"'Nineteen?' he repeated. I thought it was nine, skip.'

"'No, nineteen,' I repeated. 'We've got nine left in the regular schedule, then three in the playoffs and seven more in the World Series. Nine and three and seven make 19.'

"Poor Jose. I still don't think he understood me."

The Giants kept their manager's prophesy alive by winning 7-3 Monday, the big blow being a grand-slam homer by Chuck Hiller with two out in the seventh inning. It was only the fourth homer this year for the little second baseman and marked the first time in his life he had ever hit a grand slammer.

LARSEN WINS

Don Larsen, who was credited with the final playoff victory, also received credit for this triumph. He pitched to two batters, walking Yogi Berra, a pinch hitter, and getting Tony Kubek on a grounder. Billy O'Dell, the left-hander who buried the opening game, pitched the last three innings for the Giants.

"I had planned to pitch O'Dell in the fifth game," explained Dark. "Now I will have to switch to Jack Sanford."

Sanford, who blanked the Yanks on three hits in the second game last Friday, will be working with three days of rest.

"Jack is strong and the short rest shouldn't bother him," said Dark.

"In fact, I plan to pitch him in the seventh game, too, next Friday. That means he will have only two days rest for that one. Billy Pierce, of course, will pitch the sixth game on Thursday."

Coffey, Dixon Tops CFL Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos all - purpose kicker, Tommy-Joe Coffey, climbed back into first place among Western Football Conference scorers during the weekend, tied with Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Coffey picked up two converts Saturday in a 22-15 loss to Calgary Stampeders, then added a touchdown and two converts Monday in a 28-20 loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders.

James was held to a pair of field goals Saturday as Bombers beat 13-6 to B.C. Lions in Winnipeg.

Both players have 53 scoring points, ahead of second-place Ed Buchanan of Calgary with 50.

The leaders:

Lunsford, C	3	0	0	0	48
Lewis, W	3	0	0	0	48
Dillard, C	3	0	0	0	48

George Dixon of Montreal Alouettes scored a touchdown Monday to retain his lead in the Eastern Football Conference scoring race, but two Ottawa players gave notice they'll make a bid for the title.

Ernie White scored two touchdowns in Ottawa's 26-24 win over Montreal and Moe Racine kicked two converts and two converts and two field goals to retain third place. White, who now has 54 points on nine touchdowns, moved from fifth to second place, 12 points behind White.

Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts slipped from second to fourth place with 48 points. Racine, who kicked the winning field goal Monday, is only one point behind teammate White.

The leaders:

Griffith Verdicts Fullmer

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith, making his first fighting appearance in the Garden since the tragic battle with Benny (Kid) Paret six months ago, easily outpointed middleweight Gene Fullmer in a 10-round bout Saturday night.

It was a one-sided and tame fight as the heavier and taller Fullmer held often and tried to bully the champion at close quarters.

Griffith weighed 151 to Fullmer's 159½.

The officials had Griffith ahead by the following round scores: Referee Art Mercante 6-2-2; judge Johnny Dran 9-1; and judge Joe Eppy 7-2-1. The Associated Press scored Griffith in front 9-1.

Griffith came out of the scrap without a mark and will leave Tuesday for Vienna where he will meet Teddy Wright of Detroit Oct. 17 in a bout billed for European recognition as world champion of the newly-created junior middleweight division—154 pounds.

It was on March 24 that Griffith knocked Paret senseless and won the welterweight crown. Paret never regained consciousness and died 10 days later.

Kidd Sets Meet Record

GUELPH (CP) — Toronto's Bruce Kidd, originally scheduled to compete in the 15-mile open event at the annual Thanksgiving Day road races, elected to compete in the five-mile open instead and romped to a win in record time.

The York Track Club star set a meet record of 24 minutes, 39.9 seconds, bettering the mark for the event of 25:33 he set in 1960.

Gordon Dickson of Hamilton won the 15-mile event in one hour, 16 minutes and three seconds, finishing ahead of Orville Atkins of Toronto, last year's winner.

Dave Ellis of Toronto set a meet record in the 10-mile cross-country event, chopping one minute and 22 seconds off the previous mark with his time of 53 minutes, 28 seconds.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is a wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Liston In Trouble Again?

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sonny Liston, world heavyweight boxing champion, was picked up by a park guard here Friday night. No charges were placed against the Philadelphia boxer, and he was released.

Fairmount park guard Aaron Smith said he stopped a 1962 Cadillac because it was traveling at an unusually slow speed. He said there was a strong odor of alcohol, and the driver could not show the auto registration.

Lieut. Edward Kelly, officer in charge, said a search of the auto turned up the registration card. He said he told Liston to find someone to drive him home. Kelly said the boxer called a neighbor, who did so.

'Carry Back' Hurls Challenge

PARIS (AP) — Jack Price, smarting over the drubbing his little colt Carry Back took Sunday in the rich Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe Monday challenged the first five finishers in that race to a $125,000 winner-take-all rematch.

"We've thrown down the gauntlet and now let's see if they'll pick it up," said the retired Cleveland, Ohio, businessman who trains Carry Back for his wife, Katherine, the horse's owner.

Price said he sent the challenge to the owners of the first five horses in the mile and a half race in which Carry Back finished tenth.

"I'm sure we could beat all of them, and I'd like the chance to show French racing fans what my horse can really do."

Carry Back, 1961 Kentucky Derby winner and three-year-old horse of the year, did not get a call in the race which was won by French-bred Goldneff.

Price said he planned to fly Carry Back to the United States Thursday night, but will change plans and remain in France if his challenge is accepted. This would mean, he said, that Carry Back would miss the $100,000 Man O'War handicap at Belmont Park Oct. 27.

Astrological Forecast

For October 10

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Your timing is key to success. Longstanding problem involving partner or legal matter can be settled. Take the initiative. Very favorable for presenting your side of story. Do so!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Nothing halfway today. If you start something, finish it. Attend to details personally. Concentrate on what appears to be minor discrepancy. You could come up with surprising answers. Double check.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Your ideas sparkle. You are able to come directly to the point. Present thoughts, suggestions where they will do the most good. Put them on paper. Submit them. Drop them in "Suggestion Box."

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Know what it is you really desire. Get rid of "excess baggage." You have been cluttering up your life with non-essentials. Now is the time to trim, pare and get down to "fighting weight" !

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Very unusual publicity indicated. Be prepared for surprises. Associate may say one thing, do another. Trust your own suspicions. Day when "experts" could lead you astray. Tonight read, relax.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Better for finishing, rather than initiating projects. Important that you become familiar with assignments. A little "home work" could pay off. Take time to understand your goal.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Be independent, original. Insist on seeing what you purchase. Promises are easily broken today. Be sure others understand that you mean what you say. Be diplomatic, but firm. Smile, but show your "muscle."

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Permit generosity to rule. Give trusted friend the benefit of doubt. But remain alert. Add facts and figures. Come up with answer which lights path for future action. Delineate hopes, ambitions.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Fine for social evening. Earlier, get details out of way. Avoid overextending finances. Finally. The simple things give you the most pleasure today. Say no to extravagant proposition.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Trying to "escape" creates emotional hazards. Face issues. Decide upon course of action. Base decision on past experience. Take budget into account. Money matters require attention.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Cycle high. But element of uncertainty prevails. Answer is to move quickly, with definite purpose. Delay now equals loss. Excellent for change, travel, writing, pursuit of romance.

If Today Is Your Birthday - - - you now have opportunity to free yourself of financial burdens. Good for starting anew. Recognize yourself as fine individual.

* * *

General Tendencies: Wager on the "champion." Element of challenge is strong, but those in power come out on top.

Wheel Alignment
And Balance
Here's What We Do :
★ Correct wheel alignment. Inspect and correct caster and camber, and align toe-in for straight-ahead steering.
★ Precision balance both front wheels, using counterbalance weights to correct uneven tire weight. Also balance rear wheels if necessary.
★ EXCLUSIVE 3 MONTH ROAD HAZARD GUARANTEE INCLUDED.

Alignment Check
Check your tires . . . are they wearing evenly? Chances are they're not. Uneven wear is caused by — a hard bump against a curb (can literally ruin a tire in one hit), or improperly adjusted wheels. Let alignment problems have just 5 minutes.

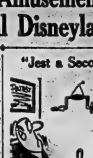
Niagaraland Amusement Park to Rival Disneyland

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Nat Wisecoff, the man who designed Disneyland, says construction is to start shortly on an amusement park that will be bigger and attract more visitors than the California park.

The park, which Mr. Wisecoff has been planning for years, will be built on a 75-acre site three miles from here by Niagaraland Developments. Final cost is expected to be more than $10,000,000.

Canadian industry, with backing from United States and international firms, is putting up the capital for the project, scheduled to open next March 31, he says.



Brendan Behan, controversial Irish playwright, will be among the featured guests at the opening, which falls on St. Patrick's Day, Mr. Wisecoff said. Behan is scheduled for completion by spring-opening is a replica of an Irish village, complete with army of leprechauns.

To rival Disneyland, Niagaraland Developments will have to excell that $35,000,000 venture's 160 rides and attractions built on 185 acres about 25 miles from Hollywood.

Niagaraland expects to do better than Disneyland's 1,000,000 visitors a year. Niagara Falls attracts 7,500,000 visitors each year.

Walt Disney has no connection with the project.

Soviet Govt. Has Two Policies on Abortions, One Is For and One Is Against

By REINHOLD G. ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government has two policies regarding abortions. It is for them and it is against them.

Abortions are legal and can be had by any woman who insists on one. To make things easier, the government has ordered mass production of a new vacuum machine which simplifies termination of a pregnancy.

At the same time, the health ministry campaigns against abortions. The campaign was explained in an interview with Olga Nikonchik, the ministry's chief specialist on obstetrics.

She said:

"Even though abortions are permitted, we were—and are—against them. The new apparatus makes things easier for women, but we still fight abortions."

She said abortion-seeking women are advised of the dangers, including the possibility an abortion may leave them sterile. The ministry is circulating a documentary film called "Why have I done this?" It tells of a woman who had an abortion and is unable to have children.

Another facet of the anti-abortion campaign is the policy of issuing bronze, silver and golden medals to women who produce large numbers of children. The government is in favor of big families since it needs manpower for industry and the armed forces.

Yet it is also in favor of abortions because of the acute housing shortage. Most Soviet families still live in one room.

Another reason for permitting abortions is the fact that Soviet contraceptives are not considered reliability. The health ministry has been experimenting with contraceptives but has fed them only to animals, and—according to Mrs. Nikonchik—takes a dim view of pills which upset a female's hormonal balance.

"It is easy to upset the hormonal balance but to restore it is difficult," she said.

"What we would like to do is create a pill which would liquidate pregnancy in the early stages, without an operation.

"To create such a pill is the task of our scientists. Soviet women have been saying 'If we can launch cosmonauts, why can't we have such a pill?'"

Mrs. Nikonchik said the new abortion machine was invented three years ago in Riga, capital of Soviet Latvia, by L. Rose, an engineer, and E. Melkr, a doctor.

LESS BLEEDING

"With this machine an abortion takes only two minutes, as against five to seven minutes for a surgical operation. The machine excludes the possibility that the walls of the uterus will be perforated and there is one-third less bleeding.

"Most important, it is really painless. Our big worry is that women who have had operations with the new machine will no longer be afraid of pregnancy."

She declined to reveal the cost of the machine but said that so far it is being used only in bigger hospitals.

She also refused to give any statistics on abortions.

"Figures on abortions will tell you nothing for or against abortions," she commented.

HIGHER LEARNING

Canada has 354 institutions of higher learning.

JUGGLING FREES HIS MIND — Alfred Tennyson Forbes, 31-year-old native of Loggieville, N.B., now living in Victoria, finds juggling frees his mind. A mudist, Forbes often causes a stir by walking barefoot around the streets of Victoria. He says it is not easy to live a life of non-conformity in Canada and plans to move to New Zealand with his wife Julia. (CP Photo).

Took Off Shoes in 1958, Never Put Them Back On

Nudism is fine too.

He admits they are whims of a whimsical person, but all he asks is freedom to pursue them.

That is the unconventional way the bearded 31-year-old native of Loggieville, N.B., has lived for the last few years, and the way he and his wife plan their future.

Mind you, the unconventional —some would say beatnik—life isn't easy in Canada.

Take the time Forbes first decided to go without shoes. It was April 30, 1958, in the middle of Vancouver's Georgia Viaduct. It was a warm day, recalls Forbes, and "I just felt like it."

Before the day was out, three police cars had stopped him to ask for his identification. Since, he estimates, he's been stopped 200 times while walking barefoot, both in Vancouver and Victoria, where he moved last March 23.

EXPELLED BY NUDISTS

He says he does it because he likes it. But being barefoot proved an obstacle when he married this year.

He met Julia Todd when she was secretary-caretaker for the nudist colony in Cobble Hill near Victoria. They were married in May and planned to live in a cottage on the nudists' property.

"The nudist club asked for her resignation because they found out we both walked barefoot in Victoria. They said it wasn't the proper thing to do and it would harm the cause of nudism. So she quit and we went to live in Victoria."

Julia now says she feels happier without shoes and Forbes says that around their house "we don't bother putting clothes on at all."

The habit of juggling started by accident.

JUGGLING FREES MIND

"In a Vancouver skid road hotel room I got hold one day in 1956 and started juggling, lying on my bed," said Forbes. "After that, juggling really got me fascinated to the point where I would rather juggle than make money.

"When I juggle, my mind is free. There is no time to think about anything else. We have only one life to live, and we have to live the way we want to because we won't get another chance at it."

But the sport doesn't give him any more pleasure than working as a laborer. And Forbes traces his nonconformity much farther back than his laboring days.

He spent two years at Mount Allison University in Sackville, N.B., taking electrical engineering because his minister father wanted him to.

"But one day I was expelled for making home brew in the chemistry. The odd thing was that I didn't drink any of it—I was just interested in the chemical process."

WORKS JUST ENOUGH

Forbes said he "knocked around" for several years in Quebec, but he never felt happy until he sold everything he had, paid off his creditors, and with $10 in his pocket thumbed his way to British Columbia.

For six years, before and since his marriage, he has tried to work just enough to avoid the need of unemployment insurance. When he and his wife had to accept insurance this fall, they decided it was time to pull up stakes.

They plan to go to New Zealand in November, where they will set out to develop a purism about money: Never to depend on it.

After all, what do wants money when you're a nudist?

"And juggling has given me a sense of freedom because I could eat grass and still throw balls," Forbes said.

He reached for several rubber balls and started juggling.

"Come on, Julia," he said. And his wife took three balls and juggled too.

"She picked it up from me," he explained. "She likes it."

Gloves Off in Fight Between Gen. de Gaulle, Parliament

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The gloves are off in the political fight between President de Gaulle and the French parliament. Whoever wins, France will probably be the loser.

In his determination to bypass the political parties and rule by a "dialogue with the people," de Gaulle has roused the Parliamentarians to such a pitch that they are even willing to risk losing their seats in an election.

What de Gaulle so coolly contemptuous of the men who make up the chamber of deputies? His memory is long, and it is probably that he is still seeking revenge for the events of 1946.

PULLED OUT

De Gaulle was in power then, too, and the shifting, selfish tactics of the politicians so annoyed him that he pushed in his chips and went into retirement for 12 years.

He often speaks bitterly of the "sterile games" of the political parties, saying that nothing was achieved under the regime of instability of the Third and Fourth Republics.

Incensed by de Gaulle's cavalier attitude, the attack is growing steadily more infuriated. The president's plan for an Oct. 28 referendum in which the people would endorse his method of choosing his successor was the last straw, and resulted in the adverse vote early Friday that toppled Premier Georges Pompidou.

This means that elections almost certainly will be held in November. The majority got a small majority in the referendum—he says he will quit if he doesn't—but the new parliament may be harder to handle.

TACTICS MAY BACKFIRE

Thus it is possible that de Gaulle, who so dislikes the "anarchy" of the Palais Bourgon, may by his own tactics be instrumental in restoring the kind of political party squabbling that has so long been the hallmark of the fragmented French parliament.

The president has certainly succeeded in uniting the opposition. Communists and neo-fascists, on opposite sides of the political spectrum, have been heartedly in the attacks on de Gaulle by Socialists, Independents, Liberals, radicals and Christian Democrats.

De Gaulle still has "the people" — but the political void about him will be bigger than ever. And France will still be a long way from a democratic form of government.

BARGAIN PRICE

Alaska was sold to the United States by Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000—two cents an acre.

Socreds Again Keep PC Govt. In Power

Non-Confidence Motion Defeated 137 to 116

OTTAWA (CP) — "Taxation without representation," shouted Liberal Leader Pearson Tuesday night over the din of a divided Commons.

But even this battle-cry version of the Liberals' non-confidence motion failed to sway the Social Credit camp. As promised, Social Credit delivered 25 vital votes to the minority Conservative government — enough to keep it in power, defeating the Liberal bid 137 to 116.

Thus Prime Minister Diefenbaker's administration survived its fourth voting test of the new 25th Parliament. The fifth will come at 9:45 p.m. EDT Thursday, the time prescribed by House rules for the closing vote on the eight-day throne speech debate.

If previous debates shone with the quality of newcomers' rhetoric, Tuesday's was even brighter as the old masters stepped in — Justice Minister Fleming against Liberal Paul Martin, then Finance Minister Nowlan followed by Mr. Pearson.

CAN'T BE SWAYED

Their arguments might have influenced the voting—if it were a House that could be swayed. But H. A. Olson (Medicine Hat) had indicated clearly early in the day that his group would vote as a bloc to keep the government in office.

Mr. Olson said the Social Creditors believe that bringing on an election now—which they could have done by siding with the Liberals and New Democrats on the vote—would be the "responsible thing at this time."

The June 18 election had been fought in a "factual vacuum" as far as the economy and the exchange situation were concerned. His party now wanted to get the facts it lacked then. Forcing another election now would just mean another 60 or 70 days of vacuum.

So the vote came in on party lines. The Liberals had 98 for their motion—with two members missing. The New Democrats gave all their 18. But there were 112 Conservatives present to vote against it, and then came the 25 Social Credit "nays" — five Quebec Social Creditors were not in their seats.

The throne speech debate resumes today.

Justice Minister Fleming began his debate with the big statement: "There is no austerity program." Later, Mr. Nowlan tried to take some of the steam out of opposition arguments by proclaiming tersely that there is no system of "tight money" in Canada.

The action taken by the government in imposing import surcharges and sharply reducing tourist duty exemptions on goods brought in to or sent abroad was "proper and le-

WANT MORE CONTROL

PEKING (Reuters)—The Chinese communist government has ordered the setting-up of sanctuaries for rare wild animals and birds, it has also disclosed today. The government order, quoted by newspapers here, also demanded tighter of the already-strict control over hunting where wild animals are scarce.

Today's Chuckle

The relatives were all gathered in the lawyer's office eagerly awaiting the reading of their Uncle Jasper's will. The lawyer cleared his throat, "Being of sound mind, I spent all my money."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Clearing will take place across eastern Ontario this morning. However a weak disturbance is racing eastward across northern United States and will spread cloud into the western regions today and into the eastern areas by this evening.

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority government appears to be talking like a Dutch uncle to Social Credit, whose MPs have three times cast their votes in the Commons to keep the Progressive Conservatives in power.

One of the government's most likeable ministers, Finance Minister Nowlan, played the role Tuesday night and, for the third time, the Social Credit MPs sustained the government on a non-confidence vote. It was 137 to 116, with Liberal and New Democrats vainly backing the motion.

Mr. Nowlan's tactics were to minimize, with his friendliest manner and most appealing grin, differences in outlook between Conservatives and Social Credit while raising a figurative spectre of Liberals and New Democrats "climbing under the same blanket" by voting together.

PAYS TRIBUTE

In a speech just before the crucial vote he paid tribute to "the sincere and honest declarations of our friends of the Social Credit party — I say our friends because I am very glad to see people in this House honestly declaring their stand up and what they believe instead of hiding behind statements made for the consumption of others."

The pseudo-socialists and the pronounced socialists — Mr. Nowlan's description of the Liberals and New Democrats, respectively — he relished under the same blanket, shivering and shaking and hoping the lightning would be directed "because they hoped the Social Credit Party would act as a lightning rod" — "did not really want to face the electorate in the near future."

Having praised the Social Credit MPs, Mr. Nowlan frankly admitted differences with them. The government, he said, "does not agree with the theory of monetary control . . . espoused by the Social Credit party."

". . . but this also should be said. The Social Credit party stands fairly and squarely on their principle of supporting the government in the private enterprise in this country. The government does likewise."

LATEST DIVIDEND

The voting, he argued, "saw parties supporting private enterprise and the one band of the socialists and pseudo-socialists divided against them on the issue."

Mr. Nowlan's bluff wooing of Social Credit was the latest of a series in which one hand attentions aimed at getting the government over successive non-confidence votes.

Perhaps a more subtle form of wooing came from Justice Minister Fleming last week, prior to two votes on non-confidence motions, Social Credit's public stand against austerity, he promised the government "will not attempt of the program any longer than is strictly necessary."

VOTE ON SUNDAY MOVIES

KITCHENER (CP) — City council Tuesday night passed a bylaw providing for a plebiscite on Sunday movies to be held in conjunction with Kitchener's municipal elections Dec. 3.

U.S. Distiller Files Complaint Canadians Have Him Over Barrel

WASHINGTON (CP) — A prominent U.S. whisky producer, complaining he is caught in a tug-of-war between American barrel-makers and a Canadian whisky invasion, has called on the Tariff Commission to double the tariff on Canadian whisky to $2 a gallon.

Leo Nolan, secretary of Publicker Industries Incorporated, told the commission that if the present $1.25-a-gallon duty is not boosted, Canadian - owned whisky companies in the U.S. may eventually grab off the entire trade, pushing veteran American bourbon makers out of business.

Nolan said the Canadian whisky invasion has become so powerful that other American distillers have shown no enthusiasm for supporting the tariff bid. Though 70 per cent of the industry belongs to the Distiller Institute, the trade organization, two Canadian-owned companies account "for more than 40 per cent of the institute's total revenue."

"Accordingly, it would appear futile to attempt to seek the support of the institute for this application," the company told the commission.

While the company complained of Canadian competi-

RANSOM MONEY WOULD BE PAID BY U.S. GOVT.

Only Way to Meet Demands of Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. taxpayer apparently will have to pay a share of the bill if prisoners taken in the abortive Cuban invasion are released.

Members of Congress who have been kept up to date on the progress of negotiations between New York lawyer James B. Donovan and Prime Minister Fidel Castro for an exchange of 1,113 men captured in the April, 1961, rebel invasion indicated they expect emergency funds to be used.

There have been reports that the Central Intelligence Agency would come up with some of the money. But a congressman or, a position to know said he does not believe any final decision has been made.

Castro has asked for payment of $62,000,000 for release of the prisoners.

(Reuters news agency reported from Havana that it was reliably learned that $17,000,000 in cash "has been deposited in Canada as ransom for the prisoners. The balance of the $62,000,000 payment sought by Castro was expected to be made up in foods and medicines."

Some members of congress said they do not believe a private organization such as the Cuban Prisoners Committee could come close to raising any such sum as $62,000,000 or could assemble food and medicine valued at that amount.

This leads them to the assumption the government supplies and money will be utilized to seal any barter bargain that might be made.

They were cited for ignoring the court's order to remove a clothesline strung with tethered goats inside their home. The clothesline was finally removed by Justice Gerald Nolan stayed their sentence until Friday to give them time to appeal or remove the line.

Niagara Falls Businessman Linked to Big Gaming House

TORONTO (CP) — A leading businessman of Niagara Falls, Ont., who has denied gambling connections, was linked Tuesday by the Ontario Provincial Police to one of Ontario's most notorious gaming houses before the province's royal commission on crime.

Wealthy Albert Iannuzzell, owner of two motels and other businesses, was described by lawyer Archibald Sheppard as the man who retained him to file annual government returns for Niagara Falls' Ramsey Club between 1953 and 1957 when the now-closed house was running a big international crap game.

Iannuzzell, an Italian - born former dishwasher who had had a fast financial rise in the last 20 years, previously had denied police suspicions that he had a major hand in the club, one of Ontario's top three in its palmy days.

But Tuesday lawyer Sheppard, of the Falls city testified Iannuzzell retained him in connection with the club and provided him with the information for filling out the government forms. He said he sent his bills to Iannuzzell but did not recall who actually paid him.

The lawyer testified over the protest of Walton C. Rose of Toronto, Iannuzzell's counsel, who claimed privilege in his year-client communications involving the Niagara Falls men.

Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, the commissioner, said he was "not so sure" there was a right of privilege (which would restrict keeping communications secret)

Final Preparations Made For Ecumenical Conference

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Roman Catholic Church leaders from around the world were arriving here today for the historic opening Thursday of the first Roman Catholic ecumenical council in 92 years.

The council has been summoned with the aim of stimulating the Roman Catholic Church to meet the 20th-century challenge of atheism, materialism and apathy, and to encourage Christian unity.

The unity theme will be emphasized by the presence of strong observer delegations from other Christian churches, mainly Protestant.

Also on hand will be representatives from 85 foreign governments including the United States, Israel Denmark, Norway and Sweden which do not maintain diplomatic relations at the Holy See.

However, hopes have dwindled for any representation of the Orthodox churches of eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. They have 130,000,000 adherents and constitute one of the major sectors of Christianity.

The Orthodox churches had been expected to send observers to the 21st council but the Vatican disclosed Tuesday that the Russian Orthodox hierarchy has "no decision on the Defence Secretary Considers Request for Interceptor

WASHINGTON (CP) — Defence Secretary McNamara is considering a request by Gen. Emmett O'Donnell for a more powerful North American air defence interceptor that could fly at more than 2,000 miles an hour, with a range of at least 1,500 miles.

The defence department said Tuesday Gen. Gerhart's request for a new and improved manned interceptor is under consideration by McNamara and that a decision will be made "in due course."

Gerhart, the new U.S.-Canada Norad chief, touched on his need for such a plan in a speech before the U.S. Army Association, saying: "Our defence has not changed to the same degree that the Soviet bomber force had improved."

Top speed of the best U.S. fighter planes is about 1,500 miles an hour. Gerhart said the new craft must be faster, must be capable of flying at more than 70,000 feet, must be able to operate at high or low altitudes, and must have a radar search capability of 200 miles.

"We have proposed just such a fighter to the department of defence and now are awaiting its evaluation of our study," he said on Monday.

Gerhart's proposal, it was learned, would be an aircraft that could loiter for several hours in one air area and carry its own detection and tracking system.

Gerhart stated the plane he has in mind would be faster than the supersonic CF-105 Arrow which Canada developed and scrapped in 1958 because of high costs and the changing emphasis to intercontinental missiles.

Gerhart agreed that despite his feeling that the U.S. and Canada must stay ahead of the Soviet manned bomber threat, "the major threat of this decade is the intercontinental ballistic missile. It is no secret that at the present time we do not possess an adequate anti-missile missile system."

He said he will admit that as an anti - missile missile, the American Nike-Zeus, now being tested, "has its shortcomings and we will also admit that the Soviets are working feverishly to create more sophisticated missiles."

LABOR UNION GIVES GOVT. PAT ON BACK

Also Wants More Winter Work

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has received a pat on its back and a prod at its posterior from organized labor over its lukewarm winter works incentive program.

After analyzing the impact of the program, under which the federal treasury pays half the payroll cost of approved municipal projects undertaken in winter months, the Canadian Labor Congress offered this pat on the back:

"There can be no question that the program has been effective, and increasingly so. 145,000 jobs in the 1961-62 season, lasting an average of about 40 days each, or a total of 5,784,374 man-days' work. This is not to be sneezed at."

At the same time, the 1,070,000-member congress pressed the government for permanent winter works incentives.

Taking a new look at the old figures on how the winter program was put to work to create seasonal unemployment, the congress related regional unemployment to regional benefits. The findings were made public in a research report.

Atlantic region—16.5 per cent of the unemployed, only 5.1 per cent of the man-days' work provided by winter works grants.

Quebec—34 per cent of the unemployed, 46.7 per cent of the man-days' work.

Ontario—28.7 per cent of the unemployed, 19.7 per cent of the man-days' work.

British Columbia—9.9 per cent of the unemployed, 9.0 per cent of the man-days' work.

In other words, the Atlantic provinces, where joblessness is heaviest, received a disproportionately smaller share of the work, compared to other regions.

The congress suggested that provinces should copy Quebec's idea of paying 40 per cent of the payroll costs. With the federal government picking up 50 per cent, the municipalities are left with only 10 per cent of the wage bill to foot.

The federal program, first put in 1958-59, has been renewed each winter.

Arthritis Drug Made In Canada Said Dangerous

Halt Clinical Testing In Canada, U.S. Bans It

OTTAWA (CP)—Liofeart, a Canadian - produced drug designed as a treatment for arthritis, has been withdrawn from distribution in Canada and banned in the United States.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, director of the federal food and drug directorate, disclosed Tuesday night that distribution of the drug was stopped last week by the manufacturer, Endocrynx Laboratories of Montreal, at the request of his branch.

In Washington, Commissioner George Larrick of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration issued a statement that the drug is "dangerous and may not legally be imported into the U.S."

He said reports of serious reactions to the drug were reaching his administration, including cases of severe mental disorder.

Dr. Morrell said in an interview that the drug had not been authorized for sale to the public in Canada and had been distributed since last winter to allow for clinical testing by qualified investigators. It was not in drug stores.

WAS NOT SATISFIED

However, his branch, he said, had not been satisfied with the kind of results it had been receiving of the clinical tests as required by the manufacturer. The food and drug directorate, according to usual practice, had then withdrawn the drug.

As a result of these reports, Dr. Morrell said the manufacturer was asked to stop distribution last week, and had given assurances of complying with the request.

As far as he knew no person in Canada had suffered any ill effect from Ileofeart.

Commissioner Larrick said the drug "contains hormones which his bureau of medicine says are capable of causing severe toxic effects. The hormones included extra dioi, prednisone and testosterone, with an FDA analysis showing the drug contained 10 times the therapeutic dose of estradiol.

He said a 37-year-old California woman had read about Ileofeart in a magazine (Look) last May and flown to Canada, where she obtained a year's supply of the drug.

After taking the product on her return home, the commissioner said, she developed severe internal bleeding for which she was sent to hospital July 10, suffering from pneumonia, following an operation to stop the uterine bleeding, and died Aug. 9.

Dr. Morrell said the drug had not been sold by the manufacturer from Canada, though individuals might have carried it with them when traveling to the U.S.

In Montreal, Dr. Robert E. Liefmann, who developed Ileofeart, said it was distributed in provinces, where joblessness is heaviest, more than on a disproportionately smaller share of the work, compared to other regions.

The congress suggested that provinces should copy Quebec's idea of paying 40 per cent of the payroll costs. With the federal government picking up 50 per cent, the municipalities are left with only 10 per cent of the wage bill to foot.

The federal program, first put in 1958-59, has been renewed each winter.

Make 300-Mile Antarctic Trek To Get Rocks, Trucker Loses Them

LONDON (AP) — Two British explorers trekked 300 hazardous miles across Antarctic wastes to ship valuable rock specimens from the Tottan Mountains.

Then a truck driver lost the rocks.

"I am very annoyed about it," said Sir Vivian Fuchs, head of Britain's Antarctic survey program.

"To think of it, all the way back from Antarctic, 9,000 solid miles, only to get lost between Southampton and Birmingham University."

The rocks were collected as part of a program of geological research.

"This loss has put the research back for a year," said Sir Vivian said Tuesday night. "The scientific world was waiting eagerly for the results of our studies".

The rocks were packed in three crates aboard a truck operated by the state-sponsored British Road Services. It was believed they were transferred to a wrong truck during the 135-mile journey from the Southampton docks.

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tuesday, Oct. 9, 1962

The government survived another non-confidence motion, 137 to 116, with the support of the Social Credit group.

Finance Minister Nowlan denied opposition contentions that there is a "tight money" situation in the country.

Opposition Leader Pearson promptly argued back that "we certainly have tight money at this time."

Yvon Dupuis (L—St. Jean-Iberville - Napierville) told the House he is reminded of Mussolini every time he hears a Quebec Social Credit MP speak.

Conflicting Reports Made On Yemen War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters) — A counter-revolution against the new republic of Yemen apparently still was in progress today amid conflicting accounts of attacks and losses from both sides.

Cairo radio said Tuesday night Saudi Arabian and Jordanian troops had crossed into Yemen, whose monarchy was toppled in a coup on Sept. 26 last month, and suffered heavy losses in clashes with forces of the new republic.

But Yemeni, "loyalists", partisans of overthrown Imam (King) Mohammad Al - Badr said they had taken the Yemeni port of Saadeh from the republicans.

According to Amman radio, the royalists were gaining one victory after another as they marched to liberate Sana'a, one of Yemen's twin capitals.

BLAMES WEST

(Meanwhile, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said today the United States, Britain and other powers were behind the invasion of Yemen. (It said foreign interference in Yemen's internal affairs was "impermissible" and added that the aggression against Yemen must be stopped.").

The foreign minister of the old Yemen, Ahmed Mohammed Al Shami, who arrived Tuesday in Amman, Jordan, said the Imam is still living comfortably and is linking up with his uncle, Prince Hassan, to "cleanse Yemen of traitors."

But rebel Premier Col. Abdullah Al Sallal, chief of the revolution and the republican new premier, has said the Imam's body is buried beneath the shelled rubble of his palace in Sana'a.

Three Refugees Caught by Reds

BERLIN (Reuters) — Three East German soldiers swimming across the border river Spree were caught by an East German police launch Tuesday night, West Berlin police said today.

Police said a British military police patrol saw the incident. The three swimmers were taken aboard the launch back to the east bank of the river, where they were taken away by a police truck.

Police said several volleys of shots machine - gun fire were heard during the night at the border between the American sector and the East Berlin district of Triptow.

Council to Seek Amendment To Private Bill to Allow Two-Year Term for Mayor

Belleville will petition the Ontario Legislative Assembly for an amendment to its private bill which would allow a two-year term for its mayor.

The by-law authorizing the forwarding of the petition was passed by city council yesterday but not before some spirited discussion by aldermen both for and against the move. The request for the two-year term for mayor was passed by a narrow 7-6 vote. Voting for the motion were Mayor Haig, Aldermen Bailey, Corke, Ellis, Jarvis, Raycroft and Robb and against, Aldermen Digby, Elliott, Harrison, Temple, Whalen and Wishart.

Alderman Don Whalen opened up the discussion stating he did not think a two-year term for the mayor was a good idea. He said this could result in the city getting stuck for two years with "poor mayor.

"It's not a safe risk", he said.

But Alderman Jarvis disagreed, claiming Alderman Whalen's statement was "completely misleading".

He continued on the point especially when council was already composed of 14 potential bad actors, were elected for a two-year term. He claimed the mayor should serve in the same capacity.

Alderman Les Digby had no objection to the two-year term for mayor, but felt there should be a referendum by the people and suggested the question be placed before the electors this December.

"I can't see the idea of a referendum", returned Alderman Stu Robb. Council has been elected to transact the business of the city".

Toronto Woman Injured, Car Brakes Failed

A Toronto couple, Mr. and Mrs. Bart Osborne, of 17 Calvington Drive, Toronto, were taken to the Belleville General Hospital as the result of an accident on Main Street in Trenton, at 1.20 p.m. yesterday before noon on Tuesday.

Mrs. Osborne was admitted to hospital suffering chest and leg injuries. Mr. Osborne was released after emergency for a bruise to his head and then released. The family pet, "Sandy", a toy terrier suffered a fracture l nose and was transferred to the Belleville Animal Hospital.

Mrs. Osborne, driver of the car, said the brakes on the car failed, causing her to collide with a truck, owned by the side of the street in front of Rupert's Drug Store.

The truck, owned by Canadian Oxygen Limited of 145 College Street Belleville, was delivering welding gas. Driver of the vehicle, L. W. Moore of Belleville, was not in the truck at the time and damage to his vehicle was reported at nil.

The couple were attended at the scene by Dr. Allan and transferred to the Belleville General Hospital by Bush's Ambulance of Tweed.

'LIBERALIZE' PRESS

MADRID (AP)—Spanish Information Minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne said Tuesday that press censorship has "almost disappeared in Spain." He said this was "an experiment which will be replaced by a new liberalized press law aimed toward throwing public opinion into greater relief."

U.S. DISTILLER

tion, placed stress also on American regulations which forbid aging of American whisky in reused and seasoned casks without telling the public on bottle labels that the contents come from "reused containers."

Nolan said the whisky buyer don't take kindly to those words and as a result, distillers usually use new casks at a cost of up to $30 each and sell any old casks to Canadian producers at about $3.50 each. This, he continued, gives the Canadian distillers a decided cost advantage and since Canadian laws don't require using the words "reused cooperage" on the label, the Canadian product comes into the U.S. without the American public knowing whether new or old casks have been used.

Nolan said U.S. distillers have tried repeatedly to get the government to eliminate the labelling demand but without luck. The barrel-makers' lobby was too strong, opposition was useless. Any changes in labelling might lower demand for barrel production.

Kinsmen Hear Address by Mrs. M. Bakey

The Kinsmen Club held their third meeting of the Kin year at the Sharine Club last night.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Margaret Bakey, Assistant Chief Operator of the Bell Telephone Company. Mrs. Bakey talked on talk. She pointed up her picture with taped samples of the type of voices one hears when used on the telephone. She suggested that in many cases the telephone is the only link with the customer in the case of business and the customer's, or prospective customer's opinion, good or bad, of the company or persons acting in the same, might very well be formed by his conversation with them. At the end of her talk, she let club members hear their own voices, by playing back tape recordings made with the assistance of special telephone gear.

Mrs. Bakey was thanked by members of the club through Bill Yeates.

There were 12 prospective members present, in the persons of C. J. Bender, D. Nichol, Wm. McKendry, J. Hanna, A. Akey, B. Swain, J. Joynt, R. Barlow, E. Goodfellow, R. Fralick, D. Hall, Lindall S. S. Millk.

The Kinsmen announced the coming of the "Broadway Show," South Pacific, on November 28, 1962, to be held at B.C.I.V.S. They have appointed teams to sell advertising for its program to be given to the patrons of this show. The advertising campaign is to start immediately, so as to be finished by the end of October, in time for printing. The chairman of this committee, Bob Wood, states that this will be an annual if the people of Belleville want it.

Claim Private Contractors Build Sidewalks for Half Works Department Estimate

A claim that sidewalks can be constructed by private contractors at a price of 32c per square foot as compared with a public works department estimate of something in excess of 60c is being investigated by city officials.

Two aldermen at yesterday's council meeting cited a price of 32c per foot for constructing which they claimed had been paid by a neighboring municipality, while the estimate by city public works for walk construction on Victoria Avenue was double this figure.

Total estimated cost of the Victoria Ave. work, including debenture interest, was about $1.15 per square foot.

WILL INVESTIGATE

City manager R. R. Reynolds said this morning that his office was investigating the claim by Aldermen Walter Elliott and Stuart Robb that concrete walks could be built for as little as 32c per square foot.

"It could be that the 32c figure was for the concrete work alone and if it was done by municipal forces", Reynolds said, "then there had been no charge for equipment use," noted Mr. Reynolds.

He said that the public works department's estimate of just over 60c per foot for the Victoria Ave. walk was based on the assumption that the job would be done by tender.

He said the 60c price was comparable to tender prices being received in the area.

Belleville public works department has now left constructing new walks, its operations being limited to replacement and repairs.

AUTHORIZE WORK

Alderman Elliott raised the question when the by-law authorizing construction of the 720 foot walk on Victoria Ave. was read and passed.

Alderman Robb said if the 32 cent figure was correct it appeared Belleville people were paying "an awful lot more for sidewalks than they should be."

But in any event it is unlikely that the Victoria Ave walk will be completed this year.

City Manager Reynolds said it would be too late to start walk construction this year by the time all arrangements were completed.

No Action Taken on Moving Scales to Coleman Flats

Belleville city council is considering the possibility of moving the city yards from its present site to the city-owned property in the Coleman Flats area.

At the same time there is also talk of placing the city scales in the Coleman Flats area.

No action was taken yesterday by council on the public works committee's recommendation for placement of the city scales in the Coleman Flats location and the matter was referred back for more consideration.

The consideration involved is which location for the scales — Foster Ward or Coleman Flats — would best serve the interests of those using the scales.

Under a city by-law all coal sold by dealers must be weighed on a city scale and for this purpose the Foster Ward location would be the better. On the other hand gravel, rock and asphalt movers would prefer the Coleman Flats location.

The city has purchased a new scale but it is being kept in storage pending decision on the location of the installation.

Actually there has been talk of moving the entire city public works department, along with the transit department and public utilities to the Coleman Flats area location.

Current thinking, however, is that the new equipment and transit commission garage only might be transferred to the "flats" area.

Payment of Parking Fines Made Easier for Offenders

Payment of overtime parking fines will be made more convenient for both motorists and visitors to the city who receive tickets for parking violations.

City council yesterday approved the installation of Parking-Meter Boxes on a one-year trial basis.

At the same time council also approved the $2 fine for parking violations be reduced to 50 cents and that the 50c fine is deposited immediately in the fine box.

To a question as to the possibility of pilfering, it was noted that the boxes were perfectly safe and as burglar proof as were parking meters.

The fine boxes will permit parking violators to drop their 50c fine in conveniently placed boxes instead of having to go to city hall when they receive a parking ticket.

The thinking behind the fine boxes is that they will improve city public relations from the standpoint of the motorists.

One alderman noted that already 30 per cent of parking tickets have been handed out by city police and officials were considering ways to get more favorable publicity.

Aldermen Jarvis said this feeling was particularly strong in the north part of the county where many dilked conflicts to Belleville because of the fines received when they received parking tickets.

He quoted one Bancroft man who said he "objected to spend millions of dollars in Belleville roads between that centre and Belleville to encourage trade and then have to pay parking tickets in Belleville."

"They just won't come to Belleville", said the alderman.

This feeling was echoed by Alderman Walter Elliott who said if the city had to depend on parking tickets for revenue they might just as well board up our windows."

Hospital Addition Will Be Placed on Existing Site

Members of the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors have decided that any immediate expansion of hospital facilities will be by the way of an addition at the present site.

Mayor A. M. Haig told council yesterday that this had been the decision of board members at a meeting held Saturday.

At the meeting Gordon A. Friesen Associates Incorporated of Washington, D.C. had been hired as consultant and the decision had been made to proceed with an addition at the present hospital site.

He said that the board was expected to meet this week with its architects to further work out plans for the additional at the existing hospital site.

The decision to go ahead with an addition at the present hospital culminates a two-year discussion on the part of board members who were unable to agree on whether the immediate hospital expansion should be an addition or a new hospital on a new site.

Hastings county council has committed itself to pay a percentage of any future hospital expansion costs.

SAMUEL T. COVERT

CAMPBELLFORD —Funeral services were conducted Monday for a well known Campbellford resident, Samuel Templeton Covert. He passed away in a Peterborough hospital on Thursday following a short illness.

Mr. Covert, who was in his 73rd year, was born in Warkworth, the son of the late Alpheus Covert and Sephronia Darrah. He came to Campbellford as a child and had been a resident ever since. He was a drover and a trucker.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and of the Campbellford Lodge I.O.O.F.

Members of Campbellford Lodge No. 248 I.O.O.F. held a memorial service at Bennett's Funeral Home on Sunday evening with a large attendance of brethren.

Rev. H. Toombs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church conducted services on Monday, for the funeral at 2.30 p.m.

Interment was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

HUGH BARTLETT

The funeral service of Mr. Hugh Bartlett, 198 Yeomans Street, Belleville, was held from the chapel of the Doolittle Funeral Home, Orillia, on Monday. Service was conducted by Rev. Eric Beggs. He was in his 71st year.

Interment was at St. Andrew's cemetery.

Bearers were: Mel, Bill and Ken Bartlett, Tom and Bob Roubel and John Baulte.

Mr. Bartlett lived in Park, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bartlett. He was a former resident of Holland Marsh, but had lived in this city for the past twelve years.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was employed by Percival's Store here. He passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Rouble of Holland Marsh, on Friday. He had been in ill health for about three weeks.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred Ralston; one daughter Mrs. J. C. Rouble, Holland Marsh, and one son, N. Fay Bartlett of Richmond, B.C. All so surviving are two brothers and two sisters, Alfred of Orillia and Herbert of Penhead; Mrs. K. Simmons of Orillia, and Mrs. N. Burns of Arnprior.

30 Residents County Home Enjoy Film

About thirty residents of the Hastings County Home enjoyed the hospitality of George Forhan, manager of the Belle Theatre on Wednesday afternoon when they viewed a filming of "A Touch of Mink" starring Cary Grant and Doris Day. Frank Kusseck of the Kiwanis Club arranged the trip and Fred Rawson provided transportation to and from the Home to the theatre. The outing was thoroughly enjoyed by the residents of the Home.

Quinte Students Have Lunch Hour Extended

Students at the Quinte Secondary School in Trenton, and of the city have had their lunch hour extended by 40 minutes — but they have to make up for the time later in the day.

The longer noon hour was necessary because of the closing of the school cafeteria to allow for expansion in connection with the new technical school addition now under construction.

Sinclair Construction of Ottawa last week commenced the construction job which will see enlargement of the present cafeteria, plus the addition of new rooms at the southeast corner of the present school. The school cafeteria will be closed for most of the winter.

However, with the school population closed students and teachers required more time at noon to enable them to go home for lunch.

The 40 minutes lost during lunch hour is being made up at the end of the school day.

Tenders Will be Called Soon For New Bridge

Tenders for the construction of the proposed four-lane bridge over the CNR double tracks on North Front Street are expected to be called in the near future.

City officials said today that tenders were expected to be called as soon as the necessary final approval from the various departments is received.

But in meantime the city traffic committee is going ahead with plans for re-routing of traffic while the bridge is being constructed.

A committee recommendation approved last night by council calls for northbound traffic to proceed along Grove, Geddes and Evans Street, while southbound traffic would be re-routed along Evans, Grier and Harvey streets.

Driver Alone In Car When It Rolls Over

A McDonald Avenue resident, Robert Duvall, 24, was taken to the Belleville General Hospital Tuesday morning following an accident on highway 502, two miles west of Napanee. He was returned to his home here yesterday afternoon.

Provincial Police at Napanee said Mr. Duvall was eastbound on highway 502 when it is believed he lost control of his vehicle. The car left the road and rolled over several times.

Police say the shoulders of the road were rather rough at the time. Mr. Duvall was alone in the car, when the accident occurred.

Damage to the Duvall vehicle was estimated at approximately $600. Mr. Duvall was taken to Kingston hospital suffering back injuries. Stitches were required to close a gash on the back of his head.

Napanee Ontario Provincial Police investigated.

IN MEMORIAM

CROOK — In loving memory of dear Mary Crook, who passed away one year ago, October 10, 1961.

Years of striving, little of play,
Loving, loving to the end of the way.

A cheerful smile, a heart of gold,
To the world, no doubt, she could hold.

Happy memories we fond and true,
From us who thought the world of you.

CROOK — In loving memory of dear Mother, Mary Ann Crook, who passed away one year ago, October 10, 1961.

Her memory, you are not forgotten,
Dear Mother.

There are days and years to pass,
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were.
—Lovingly remembered by Karen, Kathy, Mary.

CROOK — In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Crook, who passed away October 10th, 1961.

God saw you getting weary,
He did what is best;
He came and stood beside you,
And whispered, come to rest.
You suffered no pain at our farewell,
Nor even a goodbye,
For we had prayed we knew it,
And only God knows why.
—Always remembered by Maudie.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, floral tributes and visits received during my stay in Shrine for the benefit of Crippled Children; Holy Rosa from the Gideons, received from one woman during reception and at Bible; also the magnificent nursing care on second floor east and first floor west, Belleville General Hospital, and to Rev. Canon Cluff and Rev. Wesley Craik. Also sincere thanks to Reverend Hutchinson for his services at the home of John R. Bush Funeral Home for their magnificent service in the funeral of my loving wife.

J. H. Armstrong.

We would like to express our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends of Avonlea for the lovely party and gift given to Craig Sr. on his retirement. Also to Craig Jr. where one and all will be welcome to visit us.

Albert and Gretta Kingston.

If it involved concealing a crime.

"We'll see as we go along," he said, but he did not interfere in the brief questioning of Antonuzzelli's lawyer at the end of the day's public sitting.

After the first sitting, the one-man commission went into private session to re-examine Deputy Commissioner James Bartlett of the Ontario Provincial Police on earlier evidence suggesting an association between the officer and top gambler Joseph McDermott.

Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior, Ont., had testified that a few years ago Bartlett introduced him to a "Mr. McDermott" who promptly tackled the mayor on whether he thought then premier Leslie Frost—a Simpson friend—could do anything for gamblers. The mayor was unable to pick the gambler out of a group in the court room.

Commission counsel Roland F. Wilson said after the public hearing that the deputy's testimony would be made public at today's sitting. Tuesday, also a commission spokesman said it was uncertain that the commission would sit today.

HAD HEART ATTACK

The deputy commissioner testified in private because his doctor has recommended against a public appearance for the officer, who had a heart attack after giving evidence last spring.

McDermott has denied the introduction, and Bartlett has stated he cannot remember meeting with the gambler was when McDermott accompanied partner Vincent Feeley on a visit to his home in a abortive attempt to get his help for a government service station his franchise in 1958.

Other developments before the commission Tuesday:

1. Cross - examination of Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, major - opposition target concerning crime in Ontario, ended abruptly when an exasperated Liberal counsel B. J. MacKinnon gave up part-way through an argumentative questioning session.

2. New Democratic Party counsel Andrew Brewin, Commons member for Toronto Greenwood, called the attorney-general "naive" in his dealings with gamblers and Mr. Roberts accused him of asking "silly questions."

3. The attorney - general admitted he might have told a magistrate, who complained to him that his late mines minister James Maloney tried to interfere in a gambling case in 1959, that his fellow minister could have been drunk. Magistrate Fred Thompson said the minister called him at a bar.

4. Stanton Hogg, Toronto lawyer and former Conservative-appointed assistant crown attorney here, said he had no direct or knowledge of criminals' payoffs to officials and police. Mr. Hogg, now associate Liberal counsel at the inquiry, was under examination on a speech he made at a political meeting in 1961, suggesting politico-criminal tieups.

CALLS FOR ANSWERS

The opposing lawyers' cross-examination of Mr. Roberts—who gave direct testimony Friday—came to a hobbled end late in the morning session after stormy passages in which the interrogators kept calling on the minister for answers instead of speeches.

It came to a head when Mr. MacKinnon was questioning the attorney-general on the fact that he called on Toronto lawyer Eric Scott, an associate counsel in the prosecution of McDermott and his partner Feeley on police bribery charges, after Mr. Scott spilled some hitherto-secret "corruption" information to Liberal leader John Wintermeyer.

Mr. MacKinnon claimed it looked like a "smear" attempt against Mr. Scott, who was telling about "the very subject we have been canvassing here for six months," although the minister contended that lawyer had been spreading "libellous and serious charges" based largely on hearsay."

As the attorney - general told of a meeting last year in which he said he answered the Scott allegation item by item, the Liberal counsel wanted to know whether Mr. Scott had been satisfied with his explanations.

'WE WANT THE FACTS'

"What difference does it make?" rejected the commissioner. "I don't want any opinions from Eric Scott. We want the facts."

At this point, Mr. MacKinnon tossed his documents on the table and sat down with an unaudible remark.

Earlier, he questioned the attorney - general closely on why he had waited three or four months before getting in touch with the mines minister about Magistrate Thompson's complaint of interference in his gambling case on behalf of the defence.

Mr. Roberts had explained earlier that a provincial election intervened before he got in touch with his colleague, who had denied the incident.

Even if Mr. Maloney had been "dead clean" and said he did it, the attorney - general declared, "What was I going to do? That's really futile."

"He was your appointee (Mr. Thompson) and he was coming to you for assistance," Mr. Mackinnon observed. He said Mr. Roberts had moved very quickly in putting Scotland Yard onto lawyer Scott.

DIFFERENCES

Mr. Brewin took issue with Mr. Roberts' earlier claim that his 1957 action in sanctioning a shift from federal to provincial charters for the province's three top gambling clubs had been largely, responsible for their eventual closing.

The McDermott-Feeley Cooksville club, he said, had been closed only in 1960 after OPP Const. George Scott had conducted a one-man undercover investigation of police information leakages. It had run for three years after the shift.

"It was a pity we could not hope to do," Mr. Roberts said.

The NDP lawyer said the Frontier Club in Bertie Township actually had been closed through repeated raiding by the township police, although Mr. Roberts insisted it was a combined operation.

Mr. Brewin added the charters had nothing to do with the closing of the Roseland near Windsor.

Later, under questioning by Mr. MacKinnon, Mr. Roberts voiced a new theory to account for the closing of the Roseland, previously attributed to diligence on the part of Sgt. Jack Scott of the OPP and in the Windsor area, now head of the anti-gambling squad and an inspector.

ASKED TO EXPLAIN

The attorney - general had been asked to explain a notation in the diary of OPP Sgt. Anderson in May, 1956, saying the anti-gambling squad members were to raid only upon complaints and were to discontinue a raid for the time being because of getting disguised officers into clubs.

Mr. Roberts' explanation was that it could have been the commonthinking of those in authority that someone might get "badly hurt" in a club and lay a complaint.

"Did you ever have a complaint?" Mr. MacKinnon asked. Mr. Roberts restated the previously-told story of a man named Earl Attwood from Flint, Mich., who was killed in 1958 after a visit to the Roseland. He was reputed to be carrying a large sum of winnings. The minister claimed it was a complaint laid by Attwood's brother Raymond that resulted in the club closing.

"That's not Hansard's story," Mr. MacKinnon remarked.

He asked if there had been other complaints as the result of the policy.

"Oh, lots of hearsay goes around," the minister replied.

Charles A. Mott Will Continue Another Year

Although he would ordinarily be due for retirement early next month, Charles A. Mott, director of planning for the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, will continue in his position for another year.

This was agreed yesterday by city council when a recommendation from the suburban planning board was concurred in by city fathers.

Now in his 44th year with the city, Mr. Mott was city engineer for 29 years, from June 1929 until June 1958, when he was made planning engineer.

Under current staff rules covering city personnel, all municipal employees are to be retired on reaching their 65th birthday.

The Sergeants' Mess, 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, was recently the scene of a party accorded Warrant Officer Second Class Everett "Ev" Bernard on his retirement from the Royal Canadian Air Force after 22 years' service. Above, Bernard is presented with a gift and congratulated on his retirement by Warrant Officer "Bill" Hood, president of the Mess Committee of the Sergeants' Mess. Born in Charlottetown, P.E.I., WO Bernard enlisted in the RCAF in September 1940. Since that time he has served at a number of RCAF Stations across the country. Both Bernard and Summerside and 6 Repair Depot, coming to the latter six years ago. He is married to the former Miss Marie Charlottetown and two of their six sons are carrying on the service tradition in the Canadian Army. WO2 Bernard is now managing his own electronic business in Trenton.

Charge of Theft Is Dismissed Against Accused Had Seizure

Frankford Man May Have

TRENTON — In magistrate's court in Trenton yesterday, a charge against Thos. McKeehan, 19, of Trenton, was dismissed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills when no other evidence than verbal admission that he accused had taken a pair of shoes from the Bata Shoe Company was presented by the court. Police Chief Frank Lono of Batawa and Staff Sgt. Walter Youmans of the Trenton police department, were both told by McKeehan that he had taken the shoes, valued at $6.98, previous to the court hearing. Chief Lono, McKeehan testified that he had admitted taking the shoes in order to clear Wayne Menzie, a Bata employee, in whose car the shoes were found on the evening of August 9. Menzie substantiated Mr. McKeehan's story in court yesterday. He said that after the shoes had been found in his unlocked parked car at Bata, he and McKeehan, who had ridden as a passenger in the car that night, had been given 15 minutes to find the man who had "sent home" if neither admitted taking the shoes, and that McKeehan had agreed to "take the blame," as he (Menzie) "had more bills to pay" than McKeehan.

Magistrate Wills pointed out to Crown Attorney John A. Pringle that there seemed to be a "reasonable doubt" as to whether the shoes could have been placed in Menzie's car by a third party, and dismissed the case, although he remarked that McKeehan had been "most foolish" to say that he had taken the shoes if he were innocent.

Nettie Ostrom, Quinte St., Trenton, charged with forging the name of Mrs. G. F. Hamilton on a federal government taxation return cheque, to the value of $62.20 was found guilty on the evidence and her own admission of guilt, and placed on a one-year suspended sentence, ordered to pay the court costs of $5 and required to sign a bond to keep the peace.

Mr. Pringle told the court that there was some evidence that Miss Ostrom, had taken this way of "collecting" a bill from Mrs. Hamilton, and although this was the wrong way to go about it, the Crown Attorney agreed that a suspended sentence was indicated, as restitution had been made.

Plan Further Work in Spring At Two Parks

TRENTON — The Board of Park Management held its regular meeting last night, making plans for spring work on Mount Pelion and Hannah Park.

Mount Pelion has been much improved this year by the completion of the paved road and plans have been approved for installation of much-needed guard rails. The members reported a large turn out on Mount Pelion Thanksgiving day to view the panorama of the river and Murray Hills, aglow with rich autumn color.

Presenting some of his long range plans for mountain improvement, Mr. Mason requested benches and picnic tables in the spring, to be placed near the water tank for the use of the growing number of citizens taking advantage of this park area. Observation of use of this as a picnic ground will determine whether or not a barbecue will be built for a future date.

Hannah Park now has its long awaited washroom building, which proves that park construction may be attractive as well as utilitarian. The Swiss chalet construction blends with the natural beauty of wooded hillside. Further plans for this area were discussed but will be finally approved Sunday at a park inspection by the entire Board.

The park attendant's report showed the use of the camp area by a wide variety of visitors this year particularly from many states in the U.S. The tents greatly outnumbered the trailers this year.

The long discussed Chamber of Commerce situation with regard to Victoria Park has not yet been settled. Chamber of Commerce officials requested permission to construct a management office building on this area, fronting on Division Street's "golden mile". This situation is still under review.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE BELLEVILLE

The saving of your life in an emergency may depend on immediate Trained First Aid being available, long before medical aid can be obtained. It may be someone very dear to you whose life is ebbing out due to an accident or through sickness.

The Saint John Ambulance, each year, provides training for approximately 400 of the Belleville citizens, so that through this training they are able to alleviate suffering and save lives.

Members of the Brigade Division are present to render service at practically all public gatherings, with equipment and training to meet any emergency. In excess of 300 hours of voluntary service have already been supplied this year at such gatherings.

The Saint John Ambulance voluntary service provided through its Cadet, Nursing and Brigade Divisions, as well as citizen which it has trained, is all made possible by your financial support through the Belleville United Appeal.

Mixed Reaction Greets U.S. Blockade Moves

LONDON (AP)—U.S. plans to crack down on foreign shippers carrying Communist supplies to Cuba are drawing a mixed reaction from shipping interests in various countries.

Some ships bound for Cuba already have been ordered by their owners to head for other ports. Other shippers have taken sharp issue with the U.S. proposal.

Informed sources in London said Britain is trying to get the Kennedy administration to modify its plans.

The U.S. government is reported prepared to close American waters to individual foreign ships carrying Soviet-bloc aid to Cuba and to all ships of a foreign nation if one of the nation's vessels is found to have delivered Communist military supplies to the island.

The British Embassy in Washington is said to have advised the state department that the proposed American measures could help the Soviet Union spread dissension among the Western Allies.

The Cuban government was advised Tuesday that the Norwegian freighter Tenerife, bound for Havana with a cargo of fish, was diverted to Leningrad and unloaded in a Mexican port instead. The Communist news paper Hoy in Havana said the Castro government has protested the action to the Wilhelmsen Shipping Line in Oslo.

Norwegian and Turkish shipowners announced last week they were taking their freighters off the Cuban run. Three Japanese shipowners announced a similar boycott.

Copenhagen, the Associated Danish Shipowners took a sharply dissenting view. It issued a statement saying "Danish shipping, in accordance with time - honored traditions, must advocate the freedom of the seas."

The association said it stressed to the Danish government putting into effect any regulations which could expose Danish shipping in incalculable consequences."

RCAF Steps Up Its State Of Readiness

OTTAWA (CP) — RCAF Air Defence Command has gone into a CF-104 state of readiness, it is disclosed here.

One-third of the command's CF-104 and CF-101 all-weather supersonic jets are on 15-minute alert at all times, an RCAF spokesman said. Previously, some planes on readiness call were permitted as much as an hour to become airborne.

The increased state of readiness, meaning the total one-third of the command's air strength can be in the air in 15 minutes, a larger proportion than before, was adopted several months ago. The exact date cannot be disclosed for security reasons.

Informants said the higher readiness state—in effect, faster reaction to attack warnings—stems from general reorganization of the air-space threat against North America, not from any specific tense situation in the cold war.

FINAL

matter and there appeared little likelihood of participation by Orthodox churches in the Balkans, Greece and the Near East.

Though Roman Catholics regard the movement as ecumenical or world-wide, some areas in the world will have little or no representation.

No delegate will be representing Communist China where the Roman Catholic Church is described as "the church of silence."

But from Communist enslaved Europe there is a sprinkling of bishops. Prominent among them is Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Archbishop of Warsaw, who heads the largest group from a Communist country.

The council sessions themselves will prove a curious mixture of historic pageantry and 20th century efficiency.

The sessions will open with a solemn procession across Saint Peter's Square led by Pope John and 2,500 church leaders from 85 countries and bishops are attending.

TALK OVER IDEAS

Among many topics which are expected to be discussed are proposals for the future use of modern languages by the Roman Catholic Church, the reform of dress of priests and members of religious orders and "rationalization" of the church administrative machinery.

Among issues of fundamental importance expected to be discussed is the proposition that the Christian Church is on the road to salvation even if they are not Roman Catholics. Another central question is that of the destiny of children who died before baptism.

Name Successor To R. A. Pringle As Chancellor

KINGSTON (CP) — Rt. Rev. K. C. Evans, Bishop of Ontario, today announced appointment of Prof. R. B. Stewart Ryan, as chancellor of the Diocese of Ontario. He succeeds the late Robert A. Pringle, of Belleville. The chancellorship is the senior diocesan position open to laymen. Prof. Ryan has been interested in theology and canon law and is a student of canon law. He is a professor of law at Queen's University.

He practised law in Fort Hope, where he was mayor of the town at one time. Prof. Ryan has been identified with social service work and is an expert on penological problems. He is a member of the John Howard Society.

Bishop Evans also announced the appointment of Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, as diocesan registrar.

The bishop also confirmed that Ven. J. R. Creeggan has been appointed archdeacon of Frontenac as of Oct. 1 and will be rector of Christ Church in Gananoque.

Rev. Peter Tett of the parish of Parham-Harbor Lake has been appointed rector of Edwardsburg, Cardinal, starting Nov. 1.

Rev. R. de B. Wright, rector of Picton, will become canon of the Cathedral of ST. George, Kingston.

Different Standards

All of us, we suppose, have a tendency to live exclusively in our own worlds.

In theory, we know that people have an almost infinite variety of tastes, in meat and drink, in recreation and work, in ambitions and objectives, in hopes and fears. We know, too, that material circumstances differ almost, if not quite, as widely as tastes.

In practice, though, we are prone to regard those standards which constitute normality for us as playing a similiar role for everyone else.

The other day Edwin Alonzo Boyd, bank robber, was paroled. A columnist in the Toronto Telegram, Wessely Hicks, wishes him good luck, saying that he is going to need it. Among the handicaps which he lists for Boyd is the fact that, at 48, his total capital is about $500, "a pitiful accumulation and a weak dike against the flood of problems of this normal world."

So it is and many of us, like Mr. Hicks, would be horrified at having to face the future with such little capital at a time of life when our earning period was at least half over.

But we would venture to guess there is many another man of Boyd's age who is no better armed against the future, and this in spite of the fact he has avoided crime and has labored hard wherever given the chance.

Indeed, the figures for consumer credit suggest that many steady workers lack any liquid assets whatever. They have what Boyd lacks, equities in a variety of goods, ranging from houses and automobiles down to suits and fishing gear. But, with the exception of real estate, these goods will wear out within a short time of being paid for.

It is easy for the more fortunate amongst us to regard $500 as a pitiful accumulation, but the hard fact of the matter is that even in this so-called affluent society there are many who would welcome such a nest egg. And even those of us who have a variety of assets, in a home, insurance policies, pension fund and the like, would find if we attempted to liquidate these assets and live off the proceeds, we should soon be facing penury.

Boyd has what is almost everybody's biggest asset—a job.

Male Beef

"Women drive like men, but get blamed for it," according to Mrs. Ethel McLellan, billed as a safety expert at the Canadian Good Roads Conference, in Quebec. Feminine as the statement is, there is some justification for it.

Women do not drive like men, of course. If they did, the overwhelming majority of fatal accidents in Toronto would not involve male drivers. Some men drive like women, it is true, but few women drive like men.

The difference shows up well in Belleville, at any major intersection, during rush hours. The women drivers, (male and female), work their way up to the line of traffic and proceed during successive green lights. When the light turns, they drift slowly off, at a rate that allows two or three cars to get through on each green signal. They don't have the urge to move off quickly. Meanwhile, the men behind work up a good deal of steam, weave and drive finally to get through the lights, following some indecisive drifter, they are in the perfect mood to try passing at the wrong time, and to pick off a pedestrian or two.

The man, on the other hand, starts faster on the green light, and leaves time for more cars to follow him through. Traffic lights provide enough time for almost a block lineup of cars to get through on each green, if they move promptly. Speed is not essential. There is little difference between the number of cars which can get through at twenty miles per hour, and the number that can through at thirty, but there is a great difference between the number getting through when the lead car, and each succeeding car, wastes five or ten seconds of the time in getting started, and the number which can get through when the drivers all move off promptly.

There are probably some women who drive like men, as Mrs. McLellan maintains. And there are certainly some men who drive like women. But the cause of a lot of the danger on the roads today seems to be that women, driving like women, make men drive like men.

What is Americanism? "Clean living, clean thinking, and pep," I think an American would reply. This means, in practice, the substitution of tidiness for art, cleanliness for beauty, moralizing for philosophy, prostitutes for concubines, (as being easier to conceal), and a general air of being fearfully busy.—Bertrand Russell.

Strictly Personal

Personalities Fall Into Two Categories

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Do you know so-and-so?" I am sometimes asked, and when I answer that I do, the second question is commonly, "What is he for she) really like?"

To give a true and honest answer to this second question, I have learned that it is necessary for us to divide the people we know into "round" and "angular" like a circle.

The round characters are the easiest to define and describe. They are the people — which include the majority — who present a rounded appearance to all who approach them. In minor variations, they are the same viewed from any angle of vision — like a circle.

Ask a dozen different acquaintances about them, and you will receive a similar variety of opinion: Joe is a good scout, Sam is a hail-fellowwell-met, Ernie is a tough and slippery, Mike wouldn't hurt a fly.

Where most of us go wrong, however, is in the failure to see the angular characters, in failing to recognize their angularity. These are the people who are many-faceted — depending upon the angle of acquaintance, they assume different shapes, play and textures.

With an angular character, one cannot say "This is what he is really like," all one can say is "He is terribly excited," and another that "He is really very modest"; one cannot say "He is terribly conceited," and another that "He is really very humble"; one cannot say "He is terribly considered

SECOND BEST

Canada is second to Sweden as the world's largest pulp producer.

PRODUCE MARKET

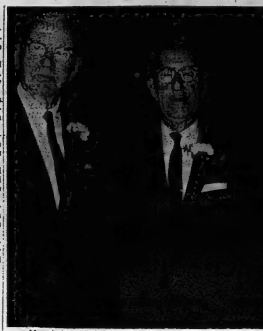
Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on Canada grade eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 55; A medium 48; A small 27; B and C grades no market.



Wholesale prices: Canada first grade: Ontario tenderable 51-52; non-tenderable 51-51½, in light trading; western 50½ (nominal).

$3,000 Loss When Workshop Is Destroyed

A workshop on No. 2 Highway, just east of the city limits, owned by the late Mr. F. Philip, was gutted by fire Tuesday afternoon.

Fire Chief G. Vance said when the fire department arrived the frame structure was a mass of flames. Damage to the building was estimated at approximately $1,000, and $2,000 to the contents.

It is believed the building contained a power riding mower, outboard motor, boat and other articles.

About 110 Knights of Columbus turned out last night to a testimonial dinner for the ten members of the Belleville lodge who have completed 50 years of membership in the organization. The 50-year members above are: A. Bernard Collins, Q.C., Patrick F. Drumm, William H. Doran and Charles Doran. Ed Lee, Francis Buckley, William Hogan, J. C. Truesch, T. R. Dolan and T. J. Flurey, also fifty-year members, were absent from the meeting.

Dundas Street W. Resident Given Permit for Station

Belleville city council yesterday approved of a recommendation to amend its by-law limiting the number of gasoline stations to allow Gordon Chalmers, Dundas Street, West, to construct a new service station.

The move will increase the number of retail gasoline outlets to 56 from 55. A condition of Mr. Chalmers receiving the permit would be that he build the service station within six months.

Alderman Don Whalen was of the opinion that council should review the situation and that before any action was taken the opinion of present gasoline service station operators should be asked.

He noted that a few years ago a permit had been granted to a major oil company for a permit on Cannifton Road. Then when no construction had been carried out the permit had been cancelled and promised to Mr. Chalmers, who had had his station in a fire several years ago.

The oil company then had their permit re-instated and Mr. Chalmers was left without a permit.

"Council rushed into a situation which it now finds embarrassing," he said.

He asked that the recommendation be tabled to allow the opinion of gas merchants to be obtained.

LACKED FORTITUDE CLAIM

Alderman William Jarvis said the present predicament resulted from council's lack of intestinal fortitude in failing to stand up against the zebra rattling of Shell Oil when it threatened to take council to court over cancellation of its permit. He reminded council that Mr. Chalmers had been promised a permit.

Alderman Cole said it was not a matter of council being afraid of Shell Oil, but that it wanted to get out of a situation.

Alderman Les Digby agreed the city had a moral obligation to Mr. Chalmers but said the recommendation did not go far enough.

He said the city by-law should stop what he termed was the "trafficking in station permits."

Oil companies should not be allowed to close a station in one section of the city and then open a new one in another section. "When stations were closed the permits should revert to the city," he said.

Alderman Stuart Robb said it was incorrect to say there was trafficking in stations. "There was nothing to prevent a company closing one station and opening another," he said.

Ald. Digby, however, claimed that in at least one instance a station had been closed and the permit taken over by another company.

Lights Costs Will Be Paid By Taxpayers

It all goes as expected power costs for Christmas lights to the core of the downtown area will this year be paid by the city taxpayers instead of by the merchants.

Subject to the approval of the local public utilities commission, council yesterday granted permission for the Belleville Chamber of Commerce to have electric wiring tied in to existing points on street light standards along Front Street.

In the past there has been no way of connecting the decorative lights to the street light standards and the Christmas lights had to be plugged into electric services of merchants.

"All it means is that the power costs for Christmas lights would be paid for by the city instead of by the merchants", commented one alderman as the recommendation was approved.

Holstein Club Is Preparing Futurity Class

PICTON — Prince Edward County Holstein Club is planning Futurity Classes at the Black and White Show held in connection with the County Fair at Picton in 1963.

Another class is underway for 1964 and it has been decided to accept nominations of calves for a futurity class in 1965. Nominations will be accepted up to the date of the annual meeting. The futurity is a test of a breeder's ability to select calves that will develop and show well as three-year-olds. Breeders who have calves that show promise are invited to make their entries to the secretary at the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Picton; A circular letter will be sent to all breeders and any who require further information can obtain it at the Department of Agriculture office, representative Ivan Bell stated

Women's Week To Be Observed

PICTON — Business Women's Week will be observed in October 14-20 this year, by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. "The purpose of this week is to direct the attention of the public to the contribution that business and professional women are making to the economic, cultural and educational life of Canada on a local and national level. The theme will be 'More Power with Woman Power' said Miss Gene Ostrander, president of the Picton association.

"This is the eighth consecutive year the "Week" has been observed by the Federation and highlights 32 years of achievement. In this Canada-wide organization of 171 clubs, there are over 7,000 members.

"The basic aim is to improve the status of business and professional women. Business women are interested in and support the United Nations and its effort to improve the status of women. Members are studying legislation, laws, pension plans and benefits, implementation of equal pay legislation and the right of the married woman to independent domicile.

"Through its clubs across Canada the Federation is offering career counselling for girls in high schools," Miss Ostrander said.

For the past few years the Picton club has given a bursary to deserving girl in the local high school, conducted the UNICEF drive and assisted community projects.

River Valley W.I. Theme Based on Homemaking

STIRLING — Nineteen members and one visitor attended the October meeting of River Valley Women's Institute on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Roy Tucker.

Mrs. Kenneth Myers presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner. Mrs. George Heasman gave her report and displayed the Ontario traffic safety leaflet and also read the correspondence. Invitations were accepted to visit Trent River Bridge W.I. and Seymour East W.I.

A letter written in German was received from the adopted child voicing appreciative thanks for the W.I.'s interest in his welfare and now as finances are better he no longer needs assistance. A picture and description of another boy for the coming term was shown. His name is Heinis Zellner and he was born March 22nd, 1950. It was decided to forward an amount of $10 for a Christmas gift. A bill for $45 for renovations, was authorized to be paid.

Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis will be hostess on November 1st for a program on current events and the district president will pay her official visit. A letter re homemaking clubs was read. The new course is "Separated for Summer," and the leaders appointed were Mrs. Roy Irvin and Mrs. Vernon Harry. Mrs. Jack Bush read an article re "A Floating Weed Cutter." Mrs. Ross Bush read a poem "It Isn't So Easy to Smile." Mrs. Charles Wilson read "The Disappearance of the Horse." Mrs. Percy MacMullen reported that to date almost 50 pot holders have been received for the Christmas parcel to England. This is the month of the triennial conference of A.C.W.W. in Australia. She also told of the 12 new branch Institutes which had been recently organized in Northern Canada. Mrs. MacMullen mentioned the good food publicity of Rose Marie Haight of Consecon and the other club girls who were in England di demonstrators. They sold fresh peaches at 15 cents each.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, A.C.W.W. convener, gave an outline of various recipes found in the "countrywoman Magazine." She also told how executive members from South Africa, Canada and Scandinavia each prepared food for luncheons at the executive meetings in London, England, and used the proceeds for the penny fund of A.C.W.W. The September 30 pennies amounted to $1.57 and the jar was passed at this time for further donations.

Mrs. Rose Bush presided over the program which she and Mrs. Percy Craighead had arranged. This was based on health, home economics and Thanksgiving. She opened with a sing-song of favorite melodies. Mrs. Alex Bush read a poem entitled "Thankfulness". Mrs. Vernon Harry read an article which stressed that women should sit at their household tasks rather than to stand. She also gave several ideas for better efficiency in "Homemaking".

Mrs. Jack Bush gave a splendid resume of the first aid course sponsored by the St. John Ambulance Corps in Belleville and also gave a graphic illustration of bandaging technique, artificial respiration, care of wounds and many items that were most helpful to the group.

Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh read three special items pertaining to the holiday season, one of which was selection entitled "Blessings" by Adams. Mrs. R. Bush gave an excellent paper on "Homemaking". She outlined this subject on the theme of books and home. She said homemaking is not a hobby but is a most essential part of living and good homes help build better communities. She read two poems on this theme, one of which was "The Little House I Love".

Mrs. Percy Craighead conducted a most interesting contest based on the theme.

The hostess and lunch committee served fruit bread, cheese, a variety of jellos and coffee.

Mrs. John Kane voiced appreciative thanks for the hospitality, program and refreshments.

Autumn Bride

By TRACY ADRIAN

The lucky girl who is planning an autumn wedding will love this beautiful, traditional gown designed for a church or home ceremony.

Made of a taffeta fabric woven of acetate, the dress is on princess lines with a scalloped neck, long pointed sleeves and a carriage skirt with a bow in back.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace trims the bodice and cascades down the skirt. 4 ¼

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Lillian D. — To them it's Park Avenue and Paradise rolled into one

Carmela F. — My parents have lived in the same apartment for 35 years. It's an old section of the Bronx, from which most of their neighbors had the good sense to move long ago. It used to be a comfortable residential neighborhood. It was a nice place for me and my sister to grow up in. But now it's become almost one hundred percent commercial and industrial. Factories, lofts and warehouses have sprung up where apartment houses, two-family homes and private dwellings used to stand. I want my folks to move. It's torture to visit them, amid the rubbish and smells. My children refuse to accompany me there. But my sister encourages our parents to stay put.

Lillian D. — Why disturb old people from their familiar surroundings? They don't see the block with the same eyes as we do. To them it's the garden-spot of the world and it spells home to them. There's where they've planted their roots. Their few remaining neighbors are closer to them than blood relations. It would kill them to be cut off from such ancient friendships. One takes care of the other's around there, better than is done in a family.

My parents don't want to move. And the only reason my sister keeps nagging about this is that she and her children find the trip to the old house distasteful. Too bad about them! My parents may be living in what looks like a slum to Carmela and others, but it's heaven to them.

The Council: Transplantation is always traumatic to some degree — whether it's a rose bush, a skin graft or an urban renewal project. Basically one deals with an uprooting, a removal from the familiar milieu to a strange one which may be antagonistic and repelling. And, in the case of the aged parents of these women, the roots are buried so deep and the surroundings are so nutritive that relocation — especially since it isn't compulsory — would probably be permanently injurious.

If Carmela's folks had no choice, that is if a government bulldozer were roaring at the door asking them to make way for a new highway, then her arguments would help them to make the best of a bad deal. They could be presented new friends, new furniture, more "company" coming to call. It would still be a sad move for them, but they'd accept it as inevitable and concentrate on whatever silver lined their clouds.

But as long as there's no outside reason for pulling up stakes, as long as the building is intact and permits a bearable standard of living for its inhabitants, we'd advise Carmela to come around to Lillian's way of thinking. Let these aged folk, really part of the halls and walls they occupy, live out the rest of their days in their familiar nooks. This is their haven, their Heaven, on earth, even though it appears unappealing to Carmela and other reluctant visitors.

A report of relocation of elderly people was offered recently by the Univ. of Chicago Medical School. It cited a sharp rise in the death rate over normal expectancy. Worse, it found an alarming increase in morticity among those aged who were merely anticipating a move — whether to a home for the aged, a hospital or another form of radical displacement. Dr. C. Knight Aldrich drew this conclusion from the study: "Don't relocate elderly people unless necessary." He adds that when it is necessary to dislodge them, psychological help to prepare them for the change can be life saving.

Two Children Baptized at St. Andrew's

STIRLING — The ordinance of baptism was performed on Sunday morning in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, by the Rev. R. A. Sinclair of Madoc.

Two children, Eric Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McIntosh, Stirling, and Kerry Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Jones of Stirling, were baptized.

Following the service Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McIntosh entertained approximately 20 guests to a buffet dinner at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morton, R.R. 2, Harold, Ontario.

The guests included the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh of Stirling, and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morton. The paternal great-grandfather, Mr. Charles Morton, Stirling, R.R. 1; also Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Hendry of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones and Sharon, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Donald McIntosh, Ross and Bob, Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh, Wayne and Bruce; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Whiteman, all of Stirling, and Miss Lois Morton and brother Gordon Morton of Harold, Ontario.

Mr., Mrs. Ben Seale Honored On 50th Anniversary

ROSLIN — Fifty years married on September 29, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seale of Roslin have been honored by their relatives and friends as well as being the recipients of numerous gifts and messages of congratulations.

Both long-time residents of the Eastern townships of Quebec, they came to Roslin six years ago to be near their only daughter, Mrs. John Fargey, and since that time have built an attractive home along No. 37 highway. Now a part of the community life, they have made innumerable friends, and have taken an active interest in the church activities, Mr. Seale at present serving as an elder on the Roslin United Church board, and his wife with the United Church Women's organization.

Mrs. Seale is the former Barbara Catherine Graham and, following their marriage, the couple operated a farm near Inverness, Quebec. Mr. Seale and his wife are both in splendid health.

On September 23rd, a family dinner was prepared in their honor at the home of their daughter, Dorothy, with over 30 in attendance, among whom were 12 guests from Inverness and Montreal.

On Wednesday, September 26 they received nearly 100 friends and neighbors at the Fargey home. Joining in the celebration with their daughter and son-in-law were two grandchildren, Scott and Lorraine Fargey.

Features of the two occasions were the cutting of two anniversary cakes.

The guests were invited to the dining room where Mrs. Milton Fargey and Mrs. Clarence Campell presided at the tea table and Mrs. Archie Graham and her daughter, of Smithfield, served.

Among the gifts presented them were a coffee table and hassock by the residents of the community and a lamp from Roslin United Church; a swivel rocker, upholstered in gold, by their daughter, Mrs. J. Fargey, Mr. Fargey and family, a fall-length mirror and magazine rack and a bouquet of roses from their Quebec relatives, while the Roslin UCW presented Mrs. Seale with a lovely bouquet.

Among the well over 100 cards and letters received were congratulatory messages from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Premier John Roberts of Ontario, Lee Grills M.P., and Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. The latter also personally presented them with a Province of Ontario plaque.

For Patients Allergic To Wheat

by Mary Moore

The response surprised me to a plea from Mrs. R. McN. for original recipes from mothers of celiac children printed here August 16th.

There are uncounted numbers of children allergic to wheat. Recently when I toured a large Canadian plant in Leamington with some other food editors and saw precooked rice cereal and "infantsoy" cereal, being manufactured, I asked their Home Economist if she had recipes using these grains for patients that were allergic to wheat. This is a very common allergy and a very difficult one, since were are a wheat flour producing and consuming nation. Miss Davies sent me the following recipes which have been carefully tested for patients allergic to wheat.

BROWNIE CHEWS

1-3 cup shortening, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 cup sugar, 1½ cups (infant) precooked rice cereal or infantsoy cereal, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped nuts and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt shortening and chocolate together in top of double boiler. Blend sugar and eggs; stir in precooked rice cereal or infantsoy cereal, baking powder, salt, nuts and vanilla. Add chocolate mixture; blend well. Spread in greased pan 8x8x2". Bake 25 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. or until done. Cool and cut into squares. Dust with icing sugar.

RICE MUFFINS — Wheatless and Gluten-Free

1 cup unsifted rice flour, 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons soft shortening, 4 tablespoons sugar, 2 eggs, separated, ¾ cup milk.

Measure rice flour, baking powder and salt and sift together twice. Cream shortening and sugar together. Add egg yolks; blend. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in well-beaten egg whites. Fill well greased muffin tins 2-3 full and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Makes 12 small muffins.

RICE FLOUR SPONGE CAKE (Wheatless)

¾ cup rice flour, sifted twice before measuring, 1-3 cup sugar, dash of salt, 2 eggs, separated, 1 teaspoon lemond juice and grated rind of ¼ lemon.

Sift together rice flour, sugar and salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add lemon juice and rind to egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg yolk mixture and flour mixture alternately in small amounts into beaten egg white with rubber spatula. Pour into a small loaf pan that has been lined with wax paper and buttered. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 25 to 30 minutes.

RICE FLOUR DROP COOKIES (Wheatless)

2-3 cup rice flour, sifted twice before measuring, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ cup shortening or margarine, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk.

Sift together rice flour, salt and baking powder. Cream shortening until light and fluffy. Add sugar gradually, beating thoroughly. Add vanilla and egg, and beat until well combined. Add rice-flour mixture and milk alternately, ending with rice-flour mixture. Chill dough ½ hour before baking. Drop by teaspoons on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes. Remove from pan while hot and cool on a rack. Yield: 3 dozen cookies, thin, brown-edged.

Evangelaires Take Charge Of Service

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle C.A.'s had as their guest on Friday evening, "The Evangelaires Trio" of R.P.B.C. Peterborough, Ontario.

Miss Marilyn King opened the meeting with singing the C.A. theme chorus, followed by prayer, led by Mr. David Strome of R.P.B.C.

Favorite choruses were sung. Miss King read the Scripture taken from Psalm 95. A sword drill followed. The trio sang two gospel numbers.

Miss Sharon Krause brought a message from 2nd Kings on "A Prayer for Vision". Miss Diane Chisholm brought a message from Nehemiah 2-18 on, "The Holy Spirit As Our Guide." The service closed with a time of prayer.

BIKE-RIDING in the skiddy season is hazardous, and your judgment of safety is better than that of your child. When there's ice or snow on the roads, riding shouldn't be permitted. Equally dangerous is the aftermath of smiling, when slippery gravel accumulates on the sides of bare roads.

U.C.W. Meetings

HALLOWAY U.C.W.

HALLOWAY — The regular meeting of the Halloway United Church Women was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mervin Bowers with 13 members present.

Mrs. E. Morgan was in charge of the devotional, the theme being "Thanksgiving". "O Give Thanks Unto the Lord". The Scripture taken from Deuteronomy 8, was read by Mrs. E. Emerson and the meditation and prayers were given by Mrs. Morgan. Two poems "I Walked in Autumn Woods" and "We Thank Thee" were read by Mrs. F. Wellman and Mrs. A. Donaldson respectively.

The president, Mrs. Charles Hoffman opened the business and the minutes were read by Mrs. M. Bowers.

The treasurer reported $350. in the treasury and the allocation for the quarter yet to be sent in. An advance of $5 toward express charges on the overseas bale was granted and the offering amounted to $9.90.

The correspondence secretary read invitations to attend teas and bazaars, namely Marsh Hill on October 10th, Mt. Pleasant on October 16th; Plainfield, October 23rd and Stone Church on October 31st. Mention was made of the U.C.W.'s chances to cater again next year at Stirling Fair, which was accepted. Returns this year from same were most gratifying. It was decided to pay for 10 "World Friends" subscriptions for teh mission-ary group.

The next meeting of the U.C.W. to be held on October 17th at the home of Mrs. H. Morgan.

Weddings

McFARQUHAR - GREENLEAF

White gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums formed a lovely setting in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, October 6, at 2.30 p.m. for a very pretty double-ring wedding when Lois Jean Greenleaf, of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Errol Allen Greenleaf, of Belleville, became the bride of Kenneth Arnold McFarquhar, of Scarborough, Ontario, son of Mr. Ernest Frank McFarquhar, of Scarborough, and the late Mrs. McFarquhar. The Rev. Morgan McFarlane officiated.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. Clifford Tempest, church organist, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Douglas Shaw in her rendition of "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony, and the "Twenty-Third Psalm," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her off-white floor-length bridal gown of delustered silk with lace overblouse featuring lily-point sleeves. She wore a pearl pearl tiara, with elbow length veil, and carried a bouquet of yellow/ Sweetheart roses and white stephanotis.

She was attended by Miss Barbara Greenleaf, of Toronto, as maid of honor, and by Miss Marjorie Cross, of Toronto. Both attendants were gowned identically in blue delustered taffeta, in street-length, with matching shoes, feathered headdresses, and white gloves. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Thomas Hammett, of Toronto. Mr. John Newman, of Toronto, cousin of the bridegroom, was usher.

The reception was held in the Pinnacle Room of Hotel Quinte, Belleville, where the bridal table was daintily appointed with white linen and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with three bells and lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with white tulle.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who was attired in gold delustered satin with matching hat, and shoes. Her corsage was of blue-tinted carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a blue velvet gown with matching hat, and shoes. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to New York and Washington, D.C., the bride chose a grey-and-green English doeskin suit with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at miscellaneous showers held in Toronto; at the home of Miss Florence Dorcas, with Miss Marjorie Cross as co-hostess; at the home of Mrs. William Lawrence with Mrs. Thomas Hammett as co-hostess; and at the home of Mrs. William Dean, Jr. and by the co-workers of Manufactures Life Insurance Company. Mrs. S. L. Dean, of Belleville, entertained at a dessert party for her niece.

Mr. and Mrs. McFarquhar will reside at 108 Isabella Street, Toronto.

HUSTLE HIM OFF

NEW YORK (AP)—A man jumped up on stage into camera view during Sunday night's showing of the CBS television panel program, What's My Line? and remarked "I'm your second mystery guest." The man was on camera for only a few seconds and was quickly ushered off stage. No complaint was filed against the man, whose name was not learned.

Shining Winter White

By ALICE ALDEN

Again snowy white casts its beauty over the new sartorial scene, every fashion house showing exquisite white in dresses, coats or suits.

We edited this beauty of a late afternoon-into-evening number from the Nat Kaplan collection for the fall season.

The dress employs white tropunto-patterned brocade for its slim skirt and white silk satin for the scoop-necked bodice.

This is a style that'll go right through the season.

BPW Clubs Sponsor University Training of African Student

Of particular interest to local residents will be the beautiful sheepskin scroll, being exhibited in the window of the Sally Shope on Front St.

The scroll is symbolic of the fact that the clubs of the Ontario Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs have undertaken to underwrite the university education of Miss Millicent Frazer, an African student from Sierra Leone.

Originally started as a project of the London, Ontario, B. & P.W. Club, and a one-year project, it was decided to enlarge the effort to include all Ontario clubs, and to make it possible for Miss Frazer to continue the entire term of her university training in Canada, with the help of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The scroll, which is beautifully lettered in green against the natural buff colored background, and trimmed in gold, was prepared by Mrs. Shirley Woodcock and Mrs. Enid Richards of the Belleville Club and will be presented to Miss Frazer at the Ontario convention in Windsor, during the weekend of October 12, 13 and 14th next.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown, honorary treasurer for the provincial organization, also of Belleville, will present the scroll to the recipient. It is understood that Miss Frazer plans to enter the teaching profession upon the completion of her university education, and later return to her native Africa.

Mother's Boy Best Liked By Jap Women

TOKYO (Reuters) — A "typical Japanese mother's boy" is the kind of man Japanese women want as a husband, according to a survey carried out by the monthly magazine Nippon.

The magazine's survey was based on three replies being published by three weeklies.

The features were entitled Five Single Men I'd Like to Recommend, Choose Your Husbands, and The Most Available Young Men in Various Occupations. Each carries the photographs, names and addresses of young bachelors, and their own descriptions of themselves.

In 10 days, one of the men received more than 14,000 letters and numerous telephone calls from young women wanting to meet him.

Results of the magazine's survey showed the energetic he-man type appeals to most girls. Statements they found attractive included: "I am full of fight," "I do not mind if I have to work at night," or "I am short-tempered."

Another statement favorably received was: "During my last vacation I went back to my home town and took an overnight pleasure trip with my mother."

The survey shows girls like a "mother's boy," however, only when they know the other lives in the country and will not come to live with her son when he is married.

The Experts Say

Getting Right Material Better Than Appearance

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP)—Getting the right material for the job is more important than appearance when buying pots and pans, says the Canadian Association of Consumers.

In a bulletin issued to members after an investigation of the various materials, it says: "Because the cost frequently amounts to only a few dollars, little thought may be given to the suitability of material for use, and appearance becomes the factor of prime concern." And since no single material is necessarily best for all kinds of cooking, it's a good idea to be wary of buying a complete kit of pots and pans from door-to-door salesmen. A better bet is to select each pot with its function in mind.

COSTS LITTLE

It's brittle, heavy, unattractive and tends to rust if not properly cared for, but it's inexpensive, a good conductor and absorber of heat which make it easy to cook with, and there is less likelihood of food being burned.

Some CAC comments on other materials:

Stainless steel—attractive and extremely durable, it is noncorrosive, easily cleaned, unaffected by acids and alkalis. But it's a relatively poor conductor of heat, has "hot spots" where burning occurs; and the copper or aluminum electroplated to the bottom of the pan, while making the utensil attractive, requires frequent cleaning.

"This does not mean we should buy no stainless steel pots and pans." The material, while not completely satisfactory for a frying pan or for pans to be used for direct heat cookery, is good for double boilers or for cooking food where a considerable quantity of water is used.

Aluminum—Thickness of the metal is the key. Thin pots and pans lose their shape, burn food and are "rarely a good buy." Cast aluminum is more popular, heavier and more costly, but it doesn't burn easily, is excellent for heat cookery and will last a lifetime, without losing its shape.

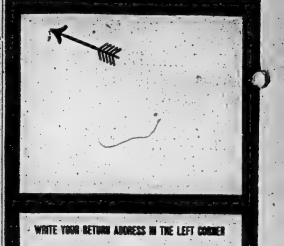
NOT A POISONOUS

"Some homemakers have been disturbed by the fact that food cooked in aluminum may be poisonous and there have been cases where aluminum saucepans have been discarded because of such a rumor. This fallacy has long been disproved; aluminum utensils are in no way harmful for food preparation."

Pyrex glass—good for oven cookery since it absorbs radiant heat. It's slow to heat but holds the heat and is not affected by acids and alkalis. A wire protector is recommended if used on direct heat. It's breakable and extreme heat may change the temper and causes breakage.

Pyroceram — attractive but expensive. It has considerable resistance to damage from temperature changes and can be used in the oven, for range cookery or for storing foods in a freezer. Some users say it has hot spots when used for frying or direct heat cooking.

Enamelware — its materials, a metal base with glass fused to it, haven't the same coefficients of expansion, and minute cracks may appear on the surface. Because scouring is likely to remove the glaze, a solution of soda and water should be used in cleaning. It can be made resistant to abrasion, acids, alkalis and corrosion, and it is relatively cheap. But porcelain enamel is not a good heat conductor and unless great care is taken food may burn.



To retread soles of worn galoshes or rubbers, use rubber cement to attach discs of felt to heel and center of sole.

Jaunty Jumper

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Wool tweed is used for a jumper to wear over a sweater or blouse. This one has a bandstand-length skirt cut on the circular. It is just the ticket for showing colorful stockinged or high socked legs.

The jumper comes in heather tones of brown, mauve or blue. The mauve is particularly pretty worn with a pink sweater.

Mrs. H. Keefer Heads WHA Council

At Women's Auxiliaries' Regional annual meeting held in Kingston General Hospital, on September 26, Mrs. Harold Keefer of Trenton was named chairman of the Regional Council of Women's Hospital Auxiliaries for the Eastern Ontario Region and Mrs. T. W. Spear of Trenton was named secretary-treasurer.

A vice-president will be named from the Ongwanada Sanitarium Auxiliary in Kingston.

Mrs. Aitken of the St. Mary's on the Lake Hospital Auxiliary, Kingston, is the retiring president.

The annual meeting was held in conjunction with the Regional Hospital Council No. 9 annual meeting and Conference which was attended by over 80 delegates.

The Women's Auxiliaries carry on extensive volunteer programs in their hospitals and raise funds to provide the hospitals with those "extras" which cannot be included in the hospital budget but are so helpful to both staff and patients.

AOTS Men's Club Holds Ladies' Night

RAWDON—The annual ladies night of Rawdon circuit A.O.T.S. Men's Club was held Thursday evening in Mount Pleasant Church and hall with an attendance of approximately 60 members and their wives.

The group gathered in the church on arrival and at 7.30 p.m. they were escorted to the church hall. A toast to the Queen and the invocation followed. Kenneth Tompkins was Sgt.-at-Arms. The president Hugh Lyons introduced the head table guests. Robert Hoard voiced thanks to the members of the Young People's Union who catered for the delicious banquet and Miss Diane McAdam, president of the Y.P.U. replied. Mr. and Mrs. Craig Watson conducted a singsong and Mr. P. Mayhew of Picton delighted with three vocal selections playing his own guitar accompaniment.

The group then moved over to the church where the balance of the program was held. Orro Sharp conducted the devotional and Raymond McConnell gave the Fellowship report. Mrs. T. J. Riddell, Campbellford contributed two vocal selections. In the first her husband played the piano accompaniment and in the second selection he outlined in mute language with motions.

The Rev. Riddell gave an illustrated address with a splendid commentary showing pictures of Northern Ireland and many local scenes in this area.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Father Swears; Small Sons Imitate

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My husband worked on a gang, and being with men most of the time it was understandable that his language was not the best. But now he is in the city to work and for some unknown reason his swearing has become every second word that he speaks. It is not the mild swearing by any means. It is the real gutter language that most men wouldn't even dream of saying in front of anyone.

Now our small boys are coming out with these words in front of their playmates. Please, what can I do? I have tried nagging him, ignoring it, and also went as far as to use the same language, hoping it would make him realize how vulgar it sounds, but to no avail. When he hears the boys say these words, he says it is his fault, but doesn't try to improve.—STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED—Breaking someone else's bad habit is often beating your head against a wall. He resents it and resists you.

Let him know you no longer serve as his conscience—indeed, that it is his concern, not yours, how he talks. His shock must come from hearing the boys, or from the disturbed attitude of an employer or friend.

DEAR DORIS—My husband is fairly good through the week except if he is nervous. But he drinks Saturday night, goes to bed late, wakes up around 8 or 9 in the morning, drinks again. If we would like to sleep, he gets angry and starts fighting; and he drinks even more.

It happens every Sunday. After a few years of it, it's rather sickening as we never get a decent Sunday.

Should I go away for a while? Should I go to the social agency?—PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED—Typical alcoholic behavior.

Both of your ideas are good. Going away, with your daughters, might bring him to his senses. And seeing a social worker could give you the nerve and know-how to deal with him.

DEAR DORIS—Mom is always saying I am wild, and need to be disciplined more. The girls I hang around with aren't that wild and are certainly not bad kids, but Mom always finds fault with them. My only brother, aged 14, gets his own way, but I ask for one little thing and there's a storm about it.

Doris, it's been this way ever since we were small. Now I am 16 and am afraid Mom isn't going to tell me the facts of life.—TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED—You and your Mom are poles apart. A great pity! She forgets what it was like to be a teen-ager.

Do you carry your weight at home? Make your bed? Help with dishes, or cooking? There are ways you can show her you are growing up, and should have some rights.

I am sending you the name of a paperback about the facts of life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO N. J.—If your wife returns to Japan and has been struck off the family register (as being married and away) she will not be welcome. But she is not a Canadian citizen merely by virtue of having married you.

The Consulate of Japan will have to sort it out for you. I am sending you the address.

U. C. MESSENGGERS

WOOLER — The October meeting of the United Church "Messengers" was held last Sunday in the church basement with a good attendance. Mrs. J. Putnam, Mrs. Noble Crosby and Mrs. William McKee were in charge.

The new study book, "Sun Hee and the Street Boy," was introduced and the children enjoyed the first chapter.

Mrs. Putnam led in worship. Patricia Down and Stevan Dorland took the offering.

Mrs. McKee distributed the "World Friends" magazine.

The meeting closed with a game led by Wayne Ormshaw.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: Last Friday I was expecting a group of eight for dinner. Six arrived fairly promptly at seven o'clock. A half-hour later, I received a call from the other couple that they had been delayed and would be along in twenty minutes. When they still hadn't arrived by eight o'clock, I started serving dinner. They finally arrived mid-meal. After dinner, the wife apologized, but said, since she had phoned, that she expected I'd delay dinner until they arrived, and was embarrassed to walk in and find everyone eating. Perhaps I should have waited. Would it have been more correct to do so? I certainly didn't want to make them feel awkward, but I did have other guests to consider.—Mrs. H. A., Boston, Mass.

Answer: If the delayed couple had requested you hold dinner and you had agreed, then, in fairness to them, you would have had to do so. However, when they still had not arrived by the stated time, you were quite justified in starting dinner so as not to inconvenience other guests and perhaps ruin a perfectly good meal. The phone call may have excused their lateness somewhat, but it still didn't excuse their arriving so unpardonably late — an hour or so after they made the call.

Question: My husband belongs to a professional club, where we sometimes meet for cocktails when I join him in town for dinner or the theatre. I don't care to go there often, because he usually deposits me at a table — either alone or with strangers — and goes off to discuss business or club politics with other members. I've explained that I think such behavior is rude, but he says it can't be helped and that I'm just being a bad sport. How would feel if you were treated the same way? — Mrs. R. H., Huntington, N.Y.

Answer: Like blowing my stack. True, in a professional club, a night lax by a little more tolerant about mixing business with purely social activity. But if your husband does have to speak to others for any length of time, it would be more courteous to invite them to your table, introduce you properly, then dispose of the business at hand as quickly as possible. A host's first obligation is always to his guest. Just because you happen to be related by marriage doesn't excuse such thoughtless behavior on the part of your husband.

gal," Mr. Fleming said.

He said the cabinet had authority in the Customs Tariff Act and the Financial Administration Act to impose the surcharges. He cited the Bretton Woods agreement and the Export and Import Permits Act as the legal backing for knocking down the tourist exemptions.

Mr. Fleming said the legality of the government's orders-in-council on June 24 is not in question unless the opposition wants to question the advice given the cabinet by the department and justice minister, E. A. Driedger—one of the "law officers of the Crown."

"If anybody questions it he has the right to go to the courts," he said.

Mr. Martin, member for Essex East. The justice minister had not proved that the cabinet's action was legal—he had simply said the government had obtained advice from the law officers of the Crown.

Mr. Martin said the opposite view is that Parliament is the only body which can give the authority to levy taxes. Mr. Martin said, "I know of no instance, none whatever."

"There is a contrary view," Customs Tariff Act gave the government power to take certain steps necessary to promote trade with all countries. Raising duties certainly did not violate the trade agreement.

At the root of the parliamentary system was the principle that the Commons can assert its authority over the government would not be "inconvenienced" with the general election that would flow from the government's defeat in the Commons? Would MPs allow this principle to be violated just so they would not be "inconvenienced" with the general election that would flow from the government not only acted illegally but would not seek Parliament's sanction.

Mr. Martin asked.

N.B. Farmer Loses Fight To Remain on Property On Fringe of Army Camp

FREDERICTON (CP) — A rugged old New Brunswick farmer and woodsman has lost his six-year fight to remain in his ramshackle home on the fringes of the army's 427-square mile Camp Gagetown near this provincial capital.

Nell Harnish, 62, who holds that man's home is his castle and has displayed a small arsenal to defend it, during the weekend came face to face with the one fear he exhibited in his struggle to stay home.

His house and land, expropriated by the army in 1954 to build the biggest army camp in the Commonwealth, Saturday became the last civilian-occupied property on the base to be turned over officially to the army.

Harnish, who at various times wielded three guns—two rifles, a .22 and a .303, and a shotgun—to outmanoeuvre the army and repel the RCMP and the Sunbury county sheriff, quietly met defeat Saturday.

The takeover came apparently when Harnish was served a writ after he entered a car driven to his property by the sheriff, RCMP and Fredericton lawyer H. A. Hanson who was charged by the Crown to get him off the land.

BURN SHACK

When the pressure was on two summers ago to move him from the 1ar-paper dwelling he admitted to porters:

"I'm afraid they'll burn it if they get me away some day."

Saturday, medical officers deemed the little house a health hazard. It was burned after his furniture was removed and stored.

Other buildings were spared until other belongings were removed. Besides his 30-by-20 foot one-room shack, he owned four other buildings, a cow and a horse.

"It's not very much, but it's mine," he once said proudly . . . then they can't take a man from his home." he had said in the same sentence.

It could not be learned Tuesday night where Mr. Harnish and his children are sheltered.

It is known that Mr. Harnish entered hospital in Fredericton some time Saturday. He was released Monday after a brief bout with pneumonia. The old woodsman also is reported to have suffered diabetis for years.

About 900 other families had to vacate homes when the army took over the 175,000 acres of rugged central New Brunswick woodland which since has been the training ground virtually hundreds of thousands of military troops. Camp Gagetown was opened officially in 1957.

With the exception of Harnish the last expropriation claim was settled in December, 1961.

Harnish held out because he claimed he owned 175 acres valued at more than $15,000. The government said he owned closer to 17 acres and offered $1,500.

Harnish chose to ignore the fact that 90 acres of his land were sold at public auction two years ago for non-payment of taxes. The federal government has been based on the remaining acreage.

At noon Saturday the Harnish property was put on a back road between the villages of Geary and Blissville, was turned over to Hanson as an agent of the justice department.

It could not be learned here whether Mr. Harnish actually accepted the $1,500 government expropriation cheque.

Parents Must Make Decision This Week

TORONTO (CP) — A young Toronto couple this week must decide whether to keep their six-week-old deformed son.

The baby was born without arms and legs after the mother took the tranquilizer thalidomide during early pregnancy. The baby must leave hospital by Friday.

Truck driver William Thompson, 20, and Mrs. Thompson, 17, say the boy, Brian Carl, will need expensive specialist treatment if he is to learn to perform even some of the simple functions of everyday living.

Mrs. Thompson said Tuesday they had not been permitted to see Brian Carl for the first few weeks because doctors thought "it might upset us too much."

"But we love our son and we spent a lot of time with him on Friday, trying to decide what can be done," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their other child, one-year-old Wilfred, live in a three-room apartment on a monthly income of $180.

They have no medical insurance and had to accept welfare funds last week to keep up hospital insurance coverage.

The Ontario department of welfare said three deformed babies into its care. Officials estimate there are about 40 thalidomide deformity cross Canada.

Would Stress Party Platform Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson said "Tuesday night his party would go into another election campaign now with substantially the same platform but would emphasize its good points instead of exposing weaknesses in the present Conservative government.

Mr. Pearson, interviewed on the CBC's weekly television program Press Conference, said that one reason that the Liberals did not get enough votes to win a majority of seats in the Commons on June 18 was that they failed to "communicate" their program clearly enough to the voters.

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker's estimate of the cost of the Liberal promises at $1,-000,000,000 annually plus more than $1,000,000,000 in immediate outlay was excessive.

The Liberals had never promised to put their whole program into effect at once, but over the life of a Parliament—five years.

The first task would be to "get the economy forward again," and then the cost of the program could be met through increased production and national income.

Will Never Break Ties Says Castro

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro said Tuesday night Cuba never will break its ties with the Soviet Union.

It was a reply to Monday's declaration by the United States' chief United Nations delegate, Adlai Stevenson, that "the maintenance of communism in the Americas is not negotiable."

"A Yankee invasion would obtain immense sacrifice from our people," said Castro in a television speech monitored here by Reuters and United Press Commons. Stevenson's statement plus more spilled. We will not renounce the support that could mean the averting of these rivers of blood."

Canada's Direct Investment In U.S. Industry Almost Doubles in Eleven Years

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada's direct investment in Canadian industry increased from $1,089,000,000 in 1951 to $1,029,000,000 in 1950, the U.S. commerce department reported Tuesday.

In the first comprehensive study of its kind in two decades, the department estimated U.S. investment in industry attracted more foreign capital from Canada in the last 10 years than from any other country except Britain.

However, the investment flow from Canada, for partial or full control of companies in the United States, tended to decline in the last few years and for the first time in more than a decade, there was a small net withdrawal of $3,000,000 in Canadian capital in 1961.

Total direct foreign investment in American firms from all countries more than doubled in the 1950-61 period, rising to $7,392,000,000 from $3,291,000 000. Britain led the field with $000,000 in interest, dividends per portion increasing to $2,484,-000,000 from $1,168,000,000.

While Britain was the main source of foreign funds for American industry, Canada led in the specific field of manufacturing by the most popular catagory of industry for foreign investors.

Concentrated mainly in the production of alcoholic beverages, machinery and nickel metals, Canadian direct investment in U.S. manufacturing rose to $975,000,000 in 1961 from $000 from $56,000 and in finance and insurance companies to $274,00 000 from $153,000,000.

Canadian manufacturers have about wholly-owned subsidiaries in the U.S., with more than one-half of them established before 1941. Canadians also own 12 of 17 foreign-controlled trolled life insurance companies operating in the U.S. and have extensive interest in American food chains, railroad branch lines, banks and some coal mines.

Canadian direct investments in the private sector totalled $4,-paid off to the extent of 5874,- earned $ames' earnings was paid on a year-to-year basis, this for income paid to Canadians rose to $85,000,000 in 1961 from $41,-000,000 in 1950.

Premier Lesage Rejects Idea of Socialist Trend In Speaking to Students

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Lesage rejected a suggestion Tuesday that, by expropriating private power companies, by is giving Quebec Liberal government a socialist trend.

"I am not a socialist, in the accepted sense of the word," he told a noon-hour question-and-answer session with more than 700 students at the University of Montreal.

"I am a Liberal in the fullest sense of the word. . . . I am social."

The suggestion that the power expropriation issue, on which the government called a snap election on Nov. 14, might lead to government takeovers in other industries was raised by a couple of students.

He replied to one of them that he does not believe it will be necessary to expropriate any other industries as processors of natural resources and such public utilities as telephone companies.

KEY TO DEVELOPMENT

He did say, however, that expropriation of 11 power companies is "the key to our industrial development."

From there, he said, Quebec can control participation in the control and development of new industries through investment.

The government has set up the general financing corporation in which Quebecers would invest their savings to provide capital for such developments as a steel complex now under study by French engineers and consultants.

Relaxed and apparently enjoying his 40-minute seminar, he followed an opening statement of 19 minutes, Mr. Lesage only once found himself stumped, that of forgetting the informality of the occasion.

Once, during his opening remarks, he appeared to be carried away by his oratory, as if at a public meeting, but he caught himself in time and cracked: "Oh, no. I don't want to make a political speech."

A coed suggested that expropriation of the power companies might be "the key to open the door" to independence for Quebec.

"When you open a door, miss," Mr. Lesage replied with ice in his voice, "you go in and build."

REJECTS SEPPARATISM

He flatly rejected separatism for Quebec.

"If Quebec is not economically strong, it does not have the means to separate politically, and if it is economically strong, there is no need for political separation."

Quebec was in no position to separate from the rest of Canada because of its "geopolitical position" and its economic dependence.

Mr. Lesage was asked why he had not called a plebiscite on the expropriation issue.

First, he replied, plebiscites are not customary in Quebec. He could recall none in provincial history.

The last Canadian referendum—the 1942 plebiscite on the conscription issue—had "produced confusion and bad feeling on racial groups that lasted for months and even years."

He asked why the government had not proposed expropriation legislation, without going to the people, Mr. Lesage said the government had no mandate to do so.

"When one is a true democrat, one associates the people with his government's great decisions," he said. "No one can reproach a government leader who places the government at stake on a question that is vital for its people."

Long-Term Move Starts To Heal Christendom Ruptures

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A long - term move toward restoring the disrupted unity of Christendom starts this week with the most grandiose and magnificent sanction of modern times.

It is a cautious beginning. And optimism about the outcome is overlaid with prudent reservations and candid acknowledgement of immense difficulties.

Yet there is a small hope, and possibly more than a hope, that after four centuries of schism and hostility the foundations may be laid over the next six months for a rapprochement between the Church of Rome and the rest of the Christian world.

Basically, that is the main purpose of the second Vatican council—the 21st General Assembly of the Roman Catholic Church—which opens Thursday in the Basilica of St. Peter's, the world's most famous church.

OCTOGENARIAN LEADS

Nearly 3,000 prelates, in copes and golden mitres, are gathered at the bidding of Pope John XXIII, an octogenarian from a peasant family of 14 children, whose benign personality and unexpected energy have helped generate a new atmosphere about his first ecumenical conference in nearly a century.

When broadly similar Anglo-Roman-Catholic Church will watch the conference with interest and sympathy. One of the best summaries of their attitude was delivered by Bernard pawley, 51-year - old canon of Ely Cathedral in Cambridgeshire who for the last 12 months has been at Rome as personal representative of the archbishop of Canterbury and York on the Vatican secretariat for promoting Christian unity.

Acknowledging all the difficulties, the canon comments:

"The indisputable fact must be kept clearly in view. For it is almost incredible that, in the face of present urgencies, bodies of Christians who agree about so much can be separated by so little."

Assessment Figure May Double in '63

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Free Press says a "high official" in the municipal affairs department as predicting Ontario municipalities will figure may double or even triple if municipal councils follow a new assessment guide to be released by the province in 1963.

The newspaper quotes the unidentified official as saying that residential assessment may increase from as much as 300 per cent, commercial and industrial 200 per cent and farming property 50 per cent, with speculation purposes 150 per cent.

The manual, which would be released in December, 1963 for presentation to the provincial legislature, would bring current assessment figures up to the years more in line with 1960 building values, the official is reported to have said.

He emphasized the legislature may decide to use only 80 per cent of the 1960 assessment values for municipal taxation purposes.

While the new manual will bring in more taxes, they shouldn't rise drastically for residential property owners, he said.

Admit Making Remarks About Policewoman

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto University fraternity leader says members of his fraternity shouted obscenities and remarks at a Negro policewoman at Saturday's Queen's-Toronto Intercollegiate football game, but other students did the same.

Alvin Shapiro, member of the students' administrative council, charged in a letter to the university undergraduate newspaper that members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity had yelled: "Take it off, nigger cop" "Next time we'll kill all the niggers," and "Hurray for Ross Barnett," governor of Mississippi who fought to prevent the admission of a Negro student to Mississippi University.

Fraternity Leader George Patarracchia admitted some members had shouted "some of the discriminatory chants, but added:

"We didn't start them. The whole student body was yelling."

He said there were no Jews or Negroes in his fraternity.

Computer to Count Votes In Nave of Church Built Over Apostle Peter's Tomb

ROME (CP)—The 21st ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church has a modern computer setting that could hardly be equalled anywhere.

The conference of 2,816 bishops, abbots, priors and cardinals to be opened Thursday by Pope John XXIII, takes place in the lofty basilica of St. Peter's, the smallest tenament of the most historically exciting city in the world.

The ancient church built by Constantine the Great over the tomb of the first of the apostles is the 16th century successor to the house St. Paul's Cathedral in London twice over, and the Cathedral in Pompiloi in a century vole last Friday. The National Assembly was dissolved the following day to clear the way for elections.

The polling days, which provide for the customary two ballots in French general elections, follow by three weeks the referendum set for Oct. 28 to approve de Gaulle's controversial plan for election of future presidents by universal suffrage.

BIG SWAMP

Also in St. Peter's is the magnificent Bernini colonnade, king of the Franks, knelt to be crowned emperor of the Holy Roman Empire on his Christmas night in the year 800.

The basilica, which can accommodate a congregation of 60,000, is approached from Piazza di San Pietro, the largest square in the world. Created in the 17th century Neapolitan sculptor Gian Lorenzo Bernini, the square is 1,115 feet long and 787 feet wide.

It is surrounded by a covered colonnade with 284 doric columns and 88 pillars. Atop the colonnade are the statues of 140 saints. An obelisk and two fountains stand in the centre of the square.

Rome was the home of Horace and Virgil, Juvenal, Catullus and Mazzini, Nero and Marcus Aurelius, Diocletian and Augustus, Michelangelo and Raphael.

Rome is where Edward Gibbon decided to write the Decline and Fall, where French essayist Montaigne came to cure his gallstones, where Shelley and Keats died building Nicolo Salvi died building the Fontana de Trevi.

French to Vote Nov. 18 and 25

PARIS (Reuters) — The government announced today that general elections will be held in France Nov. 18 and 25.

The dates—both on a Sunday—were announced in an official statement issued after a special meeting presided over by President de Gaulle.

The new elections were made necessary by the defeat of the government of Premier Georges Pompidou in a censure vote last

The dome of St. Peter's was designed by Michelangelo, who started at 72 and supervised work until his death in 1564, aged 89.

Eighty-nine burnished sanctuary lamps burn night and day around St. Peter's tomb. Nearby is the apostle's bronze statue, which the faithful wear down by worshippers touching or kissing

Tribunal Upholds Firing Of Two Don Jail Guards

TORONTO (CP)—A non-departmental tribunal set up by Reform Institutions Minister Haskett has upheld the dismissal of two Don Jail guards effective at the end of business dent last December.

Announcement of the decision an statement from the minister in Sudbury, was made Tuesday at a press conference called by Mr. Haskett.

Guard Anthony Simonson was fired for telling the press about a fellow guard who was said by the prematurely white hair Simonson and Keatings were fired for refusing to answer questions at a hearing into the incident.

T. Brendan Keatings, 30, who dyed his hair, was suspended for 10 days, then returned to his job and returned to his native England.

The judge found that both Simonson and Keatings were properly and justly discharged and that the guards were guilty of the officials of the department of reform institutions had acted properly—indeed they had taken the only action pos-sible," Mr. Haskett said.

NO REACTION

There was no immediate reaction from Simonson or Keatings.

The minister denied the "two were civilian clothes, to which the jail governor objected and said the investigation had made no ruling on what clothes should be worn by off-duty jail employees.

Mr. Haskett also said no rule has been laid down on whether employees may dye their hair or effect any other cosmetic alteration.

He said Judge Bennett found Simonson had gone to the press without the authorities of his duties and objections to his clothing to "revenge himself on the government" for doing this, Judge Bennett concluded, Simonson had violated his oath of secrecy.

In the case of James Keatings, Judge Bennett found: "Keatings' dyeing his hair was unfortunate, in my opinion, enters this case. I am satisfied that the matter was open to the department faced with an employee refusing to answer questions in an inquiry . . . is to discharge the employee."

OFFERED TRIBUNAL

Mr. Haskett said he had offered the guards an "impartial" tribunal outside my department" when they complained that

Vote System For Servicemen Is Criticized

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The system under which Canadian servicemen vote in federal elections was sharply criticized Tuesday by two justices of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland.

Chief Justice R. A. Winter and Mr. Justice H. A. Winter heard a petition presented by former solicitor-general William J. Browne, who is asking that the June 18 federal election in St. John's West be declared void because 34 servicemen who voted in the district should have cast ballots elsewhere.

The hearing continues today. Judge J. P. Dewis, deputy judge advocate general of the armed forces, testified that some servicemen who voted in St. John's West had given their residences as Happy Valley, Goose Bay, Labrador, Gagetown and Bridgetown, N.S., all outside the district.

Chief Justice Furlong said it was a case of "scandalous checking" on someone's part. There were "grave" irregularities" in the system—"a shocking state of affairs."

Mr. Dewis, who had known Capt. Dewis' testimony before, said he would have summond Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay to appear at the hearing and hear about the irregularities "at first hand."

Similar irregularities "may have happened all over Canada," Mr. Justice Winter said. The system as it now stands "doesn't work," said Chief Justice Furlong. "It's as simple as that."

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Winter can't be too far away. Several formations of Canada Geese have been seen here heading for the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith of Toronto, have left for home, via Trenton, where they will visit her sister, Mrs. Enid Conley. They spent last week with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer and family.

Anne Reid, first year student at Queen's University, Kingston, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Reid and brother Ted.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Runnalls, Chris and Steven of Harold, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Thompson, Helen-Anne and Larry, of Springbrook, celebrated Thanksgiving with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morton and Reed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cruikshanks and Miss Florence Greenley, all of Toronto, visited Mr. Cruikshanks' aunt, Mrs. Leslie Reid on Saturday.

Mrs. G. W. Jones, Stirling, spent a few days last week with her son, Ellis, and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mellejohn, Lynn, Douglas and Jimmie attended the forty-fifth (Ruby) wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Johnston in Marmora recently.

Simon Robb has returned home from Scotland where he visited his sister and brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riley and Brett, Cobourg, also Miss Patsy Riley of Grafton, were Thanksgiving Day guests of Mr. Riley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rutherford.

Thanksgiving weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKeown were their sons, Pte. of OAC, Guelph; Bill of Hamilton, also their daughter Mrs. Betty Hurst, and their daughter Agnes, nurse-in-training at Belleville General Hospital.

MEMORIAL AT BARD'S TOMB—Wreaths cover the tomb of William Shakespeare during a memorial service in Holy Trinity Church, Stratford-on-Avon, England. A committee has been formed to launch the tomb opened for the 400th anniversary of the bard's birth in 1964. Committee members hope the grave will produce evidence that Shakespeare was actually Shakespeare. (CP Photo).

Clues That Could Prove Shakespeare Lived May Be Interred With His Bones

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—The mystery of William Shakespeare's life may be solved by clues in the tomb that could solve it may still be interred with his bones.

Generations of scholars seeking concrete and conclusive evidence that Shakespeare was Shakespeare have been haunted by this possibility.

Disputing Shakespeare's authorship is a recognized popular pastime among the English-speaking peoples. Demands that his tomb should be opened and searched for corroborating manuscripts are inevitable adjuncts to the arguments.

The tomb that is the melancholy centre of this recurring interest lies a few feet to the left of the axle near the altar call of Holy Trinity church, Stratford-on-Avon.

It is an unobtrusive, coffin-shaped monument that is of grey Warwickshire sandstone and crumbling slightly with age. The plaque covering the chest that seeps through half the parish churches in England has left its watermarks on it.

UNWORTHY INSCRIPTION

Its ornaments are dull and prosaic. The inscription is a crude piece of carving in doggerel couplets that mock the poetic subtleties of the man who lies below:

"Good friend for Jesus sake forbeare, To digg the dust enclosed heare;

The curse has protected the stone since Shakespeare's death in 1616—despite ardent protests from experts who at times have seriously or seriously claimed more than a dozen of the dramatist's contemporaries really wrote his plays.

Of the various pretenders to the golden crown of English literature, three stand out. They are Francis Bacon, philosopher and essayist, Christopher Marlowe, the might-have-been of Elizabethan dramatists, and the learned poet Lord Oxford.

Recently the various intellectual forces supporting these three rallied to form the Shakespeare Action Committee —a body determined to see the grave opened for the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth in 1964.

REPORT FROM U.S.

Heading the committee is Francis Carr, a convinced Baconian and editor of the historical monthly Past and Future. Carr has since April been mobilizing a campaign to view the tomb. The movement opened late in August with a letter to The Times signed by Carr, poet Ronald Duncan and famed criminal lawyer Christmas Humphreys.

The committee, now joined by disciples from the United States, argues the curse was only intended to frighten grave robbers immediately after Shakespeare's death and contends the grave could be opened "reverently and in the true spirit of historical research."

Carr says it is suspicious that none of Shakespeare's manuscripts survive, although a man of his talents would have kept them near him. He believes the tomb may reveal some if not all the original copies of the plays.

The committee hints darkly of anonymous support from the major universities but it already knows it has a tough fight ahead. Its original letter sent a shudder of horror through the select literary circles of the land and earned the sneers of scientific experts.

Prof. J. Dover Wilson, a distinguished Shakespeare critic, immediately protested any plundering of the grave and poet T. S. Eliot added: "I am strongly against it."

A Midland archeologist said that with the misty River Avon running so near the churchyard only 40 feet from the altar, it is hardly likely parchment would have survived the rotting damp.

One of the strongest objections came from Trinity Church vicar, Rev. Thomas Bland. He believes that once a person's body is committed to the earth it should not, on ethical grounds, be dug up again.

"Even if I were given proof that there were manuscripts inside, even if my bishop were in favor of opening it, even if I had to stand up to the whole world—I would not allow the tomb to be disturbed," he says.

Bland is backed by Levi Fox, director of the Shakespeare Birthday Trust now trying to raise £250,000 for the centenary. He says: "My lips and those of fanatics should be resisted at all costs."

Meanwhile in the background various interested parties are delicately advancing alternatives that would satisfy both the searchers and the protectors.

A relatively tiny hole, through which a modified surgical endoscope could be passed, would tell the scholars much and perhaps everything they wish to know about the tomb without having to open it in the material sense," suggested one letter writer in The Times.

Another correspondent argued that the only way to obtain incontrovertible proof in the Shakespeare - Bacon dispute would be to feed the complete texts of both writers into a computer set to analyse vocabulary and verbal frequency.

In Stratford itself, where some 300,000 thrilled tourists a year stumble through the house that nobody is really sure was Shakespeare's birthplace, the residents remain dubious about the whole thing. One man summed up local feeling:

"I don't believe he was buried there in the first place. This town has made millions off him and you can still find people wandering around with bits of wood they've liesill of him and you can still find people wandering around with bits of wood they've liesill of him and you can still say they're relics of Shakespeare's house.

"But if he is there, I say say leave him be."

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Orville Dowdell, of Ashton, Ontario, was introduced by the chairman.

Mr. Dowdell is a member of the provincial executive, also of the O.F.U. marketing committee, a municipal clerk of his own township, as well as a successful farmer. He noted that it was his first visit to Hastings County and commented that farming in this county was not too different from that of his own.

However, land values in his area had greatly increased owing to the proximity to the city of Ottawa, and to the extension of "the green belt".

Furthermore, it was almost impossible for farmers, in his district to increase their land holdings or their acreage, even if they wished to expand, it was impersitive they move where such land was. He was a member of the O.F.U. since it was organized in his county, Mr. Dowdell outlined some of the experiences in his work with this organization locally and with the delegations to Ottawa and Toronto.

VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

He claimed that the experience and education he had received through the association with the O.F.U. had been as valuable as a university degree, and he would have missed one of the most enlightening periods of his life if he had not become an active member.

ROSLIN

O.F.U. Holds Annual Meet, Appoints 1962-63 Officers

ROSLIN — Hastings County annual convention of the Ontario Farmers' Union and potluck supper was held in Saint Paul's Church hall, Roslin, on Thursday evening.

After the supper, served by the ladies of the organization to a large gathering, the meeting was called to order by the county director, Harold Murphy.

Mr. Morton Reid was appointed acting secretary.

Mrs. Jeanne Williams, county lady director reported on her year's activities and stressed the importance of the coming provincial convention to be held in Lindsay October 22, 23 and 24th.

Three resolutions were brought before the convention and discussed, dealing with cattle marketing. The purchasing of dairy equipment, and with the electing of Marketing Board officers. All were voted on and approved and will be forwarded to the Provincial F.U. convention for further study.

1962-63 OFFICERS

The election of the 1962-63 county officers was in charge of Mr. Orville Hamilton, district director Bernard Murphy, Marysville; lady director — Mrs. Jeanne Williams, Tweed; brook; secretary — Mrs. Marjorie Graham, R.R. 2 Thomasburg; sub-director — Harold Sineburg; treasurer — Leslie Finch, Marysville; subdirectors — Mrs. Stanley Darby, Lorne Mackenzie, Carman Gibson, Wesley Farrell, Murney Hagerman, Harold Rob Cassidy, Clarence Graham, Earl Brennan, Pat Murphy and Tom Hamilton; board of directors—Mrs. Jim Spry, Mrs. Floyd Meeks, Mrs. Bernard Murphy, Mrs. A. L. Hamilton, Mrs. Earl Brennan, Mrs. William Bates, Mrs. Fred Elliott and Mrs. Jack Godfrey.

The guest speaker, Orville Dowdell, of Ashton, Ontario, was introduced by the chairman.

Mr. Dowdell is a member of the provincial executive, also of the O.F.U. marketing committee, a municipal clerk of his own township, as well as a successful farmer. He noted that it was his first visit to Hastings County and commented that farming in this county was not too different from that of his own.

He was a member of the O.F.U. since it was organized in his county, Mr. Dowdell outlined some of the experiences in his work with this organization locally and with the delegations to Ottawa and Toronto.

VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

He claimed that the experience and education he had received through the association with the O.F.U. had been as valuable as a university degree, and he would have missed one of the most enlightening periods of his life if he had not become an active member.

Referring to his work as a municipal clerk, he mentioned the salaries of the engineers, surveyor and lawyers that his township had to employ. He stated that every one of these groups had a representative organization and would not have been able to demand the salaries they did without their particular organization.

He felt that farmers should take a careful look at some of these facts and the way the labor had improved its bargaining power through union.

"The O.F.U. was the type of organization the farmers wanted and needed," he emphasized. In a voluntary group, such as the O.F.U the progress of the union depended on the continued loyalty and support of its present members. Those members, too, must be sufficiently sincere and dedicated in order to acquaint others of the opportunities that lie ahead in the work of the union.

Following a hearty vote of thanks by the chairman, there was a discussion period after which the meeting was adjourned.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Yankee bludgeoning," penned a couple of Bombing friends of mine eyeing the Giant pitching staff with a mouth-watering cat-and-canary look, "will take care of this world series. There's a home run parked in every Yankee shillalagh from one to nine. And they're liable to break out in a rash any moment."

I conceded the second part of the statement. But as has been evidenced thus far in the big diamond hassle, the Barbary Coast Giants have a IRA round-trippers tucked away in their war cudgels.

Take the willowy wand of one Chuck Hiller. They have named a new detergent after it. They call it "Sock." It has the kick of a twenty-mule team and guaranteed to clean four socks with one application.

A well-pitched game is a thing of beauty to watch. A no-hitter, one hitter, two hitter, etc., produce quiet inward thrills, especially if the guy is pitching for your team. But they haven't the sudden heart-wrenching, spine-tingling jolt that an out-of-the-park blast gives the faithful.

Back in 1957 when the Yankees' Don Larsen fashioned his famous series perfect game, Yankee addicts by the thousands sat in the big Bronx igloo frozen in their seats. A miracle was in the making. But it could be broken with every batter who strode to the plate.

I sat in the out-of-town press box high above the diamond, watching with grudging admiration a guy with no windup or a semblance of one, mow down the Dodger batters with monotonous regularity. When it was over the Yankee fans' sigh of relief swept across the river and rocked the creaking joints of venerable Ebbet's Field.

That was a lifetime thrill for the pitching lover. In fact I doubt if it will happen again in a world series. But the home-run addict can expect his "kicks" any minute, especially in these days of whip-lash bats and hopped-up balls.

In the ten fall festivals from 1953 to the current jousting, home runs have blasted out of the parks in all but ten of the 65 games. Since 1903, when the series was inaugurated, through 1961, 356 homers have rocketed into the October sky, the American League leading the National 223 to 133 ,an average of slightly more than one a game.

The home-run carries the germ of mass hysteria. Properly timed and placed it can convert a sullen, brooding, losing-side fandom into a crowd of bowling maniacs.

Take Bill Mazeroski's left-field wall blast in Pittsburg two years ago. It came in the ninth inning of the seventh game against the Yankees and produced a wave of hysteria and hallelujah choruses that outlasted the dawn. Hardly less was the three-run clout of Catcher Hal Smith on a losing earlier.

And Chuck Hiller's grand-slammer the other day rocketed across a continent to tidal-wave breakers of emotion that gave staid old Frisco it's biggest jolt since the famous earthquake.

And homers won two games for the Giants against the Yankees in the memorable 1923 world series. That was the year Babe Ruth hoisted three homers for a series record and the Bombers won their first world championship.

But the Babe's feat was overshadowed by the exploits of a washed-up outfielder, one Charley Dillon Stengel. Casey looked clumsy, comical and commonplace. He was a clown who spoke doubletalk, told stories, and a prankster, to boot.

The score was tied 4-4 in the Yankees' brand new stadium. In the top of the ninth Casey shot a screecher into the wrong field. It rolled between outfielders to the faraway fence. Casey puffed around first, chugged past second like a locomotive, lumbered, staggered past third and collapsed over the plate to win the opening game.

The Yankees exploded four homers to take the second tilt, two of them by Ruth. In the third game the score was 0-0 at the end of the seventh. Then up strode the "Mighty Casey."

Unlike his Mudville counterpart, Ole Case smote one into the right field bleachers. That quelled the Yankees who had been riding him all afternoon. He watched the ball sail over the wall, then thumb-to-nose, jogged around the bases. It was, until he won all those championships with the Yankees, his greatest day.

So let those who put most of their faith in pitching wait out their thrills. The magic words for me are "There it goes—Going. Gone . . ." Especially if a Giant bat rockets off the fence-bound missile.

Refuses to Appear

Liston Denies Hood Story

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston recised Tuesday to appear before a New York State legislative committee investigating professional boxing.

Liston, through a telegram signed by his lawyer, Morton Wilkin, denied previous testimony by another heavyweight boxer, Cortes Stewart, that Frank (Blinky) Palermo asked Stewart to be a sparring partner for the champ before his one-round kayo of Floyd Patterson Sept. 25 in Chicago.

Palermo at last year was described by a U.S. senate committee as a member of an underworld syndicate that controlled Liston's boxing destiny.

Wilkin wired the New York joint legislative committee, seeking to determine whether boxing should be outlawed in New York state, that Liston never had any conversation with Stewart, nor authorized any person to speak with him, directly or indirectly.

Hawks, Leafs Clash In NHL Opener

"Millions" On Ice

By BILL MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There will be dollar signs in the back of the fans' minds tonight as Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks open the National Hockey League season in Chicago.

On display will be the million-dollar line, undisputed property of the Hawks and a million-dollar player, still property of Toronto despite Chicago arguments to the contrary.

The spectacular will be a renewal of the rivalry between the Hawks and Leafs that ended last season when Toronto beat out Chicago for the Stanley Cup.

On other teams open Thursday night with Detroit Red Wings at New York Rangers and Montreal Canadiens at Boston Bruins.

Pre-season publicity zoomed to a high last week when Jim Norris, multi - millionaire co-owner of the Hawks, tried to buy Toronto left-winger Frank Mahovlich for $1,000,000. The deal has apparently died.

HAS HISTORY

He would have had Mahovlich to go along with his million-dollar line, Bobby Hull, Murray Balfour and Red Hay. Hull, of course, is better known than both his linemates—and probably worth twice as much. Last season he became the third player in NHL history to score 50 goals in a season.

Mahovlich last season had 33 goals and the season before 48.

It appears the biggest battle is going to be for the fourth and last playoff spot.

New York made it last season although Detroit and Boston figure things will be better for them this season.

Of the other three clubs, Montreal is given the edge to win first place for the sixth year in a row with Toronto and Chicago fighting it out for second spot.

NHL president Clarence Campbell says the league has "enough momentum to ensure a really good season" and he's optimistic about the box-office situation.

Changes among the players are mostly minor, but there are a couple of alterations in title for the men who stand behind the bench. Muzz Patrick of New York and Sid Abel of Detroit who last year held down the jobs of general manager and coach respectively on their clubs, this year will combine both jobs. They join Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs in the dual role.

Patrick takes over the coaching job from Doug Harvey, who last season combined the roles of player and coach and this season will concentrate on his job as a defenceman. A contract reported to be close to $30,000 teased him into returning to the New York after he quit last season.

WERE WITH KITCHENER

Also joining the regular New York lineup this season, at least for the time being, are right-winger Rod Gilbert, centre Jean Ratelle and defenceman Jim Neilson. All were with Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers of the Eastern International League last season although Gilbert saw one season and four playoff games and Ratelle 31 regular-season games with New York in the 1961-62 season.

Detroit is going again with two goaltenders, but this season Hank Bassen will not be one of them. He is going to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League and taking his place as Terry Sawchuk's co-hero will be Denis Riggin who, except for nine games with Detroit in the 1959-60 season, has spent all his professional career with Edmonton of the Western League.

Riggin, who has been hit in the eye twice—once the right and once the left — and has missed half a season each time, will be wearing a face mask patterned after the one used by Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante.

A newcomer on the rearguard is Doug Barkley, former Chicago property who tolled most of his pro career with Buffalo of the AHL and Calgary Stampeders of the WHL.

Replacing Bruce Gamble, who spent the latter part of last season in the Boston goal, will be Bob Perreault and Eddie Johnston. Manager Lynn Patrick favors Perrault, who "has looked good in camp." The 21-year-old netminder has played nine NHL games in his 11-year pro career, six with Montreal and three with Detroit and spent the last few seasons with Hershey Bears of the AHL.

HAVE NEW FACES

Montreal Canadiens, who finished first last season but were unable to get by Chicago in the Stanley Cup semi-finals, have two new faces. They are Gordon (Red Berenson), a Regina-born left winger who joined Canadiens from the University of Michigan at the tail end of last season, and defenceman Jean Gauthier from Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the EPHL, who was beaten out for a berth last season.

Chicago, which finished third behind Toronto last season, has a big setback before its first game. Allstar centre Stan Mikita badly sprained an ankle during the exhibition tour and is expected to be out of action for the first week or so.

Chicago Maki, who played 18 games with the EPHL in the west of last season with Buffalo, will play centre ice, and says coach Rudy Pilous, "he'll stick until he proves until he doesn't belong."

AHL Gets Under Way Tonight

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The American Hockey League—bolstered by the addition of a new franchise in Baltimore—opens its 1962-63 season tonight with a two-game schedule featuring Providence at Buffalo and Pittsburgh at Cleveland.

Quebec will be at Buffalo Friday, Cleveland at Rochester and Baltimore at Springfield. Baltimore will play its games in the city's new civic centre.

The league now comprises nine teams—the largest entry in 11 years. Baltimore will be placed in the Eastern Division with Hershey, Providence, Quebec and Springfield. Buffalo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Rochester are in the Western Section.

Each team plays a 72-game schedule, 36 at home and 36 on the road. Under the balanced schedule, each team will play the other eight clubs nine times.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If the exhibition-game standings are any yardstick, nobody in the eight-team Western Hockey League is going to finish the season any lower than third.

That they are not necessarily the right measure to judge the league will become increasingly apparent starting tonight in San Francisco when the Seals play on Portland Buckaroos in the opening action of the 1962-63 season.

The exhibition statistics show Vancouver and Seattle in front with two wins and a tess each. The Seals, Los Angeles Blades, Calgary Stampeders, Edmonton Flyers and Spokane Comets were tied right behind them with a win and a loss each. Portland—which took first place in the Southern Division during one regular schedule last year—was winless in both exhibition games. The six also-rans finished a game less each than the co-leaders.

BANS CIGARETTES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force has placed a ban on gifts of cigarettes by tobacco companies to men in the service's base hospitals, a spokesman said Saturday. An order was issued Sept. 17 banning gifts of cigarettes by the companies only because of what the USAF called "overwhelming evidence" linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer and other diseases. The order said such evidence "can no longer be ignored."

Cards Put "The Rifle" On Rack

ST. LOUIS (AP)—When St. Louis Cardinals take the field against Washington Redskins in their National Football League game next Sunday, they'll leave The Rifle on the rack.

Coach Wally Lemm said Tuesday he plans to start 23-year-old Charley Johnson at quarterback in place of Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry, the nine-year veteran from Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League who took over the job with the Cardinals last season.

Johnson saw just a little action as a third-string quarterback last year behind Etcheverry and Ralph Guglielmi. His first NFL regular season game appearance came last week when he played the last quarter of the 31-14 loss to New York Giants. He completed 7 of 16 passes for 97 yards.

Lemm said: "We feel that Johnson deserves a starting shot because of his performance against the Giants. I think he has good potential. He's intelligent, has a quick arm and can throw deep. I'll stick with him until he untracks himself."

Lemm said he knew the change wouldn't do anything for Etcheverry's peace of mind.

"It's going to hurt Sam. I don't feel that it's completely his fault. The crowd here seem to be against Sam. They blame him for everything and it undoubtedly has hurt him."

Etcheverry, a legend in the Canadian League, has been consistently booed in St. Louis. The jeers continued Sunday when he completed only four of 10 passes for 50 yards and was thrown for numerous losses while attempting passes.

Lemm absolved Etcheverry of much of the blame for the Cardinals' poor showing and called Cardinal pass protection Sunday terrible.

"I don't feel the test of Sam has been a good one," Lemm said.

U.S. Grabs Golf Lead

By ALAN CLINE

KAWANA, Japan (AP)—U.S. amateur golfers survived a pack-of putting troubles today and seized a slim lead over Canada in the third world amateur team championship of golf.

Canada's Gary Cowan took individual honors for the opening round of the 72-hole competition with a two-under-par 68 over the Pacific - rimmed Fuji course. But three United States golfers, Dick Sikes, Deane Beman and Labron Harris Jr., but together the best team score, 212, three strokes better than the Canadian side. New Zealand was third with 218.

Sikes, a 22-year-old University of Arkansas physical education student who twice has won the U.S. public links title, shot 33-36—69 over the difficult 6,567-yard, par 35-35—70 Fuji course.

Beman, a Bethesda, Md., insurance broker who was 1960 U.S. amateur champion, had a par 70 and Harris, the current U.S. amateur champion from Stillwater, Okla., had a 72."

COUNT THREE LOWEST

In the team competition for the Eisenhower Trophy, four men represent each nation but only the three lowest scores are counted each day. The fourth member of the U.S. team, Billy Joe Patton, had a 74 today and his score didn't figure in the team total.

Cowan posted nines of 33-35 in his brilliant round. He was joined by Nick Weslock at 71 and Bill Wakeham at 78 to give Canada a second-place total of 215.

KILLS MAN

FULTON, N.Y. (AP) — Orrin Wallace, 28, of Fulton, a service station operator, was killed Monday when a large truck tire on which he was working exploded. The explosion threw the 12 feet into the air, and his head struck the glass of an open overhead door. Police said the tire exploded under air pressure.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—The entry of Stafford Farms' Sound Stage and J. G. Cowan's Johns Champ had it all to themselves in Tuesday's featured Montanard Purse at Woodbine before 5,391 patrons. At the wire, Johns Champ had a nose edge in a picture finish.

Johns Champ led throughout the mile and a sixteenth on the dirt track in this event for juveniles. More than a mile of it involved a duel with F. Lang's Buttermilk Pike, which was overtaken by Sound Stage, a furlong from the wire.

Through that final eighth of a mile, Sound Stage and Johns Champ were virtually head-to-head. Their entry was a 6 to 5 choice on the tote board, while the third horse, Buttermilk Pike at 5 to 2. The entry returned $4.70, $3.50 and $2.80.

READY FOR SEASON

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Claude-Rael of Montreal Junior Canadiens said Tuesday night his has reduced his squad to 24 players and no further cuts will be made before the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season begins here Oct. 21 against Hamilton.

Meeting Gives O.K.

Boosters Back Juniors

The Belleville Boosters voted to keep junior hockey alive in this city at the conclusion of a stormy meeting among Booster Club regulars and a few other interested parties, held at the arena last night.

Various arguments on whether or not the organization should sponsor a junior team and if so, how, ranged throughout the evening.

OHA member Jack Devine, who chaired the meeting, insisted that because of the fast-approaching season an answer as to whether this city would have a team or not be given, was finally told that the Boosters would sponsor.

Another argument developed, some present wishing to elect a team executive on the spot while others wanted to defer this matter. A nominating committee, consisting of Jim Matthews, chairman, Don Barrett, Doh Whalen, Mel Richards, Dick Bears and Gordie Bell was named. The committee will name a slate of officers right away.

Financing of the team made for a hot issue. The possibility of a committee, consisting of two from the Chicago Black Hawks plus the hope that the Booster Club will be able to raise at least part of their $2,000 trust fund for this use, came up for discussion. The trust fund was set aside last year to be used to help any Belleville team competing in national or international competition.

"Senator" Harry Rollins proposed to raise money to help sponsor the club by collecting $10 donations from some 50% city merchants and individuals. Estimates as to how much it would cost to sponsor a team ranged from $2,800 to $6,600.

Gordie Bell, coach of last year's club, the Belleville Mr. Farlands, told the meeting that he thought about ten local players, including some re-claimed, who had been waived to other district teams last year, would be available this season.

It was felt that should Chicago give the club financial backing, something it has done for the past two years, the Hawks would also make some players available, if they were wanted. Dave Smith was the lone Hawk import on last year's team.

Ford to Get Third Game

Say Rain Gave Yankees Pitch Edge

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Houk and Alvin Dark say the 24-hour delay in the World Series won't help either team when the series resumes today with the fifth game.

But the baseball experts aren't all inclined to go along with the rival managers—Houk of New York and Dark of San Francisco—even though Tuesday's rain left the teams all square at two games apiece in the best-of-seven series.

The belief here is that the rain-out will be more helpful to the Yankees than to the Giants, planned to make a lineup or a pitching change.

The same right-handed pitchers who were to face each other Tuesday were ready to hook up today Ralph Terry for the Yankees and Jack Sanford for the Giants.

ODDS FAVOR YANKS

The delay also caused no change in the odds. The Yankees remained a 7-5 favorite to win today and 8-5 favorites to capture the series.

The weather forecast was not optimistic. The prediction was for clouds and fog during the night and mostly cloudy throughout the day.

The big change may come in the sixth game, scheduled to be played Friday in San Francisco after a day off for travel. Under the original pitching rotation, the fifth game starters were Yankee right-hander Bill Stafford for the Yankees and left-hander Billy Pierce for the Giants.

Dark still plans to pitch Pierce, who dropped a 3-2 decision to Stafford in the third game last Sunday.

But Houk most likely will switch from Stafford to Whitey Ford, the southpaw who was slated to work the seventh game if one was necessary. Ford was the opener, 6-2, and was not charged with a decision in the Yankees' 7-3 defeat in the fifth game. Whitey left for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning with the score tied 2-2.

SEES LITTLE ADVANTAGE

"While I don't see where the delay would give either team an advantage," said Houk, "it does give me a chance to go two days for the sixth game Friday."

"Before I would have used Stafford. Now I can start either Ford or Stafford. I won't decide until we arrive in San Francisco."

Dark said he would have preferred to play Tuesday but he felt certain the postponement would have no effect whatsoever on either team.

"I had planned to pitch Sanford in the fifth, Pierce in the sixth and come back with Sanford for the seventh game," he said. "The rotation is still the same except that I may use either Sanford or Billy O'Dell in the seventh game."

Fans Stood Four Hours In the Rain

NEW YORK (AP) — The fans in the standing room only section in deep leftfield at Yankee Stadium occupied precious front row space for four hours Tuesday before the fifth game was postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

Most said they'll be back today.

"I've just got time to make the last race at Belmont," said one, heading for the race track which operates rain or shine.

Aces Sell McKell To L.A. Blades

QUEBEC (CP) — Forward Fleming MacKell has been sold by Quebec Aces to the Canadian Hockey League to Los Angeles Blades of the Western League. It was announced Tuesday.

MacKell has been practising with the Blades for about two weeks and asked to be sold to Los Angeles, where he has set up a business, a spokesman for the Aces said.

He came to Quebec in the 1960-61 season as player-coach after a career in the National Hockey League. He left at the end of the season he resigned as coach but stayed on as a player.

Kuenn Says About Yankees

Same Power, Less Pitching

This is another of a series of daily stories analyzing the World Series by Harvey Kuenn of San Francisco Giants.

By HARVEY KUENN

NEW YORK (AP)—Just as much power, not as much pitching. That, I think, is a fair comparison between this year's New York Yankees and some of their other clubs I've played against when I was in the American League.

Let's start with hitting. This year's club has a lot of the same players as other Yankee teams — Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron, Elston Howard and Bobby Richardson to name some of them. Yogi has slipped some in the last couple of years, but is still a threat.

Mantle's a real steady ball player. A great player. You can't find the same thing about Roger Maris, who came to the Yankees just before I went to the National League. Either one can beat you with the big hit and each speed is underestimated as an offensive weapon.

Although I think their power is equal to former Yankee clubs, I think they had more over-all power in the past because of their strong bench. Guys like Hank Bauer, Johnny Mize, Enos Slaughter and Bob Cerv always could come out and beat you with one swing. They just don't seem to have as strong a bench anymore.

LACK PITCHING DEPTH

Defensively, this club is the equal of any other I saw. Tony Kubek is a fine shortstop, Clete Boyer is one of the surest fielders around and Bobby Richardson moves smartly all the time.

Then we come to the pitching. They still have Whitey Ford, and Ralph Terry has come along, becoming more of a pitcher than a thrower. Bill Stafford did a fine job against us. But their second-liners are not as strong and they don't have a reliable fourth starter.

Ford's as good as they come. He has real fine control and can hit the spots, not only with his fast ball, but more important with his breaking stuff. But, all in all, I think the Yankee starters in the past had the edge.

This year's bench isn't as strong even though Marshall Bridges has been impressive. Luis Arroyo has been handicapped by a sore arm.

Says Bobby Richardson

Rest Helps Yank Wounded

This is another of a series of daily stories analyzing the World Series by Bobby Richardson of New York Yankees.

By BOBBY RICHARDSON

NEW YORK (AP)—I think the day off due to rain will help the Yankees more than the Giants. A day of rest always seems to benefit the team that has lost its previous game.

It worked that way for us a number of times this season with our pitching staff shorthanded. It worked that way last weekend. After Jack Sanford beat us to even the series at one game apiece in San Francisco and had the next day off. The day after that, Bill Stafford put us back in the lead.

Today we feel confident Ralph Terry will win his first World Series game to give us a third victory. If we win today then we only have to play .500 ball in San Francisco to win the series.

Tuesday's postponement means that Stafford, with his injured left shin, will have four days rest instead of three between starts. It should also benefit Whitey Ford.

FORD MAY PITCH

If Friday's sixth game in Candlestick Park becomes a must game for us I wouldn't be surprised to see Whitey in there pitching. He worked only six innings Monday and he proved two years ago that he could pitch with only two days' rest.

The extra day will help the rest of our walking wounded. Moose Skowron jammed his right knee in a slide while fielding out a hit on Monday. Yogi Berra has had a bad right index finger for a month. Clete Boyer hurt a finger on his glove hand in practice Tuesday preceding the day before the series began, and Ellie Howard is carrying tape on his right wrist.

I think the series will go seven games. The teams are evenly matched. The Giants have good starting pitchers and a strong bullpen. They also have power even though our pitchers have been getting some of their big men out, like Orlando Cepeda and Harvey Kuenn but power has yet to assert itself.

KILLED BY BALL

LIMOGES, France (AP)—An over-zealous kick in a soccer match ended in the death of a 78 - year - old woman Tuesday. One of the players kicked the ball so hard it sailed out of the stadium and hit Mrs. Francois Desgranges, who was riding a bicycle on a nearby road. The woman lost her balance, fell on the street, and died from a fracture of the skull.

Turns Down 'Carry Back' Challenge

PARIS (AP)—Mrs. Cino Del Duca, owner of Soltikoff, turned thumbs down Tuesday on a five-horse match race proposed by Jack Price, owner-trainer of Carry Back.

Price proposed the match race because he thought Carry Back, the 1961 Kentucky Derby winner, could and should have done much better than tenth in the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe — Europe's richest race — on Sunday.

Price blamed a bad ride by Scobie Breasley, England's leading jockey the past two years, for the defeat.

"There is no question of me taking up the challenge," Mme. Del Duca said.

Soltikoff won the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe. It was the second victory in Soltikoff's racing career and he returned 40-1.

Owners of the other horses finishing in the first four places have not yet answered Price's challenge.

New Zealand Enters Two Trotters

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Sweden's Julienne Orsted Problem of New Zealand became the fifth and sixth foreign trotters Tuesday to be entered in the $45,000 Transoceanic Trot Oct. 18 at Yonkers Raceway.

Martin Tanenbaum, Yonkers president, said owners of the horses had accepted invitations for the 1¼-mile race exclusively for foreign trotters. The first four finishers will qualify to meet the four fastest U.S. trotters in the $60,000 United Nations Trot Oct. 21.

Among horses entered is the Canadian star, The Silk, winner of the Roosevelt International.

Japanese Art Called Origami Pays off For Student

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—Teen-agers with spare time might like to try their hand at an ancient Japanese art called origami.

Don Proul, 18-year-old Toronto Grade 13 student, did and in less than a year has earned himself more than $175 in pocket money.

"Ora means to fold and gami means paper, so origami means folding paper," says Don, whose collection of three-dimensional paper figures runs from dinosaurs to grasshoppers and Boston terriers.

Don sticks mainly to animals although he can make human figures, he said as he quickly (in about half a minute) transformed a piece of paper eight inches square into a man kneeling at prayer.

Paper - folding is simple to learn and almost everybody can do some as a child, referring to the fact that almost every school boy has made paper water bombs to throw around.

For more complex designs, however, there are a few things to learn.

BASIC FOLDS

First, a technical terminology, consisting of about 12 terms describing the different types of folds that can be used, and second, about six basic paper configurations or designs upon which more complicated designs can be built.

"About 1,000 models could be developed on one of these bases if you want to spend your lifetime at it."

Ideally, the origamist should do his cutting of the paper but Don still allows himself up to four cuts to a model. "Long slender fingers and fairly long fingernails are an asset."

Accuracy is not too important when working with larger pieces of paper, but with smaller designs it's the foremost consideration.

Don usually works with colored eight-inch-square sheets of thin rice paper which he has to order from New York. But, eager to try sifything, he once made a frog out of a postage stamp—"on a bet."

The most complex design he has attempted was a grasshopper which involves more than 800 folds in a 10-inch-square piece of paper.

Don stumbled on this ancient art accidentally while working part time in a public library. "I found a book on the shelves that had never been taken out, looked through it, and decided to take it home for my sister. But once I started looking at it, she never had a chance to see it again."

This book explained, with words and diagrams, the basic steps in paper-folding. More complex books on the subject are hard to get in Canada, Don says.

Paper figures can be used not only for decorating but for fun at parties. For example, bowties and ash trays can be made from dollar bills, and hats of many shapes and sizes can be produced.

Don has discovered that making mobiles — free-moving figures which dangle from ceilings on strings and coat hangers—is profitable.

"They cost about three cents to make and can be sold for about $2.

AT THE FAIR — Captivating . . . That's the only word that effectively applicable to Paula Prentiss. We might also add — cute, curvaceous and cuddlesome! Paula is currently co-starring with Jim Hutton and Jack Carter in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical comedy "The Horizontal Lieutenant" opening Thursday at the Park Theatre. On the same program she added musical hit for everyone, "The Lady Is A Square," starring Frankie Vaughan, Janette Scott, Anna Neagle with Walter Susskind directing the famous Youth Orchestra. Both films are first Belleville showings.

Jumping to Conclusions, Do You Agree With Them?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions—(and how many do you agree with?):

A filet mignon steak is a symbol of the good life to many, but actually it is one of the most overrated and tasteless of foods—as I explain at the victory of snobbery over real values.

If you had to choose between eating nothing but filet mignon and gravy, or nothing but rice and gravy, you'd probably last longer on the latter — and enjoy it more. Rice holds its falvor appeal longer than any other single food.

When he is with two women, the quickest way for a man to make an enemy is to light the cigarette of one—and forget to light the cigarette of the other. (A wife will put up with a husband who beats her in private if he always lights her cigarette in public.)

The thing fat men are most fastidious about is their feet. Their shoes usually have a better shine than those of skinny men.

AGE AND THE SEXES

A woman over 50 who tries to hide her years by wearing so much makeup looks no more foolish than a man over 50 who insists on playing tennis to prove he's still young.

An executive who brags that that his door is open to anyone actually keeps that door open so that he can glance out at his pretty secretary.

A man who invariably wears a four-in-hand necktie invariably thinks a man who invariably wears a bow tie hasn't quite grown up.

Two strangers riding up alone in an automatic elevator never comment on anything except the weather—unless one of them has been drinking.

Follow the males

The real reason that so many women have taken up bowling is—that's where the men are.

Few things make a man feel more helpless than having a light bulb burn out while he is shaving.

It is hard to understand why a woman who cheerfully carves up a chicken in her own kitchen acts so squeamish about baiting her own hook when she goes fishing.

The man who smiles through every loss isn't necessarily a good sport. He is more likely to be merely a poor player who doesn't have enough sense to keep his mind on the game.

Bankers don't like to make loans to borrowers who say: "After all, money isn't everything."

Sports in Brief

TO INVITE TV BIDS

MONTREAL (CP)—The Eastern Football Conference television committee decided Tuesday to invite bids for game coverage next year from both the CBC and CTV networks. "It won't necessarily be the highest bid that will be accepted, either," said Vern Ackerman, president of the Montreal Alouettes and chairman of the committee. "There are far more important considerations." He did not elaborate.

AGAIN TEAM CAPTAIN

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins named Don McKenney captain Tuesday for the second straight year of the National Hockey League club. The NHL season opens Thursday. McKenney is a centre who scored 22 goals and 35 assists last season. He is starting his ninth season for the Bruins, ranking 61th among the NHL's active point-makers.

TEAM JOINS LEAGUE

NEW YORK (AP) — The newly - enlarged American Hockey League opens its 1962-63 season tonight with two games —Providence at Buffalo and Pittsburgh at Cleveland. With the addition of the Baltimore Clippers, the league now has nine clubs, the most since the 1951-52 season. Baltimore will make its debut Friday at Springfield.

HEADS LEAGUE

NEW YORK (AP)—The game of musical chairs between Alabama and Ohio State in the U.S. college football rankings has ended. It may be a long time before highly touted Ohio State again is in the running for the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press weekly football poll. Unbeaten Alabama, 3-0, moved up from second place to first by squeaking past weak Vanderbilt 17-7, while Ohio State, 1-1, was the victim of a resounding 9-7 upset by UCLA.

The Trots

Driven by Ken Carmichael, Bye Bye Ezra completed the mile C-1 trot in 2:09 3-5, paying $5, $3.80, $2.50. Island Song was third.

Jap Wins World Title

TOKYO (Reuters) — Matashiko Harada of Japan won the world flyweight boxing title here tonight by knocking out the titleholder, Thailand's Fone Hingpetch, in the 11th round of a scheduled 15-round bout.

Carol Burnett Picks Up Bundle of Money on Own

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Carol Burnett was back in town.

Carol is the putty-faced "ugly who romped to the heights of success as Garry Moore's irrepressible buddy. She has the Emmies to show for it.

She also has the beginnings of a serious fortune now that she is off on her own. She went out this summer "with much trepidation" on the Carol Burnett Show, playing big outdoor stadiums as well as the Las Vegas big time.

And what did she pick up? A bundle of money from smash business, a new reputation for being able to carry the load as a single.

REPORTS WRONG

"Some people got it wrong about how I left Garry, she said in an interview. A few reports made it sound like a benevolent kiss-off—that he was getting rid of me.

"It wasn't that way at all. I went to him last year and said I thought after four seasons that it was time for me to leave and see if I could make it on my own. Garry was very sweet and understanding. He said he would like me to stay, but he knew how I felt. He said that he once had to decide to leave Jimmy Durante."

Having proved herself on the summer tour, Carol is branching out in all directions. She'll be doing some television specials this season. There is talk of movies for her, and she has signed for a Jules Styne musical on Broadway next season based on the book The Unfair Sex.

Lawyers of The Defenders To Fight M'Naghten Rule

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Of course I know the M'Naghten formula," remarked psychiatrist Theodore Bassett in the opening episode of The 11th Hour a couple of weeks back. He had been called in by the court to determine whether a pretty young matron accused of killing her husband was legally sane or insane.

Lawyers Lawrence and Kenneth Preston of The Defenders will challenge the M'Naghten rule in a two-part drama starting Oct. 20, about a young man, apparently mentally ill, who kills a woman.

Obviously, it's going to be a big year for the M'Naghten rule on television, particularly on The 11th Hour which is concerned with forensic psychiatry — the application of psychiatry in law courts.

Although hardly a household word—although it well may be by season's end—the M'Naghten rule is the sole test of criminal insanity used today in the courts of England. It is a definition of insanity requiring proof that an accused, because of his mental state, did not know "the nature and quality of the act he was doing, or if he did know it, that he did not know he was doing what was wrong."

IS CONTROVERSIAL

The rule is a highly controversial one in medical and psychiatric circles. One poll of more than 300 psychiatrists a few years ago showed that 80 per cent found it "unsatisfactory"). Now, it appears, the general television-viewing pub lic will have a chance to form opinions on the subject.

It has been in use more than 100 years—since before Sigmund Freud was born, and came from an English case in 1843 when a man named M'Naghten was found "not guilty by reason of insanity" of the killing of the secretary of Sir Robert Peel.

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—Teen-agers with spare time might like to try their hand at an ancient Japanese art called origami.

Don Prout, 18-year-old Toronto Grade 13 student, did and in less than a year has earned himself more than $175 in pocket money.

"Ora means to fold and gami means paper, so origami means folding paper," says Don, whose collection of three-dimensional paper figures runs from dinosaurs to grasshoppers and Boston terriers.

Don sticks mainly to animals although he can make human figures, he said as he quickly (in about half a minute) transformed a piece of paper eight inches square into a man kneeling at prayer.

Paper — folding is simple to learn and almost everybody can do some, he said, referring to the fact that almost every school boy has made paper water bombs to throw around.

For more complex designs, however, there are a few things to learn.

BASIC FOLDS

First, a technical terminology consisting of about 12 terms describing the different types of folds that can be used, and second, about six basic paper configurations or designs upon which more complicated designs can be built.

"About 1,000 models could be developed on one of these bases if you want to spend your lifetime at it."

Ideally, the origamist should do his cutting of the paper but Don still allows himself up to four cuts to a model. "Long slender fingers and fairly long fingernails are an asset."

Accuracy is not too important when working with larger pieces of paper, but with smaller designs it's the foremost consideration.

Don usually works with colored eight-inch-square sheets of thin rice paper which he has to order from New York. But, eager to try anything, he once made a frog out of a postage stamp—"on a bet."

The most complex design he has attempted was a grasshopper which involves more than 350 folds in a 10-inch-square piece of paper.

Don stumbled on this ancient art accidentally while working part time in a public library. "I found a book on the shelves that had never been taken out, looked through it, and decided to take it home for my sister. But once I started looking at it, she never had a chance to see it again."

This book explained, with words and diagrams, the basic steps in paper-folding. More complex books on the subject are hard to get in Canada, Don says.

Paper figures can be used not only for decorating but for fun at parties. For example, bow ties and ash trays can be made from dollar bills, and hats of many shapes and sizes can be produced.

Don has discovered that making mobiles — free-moving figures which dangle from ceilings on strings and coat hangures — is profitable.

"They cost about three cents to make and can be sold for about $1.

AT THE PARK — Captivating . . . That's only one of the adjectives that describe Carol Burnett in the night club act, comic, curvaceous and cuddlesome! Penile is currently co-starring with Jim Hutton and Jack Carter in the new Warner-Cinerama-Mayer comedy "The Horizontal Lieutenant," opening this week at the Park Theatre. On the set with the camera focused on the wedded musical hit for everyone, "The Lady Is A Square," starring Frankie Vaughan, Janette Scott, Dennis Price and Walter Sussikind directing the famous o'tuh Orchestra. Both top hits are from Belleville showings.

Jumping to Conclusions, Do You Agree With Them?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions—(and how many do you agree with?):

A filet mignon steak is a symbol of the good life to many, but actually it is one of the most overrated and tasteless of foods—an example of the victory of snobbery over real values.

If you had to choose between eating nothing but filet mignon and gravy, or nothing but rice and gravy, you'd probably last longer on the latter — and enjoy it more. Rice holds its flavor appeal longer than any other single food.

When he is with two women, the quickest way for a man to make an enemy is to light the cigarette of one—and forget to light the cigarette of the other. (A wife will put up with a husband who beats her in private if he always lights her cigarette in public.)

The thing fat men are most fastidious about is their feet. Their shoes usually have a better shine than those of skinny men.

AGE AND THE SEXES

A woman over 50 who tries to hide her years by wearing too much makeup looks more foolish than a man over 50 who insists on playing tennis to prove he's still young.

An executive who brags that that his door is open to anyone actually keeps that door open so that he can glance out at his pretty secretary.

A man who invariably wears a four-in-hand necktie invariably thinks a man who invariably wears a bow tie hasn't quite grown up.

Two strangers riding up alone in an automatic elevator never comment on anything except the weather—unless one of them has been drinking.

How the males

The real reason that so many women have taken up bowling is—that's where the men are.

Few things make a man feel more helpless than having a light bulb burn out while he is shaving.

It is hard to understand why a woman who cheerfully carves up a chicken in her own kitchen acts so squeamish about bailing her own hook when she goes fishing.

The man who smiles through every loss isn't necessarily a good sport. He is more likely to be merely a poor player who doesn't have enough sense to keep his mind on the game.

Bankers don't like to make loans to borrowers who say: "After all, money isn't everything."

Sports in Brief

TO INVITE TV BIDS

MONTREAL (CP)—The Eastern Football Conference television committee decided Tuesday to invite bids for game coverage next year from both the CBC and CTV networks. "It won't necessarily be the highest bid that will be accepted, however," said Al Workman, president of the Montreal Alouettes and chairman of the committee. "There are far more important considerations." He did not elaborate.

AGAIN TEAM CAPTAIN

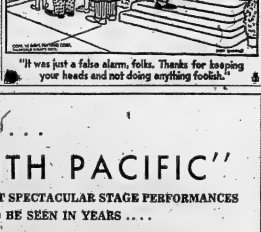
BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins named Don McKenney captain Tuesday for the second straight year of the National Hockey League club. The NHL season opens Thursday. McKenney, a centre who scored 22 goals and 33 assists last season. He is starting his ninth season for the Bruins, ranking 11th among the NHL's active pointmakers.

TEAM JOINS LEAGUE

NEW YORK (AP) — The newly - enlarged American Hockey League opens its 1962-63 season tonight with two games —Providence at Buffalo and Pittsburgh at Cleveland. With the addition of the Baltimore Clippers, the league now has nine clubs, the most since the 1951-52 season. Baltimore will make its debut Friday at Springfield.

HEADS LEAGUE

NEW YORK (AP)—The game of musical chairs between Alabama and Ohio State in the U.S. college football rankings has ended. It may be a long time before highly touted Ohio State again is in the running for the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press weekly football poll. Unbeaten Alabama, 3-0, moved up from second place to first by squeaking past weak Vanderbilt 17-7, while Ohio State, 1-1, was the victim of a resounding 9-7 upset by UCLA.



The Trots

Driven by Ken Carmichael, Bye Bye Ezra completed the mile C-1 trot in 2:00 3-5, paying $8, $2.80, $2.85. Island Song was third.

Carol Burnett Picks Up Bundle of Money on Own

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Carol Burnett was back in town.

Carol is the putty-faced TV zany who romped to the heights of success as Garry Moore's irrepressible buddy. She has the Emmies to show for it.

She also has the beginnings of a serious forums now that she is off on her own. She went out this summer "with mush-trepidation" on the Carol Burnett Show, playing big outdoor stadiums as well as the Las Vegas big time.

And what did she pick up? A bundle of money from smash business, a new reputation she being able to carry the load as a single.

REPORTS WRONG

"Some people got it wrong about how I left Garry, she said in an interview. A few reports made it sound like a benevolent kiss-off—that he was getting rid of me.

"It wasn't that way at all. I went to him last year and said I thought after four seasons that it was time for me to leave and see if I could make it on my own. Garry was very sweet and understanding. He said he would like me to stay, but he knew how I felt. He said that he once had to decide to leave Jimmy Durante."

Having proved herself on the summer tour, Carol is branching out in all directions. She'll be doing some television specials this season. There is talk of movies for her, and she has signed for a Jules Styne musical on Broadway next season based on the book The Unfair Sex.

"Off The Beat"

The Belanger Story

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

TORONTO (CP)—In one way or another, Albert (Frenchy) Belanger has spent all of his 58 years in Cabbagetown, a decessed square-mile area bordering downtown Toronto on the east. It was there he rocketed to fame as a fighter and, with his money gone, returned to sling beer.

His story is one that has been the trademark of men who come from the wrong side of the railway tracks, use their fists to make a fortune, blow it and then fade into obscurity. In Belanger's case, he returned to the area of his birthplace to make a living.

Frenchy developed the technique of alley fighting, a style that eventually brought him the world featherweight title. It was the fight or survive around his neighborhood in his youth and after cleaning up on the tough kids, he decided to put his fists to work for him.

Years later he reminisced about his early street-fighting days and told a reporter: "I found out you could do the same thing in a different place and get paid for it."

WON BIG ONES

Frency had an uninspiring apprenticeship of about 60 amateur fights. He lost more than half of them, but won the big ones.

He was a crowd pleaser. He knew little about the art of boxing. He was a flat-footed fighter who was willing to take two or three belts while looking for an opening to unleash his own dynamite.

In the mid-1920s the young French-Canadian caught the eye of Davey Garrity, operator of what was known then as the Union Jack Athletic Club in Cabbagetown. It was a big break for Frenchy.

Garrity, who had money of his own, took over as manager. And in their five-year partnership that ended in 1930 when Belanger quit as a fighter, he rolled up more than $30,000 in purses. Garrity never took a nickel.

The highlight of Belanger's career came on the night of Dec. 19, 1927, at the Coliseum on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds in Toronto. In the pro ranks only three years, he decisioned Ernie Jarvis of England to win the world title in the 112-pound class.

REIGN WAS BRIEF

The bout drew a crowd of nearly 10,000, a gate of close to $25,000 and each fighter received $5,000. On Feb. 6, 1928, Frankie Genaro of New York lifted the title on a 12-round decision, again at the Coliseum.

In those pre - slump days, when the dollar was worth 100 cents, Frenchy was a comparatively rich man. He bought a home for his parents and another for himself and his wife, Ivy—both outside of Cabbagetown—but soon found himself short of cash.

When beer parlors were introduced in Ontario hotels in 1934, Frenchy got a job as a waiter in a Cabbagetown hotel owned by Mickey Wilson, another product of the area.

"He stayed with me for more than 20 years," Wilson said in an interview the other day.

A well - scrambled left ear and the marks of ring battles around his eyes were reminders to patrons that it wouldn't pay wise to start any rough stuff, even in Cabbagetown where brawls are common any night in the week after beer parlor closing hours.

AVOIDED BRAWLS

"In all the years he worked

for me, Frenchy never got into a scrap," Wilson said. "He never looked for trouble; he never went around as Belanger the fighter. As a matter of fact, he walked away from arguments."

Except for a brief wartime job on the Toronto docks, Frenchy worked for Wilson from 1934 until a couple of years ago. In 1960 he left to become a waiter in another hotel, at the south end of Cabbagetown.

Nearly two months ago, Frenchy suffered a stroke. "It was coming on him for about 10 years," Wilson said. "He blacked out lots of times while working for me."

Ten days ago his wife visited him in hospital, collapsed and died at his bedside.

He was elected to Canada's Sports Hall of Fame in 1956 and last month officials thought it would be a good idea if they would be a good idea if they presented Frenchy with a crest in his hospital room. The ceremony was postponed.

French Belanger doesn't recognize anybody.

Eskimos Won't Trade Parker, But

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos are willing to listen to trade offers for star quarterback Jackie Parker if the price is right, but a report that the club has decided to trade him to the highest bidder in the off-season is "pure fantasy," general manager Joe Ryan said Tuesday.

Ryan was commenting on a story in the Calgary Herald which said the Western Football Conference Eskimos had decided to trade Parker and wanted good Canadian players and cash.

"We are not contemplating trading Parker," Ryan said. "But we will listen if we are offered sufficient high-class Canadian talent and are sure we can replace him."

Mick Says He Is 'Too Anxious'

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle glumly surveyed his .133 World Series batting average today and decided he was too eager to hit his first home run.

Going into the fifth game of the series against San Francisco Giants, the New York Yanks centerfielder and team leader has collected a paltry two hits in 15 times at bat and not an RBI.

But he's not hitting the panic button and neither is Yank manager, Ralph Houk.

"I guess," said Mantle, "my trouble is that I am too anxious to hit my first home run. I know I have struck out three times when I should have walked."

Reason Gretel Lost?

"American Boat Faster"

By PAUL ROSENFELD

TORONTO (CP)—If the designers of the Australian yacht Gretel ask skipper Jock Sturrock for advice, he'll suggest a few minor changes — but he won't make an alibi for losing the America's Cup series.

Sturrock, in Toronto Tuesday night for his first television appearance since arriving in North America three months ago, proved adept at evading direct questions.

Sturrock and his crew captured the imagination of sailing enthusiasts with Gretel's gallant but unsuccessful attempt to defeat the United States' Weatherly in the sailing event which ended two weeks ago.

Why hasn't he appeared on television before: He was asked in an interview.

'WASN'T AVAILABLE'

"Let's say I wasn't available," he smiled.

Why did Weatherly defeat the graceful Gretel?

"She was going a bit faster," was his evasive reply.

Sturrock guided his 12-metre yacht to win over Weatherly in the second race and lost the fourth race by 26 seconds—the closest finish in the history of the competition.

The event was a best-of-seven series over a 24-mile course in the Atlantic Ocean off Newport, R.I. Weatherly took four races to Gretel's one.

"She was always slightly faster to windward," was Sturrock's only comment on Weatherly's performance.

The 45-year-old lumberman from Melbourne will return to Australia a week from Friday. The rest of his crew is scattered throughout the world, taking vacations before returning to their jobs.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Astrological Forecast

For October 11.
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Road becomes smooth. You make your way by accepting the best in others. No time for excess skepticism. Cycle moving toward the top. Your actions are blessed with good timing.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Emphasis on travel, including journeys of the mind. Time to learn, to exercise intellectual curiosity. Friends, hopes, associates play dominant role. Opportunities galore. Be prepared in advance.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Trying to accomplish everything in a day leads to waste. Be careful where details are concerned. Use imagination in constructive manner. See problem from all angles.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Be sure of actions. Refuse to take things for granted. Check and double check. Favorable aspects indicate you can succeed in achieving goal. Make success "pay off" by being thorough.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Time for "make-believe" is over. There are some hard facts to be faced. Self-control essential, particularly in finances. Stop "gambling." Wager only on your creative abilities.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Cycle has been higher. Means you should exercise caution. Say maybe instead of "yes." Do not attempt to skip details or to force your way. Postpone journey, if practical.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Strive for true expression. Let others know where you really stand. Get rid of shell and express yourself. State position clearly. You will be amazed at how many see "your side."

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forthright claim receives attention. You are able to collect debts, receive credit long due. Assert yourself. Rule out timidity. Superiors will respect straight talk.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forces scattered unless you concentrate. Means be sure you are taking correct road. Check. Ask questions. Be willing to expand. Advertise. Spotlight public relations.

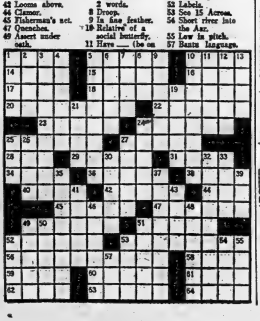
Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Like Aries, permit others to reveal their best side. But remain alert to opportunity. You must take initiative. Your strength lies in knowledge. Check facts. Be ready to present them.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Member of opposite sex presents intriguing question. Answer must come from within. Ask yourself if you can emotionally afford the consequences. Truthful answer provides solution to dilemma.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Harmony in home very important. Frustration results if you attempt to "split" loved one. Be mature. Give loved one benefit of a doubt.

If today is your birthday you are creative, artistic, and have a tendency to blame yourself for all that goes wrong. You have much to accomplish now. Go to it.

GENERAL TENDENCY: — Financial maneuver consummated. Headlines tell of budgets, expenditures, taxes, promises to repay.



MAKE SWEEP

TOKYO (AP) — Some 5,000 policemen made an anti-hood-lum sweep in Tokyo and 14 prefectures today. They arrested 945 persons and seized 105 weapons and 400 packs of heroin. The operation was aimed particularly at gangs dealing in narcotics.

PREVENT FIRES!

In October, 1871, a fire started in Chicago and when it was finished, two hundred people had died, one hundred and sixty eight million dollars worth of property had been destroyed and one hundred thousand people had lost their homes.

The anniversary of this fire is held each year in October by Fire Prevention Week.

Fires are very seldom deplorable accidents but the consequence of neglect and carelessness. A fire can take your life and your property. Take whatever preventive action is necessary to stop fires at your home and business.

Talks Trying To Avert CPR Strike Collapse

Believed Federal Govt. May Enter Negotiations

MONTREAL (CP) — Some lead from the federal government was awaited today to get talks aimed at averting a train stopping strike of 6,000 CPR trainmen back on the track.

Negotiations aimed at settling the contract demands of the trainmen before their Oct. 22 strike deadline collapsed Wednesday after one brief meeting.

In an official statement, CPR Vice - President R. A. Emerson said he "assumes" the federal government will intervene.

He said Federal Labor Minister Starr has been informed of the breakdown and added that although no further talks are arranged with representatives of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC), CPR officials are ready to meet with the minister in Ottawa or any where else.

STOP ALL TRAFFIC

The union vice - presidents Wilbur A. Kelly of Ottawa and Gordon Gale of Winnipeg, also in Ottawa, are ready to go back into negotiations.

Any possibility that the CPR could run some passenger and freight trains over at least part of its 17,000-mile network was rubbed out Wednesday when Emerson said a walkout by the trainmen would immediately stop all traffic.

He said a walkout would affect a total of 60,000 other CPR employees.

There was no immediate indication from the railroad unions whether they would support a trainmen's strike, if the detail should come to that.

RULES HALT TALKS

Both parties said the talks—the first since the union announced its final offer—broke off like a week ago—ground to a halt over the question of a complicated series of work rules after both parties had agreed on at least the size of a wage increase.

Mr. Emerson said the CPR offer of a 10-cent-an-hour and eight per-cent increase—the same as was won by CNR trainmen May 1 by board order—"is the most generous" he could go.

Mr. Kelly said the union is ready to "consider" work rules one by one, but it will not accept a package deal. Some of the proposed changes would mean a reduction in pay that would exceed the eight-per-cent increase from management.

The union covers CPR conductors, trainmen and yardmen. There are between $4,600 and $7,000 a year.

Million-Dollar Sale of Big M Again Denied

TORONTO (CP)—Hockey circles started buzzing again today with a report that Toronto Maple Leafs have decided to sell star left winger Frank Mahovlich to Chicago Black Hawks for $1,000,000.

The report, emanating from the Toronto radio station CKFH, was promptly denied by Stafford Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens Limited who last Saturday rejected the Hawks' $1,000,000 cheque following an offer made the night before at a downtown Toronto hotel.

Joe Moore, sports director of CKFH, said in a broadcast that the Leafs will accept the offer made for Mahovlich's services by Hawk owner Jim Norris.

"The Leafs have decided to take the money," Morgan said.

"Norris will be notified this morning that the Leafs have called his bluff."

"This is all news to me," Smythe said. "I know nothing about it."

The Leafs and Hawks clashed in Chicago Wednesday as the National Hockey League launched its 1962-63 campaign. The Leafs won 3-1.

In an interview after the game, Norris said his offer "is still open."

Mahovlich, a 34-year-old 194-pounder, signed a four-year contract with the Leafs last weekend for a reported $110,000.

Harold Ballard, vice-president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said: "I don't know anything about it. There has been no meeting of the board of directors and no meeting has been set up. It sounds as though somebody is whistling in the dark."

John Bassett, director of Maple Leaf Gardens and a major stockholder, said he would recommend to other shareholders that Mahovlich be sold although "I hate to see a player of that calibre leave Toronto."

Parliament At a Glance

(By the Canadian Press)

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10, 1962

Worker Minister Pullan said the government is studying increased aid for housing and municipal sewage plant projects.

Speaker Marcel Lambert's crackdown on the daily question period brought protests from several opposition members.

Gilbert Rondeau (SC - Shefford) called for doubled family allowances, higher income tax exemptions and adjusted old age pensions.

Senator David Croll (L-Ontario) proposed a special committee to investigate the problem posed by the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

Senator Wishart McCutcheon (PC-Ontario) said the existence of a minority government might not endure the Senate's attitude towards registration.

THURSDAY, OCT. 11

The Commons meets at 11 a.m. to wind up the throne speech debate. The Senate meets at 3 p.m.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis — Partial clearing was expected to take place across most of southern Ontario this morning. Warmer air is moving into southwestern Ontario and afternoon temperatures are forecast to range between 70 and 80 today. Clear air is forecast to push southeastward into the north country by Friday morning.

SENATOR BACKS ACTION OF P.M. AT CONFERENCE

McCutcheon Takes Rap at Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Wishart McCutcheon — the name alone commands attention—rose for the first time in Parliament Wednesday to defend stoutly Prime Minister Diefenbaker's approach at last month's Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London.

This new representative of big-big business on the Conservative cabinet, a minister-without-portfolio but with much influence, told the Senate that there is "no more unfounded suggestion" than that Mr. Diefenbaker ganged up on the British in London.

Even the prime minister did, said Senator McCutcheon, was to express the doubts that he and "any sane man" had—as to the outcome both politically and commercially if the United Kingdom made terms with the European Common Market.

LIBERALS IN MIND

Senator McCutcheon, vice-president and chief engineer of Argus Corporation before he was appointed to the Senate by Liberal Prime Minister Pearson, also obviously had the Senate's Liberal majority in mind when he told his red-chamber colleagues:

His speech was the highlight of the Wednesday session in the Commons, the throne speech debate—to end next week—as a crucial vote at 9:45 p.m. — proceeded on a pace somewhat below the debates that sparkled earlier.

Works Minister Fulton said he has called for studies in three fields—the provision of housing for the physically handicapped; better conditions of residences for married couples; and the further application of prefabricated units for sewage disposal projects.

CLAIMS WOULD RUIN

Ross Winkler (PC - Grey Bruce) asked: "What do the Liberals want to do? Do they want to ruin the economy by austerities completely? That is what would happen if they had their way."

In the Senate, Liberal contention that Prime Minister has lost confidence in Canada also were challenged by Senator McCutcheon.

He noted that some have said that certain investment trusts have refused to invest United States have shown a distrust of Canada by selling securities. And he added:

"What the 'scudder fund' does should not be taken in this chamber as any indication of the confidence that United States investors have in Canada."

In another notable speech in the Senate Wednesday, Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) called for appointment of a committee of the Senate to report on the "continuing problems" presented by the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors in British Columbia.

Senator McCutcheon challenged the Senate opposition's contention that it must scrutinize legislation from the Commons more carefully now that a minority government is in power.

Admits Hitting Wife After Being Awakened by Lighted Cigarette

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Constable Thomas Riordon of Plaxton testified Wednesday that his wife woke him up June 1 by pressing a lighted cigarette to his chest.

Plaxton, charged with assault, said he then struck her, knocking her over a table.

He said that when he saw who it was he apologized and when she hit him on the head with a frying pan and then kicked him.

Plaxton told the court his wife had trumped up the assault story to substantiate a $3,000-a-month alimony suit against him. He testified she offered to drop the charge if he would give her $150,000.

Magistrate H. T. C. Andrews adjourned the trial to Nov. 26 to permit additional witnesses to be called.

Mrs. Plaxton told the court she and her husband had gone to visit friends after having supper. She testified that when she asked the friends to drive them home because her husband had been drinking heavily, he objected because he didn't want anyone else driving his limousine, the testified.

When they got home her husband grabbed her by the hair and threw her to the floor and on the floor, she said. When she had gone to call police he got a gun, knocked the telephone out of her hand, held the gun to her chest and threatened to kill her.

Mrs. Plaxton said she managed to lock herself in a room and call police.

Plaxton denied having been violent with his friends or with his wife.

Bluestein Tells of Running $4,000,000-a-Year Joint

TORONTO (CP) — Gambler Max Bluestein told of running a $4,000,000-a-year bookie operation Wednesday and lost his memory when asked if he tried to get a gun-carrying permit in 1958 because he feared the Mafia was moving in on Toronto gambling.

Before the Ontario royal commission on crime, he said his memory "must remember reporting to police that there had been a meeting here of members of the Mafia from New York, New Buffalo, N.Y., Hamilton, Montreal and "a big wheel from California."

Under direct commission questioning apparently based on a bitter-to-unpublished police report, the Toronto businessman-gambler said that if he did say that he was not telling the truth.

"I think he should go back to school again," Bluestein commented. "He's not even close."

His own statement to police, he said, was a crucial vote at 9:45 p.m. — proceeded on a pace somewhat below the debates that sparkled earlier.

He said his income tax returns for last year showed only $2,000 earnings from gambling—"from win and you lose"—and $28,000 from assorted projects as deals in bankrupt stocks.

Commission questioners had

Auto Shipments to China Revive Sore Point With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian trade with Communist China, an old sore point with the United States, now includes shipments of Canadian - made automotive parts to behind the bamboo curtain.

Trade Minister Hees, replying to a question in the Commons Wednesday, disclosed that the department "is aware that automotive parts are being manufactured in Canada by various automotive manufacturers, and have been exported to the People's Republic of China in limited quantities."

He did not identify the automotive parts are not covered by any item in Canada's export control list and are considered as ordinate export business for Canadian companies.

Both Mr. Hees and department officials, however, declined to say any details of the transactions or identify the companies concerned. Officials said export licences are issued confidential by law like income tax returns.

Fierce Battles Said Raging Along Borders of Yemen

CAIRO (Reuters)—Fierce battles were reported raging along the borders of Yemen today in the wake of other reports saying the new Yemeni republican government overthrew itself at war with neighboring Saudi Arabia.

All Cairo newspapers carried reports describing "ferocious" battles along the frontiers between the capital in Sana'a and the "forces of aggression."

The reports, from the semi-official Egyptian Middle East news agency correspondent in Sana'a, quoted what they said was latest information indicated King Saud of Saudi Arabia had massed regular forces in the northern borders and was working desperately to concentrate all arms in the south.

Some reports Wednesday said royalist forces had overwhelmed a garrison of 500 revolutionary troops defending a border fort.

Cairo radio broadcast a report from the Middle East news agency early today saying the revolt - torn Yemeni republic considered itself at war with Saudi Arabia, which it said had massed troops on the Yemeni border and smuggled arms into Yemen.

The report from the Yemeni capital of Sana'a quoted army commander-in-chief Abdul Rahman El Baidany as saying:

"The republic considered as an act of aggression against the Yemeni people and houses, applied in an army coup last month, had overwhelmed revolutionary defenders at Marab and captured three Soviet officers who were with a relief detachment supervising the defence of the fortress.

"Royalist losses said 54 of the 500 defenders were killed and the rest surrendered while the royalist forces suffered only two dead."

AIR COLLISION KILLS TWO AT BAGOTVILLE

Jet Fighter Slices Into TCA Viscount

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP)— An airline stewardess and a passenger were killed when an RCAF jet fighter sliced into the tail section of a TCA viscount airliner. Five other passengers were injured, two of them seriously.

The RCAF Voodoo, taking off Wednesday for a routine night exercise, plied into the Viscount as the commercial plane landed at the RCAF base 100 miles north of Quebec City. Aboard the Viscount were a crew of four and 15 passengers.

The dead stewardess was identified as Cecile Maria Kelber, 24, a native of Rorschach, Switzerland, who had served with TCA for 15 months. The passenger, Joseph Houle Montreal, died in hospital several hours after the crash.

TCA said the Viscount was taxiing after landing and had just turned at an intersection of the runway when the Voodoo slammed into the left wing and continued on, struggling to gain altitude.

The starboard wing of the Voodoo crew bailed out after getting their fighter high enough to work free of ejection seats.

VOODOO BURNS

The pilot, Flying Officer J. Bentley of Sainte Agathe, Que., was not injured. His navigator, F/O Jeffries of London, Ont., area, broke an ankle. Their plane crashed and burned.

The pilot and copilot of the Viscount, Montrealers J. O. C. Gohier and J. Gohier, also were unhurt. The second stewardess, Lorraine Joyce Pevey of Medicine Hat, Alta., suffered a broken leg and shoulder injuries.

Listed as injured were: D. Cyr of Arvida, Que., Consul Cote of Chicoutimi, T. Landers of Montreal, Que., Dr. Bernard and M. Smith, both of Montreal. Two of the injured were operated on for broken legs.

In hospital for observation were nine other passengers, two RCAF officers and a TCA hostess.

The Viscount was on a regular flight from Sept-Iles to Montreal when the accident occurred. Having no airport at Chicoutimi, TCA planes use RCAF base as a stop to pick up and deplane passengers.

The Voodoo, known as the CF-101, is a two-seater all-weather interceptor powered by two jet engines. It carries a pilot and a navigator-observer and normally is equipped with rocket armament.

CATTLE STARVE

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda reported today that more than 300 cattle are starving outside a Siberian meat packing plant because of poor organization of local officials. In a report from Novosibirsk, Pravda said the party newspaper said state farms had swamped the local meat packing plant with cattle shipments. It said more than 300 head were without feed and water in boxcars lined up in the plant's yards.

Need To Promote Christian Unity Stressed By Pope

2,500 Catholic Leaders Begin Deliberations

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — The Vatican's first ecumenical opened here today with a keynote speech by Pope John XXIII stressing the need for active measures to promote Christian unity.

Church bells pealed out across this historic city as more than 2,500 Catholic church leaders assembled in Saint Peter's Basilica amid a blaze of religious splendor.

They were summoned by the Pope to the 21st council of the Catholic church and the second in the Vatican—with the task of mapping the future of the Roman Catholic Church and its 500,000,000 followers.

The 80-year-old pontiff told the churchmen the council was designed to state once again "the continuity of church teaching, to present it in exceptional form to all men of our time, taking into account the deviations, needs and opportunities of the modern age."

The pontiff's inaugural speech was delivered after he had carried into the basilica on his portable throne amid an outburst of applause and shouts of "long live the Pope." The Pope, wearing flowing heavily-embroidered white cape had a white - studded mitre on his head, was visibly moved by his enthusiastic reception.

The statement of Christian unity in his 5,000-word speech struck the underlying theme of the council, which is being attended by hundreds of observers from other Christian churches, mainly Protestant.

Speaking in Latin he said the Catholic church "regards it as her duty to actively take measures so that time may be accomplished the great mystery of that unity which Jesus Christ so ardently prayed of the Heavenly Father on the eve of His sacrifice."

He regretted many church leaders from Communist-ruled nations were absent from the historic meeting although at one time did he explicitly mention the word "Communist."

He asserted, he said, "that we feel most lively sorrow because many bishops who are so dear to us today make us feel their absence because they are imprisoned for their loyalty to Christ, or kept away by other impediments."

After the cardinals, it was the turn of the archbishops and the two bishops representing about 2,200 of their number attending the council. Some Canadian bishops are attending.

They bowed deeply before the Pope and then knelt before him and kissed his right knee while remaining standing.

At the first ecumenical council that opened here in 1869, the

At Age When Most Have Retired Pope Faces Most Arduous Task

VATICAN CITY (AP)—At an age when most men have retired, Pope John today plunged vigorously into one of his most arduous tasks of his long career as active leadership and direct control of the Vatican ecumenical council.

His warm personality and his firm hand will dominate the great conclave which has brought together the world's clergy cardinal, archbishop and bishop of the Roman Catholic Church.

It is the largest council of Catholic bishops in history, and the first ecumenical council in 92 years. Pope John reach the age of 81 next month. He may be 82 before the council ends.

When, he called the council four years ago—barely two months after he assumed pontiff—he must have known the strain it would place upon him.

Then 77, he was the oldest man elected pope in more than 200 years and one of the oldest in the church's 2,000-year history.

The fourth of 12 children of a poor Italian farmer, Pope John carries his more than 200 pounds with a sturdy stride. He has been in the Vatican service like a schoolboy's. His voice is young with the vigor of good health.

Since the day he convoked the great ecumenical council, 21st in the history of the church, it has been plain that he considered this tremendous work the great achievement of his reign.

That reign has already been marked by major innovations. Pope John proved himself a

Fined $150 For Careless Hunting

TIMMINS (CP)—Real Rousseau of Timmins was fined $150 and costs Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of careless hunting in connection with the wounding Oct. 1 of two companions.

Rousseau was charged, under the provincial game, fish and forest and Fisheries Act, following the shooting of Wayne Curtis, 22, of Woodcock and Rodger Tambeau in the left leg.

Rousseau said he saw something moving in the bush and fired three shots.

Police testified Rousseau had told them he got "excited" fever and just kept firing.

Both men were dressed in red and were in a red canoe, police said.

SIGN AGREEMENT

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and Yugoslavia Wednesday continued to forge closer government ties by signing an agreement for co-operation between official news agencies, Tass and Tanjug. The Soviet news agency Tass said the agreement was signed here by Tass director D. P. Goryunov and I. Marinovich, director of Tanjug.

Research for Arthritic Cure Badly Needed Says Director

Something must be done quickly about research for a cure for arthritic diseases or humanity will be plagued with them for another 100 years, Dr. Norris Swanson, medical director of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society (CARS) told members of the Quinte branch yesterday evening during their annual meeting at the Eastminster United Church.

Dr. Swanson, a world renown specialist in rheumatoid and arthritic diseases, noted that there are probably 1,000 people in Belleville who are afflicted by some form or other of these crippling diseases. There are ten times as many people suffering from these diseases than from cancer, polio, heart diseases, tuberculosis and such other diseases combined, he advised.

Although research into a cure for rheumatoid arthritis has produced such valuable aids and discoveries as insulin for diabetes the Salk vaccine for polio and the drug cortisone, there has been no cure for arthritis itself, the speaker said.

There are few provisions for research into this field in Canada and the need is most urgent. The United States, he noted, is spending $60 million a year in this field. The need for a long-range research programme in Canada has been hindered by the lack of funds and it was about time that the Canadian public realized the facts and pressed for action and support in this field, Dr. Swanson suggested.

He noted that a private society, the Trudeau Society, supported by individual gifts and public subscription had produced a 100 per cent cure for such a dread disease as tuberculosis.

It is, he suggested, cheaper to prevent a disease than to cure and treat those who are afflicted by it.

Dr. Swanson also gave an interesting account of the history of rheumatoid arthritis since the time of the Egyptian dynasties and traced the major breakthroughs in research and types of the disease.

Rossmore Man In Hospital After Stabbing

A 41-year-old Rossmore man, Alex Michallow, is reported to be in fair condition in Belleville General Hospital today following a stabbing on Coleman Street, near Bridge Street Wednesday afternoon.

Police said a passing motorist said he noticed Michallow staggering down the street, clutching at his side, saying he had been stabbed.

Police were called and the injured man was taken to the hospital by ambulance where it was found he was suffering from a knife wound in the right side of his abdomen.

The city police's detective department is continuing its investigation.

Cheese Factory Butterfat Price Up to 98 Cents

With the price of cheese increasing to nearly 38 cents per pound on the Belleville Cheese Exchange last month, factories in the area have been able to pay the highest prices in recent years for cheese milk.

Butterfat prices in the Quinte district during July and August paid to farmers produced prices of 98 cents per pound for butterfat, with 3.5 per cent milk values and an advantage auction during the year.

The Harold factory in August paid 96 cents per pound for butter fat and $3.36 per cwt. for 3.5 milk while the Ivanhoe factory paid 95 cents and $8.32½ per cwt.

Two other factories selling cheese on the Belleville exchange — Crow Bay and Boyds — paid 94 cents and $3.29 and 91 cents and $3.18 per cwt. respectively.

A report from J. A. Johnston, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board, indicates that that the Board expects to be able to purchase only about one half of the cheese requirements for United Kingdom.

For the past few years approximately 25 million pounds of cheese have been exported from Canada but this year the product had been available it is expected that possibly double that amount could have been sold this year.

Accused Will Spend Next 2 Months in Jail

A Lonsdale resident, Clayton Robert Misener, was today sentenced to two months in jail for driving while under suspension, by Magistrate T. Y. Wills, in county court.

Evidence in the case was heard last week, at which time he pleaded guilty to all four charges.

Magistrate Wills said he was to be sentenced to two months for driving while disqualified and that sentence would be concurrent on the careless driving charge and the charge of escaping custody.

He was given two days concurrent for having liquor.

precedent - breaker from the start.

He increased the College of Cardinals to its greatest size in history. He visited Rome's jails. He walked the Roman streets. He made a whistle-stop train tour of Italy unique in modern papal history. He sometimes used the pronoun "I" instead of the formal "we" which popes traditionally use. He cut a joke.

He paid his throne bearers, who carry him on their shoulders, an extra fee because his weight was considerably greater than that of the lean Pope Pius XII whom he succeeded.

"These poor fellows have been following me around everywhere," the pope said, "I think they're afraid of losing their jobs."

Many have called him "the human pope." He has given much evidence that he likes that title.

On the night of his election as pontiff, he told the College of Cardinals that his was to be "the humble office of shepherd." He chose the gospel story of the good shepherd for his coronation sermon.

Land Adjoining Parkdale Centre Given to City

With the current high prices being received today, it isn't often that an owner of property finds the establishment of area wants to donate it to the municipality.

But that is the case with a Parkdale area resident, L. A. J. Meagant, who has donated to the city two small parcels of land adjoining the Parkdale Community Recreation Centre property.

Alderman Leslie Digby, the council representative on the city planning committee, said the property had a 25-foot frontage on Sidney Street and ran back a depth of about 125 feet. In addition to the above, Mr. Weagant has donated a second parcel of land about 60 by 90 feet at the rear of his own lot.

The property donated to the city was too small for a building permit to be granted and thus had little or no value unless purchased by the city.

In donating it to the city Mr. Weagant gets out from under a heavy local improvement costs resulting from the extension of sewer and water along Sidney Street.

School Fence Worrisome To Adjacent Householder

TRENTON—A discussion as to whether a private citizen should be sold or leased land belonging to the school board, in order to erect a considerable amount of time at last night's meeting of the Trenton Board of Education.

W. H. Turney, asked that he be sold a strip of land 37 feet wide, adjacent to his residence. This strip forms a part of the playground area at Dufferin Street School. Mr. Turney said in his letter that recent fencing operations in the vicinity of his home, being carried on by the school board workmen, had led him to believe that his garage was built partly on the strip and that, if the fence were brought along the line indicated by the property deeds, he would be unable to put his storm window on the one side of his house and school children would be playing within arm's length of his window.

Board member Rev. Ronald Pope said that he favored selling the strip of land to Mr. Turney.

"I don't think we can actually take a fence right to a man's storm window," said Mr. Reid, "I don't think the school board owns the property to every Tom, Dick and Harry, but we must make some concessions. We are trying to build a fence on the man's window sill!"

T. S. Ketcheson and E. D. Topping were opposed to selling and at first refused to lease the land to Mr. Turney.

"We're not here to acquire more land at Queen Elizabeth School" said Mr. Ketcheson, "This is going to be hard to explain to the taxpayers. In one case, we're attempting to buy land from one other, actually talking about selling land to Mr. Turney."

Mr. Topping said that since Mr. Turney might move his residence in the future, he was in that way, require less land for a clear driveway.

Mr. Turney then said might be easier to explain to the taxpayers if the land were sold at Knack. "In the latter case, we're laying ourselves wide open to criticism."

SUGGESTS COMPROMISE

Board chairman L. G. Phinney suggested that the land in the line of the fence might be drawn north of trees lining the driveway, and this way Mr. Turney would land for the fence and still from the trees he had requested. Board secretary Miss Jean Baker was ask a lawyer to contact Mr. Turney and if he would be willing to bear the cost of drawing up an agreement whereby he would lease the land by the year for the use of the school board and also the cost of making out the agreement, etc. The agreement would be in force only during Mr. Turney's lifetime, and the leased land would revert to the board absolutely the occupancy of the Turney family ceased for any reason.

Still on the subject of the Dufferin Ave. school fencing, George Greer and Gerald Farrar made it clear that they were not in favor of fencing the point where it would interfere with children riding down the mountain in the wintertime. As there is some question of part of the land in this area belonging to the Trenton Parks' Board, the matter will have to be asked to define boundary lines clearly to make sure there is no infringement.

Mr. Knack told the board members that he had been led to believe that the shoo at the high school had armed the right to a plaque for safe operations throughout last year, and asked to have a representative of the provincial Industrial Accident Prevention Association contacted to arrange for the presentation of the plaque.

ALTERATIONS NEEDED

Mr. Ketcheson invited board members to attend a meeting between the architects and the contractor responsible for the recently built four-roomed addition to Queen Elizabeth School, which will be held at the school today at 4.00 p.m. Object of the meeting is to discuss "seven or eight pairs of" minor alterations needed to complete the work on the addition.

At first, Rev. Ronald Reid objected to the question of any alterations at all being needed when the board had engaged the services of a works' superintendent, Mr. Wm. Steenburg, to look after the board's interests when the addition was being constructed. However, Mr. Ketcheson finally convinced him that Mr. Steenburg had not been hired to do duties in any way and that the needed changes were inconsequential. One thing most board members failed to understand was why the ceilings in the addition seemed to be in a perpetual state of "flotation," and certainly when a wind blows, when "pegs" could have been used to make the tiles more stationary. This will be gone into at today's meeting. Mr. Ketcheson said that some of the ceilings in the new high school addition also seemed to be in the same condition, and need attention.

On the subject of the high school, Mr. Ketcheson said that the Ontario Fire Marshal had ordered that a fire door be placed near the school caretaker's kitchen. As this door will cost around $1,000 and is by way of being an "extra" to the original contract, the money will be taken out of a special "contingency" fund of more than $40,000, as will other unexpected extras. Mr. Greer raised some questions about the need for a fire door not having been foreseen, but no one seemed to be able to answer his queries on the subject.

SEEK MORE LAND

Mr. Ketcheson told the board that the addition to the town for acquiring by the Board of land adjacent to Queen Elizabeth School for use as playground, were continuing, with the possibility that the town might be inclined "to come down a little on its price, although no clear cut decision has been reached as yet. Originally, the town asked $4,000 for close to two acres of land and vacant lots. The board is talking in terms of around half this price.

Supervising principal of public schools, V. P. Carswell read his own report and supplied the board with copies of the new school principals, with the exception of Miss Lorna Bell and Percy Bierness, new principal at Dufferin Street School, who were absent. Mr. Carswell's report commended the 2,861 public school students attended Trenton schools. During the month of October Mrs. A. E. Brown's Marmora Street Senior Public School had shaken up 100 percent attendance record and Mr. Carswell said that he could report that not only once did this happened in any Trenton class room before. He asked for and received permission to supply sweater tabs for the perfect attendance class. Mr. Bierness reported that attendance at Dufferin Public School was 338; an all-time high.

Other principals commented on other uncorrected extras, general conditions, Mr. Robson reported that damage caused by lightning to the senior school on Sept. 17, and repairs.

Retarded Children Group Seeks $10,000

TRENTON — The Trenton-Brighton and District Association for Retarded Children has set its sights on a $10,000 target for the association's fund raising campaign, Nov. 1 to Nov. 22.

The money is to be used towards the buying of a new school bus, and for the operation of the new school itself, which was officially opened recently, announced campaign chairman Mrs. R. J. "Bobbie" Reid.

BLUESTEIN

they have something cooking, good luck to them."

He said he had never had any trouble with Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley, reputed gambling kingpins, and for a long time "never knew they existed."

When the commissioner asked him if he had told police in 1954 that he owned a piece of the big McDermott-Feeley gambling club at nearby Cooksville, he decided this and added:

"I wouldn't take a piece of that club if you gave it to me."

He was tight-lipped about Johnny (The Enforcer) Papalia, Hamilton gambling figure who was convicted in the 1961 Bluestein beating and later extradited to the United States where he now awaits trial in a huge narcotics conspiracy case.

"I knew him well enough to stay away from him," he said when he was asked about his relations with Papalia.

DIDN'T KNOW REASON

Bluestein shed no more light on the night-club attack, which took place in the presence of 100 customers who did not see it, and he maintained he did not know why he was attacked.

He was asked if he had had a difference of opinion with Papalia and Frank Marchildon, also convicted of assaulting him.

"What opinions would I have with that kind of people?" he asked. "I got enough trouble minding my own business."

Nobody has been trying to muscle in on him, he said, in response to specific questions, he said in favor of no American gaming.

Particularly, he knew nothing of the Mafia, when Mr. Wilson suggested the commission had a 1958 police report quoting him as saying there had been a meeting of underworld members of the Mafia here, that they were planning to move into Toronto and that he was opposed.

"I am not opposed to anyone moving anywhere," he added.

He said that not contradict the police report—which also apparently mentioned that he had been in fear of his life in seeking the pistol permit—but said he just could not remember it.

Other points he could not remember included:

1. The exact number of his bank accounts and safety deposit boxes. He listed two of each but could not say for sure that was all.

2. The spelling of the last name of the accountant who prepared his income tax returns. His first name was Kenny and, since he visited the Bluestein home three or four times a week as a friend of his son, he did not have to know his name.

3. Whether he had authorized his lawyer, while awaiting trial on the gaming charge in 1960, to tell the Crown he was willing to surrender three club charters. Later, he amended this to say he had "told nobody nothing" about surrendering charters.

4. His arrangement with the Lakeview Club. "I guess maybe I substituted them a little bit . . . could be about $200 a month." Later, it transpired the lease was in his name.

LOST MONEY AND QUIT

Of his dealings with the Ringside Club, where he said he did not hold the charter but was the boss, he had been with it just "long enough to lose my money and quit."

Asked what other operations he had been involved in, he said he and Skeezic had run a combined bookie and novelty shop and added:

"I'd take action all over. I'd take it right outside the door here."

During Bluestein's examination, Mr. Justice Roach informed the gambler the commission had some telephone records on his long-distance calls to United States oddsmakers for current prices on baseball, football, hockey and other events which he bookeds.

Bluestein said he got his odds from establishments in Chicago, New York and Boston, paying an unidentified emissary named Charlie amounts up to $3 a week and using a code on the telephone.

Commission counsel Wilson questioned Bluestein on whether he had ever been connected with any Niagara Falls, New York gambling operation. His reply was that he had shot dice at a club there whose name he could remember, but not in the last dozen years.

Ladies' Day Out Program at 'Y' Now Operating

The annual "Ladies' Day Out" program of Belleville YMCA got underway this past Tuesday. Planned to cover a ten-week period, the program includes a morning session involving "slimnastics" in the gym and then instructional and recreational swimming in the pool. The session starts at 10.30 a.m.

Following the morning session there is a lunch break with participants providing lunch for themselves and their children who are taken care of by babysitters during the morning and afternoon sessions.

In the afternoon there is an interesting lecture followed by a useful demonstration or film. Last Tuesday Mr. Diamantides, "Y" secretary-manager spoke on the plans for the new Belleville "Y" building which is expected to be in use by next autumn. A film and demonstration on the manufacture of chinaware followed.

Next Tuesday a talk on food nutrition and buying followed by a demonstration and talk on cosmetics will be featured. Further information may be obtained at the "Y" for those wishing to attend.

golire assembly of 803 council fathers advanced and rendered obedience to Pope Pius IX individually. The process took more than seven hours.

The eight prelates who rendered obedience to Pope John acted in the name of all the bishops present. The ceremony lasted only a few minutes.

Mass also was celebrated before Pope John's throne in St. Peter's with the bishops exchanging embraces of peace and the Pope giving his blessing.

The Pope's message was one of hope and compassion. He said he disagreed with prophets of gloom, "who are always foretelling disaster, as though the end of the world was at hand."

He said "we sometimes have to listen, much to our regret, to voices of persons who, though burning with zeal and not endowed with too much sense of discretion or measure."

The Pope also called for errors to be corrected with "the medicine of mercy" rather than severity. The pontiff said progress already has been made toward unity. He spoke specifically of a unity of prayers and aspirations and unity of esteem and respect.

"Unfortunately," the Pope said, "the entire Christian family has not yet fully attained . . . unity in truth.

"The Catholic church, therefore, considers it her duty to work actively so that there may be fulfilled the great mystery of that unity, which Jesus Christ invoked with fervent prayer from His Heavenly Father on the eve of His sacrifice.

"She (the church) rejoices in peace, knowing that she is intimately associated with that prayer, and rejoices greatly at seeing that invocation crowned in its efficiency with salutary fruit even among those who are outside her fold.

"Indeed, if one considers well this same interior Christ inspired for His church it seems to shine . . . with a triple ray of benevolence and supernal light: namely, the unity of Catholics among themselves, which must always be kept exemplary and most firm; the unity of prayers and ardent desires with which those Christians separated from the apostolic See, aspire and unite with us; and the unity in esteem and respect for the Catholic church which animates those who follow non-Catholic religions."

He said the ecumenical council "prepares, as it were, and consolidates the path toward that unity of mankind . . ."

H. W. Hawke to Give Organ Recital Here

H. William Hawke, Mus. Bac., of Gananoque will give a recital on the organ in St. Thomas' Church, on Saturday evening.

A graduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music where he obtained the degrees of ATCM in piano and LTCM with gold medal, in organ, he passed the degree of Bachelor of Music from the University of Toronto. He was successively, organist and choirmaster of Rosedale and St. Paul's Presbyterian churches in Toronto.

In 1926 Mr. Hawke took postgraduate studies with Lynnwood Farnam in New York and had charge of the choir at the Church of St. Edward the Martyr for that city.

From 1929 to 1945 he was organist and choirmaster of St. Mark's Church in Philadelphia. Under his direction this choir became well known throughout the United States for its interpretation of Liturgical music and sang "Parsifal" under the direction of Leopold Stokowski with the Philadelphia orchestra.

Since coming back to Canada in 1946, Mr. Hawke has been organist for three years at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Kingston, and for the past eight years at Grace Church in Gananoque, where the choir program included three choirs numbering some one hundred and twenty singers.

Mr. Hawke's program will include a group of early organ music by Frescobaldi, Martini and Gabrieli; several Bach numbers, a prelude by Florence Dur ? Clark of Hamilton, and a manuscript Sonatina for organ by the well-known Canadian composer, Violet Archer. To conclude he will offer a group of contemporary French music by Bonnet, Vierne, Honegger and Franck.

Three Stoco Girls Injured, Car Hit Tree

Three Stoco girls, Colleen Gabourie, Donna Gabourie and Colleen Masterson, were taken to the Belleville General Hospital this afternoon where they were treated for minor injuries as a result of an automobile accident on county road No. 8, near Stirling.

Three other occupants of the car, John Robert Wood, driver; Michael Deare, both of Tweed, and Dianne Lessard of Stoco were not injured.

Provincial Police at Madoc said the group was proceeding west on county road No. 8 when the Wood vehicle went out of control, left the road and struck a tree. The car was considered a total wreck.

It is believed the six, students at Tweed High School, were en route to Stirling to attend a football game.

The accident occurred about 4.15 p.m. Wednesday afternoon. Ontario Provincial Police Constable M. D. Chapman of the Madoc OPP detachment investigated.

Men Hunting Near Baited Area, Fined

Three men, residents of the sixth concession of Thurlow, Joseph McDonnell, Vincent McDonnell and Charles Kellar, were each fined $15 and court costs in county court here this morning when they appeared on a charge of hunting within a quarter of a mile of a baited area.

All three men pleaded guilty to the charge. Vincent McDonnell was fined an additional $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty to using a shot gun which used three shells instead of the prescribed two.

An R.C.M.P. officer told the court that he and a fellow officer were patrolling in the area when they noticed a flock of ducks flying in the area. He said in one particular spot they would dip, and then come up again, doing this twice.

The officer said after investigating, they found a pond situated on the farm of Vincent McDonnell. He said there were 25 ducks in the area. After driving past the pond, the officer said, we heard shots fired and decided to investigated.

When they arrived at the pond they found three men standing near the pond with shotguns in their hands. He said the men admitted firing at the ducks.

The officer said they found the pond heavily baited with mixed grain and he said upon checking the shotguns they found Vincent McDonnell's gun held three shells instead of two.

The three men told the magistrate they did not know the pond was baited.

Crown Attorney John Pringle told, the magistrate there was a great deal of baiting going on in south Hastings. He said this was direct luring of ducks. He said it was an organized slaughter for them to lure them in. "I don't think it is a matter that should be dealt with light-

Coroner's Jury Rules Killing Was Justified

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that the shotgun slaying of television actor Tom Gilson was justifiable homicide.

Police arrested actress Saundra Edwards, 24, described at the inquest as Gilson's common-law wife, after Gilson was shot in suburban Van Nuys last Saturday.

She testified Wednesday that Gilson, 29, was "very drunk and swinging on a chadelier."

"He kept yelling, 'Shoot me; shoot me or I will kill you,' the actress said.

Upon passing sentence Magistrate Wills informed the three men that they would have to forfeit their guns.

Start Delivering 200 Planes to Air Division

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF today begins delivery to its air division in Europe of 200 planes whose role is still uncertain.

The air force said Wednesday the first of 200 Canadian-built CF-104 jet planes will be shipped, partly dismantled, to No. 3 Fighter Wing, Zweibrucken, West Germany, in an Royal Hercules transport plane. The flight will leave Cartierville airport, Montreal, tonight.

The CF-104 is listed by the RCAF as a "strike-reconnaissance" plane but officials have said it cannot carry out the strike role without nuclear armament.

The government has not announced any decision on acquisition of nuclear warheads for Canadian weapons such as the CF-104, the CF-101B Voodoo jet interceptor, Bomarc anti - aircraft missile and Honest John artillery rocket.

It may be significant, however, that the first of the eight CF-104 squadrons will be formed at Zweibruecken, France does not permit American nuclear weapons on its territory and two of the RCAF bases in Europe are in France. The other two are in West Germany, which has U.S. nuclear warheads on its soil.

Hunters Kill 89 Moose Since Sept. 20

QUEBEC (CP) — Hunters have killed 89 moose since Sept. 20 in a special season in Laurentides Provincial Park.

The maximum number that could have been shot under the special licensing system during this period was 100. The season ends Oct. 21, and game officials have set 150 moose as the maximum kill.

Largest killed so far weighed 1,300 pounds and had an antler spread of 62¾ inches. Each moose is being examined by biologists who will prepare complete reports.

It is the first time moose have been shot in the park since the 1920s.

economy for '63

the lowest priced compact—the new 1963 Rambler American

By the time you read this, you will have seen many of the new Compacts. Now's your chance to compare them with the new 1963 Rambler American Six! There's no other compact to equal it for value. For instance, the Rambler American Six is the lowest priced Canadian-built car. What's more, it costs less to operate (it's never lost an economy run it's entered); less to maintain (just check the trade-in value of a Rambler American). This year, the Rambler American has even greater value because of new features and major improvements. And no other car is so completely built for Canadian conditions.

Take Deep Dip rustproofing. The entire car body is dipped completely in six separate baths which clean, scour and seal the surface of the metal. Developed at Rambler's Brampton, Ontario, plant it makes Rambler the most completely rustproofed car in the world.

Self-adjusting Double-Safety brakes, standard on every Rambler, are available on no other North American car except Cadillac. Front and rear brakes are independent: if one set is damaged, the other continues to operate—for a double margin of safety.

New for 1963 is an alternator which replaces the generator. Rambler's alternator, unlike a generator, charges even while the engine is idling so that your electrical system always gives you peak performance.

Rambler American's Ceramic-Armoured muffler is completely protected from rust and corrosion. Covered in durable ceramics, this muffler has been an exclusive Rambler feature for years. And it's guaranteed for as long as you own the car.

The Rambler American has a six-cylinder engine that's never been beaten in any economy run it's ever entered. Built for maximum usefulness to the user, this Rambler is the most practical car you can own. See your Dealer soon for a look at the latest version of the lowest-priced Canadian-built car. And while you're there, see the striking new beauty of the Rambler Classic Six and the Ambassador V8 with exclusive "Unisido" construction.

Too Risky

The Ontario convention of the New Democratic Party unanimously approved the inclusion in the party's program of a government-sponsored medical insurance plan.

Since there is no present prospect of the party forming the government in Ontario which in the foreseeable future, that decision can hardly be said to be of great importance. Nor ought it to be surprising. Saskatchewan, the only province to have a CCF government, has put such a plan into operation and, in endorsing a similar project for Ontario, the New Democrats are merely being consistent, since they are the heirs of the CCF.

Significantly, though, the convention rejected a suggestion from the floor that the program should provide for the government ownership of hospitals. Dr. Guy Mersereau of Welland led the opposition, his main argument apparently being that this would merely serve to stiffen opposition by the medical profession to a government-sponsored insurance plan.

There is, however, another aspect, and we think more telling, reason why such a development should be opposed. Let us admit that government ownership of hospitals would have certain advantages. It would relieve municipalities of the ever-recurring need to assist in defraying the costs of expanding hospital facilities, a cost which ought not to be placed on real estate. It would eliminate appeals for public subscriptions for hospital building funds, a source of provision of some hospital accommodations should never depend on charity. But government-ownership of hospitals would involve too great a risk of patronage.

It is difficult to believe that any government would deny proper hospital facilities to a community because of that community's voting habits—but the record of what has happened in the past in other fields hardly promotes confidence in the certainty of fair treatment. We recall one instance where half of a main highway was paved by one government, the government was defeated and its successor left the other lane of the highway unpaved through its whole lengthy term of office. Proper hospital facilities are too important to a community to risk similar treatment by placing ownership of all hospitals in the government's hands.

World Series

This past week we have seen the annual attack of "world series fever" in all its customary virulence. Men, and even women, who scarcely glance at the baseball scores during the long season, from spring through summer into the first fall days, suddenly concentrate all their interest on the doings of two ball clubs. Supposedly, these are the world's two best teams, and probably, in most instances, this has been true. "World series," though, is a rather pretentious label to apply to a contest which, until fairly recently, has been confined to one continent, and for much of the history of the series virtually to just one nation on that continent.

There is, though, one aspect of the series which may have a world-wide effect on sport. This is the idea of settling a championship not by one game but by several. Perhaps the world series started this habit, which has spread to other sports, especially on this continent. The English still decide their soccer league championships without any playoffs, and their Cup games are run on the knockout system. Here in Canada, though, the only important championship decided by a single playoff game is that for football, with its historic Grey Cup.

Perhaps, though, the world series in baseball was not the first of such events. Cricket test matches come to mind as a possible contender for the doubtful honor of being the first instance of the system on which modern playoffs are fashioned. But note, please, that modesty use of the word "test" to describe matches between different countries, while two leagues in a single country claim the right to play off for the championship of the world!

Men of great genius and large heart sow the seeds of a new degree of progress in the world, but they bear fruit only after many years.—Guiseppe Mazzini.

Too many people look on space research as basic science, whereas it is mostly engineering . . . Most of the scientific requirements for space flight were met long ago.—Israeli physicist Max Jammer.

New Look in Parliament Courtesy of Lively Socreds

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Social Credit "Os-Leathers" Robert Thompson and Real Caouette, with their 28 frollicsome, fun-loving followers, continue to be the life of this very lively Parliamentary show.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Liberal Leader Pearson, and their captains, with an assist from the New Democrats, may provide the drama, even the melodrama from this greatest of free political entertainments playing daily on the stage of Parliament Hill.

But the bit of Parliament's new post-election production remains Social Credit, playing it, deadpan, for laughs.

They have been adding a nice light touch of comedy relief to what almost always has been the very serious folk drama of the House of Commons.

Just the other day, like a bunch of happy-go-lucky college students going through the joys and jazz of initiation, some of the Socreds decided what only could have been a "furniture pull" — a tug-of-war with office equipment — on their Sixth Floor Centre Block Parliament Hill preserve.

FUN AND GAMES

There they were, out in the corridor on the top floor of the main Parliament Building, struggling for possession of several apparently highly-prized pieces of furniture.

"Leggo", howled one, yanking at a big bookcase, "it's mine"!

"You're nuts", yowled another, tugging the other way. "It's mine"!

Looked like a lot of fun.

Looked, indeed, as though all the Socreds were not going to take themselves too seriously.

There have been other light touches.

It has been traditional that whenever a caucus party holds a caucus — which is a council of war, a strategy-planning — the doors are locked and guarded by special House of Commons police to keep out spies and eavesdroppers.

So tight is security, usually at a caucus, that it was once when, after the '58 election, and the sweep by the Ottawa and Conservatives, many of them new-strange faces, a newspaper man slipped innocently into the first Government secret party council.

He simply wandered in with all the other newcomers, and the Commons police nearbook him, understandably enough, for just another MP.

It was only moments before Conservative veterans in the caucus suggested the "stranger", and asked him to remove himself before they called the Commons guards in to throw him unceremoniously tossed out.

MORE . . . .

CO-EDUCATIONAL

But this secrecy business was not of interest or nuisance to the free-wheeling Socreds.

When they held their first caucus last Summer just after the election, they invited their wives, and it became as much a social occasion as a political pow-wow.

Somebody who has been around Parliament Hill for enough decades to know the drill in caucus things advised them that really, a caucus was hardly a caucus after all, that next time it might be just as well to leave the wives and kids at home.

But nobody is going to tell the Social Creditors Caouette and Company what is what.

When it comes to political etiquette, they have ways going to write their own book.

So at their caucus the party pow-wow which planned the strategy for the current Throne Speech debate — they not only invited their wives, but turned it into a happy birthday affair.

Their deputy Leader was 45, so the wives baked a cake, and everybody joined hands in this strange-political caucuses, and sang Happy Birthday, dear Real, Happy Birthday to you.

Parliament Hill had never seen the like.

But then the Hill has never seen a Parliament like this one before . . . and the fun could only be starting . . . for Real Caouette has announced that he feels confident that the Social Credit group will establish a new all-time, never-to-be-equalled-again record for being tossed out of the Commons for unparliamentary statements and practices.

Rules, even Parliament's rules, it seems, are for the birds.

Eagle and Beaver

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

It is ironic that the national emblem of the United States is the bald eagle, a species which is nearly extinct. But we should be complacent. The beaver plays a prominent role in symbolizing Canada, but it is becoming ever more rare.

From Serfdom To Serfdom

Baltimore Sun

It happened in Soviet Russia. It happened in China. It happened in East Germany and all through satellite Europe. Now it has happened in Cuba.

First the landless peasants were promised freedom from serfdom. The great estates would be broken up, and the peasants would own their own land. This is the invariable opening move of communism to the peasants, and it is irresistible bait.

Then, having broken up the great estates and made a great play of passing out land titles, there was the pressure on the new small-holders to form themselves into co-operatives for their mutual advantage and in the interest of efficiency.

Then at a certain point it was announced that the co-operatives had been working at all well and that they would have to transform themselves into collectives, or state farms. Land titles would then revert to the state, and the small-holders would find themselves back where they started, landless, labor for hire.

The third step in this classic sequence had been inaugurated quietly in Cuba months ago. This will not solve Cuba's food production problem. But that is not why it was done. It was done because property is the seedbed of capitalism and the bourgeois virtues. A propertied peasantry is a standing danger to communism, and Castro his been discovering. A rural proletariat is just the thing, though it doesn't produce enough cane to satisfy the country's export needs or enough food to go around.

Need Ladies To Boost Egos

Hamilton Spectator

Those of us who have ever attended a formal dinner party or just any old cocktail party may have noticed that quite often the ladies end up segregated from the gentlemen, intentionally or otherwise. Ancient custom, as a matter of fact, says that following the final course of a sumptuous repast, the ladies retire to the parlor or living room for coffee and chitchat, the men to the library for cigars and port.

As for cocktail parties, one need not have a Ph.D. in sociology of them to notice that many of the men end up in the kitchen or wherever the bar is, while the ladies remain in the living room.

A battle cry against the practice of segregating the sexes at dinner parties has been made by Senator Maurice B. Neuberger, of Oregon. He says the custom is "unconscionable idea" and should be done away with forthwith.

We agree. Men see enough of each other during the course of a working day at the club, and at evening poker sessions, they need the companionship of ladies wherever possible, if only for the conditioning effect on their egos, and we therefore join Senator Newberger in demanding an end to the unfortunate custom of segregating the sexes at parties.

Of course matters might be expedited a bit if the ladies started to take an active part in business, the histories of the world would warn, hockey, football and baseball lore, and hunting.

No Souvenirs

Rodney Mercury

Not being a souvenir hunter we never realized how difficult it is to buy typically Canadian souvenirs in this country. Once a year ago we had a lady from Ireland visiting us for a week or so. Taking her to Niagara, London fair and many other places to see the sites, she tried to buy something Canadian to take home with her as a memento of her trip and as gifts for family and friends. But you cannot imagine the leg work we had to do to get souvenirs which were appealing and Canadian.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

Crisp fall days find the women of Belleville and the surrounding district busy at work for the Red Cross just as they were in the warmest summer weather. Red Cross headquarters on Campbell Street fairly buzzes with activity day and night. The making of sheets for Russian Red Cross has almost reached completion; of the four thousand quota, 3760 have been completed. Scraps of material left over from cutting the sheets will be used for hospital gowns and boys' clothing for Britain has been received by the local branch to meet an emergency demand for wearing apparel for boys of the ages two to fourteen years.

Belleville residents were given their first instruction on the approaching, November election controls of fire bombs on Wednesday evening last, when 12 members of the organization on Civilian Defence met to Deal With Them. A typical incendiary bomb of German make was exhibited, and Mr. Seldon explained its construction and operation. Incendiary bombs are not explosive but are constructed so as to crash through roofs and floors to the upper floors or attics of building. They burn with an intense heat.

The first Commanding Officer's parade of the Argyll Light Horse for the fall training, was in every way a marked success and Lieut.-Col. E. O. Keeler was gratified with the number on parade and the smartness of the appearance of the battalion. To Quartermaster Lieut.-Col. J. Vincent Doyle and his able hard-working assistant, R.Q.M.S. Patrick Mahoney, goes the credit for the neatness of the men in their turnout for drill this season. For the first time the parade was formed up by the new Regimental Sergeant Major George Lancaster who succeeds in this rank the late Sgt.-Major Thorpe. There were 141 all ranks on the floor of the pavilionwhen the new R.S.M. Lancaster turned over the parade to Major R. J. Gilmore, the senior officer present. The three new subalterns of the battalion, Lieuts. Cunningham, Lieuts. Ormonde Butler, Tom Mason and Keith Scott, were on parade.

Strictly Personal

Passivity A Poisonous Pastime

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Most of the world's best creative work was done out of misery, not out of happiness; we suspect that Shakespeare was unhappy when he wrote "Hamlet," and we know that Mozart was unhappy when he composed his most profound and perfect music; all art is the child of suffering, even the gayest and most ecstatic works.

Science can tell us how to do things, but it cannot tell us things worth doing and which are not; until we can develop a science of ends, any science of means will only betray us into following the unworthy goals.

Most of our so-called beliefs are negative, not positive; we can say with vigor and precision exactly what we are against; but when asked to profess our positive beliefs, we are vague, general, confused and self-contradictory.

Not one person in a thousand knows how to live properly in the present, with a decent respect for the past and an intelligent anticipation of the future; most of us are either captives of the past or enamored of the future — so that our joy in the present is clouded by memory or brushed aside by anticipation.

Jokes are the most immortal parts of history; people who never heard of Herodotus, much less read him, are still quoting his joke about the barber and the customer, 2500 years later and no wiser.

If there were only one maxim we could write on every blackboard in the nation's schools, for teen-agers to ponder, it would be the 15 words of unforgettable sentence by E.W. Howe, whose truth we never recognize until we are too old to act upon it: "Most of trouble is never as simple as the way is."

Every company must give its responsible executives the right to be wrong — not wrong most of the time, but occasionally wrong, but a certain leeway of wrongness — for when an executive is afraid to be wrong, he sinks into passivity and conformity, and his fear communicates to his company or to himself. "Don't rock the boat" is a slogan that will eventually capsize any corporate craft.

People whose philosophy of life is always to "look on the bright side" must view the crucifixion, and Jesus' real anguish as a piece of capricious morbidity on God's part.

Unpunctuality may be, as they say, a feminine trait; but it is worth noting that it is rarely the unwomanly woman who is late for an engagement.

Rich Get Richer

Peterborough Examiner

It will be noted that the chances for a European Economic Community to be occurred not among nations which are languishing in the backwash of markets, or among those who are struggling to establish a viable domestic economy, but among the trading giants of the world who have reached a level of prosperity unmatched in economic history. The Common Market is a device to keep the rich nations of Europe rich, not to foster international trade to the benefit of the world's population.

Sebaceous Cyst Must Be Removed Entirely

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Doctor: I had what I thought was an ingrown hair on my neck. It would fester every month or so for several months. I got fed up with this and went to my doctor who is reportedly a good surgeon.

He said it was a sebaceous cyst and that it might get serious. I agreed to have him remove it at our general hospital.

He said he had to go very deep to remove all traces. This "cyst" was no more than a pimple. How come? What happened to those good "old" doctors who would do the same in their office? — T. D. F.

The good "old" doctors are with us, and some good new ones, and all of them, when things are liable to get messy or dangerous, would rather work in a hospital with equipment and help at hand, than in an office.

And believe me, you can get into an awful mess with a sebaceous cyst if it is a deep-seated one.

You write that it was "no more than a pimple," but your doctor said it might be a cyst, and it might be serious, and he turned out to be exactly right on both scores.

Obviously it was an infected cyst, too from your own report that it continually festered over a period of months. It was more than just a "pimple," all right.

I can't help thinking that your hind-sight opinion is pretty unfair. Your doctor is not a mind reader. The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling and postage.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes hiccups, and is there any way to cure an infant of them? And, what makes a person yawn? — M. H.

Hiccups aren't unusual in a baby. Pick him up, burp him then give him a little water. It's a spasmodic reaction, usually from some trivial irritation such as a bit of air in the stomach.

A yawn is just one of a number of modifications of breathing, others being laughing, coughing (excited by bronchial irritation), sneezing (from nasal irritation), crying, sighing and hyperventilation, this last being overly rapid breathing, usually due to anxiety. Yawning is a deep breath, hence a "modified" voice drawing in or expelling it, sheesh, because of inaudible movement of breathing." Causes of a yawn are fatigue, boredom or sometimes the mere thought of yawning — seein somebody else yawn.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In some consternation, I watched my small grandchildren squatted before the TV, glued to a Saturday morning western dying in bunches, Indians biting the dust, and ferocity rampant in raging cattle and stage coaches swerving on the edges of precipitous cliffs.

I tried to fix it back in memory to the time I was the age of these children, and I recollect what forces played upon my infant emotions and sensibilities. We had uncles who told ghost stories that chilled our marrow. But the stories were fit lyric men who smoked cigars, and we knew even in our marrows that there were no ghosts. Among aunties there was always one who sang contralto, and we had the sad songs to sing. With us gathered around the piano, she would dolefully intone the song about . . .

"Nio the tent where a gypsy boy lay Dying alone at the close of the day..."

There was another about a little boy who "heard not the sounds of alarm" and "would never come back to the fold." We sang them, and our elders wept for the bird in a gilded cage.

I was foghound in these memories when the Western ended, and my grandchildren trooped boisterously to their feet with a tear for nobody.

STOCK QUOTATIONS

The stock jumped sharply at the opening and kept on rising, showing an advance of 3¼ to 13½.

Industrials were generally weaker, as were all other sections, with base metals dipping to their lowest index level since February, 1961.

In the main list, Algoma Steel, BA Oil, Canadian Industries, Dominion Stores and Consolidated Paper declined in a ¼ to range.

Power Corporation, Aluminium and Bank of Montreal dropped ¼, while Abitibi, Canadian Hydrocarbons and Salada Foods all fell ½.

Gainers included Trans-Canada Pipeline, CPR, Bell Telephone and Inlbrpovincial Pipe Line, all ahead ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 1.30 to 321.36, golds .04 at 91.05 and western oils .39 at 114.33. Base metals dipped .36 to 174.00. The 11 a.m. volume was 636,000 shares compared with 793,000 at the same time Wednesday.

In the western oils section, Calgary and Edmonton declined ¼ and Dome ¾, while Central Del Rio advanced five cents to $6.80.

Banks led the market Wednesday.

Among base metals, International Nickel, Falconbridge and Consolidated Mining and Smelting each declined ¼. Noranda fell ¼, ViolaMac ..peced, speculatives, rising 14 cents to a 1962 high of $1.30.

Alberta Gas showed one of the sharper losses, falling 1¼. Abitibi dropped ½.

statement issued in Detroit.

A company spokesman in Windsor said Chrysler of Canada has never applied for or obtained a permit for the export of car parts either to China or any other Communist country.

In Washington, Mrs. Margaret Schwartz of the U.S. treasury department's foreign assets control division said she would investigate the report. Even though it had been denied, she wanted to know the facts.

The United States forbids its citizens from trading with China and generally extends this ban to subsidiaries of U.S. firms while Canada allows trade with China in all but strategic materials.

TALKS SOLVE PROBLEM

At various times, especially in 1958 when it was reported that China wanted to buy 1,000 cars from Ford of Canada, this policy difference has given rise to difficulties between Canada and the U.S.

In the 1958 case, in which it was reported that the U.S. parent company forbade any negotiations by its Canadian subsidiary because of U.S. trading laws, the problem was finally ironed out in talks between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and then President Eisenhower. The U.S. agreed to make an exception in the case of Canadian subsidiaries of American companies, treating each case on its merits.

Mr. Diefenbaker, reporting later to the Commons, said it was made perfectly clear that Canadian law shall govern the Canadian subsidiaries and that Canadian wishes shall be respected.

Last year the U.S. relaxed its ban on trade with Communist China to permit 10 high-powered American - built grain pumps to be provided for two foreign freighters under Red China charter, carrying grain shipments from Canada.

In 1961 Canadian exports to Communist China were valued at approximately $150,000,000, all but $10,000,000 of which was in grain. Exports in the first seven months of 1962 totalled $114,854,328.

Among products other than grain exported last year were shipments of steel and strip steel valued around $600,000, wood pulp and paper products worth about $1,500,000, and small quantities of chemical elements, synthetic fibres.

Garage Owners May Lodge Formal Protest

Local garage operators will hold a meeting next Monday evening to decide whether to lodge a formal protest with city council on its decision to amend its service station regulatory by-law to allow a gasoline outlet permit to be granted to Gordon Chalmers, Dundas St. West.

The service station by-law now restricts the number of service stations in the city to 55.

Garage Operators' Association president Goldie Fitzgibbon said he had called the meeting to get the opinion of the other operators on the matter.

Council on Tuesday voted to amend the service station by-law but the amendment still has to go through council in by-law stage.

MAIN EXPORTS

power.

The new minister - without-portfolio in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cabinet said Liberal senators were directing their remarks "to the electorate rather than to the question."

"There is no such thing as minority legislation," he said in the throne speech debate, answering remarks made last week by Senate Opposition Leader W. Ross Macdonald who said it would be necessary for the Liberal majority in the Upper Chamber to give "all legislation even more searching investigation than has been our custom."

Speaking in a deep, rolling and relaxed voice, Senator McCutcheon said any legislation that reached the Senate from the House of Commons would have been passed by a majority of the members "and that legislation deserves no more or less attention from the present Parliament" than from any of the previous 24 Parliaments.

Senator McCutcheon defended Prime Diefenbaker's part in the London conference of Commonwealth prime minister's by saying "he would have been completely derelict in his duty had he gone to London and said, 'Well, now, whatever you do is perfectly satisfactory to us.'"

What the prime minister had done was to "present our views upon how far the essential interests of the Commonwealth had been safeguarded."

He also criticized a suggestion made by Senator Macdonald in the throne speech debate that would have Canada pursue the possibility of a Atlantic free trade area as proposed earlier by Liberal party leader Lester B. Pearson.

The suggestion "is not one which we can look at seriously at the moment," he said.

Senator McCutcheon said other suggestions by Senator Macdonald had been issues already acted upon by the government.

He said it seemed significant that the Liberal Senate leader had made no mention in his speech of other Pearson policy pronouncements such as establishment of a municipal loans fund, broadening loans by the industrial development bank, extension of family allowances and free medical services.

Liquor Vote In Deseronto Won by 'Drys'

For the second time this year the "drys" have been victorious in a liquor vote at Deseronto.

Last May residents voted against both liquor lounges and dining lounges in a liquor plebiscite, but because of claimed irregularities in balloting, a second vote was ordered.

The second vote was held on Tuesday and again both questions failed to get the necessary 60 per cent vote to carry.

Returning Officer J. C. Reynolds said the count for liquor lounges was 409 for and 331 against and for dining lounges 425 for and 316 against. The "yes" vote for lounges was 55.25 per cent, and for dining lounges 57.13.

Approximately 74 per cent of the eligible voters turned out at the polls, Mr. Reynolds stated.

European Type Apple Pie

by Mary Moore

I was there when the prize was awarded by Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower to the winner of the 1962 National Bakeoff. The winning recipe was a fancy apple pie and I lusted it when Eleanor Pillsbury gave me a piece.

All of the Food Editors attending their annual conference were invited to the Bakeoff award luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria.

Dozens - even hundreds - of food editors gave the exact recipe (if their newspapers a couple of weeks ago but I had to get back from New York, answer the pile of readers' letters waiting for me, go to a wedding, write five columns, and go to Malton to meet Marianne and Sue and Danny before I got around to making up that pie in my kitchen.

Now I have done it and am ready to tell you what I think. (Sounds sort of pompous, isn't it?)

For one thing, the original recipe is too big for an average family. It was baked by Mrs. Erwin J. Smoger of South Bend, Indiana in a 15 x 10" oblong and serves 12 to 15 people.

So this old busybody cut the recipe in half for I don't have 15 people. I haven't even got 12! I baked it in a standard pie plate.

First, in top of double boiler, melt together caramels and milk. Stir occasionally and keep over hot water.

Sift sifted flour, sugar, salt into mixing bowl. Cut in butter until size of peas. Add oil and water to half egg and mix. Slip into dry ingredients. Pack together and shape into ball. Between palms flatten this into a big pancake.

Place on 9" pie plate and press it smoothly to line pie plate just as rolled-out pie crust does - shaping a high even edge with your finger tips.

APPLE FILLING: ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon (2 tablespoons plus 2¾ teaspoons) flour, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (from 1 medium lemon) 3 cups (well packed) pared, sliced apples (I used 4 average Wealthys), 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Stir all ingredients in saucepan over medium heat until thickened. While warm turn into pastry-lined pie plate.

Cream Cheese Topping: 4 oz. white cream cheese (room temperature), ¼ egg (leftover from other ½ egg used in pastry), 2½ teaspoons (2 tablespoons plus 2¾ teaspoons) sugar.

Beat together until perfectly smooth.

Spoon hot caramel mixture in straight lines like 6 spokes of a wheel across top of filling. Fill gape between "spokes" with Cream Cheese Topping. Sprinkle top with chopped walnuts.

Bake ½ hour at 375 deg. Fahr., having pie on centre rack in oven and turning it around once during baking period. Serve warm or cold.

This pie took 1¼ hours to make.

Many Parents Attend Moira H-S Meeting

Parents from Trenton, Glen Miller, Marmora, Corbyville, Belleville, Plainfield and Canniffton, made a record turnout at the first general meeting of the Moira Secondary Home and School Association for the 1962-63 season.

After a short business meeting, with Mrs. Cooke presiding, Principal W. J. Musgrove explained the plan for the program "Back to School Night".

Each parent picked up a copy of the schedule followed by their boy or girl for that day. Then they reported to the "Home Room" and from there on they attended classes just as the day pupils, with ten minutes in each class room.

At each room the teacher outlined the course for the year and explained what was expected of the pupils.

After the last class the group of teachers and parents were greeted at the cafeteria by Mrs. A. Fewtrell of the Hospitality Committee.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My boy friend has been asked to usher at the wedding of a friend with whom he served in the army. He's accepted, as I think I, too, should be invited to the wedding. I've never met either the bride or the groom. My boy friend is reluctant to ask the groom to put me on his guest list, since the wedding is to be small and, he says, invitations are limited to family and close friends. Since we keep steady company, I think he has an obligation to see I'm invited and that I sit with him at the reception. Don't you agree that this is proper under the circumstances? — A. H. R., Trenton N.J.

Answer: When an usher is married or engaged, his wife or fiancee automatically is invited to the wedding and reception, as well as to all parties preceding the wedding. Neither the prospective bride nor groom is expected to extend this same courtesy to someone who is just a friend of someone in the wedding party, especially when she's a total stranger and the guest list has to be held to a moderate number.

Question: I'm planning a large family dinner when an uncle will be visiting us for the first time in a number of years. There will be about two dozen guests, and I plan to set up three large tables to take care of the crowd. To facilitate seating, I'd like to use place cards, but wonder if this would be too "showy" for such an informal occasion as a family dinner. I don't want some of the relatives to get the impression I'm trying to put on airs.

Mrs. D. B., Astoria, N.Y.

Answer: Of course place cards may be used for a large informal dinner. It's certainly a more practical arrangement than trying to direct twenty-four people to their seats, like a traffic cop. Cards may be placed above each plate or on the folded dinner napkin. First names, such as "Kathie" or "Billy" may be used, or they may simply be inscribed "Grandma", "Aunt Mary", or "Great-uncle Ned", in keeping with the informality of the party.

BPW Women To Convene In Windsor

On Friday local members of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club will travel by bus to Windsor. The occasion will be a conference which is held once each year in different cities. This year the conference is in Windsor on October 12, 13 ,14.

The following members of the local club will attend: Mrs. Dorothy Brown; Miss Florence Fitzgerald; Mrs. Irene Hall; Mrs. Shirley Woodcox; Mrs. Colombe Both; Miss Jean Stephenson and Mrs. Arlene Astbury. A member of the Tweed club will also be traveling with this group.

Bullfighting In Canada Girl's Dream

TORONTO (CP) — Bullfighting in Canada is the dream of Carolyn Hayward of St. John's Nfld., one of the few remaining woman bullfighters in the world.

Carolyn, in town for a television appearance, says Canadian tourists in Central and South America enjoy the sport and she believes it would be popular here.

Her ambition: A Canadian bullfight season which would end with a big festival at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Bullfighting is illegal in Canada.

Carolyn, who became interested in bullfighting while studying in Spain, has appeared in all principal rings in South America and will soon start a season in Mexico.

The slim, 27-year-old says she has been "thrown several times, never seriously, and admits: "I was scared stiff at first and still am—but it's worth it."

Carolyn, who admits to earning up to 35 per cent of the gate at some fights, is already thinking of retiring.

But first she wants to earn enough money to buy a Peruvian plantation where she can raise fighting bulls.

U.C.W. Meetings

MARSH HILL, U.C.W.

MARSH HILL — The October meeting of Marsh Hill United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Searles with 16 members present.

Mrs. Harold Detlor, 1st vice-president, presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Bartindale was in charge of the worship, the theme being, "Thanksgiving". The prayer of "General Thanksgiving" from the hymnary was repeated in unison. The Scripture reading from Deuteronomy 8 was followed by the meditation. All joined in singing the hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God."

Final plans were made for the bazaar and tea which was held October 10th.

The members reported sending 34 cards, making six calls and six hospital visits.

The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. Detlor.

Mrs. Bartindale read an article on "Greatfulness," and Mrs. Farley Lindenfield read, "Church in the Community"; Mrs. Harold Detlor, "Three Steps to Happiness" assisted by Mrs. Garnet Searles, who read the ninth chapter of Mark.

Mrs. Don Irish read, "Be Yourself," and Mrs. Lindenfield "Make Up Your Mind". Mrs Bert Searles read a poem, "Thanksgiving" and Mrs. Bartindale closed the meeting with "What to be Thankful For".

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Many Attend Johnstown UC Anniversary

JOHNSTOWN — Mr. Jack Cooper of Sidney charge, was guest speaker on Thanksgiving Sunday for the anniversary services held at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. in Johnstown United Church, when a good crowd was in attendance.

The church was festively decorated with vases and baskets of colorful blooms.

The choir sang two anthems, "God So Loved the World" and "God's Trumpet is Sounding," with Mrs. Alec Vandervoort as pianist.

Mr. Cooper spoke on "The Church, Its Purpose, Its People, Its Place, and Its Power" and said that its purpose was to save souls and that a church which did not save souls was not doing what it was supposed to do—the place to start was in the home. Mr. Cooper stressed the need for studying the Bible.

At the evening service Mr. Cooper spoke on "The Christian's Use of Time." The choir sang two anthems, "Go Forward" and "Sweet and Low."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Rufus G. — She wants to go off without me again this year.

Bertha G. — I get much more out of a trip when he stays home.

Rufus G. — Around harvest time each year, Bertha and I take the 400-mile drive into the hills to visit her parents. It happened that last year I couldn't get away because of a business convention in Chicago, so Bertha made the trip with a lady neighbor who took turns with her at the wheel.

This year I was clearing my calendar for the annual journey when my wife informed me she'd rather go alone and not to bother. She'd get Cousin Tess to help with the driving. Well, aside from being fired as chauffeur and escort, other angles bother me. Number one, I'd like to see her folks, too. Number two, those two women on the loose alone will try anything, probably get lost, sick, injured or robbed. Bertha does things on impulse and I'll worry about her.

Bertha G. — I'm not firing Rufus as my chief escort. He's still Number One in my life, of course. But last fall I discovered how much fun could be had both going and returning, along the route to my parents' farm. And it's not the sort of thing Rufus enjoys. To him, a motoring mileage fast. In the 18 years, we've been keeping this cantankerous with my family, his main concern has been trying to find short cuts and cutting a few minutes off last year's time. He'd never let me stop to linger at a church fair or a small-town football game.

But last year my friend and stretched out the return trip for three days. We took in a rodeo, a prize pumpkin contest and other excitements. Rufus would have whined and pouted them. This year I plan to stop for bird-watching with Tess.

The Council: Returning from a visit to America, an island dweller in one of the peaceful reaches of the Pacific said, "One thing puzzles me about the Americans. They do anything to save a few minutes. But what do they do then, with all the time they save?"

That's a good question for Rufus. Okay he knows a half-hour off the driving time required to get home. Does that mean he has a half-hour more for fun, for enrichment? Probably not. He may spend the time saved in grousing about the Sunday driver ahead of him who kept him from shopping off a full hour, which would have been possible thanks to the new spur between Village X and Whistle-Stop-Y, etc.

As in most marital debates, we counsel compromise. How about a direct trip to, and a zigzagy one fro? The zigs and zags, of course, are to be charged by Bertha, as her reward for having conceded the straight-shoot for Rufus, one-way. She'd be having a shorter trip, but she'd be having the fun along, a chastened Rufus who'd be having a longer trip on which he indulges Bertha's yen to linger, loiter and look around.

Rufus will be invited along, we'll wager, (and Cousin Tess will have to bow out on this journey, at least) as soon as he concede's he's been pellish during the annual drives, speeding along as he pleased, ignoring Bertha's interest in the passing attractions. Each arrow and sign has been making her heart leap, and now she's determined to let her heart dance and follow her fancy. Even though Rufus accommodates her as a sort of indulgent, disinterested chauffeur, he'll find some of her fair de virre rubbing off on him. He'll see the sense of going the long way for a chance to sit by a singing brook.

While Bertha may feel a bit more inhibited with Rufus along than alone with just widcap Cousin Tess, she'll not only get her bird-watching but she'll be planting in Rufus the germs of her own fever for following fascinating traffic. If the germs "take," on future trips we'll include country auctions, county fairs and other delights. Who knows but that she'll be the one to whip Rufus past a pie-eating contest.

WEDDING

BROADBRIDGE — CANNONS

Wellington United Church, Wellington, Ontario, was the setting for a very pretty wedding when Doreen Beverly-Ann Cannons, of Toronto, daughter of Mrs. Ronald Young became the bride of Stanley William Broadbridge, of Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Broadbridge. Lovely baskets of white gladioli, interspersed with ferns, formed an attractive background for the ceremony performed by the Reverend N. J. Truax.

The wedding music was provided by Mrs. McNeil, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Narda Isig, who sang during the signing of the register, "The Wedding Prayer," and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her step-father, Mr. Ronald Young, was radiantly lovely in her white, floor-length bridal gown of nylon chiffon over taffeta accented by bows and lace appliques on the full skirt and bodice which featured a bateau neckline, long sleeves, and lace bow at waistline back. She wore a finger-tip veil of silk tulle illusion in bouffant style, and pearlled tiara. Her flowers were of red roses with trailing ivy. A single strand of cultured pearls, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her nuptial ensemble.

She was attended by Miss Narda Isig, of Houghton, N.Y., formerly of Brighton, Ontario, as maid of honor, and by her sister, Miss Alice Cannons, as junior bridesmaid, and by little Miss Kathy Wannamaker, of Trenton, cousin of the bride, as flower girl. The maid of honor and the junior bridesmaid were gowned alike in street-length flowered nylon chiffon over blue taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodices having slightly scooped necklines, short sleeves with white accessories. They wore silver headdresses with matching blueflowered nylon gold rose necklaces, the gifts of the bride. The flower girl, was in a plain blue nylon chiffon frock over blue taffeta with yellow bandeau and carrying a basket of yellow flowers. The senior attendants carried bouquets of yellow flowers.

Mr. Ronald Broadbridge, brother of the bridegroom, of Wellington, attended as groomsman, while the ushers were, Mr. William Wright, of Trenton, and Ronald Cannons, also of Trenton.

The reception was held at Wellington town hall to which the Wellington W.I. catered.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask linens and red roses. The bridal bouquet was caught by the maid of honor, Miss Narda Isig.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a shower given by her co-workers of the Northwestern General Hospital laboratory, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Broadbridge are residing at 88 Ben Nonard Place, apartment 1, Hamilton, Ontario.

The bridegroom is a 3rd year student in the engineering course at McMaster, University, Hamilton, Ontario.

For the wedding trip to Northern Ontario and the Muskoka district, the bride chose a yellow-wattle wool ensemble with box pleated skirt, three-quarter sleeves and black accessories, with corsage of white carnation, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pink roses and silver leaves, and topped with white bells, pink roses and lily-of-the-valley. Tall candles and the bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial accent.

The guests were received by the bride's mother in brown lace in streetlength, with green hat and gloves and brown shoes, with corsage of yellow roses. Also assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, attired in pale blue brocade sheath and jacket, with white accessories, and corsage of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley William Broadbridge are pictured following their marriage in Wellington United Church, Wellington, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Doreen Beverly-Ann Cannons, daughter of Mrs. Ronald Young of Toronto. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Broadbridge, of Hamilton, Ontario. Call for Help Went Out To a Woman

PRESTON, Ont. (CP)—When Preston's new 1,500,000 - gallon water storage tank developed cracks, the call for help went out to a woman.

Gisela Zylka of Montreal, who came to Canada from Germany four years ago, is a former six-a-week laborer who now bosses a firm specializing in preserving and restoring things that men build.

A no-nonsense sort of woman who doesn't think it's a bit odd that she should be in charge of an all-male crew, Miss Zylka chipped away at patches of surface cement to show engineers that the wire-wrapped structure was basically sound.

Then she proceeded to supervise every inch of a three-day, high-speed operation in which her employees patched the cracks with epoxy compound.

Miss Zylka, who says that as a child she preferred taking things apart to playing with dolls, was manager of a U.S. Air Force post exchange in the Rhineland until she decided to come to Canada because she wanted better hours, fresher air and something with more future.

She feels strongly that there's a place for women in the construction business, saying the male - dominated, custom - ridden industry needs a woman's logic.

Men fall to think of the little things that would speed the job, she declared. "They never seem to see that just turning something around will make it work better."

U.C.W. Meetings

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown ladies held their October U.C.W. meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Harry at 8 p.m. with a good attendance.

Mrs. Everett Harry was in charge of the Worship period, "The Lord of Harvest Home" was sung Scripture reading found in Deut. 8.

Mrs. Earl Stickle told of what a wonderful land Canada is and how much its residents have to be thankful for to God.

At the business session - a shower of cards was asked to be sent to one of the older members of Johnstown. Arrangements were made about the catering to a wedding on October 20th.

The November meeting will be held at Mrs. Glenn Stickle's home. An invitation from Frankford ladies to attend their tea and sale. A letter was received from Canada Packers. It was arranged to send the Ontario Retarded Infants, of Plainfield, a donation. A thankyou was received from Mrs. Ira Hamilton for cards and plant while sick in hospital at Belleville.

Mrs. Alva Meyers was in charge of the program talking on the "Rural Church", telling the differences in farming now versus earlier days, causing less farmers and larger farms, coming about by the better farming idea and machinery which needs less power. This all had a bad effect on the rural church. Where they each would have a hundred otherwise, now have just a handful to keep a church going.

In the west and part of the States, several churches use on building. Another idea is that a couple of ministers, a layman and a deaconess of the church take a lot more territory using a jeep or whatever is necessary to get around.

Cannifton CGIT Enjoys Wiener Roast

The regular weekly meeting of Cannifton C.G.I.T. was held at the home of Miss Beth Boyd on Tuesday evening.

General business was transacted, after which games and dancing were enjoyed followed by a wiener roast.

A vote of thanks was expressed by the president, Alana Day to Miss Boyd and her mother for graciously opening their home for the meeting.

Newcomers to Canada Feel Unwanted

DORIS-CLARK

DEAR DORIS—We are new to Canada and there is a young couple we like very much. We pass their place when we go to town. Since we felt they liked us too, we sometimes found ourselves an excuse to drop in. To begin with they invited us occasionally and we in return invited them to our place. But many times they excused themselves and did not come.

I for my part know how hard it is to go for visits with little ones. However, I have done it so often and we started to wonder why it takes them so long to find the way to our place and why so seldom. Sometimes they pass our place and kindly blow the horn, but never stop in. When we then heard from neighbors that they had paid them a visit, it hurts a little.

Are we making a nuisance of ourselves by visiting there frequently? My husband does not want to go where he feels he is not wanted. Besides, we noticed that in all other cases here, there are many people with whom we associate, and we are the ones who always do the phoning and inviting first.

I feel really inferior about it. Is there something wrong with us? Or are Canadian people different?—MARIA.

DEAR MARIA—Not that different, I hope. But Canadians who don't know what it is to leave one's homeland can be thoughtless.

I'd say leave them alone for a while. Get into activities with church or community. Offer services to a hospital or hobby group. Newcomers like yourselves have much to share and are being made more than welcome in such places.

And let me be one Canadian to welcome you to Canada and wish you well here!

TO MOTHER-OF-THE-BRIDE—If there is both a matron of honor and a senior bridesmaid, the matron of honor has the duty of holding the bride's bouquet, signing the register, and so on. If the bride prefers to give this honor to the senior bridesmaid, she should switch titles.

Staff Hearings on Canadian Lumber in Final Stretch, Decision Sometime in Feb.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Across - fire of charges, mixed with a little levity, highlights the final stages of a tariff commission hearing that has shown a deep split in the United States on the merits of imposing steeper import restrictions on highly-important lumber imports from Canada.

Summation by both sides of argument developed since the case opened Oct. 2 likely will take place Friday and the commission may then adjourn to bring down a decision sometime before next February.

The most dramatic moment in the protracted and somewhat repetitive debate came Wednesday when Alfred Sachs, comset and treasurer of a crippled U.S. western lumber manufacturing company, and Leonard Netzorg, counsel for U.S. Western Forest Industries Association, raised the price-combine issue.

Netzorg alleged that Seaboard Lumber Sales Limited of Vancouver was made up of a number of B.C. mills combining "to maintain prices or prevent price competition," Betram Hoffeditz, president of B.C. Forest Industries Council, who was under cross-examination denied his and Claude Fillmore, boardmanaging director who was in the audience, told reporters later the company is a cooperative export sales agency with profits going back to the shipper-owner mills.

Sachs extended the charge by wrapping MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited into the price-fixing allegations, but William Dowling, a tariff commissioner, rejected his allegations as irrelevant and told him to save his charges elsewhere.

Tariff Chairman Ben Dorfman intercceded, saying that while the commission is being overloaded with irrelevant testimony, the burden wouldn't be increased if Sachs could provide factual evidence on which he based his allegations.

Sachs attempted to wouldn't; that he was attempting to find evidence by cross - examining Hoffeditzer. But Sachs' allegations were described by Herbert Fierst, counsel for the B.C. industry, as "wild and unsupported allegations."

Seven prominent wholesalers, some representing sawmillers, argued they urgently need Canadian lumber; that Canadian sales promotion is better; price steadier and Canadian quality higher than American production.

First Day Results in Plowing Match

OWEN SOUND (CP) — The 49th International Plowing Match got off to a start Wednesday, with a crowd estimated at 17,000.

The match, officially opened by Agriculture Minister Stewart of Ontario, is being held at the farm of Norman Barber, three miles southwest of here.

First day results:

Ontario championship — William Hostrawser, Malton; Joseph G. Tran, Claremont; Charles Rooney, Princeton.

Horses, jointer plows—Eugene Timbers, Cookstown; Mac Gamble, Owen Sound; Andrew MacRobbie, Guelph.

Tractors, utility class—Harry Armstrong, Beverley; Lew Brown, Ayton; Harold Chapman, Bruce Mines.

Tractors, trailer plows—Allan Gamble, Chatsworth.

Tractors, mounted, plowmen under 21—Thomas L. Hunter, Hagersville; Keith Leslie, Georgetown; Frank Duck, Mono Road.

Service Vote System Faulty Says Justice

By JACK PICKETTS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Chief Justice R. E. Furlong reserved decision Wednesday in Newfoundland Supreme Court on whether to declare void the June 18 federal election in St. John's West.

However, he promised that former solicitor-general William Browne's case would be given "immediate consideration."

Chief Justice Furlong and Mr. Justice H. A. Winter heard Mr. Browne's petition to have the election declared void on the grounds of irregularities in the service vote.

The hearing, which Mr. Browne sought after a judicial recount confirmed he had lost the seat to Liberal Richard Cashin by 24 votes, opened Tuesday.

LIVES OUTSIDE RIDING

Mr. Browne claimed 34 servicemen voted in St. John's West although they listed residences in other ridings. Two others gave insufficient information as to the location of their residence in St. John's, which could place them in St. John's West or St. John's East, another federal riding.

Mr. Browne was leading in the election until the service vote was added to election night results.

Chief Justice Furlong commented during testimony that on the basis of what was presented to the court, nearly 10 per cent of the service vote in St. John's West has been "on the face of it improperly cast."

"I'm assuming that 10 per cent of the entire service vote in Canada was also improper," he said. "The system is totally faulty."

KILLED IN BLAST

VIENNA (AP)—Seven Czech coal miners were killed in a mine explosion near Ostrava, the Ostrava daily Nova Svoboda reported in a copy received here on Wednesday. The paper said the explosion occurred Sept. 27.

Cause of Tastes, Odors in Water Still Mystery

TORONTO (CP) — The question of what constitutes tastes and unpleasant odors in drinking water is a mystery, says a Philadelphia engineer.

Robert A. Baker of the Franklin Institute Laboratories said Wednesday that no research institute could find no statistical method of quantizing tastes and odors "because no scientific instrument can measure them."

Mr. Baker was speaking to the annual convention of the Water Pollution Control Federation which ends today after a five-day meeting.

He said that when human noser and palates are used in an attempt to determine sensitivity to concentrations of eight chemicals "it was found that individual thresholds varied so widely that no exact results could be achieved."

HITS DETERGENTS

In another session, household detergents came under fire as one of the enemies of effective sewage treatment.

Robert G. Roebeck of the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Centre, Cincinnati, said the foaming agent in household detergents — alkyl benzene sulfonate or ABS — seriously handicaps sewage treatment.

Robert J. Drake, farm editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, said the federation "desperately needs a symbol."

"What more appropriate service than the Water Pollution Control Federation should adopt an emblem that deserving consumption and industries can wear and advertise."

SOME EXCURSION — All Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donahue of Elmira, N.Y., planned to do was take a $3 boat trip around Manhattan. While waiting for their boat, to leave they decided to tour the docked liner Queen Mary. The next thing the Donahues knew they were on their way to England, but were fortunate in being let off at Nova Scotia.

Went for Tour But Landed on Queen Mary

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donahue, in New York City to see the sights, decided to tour the British liner Queen Mary. Before long, they were on the roof of a battered cabin cruiser, riding into Halifax.

The couple told this story Wednesday:

In New York last week they bought tickets Wednesday, day for a boat ride around Manhattan Island but found they had some time to kill before the excursion boat left. The Queen Mary was nearby, so they went aboard to look her over.

While below deck they thought they felt the ship moving.

A band started playing.

"Hey, they're playing anchors aweigh, Donahue said.

The Queen Mary was sailing, bound for Southampton.

Donahue ran to the ships purser and explained they were not passengers.

Attempts to put them aboard a tugboat were unsuccessful because of a longshoremen's strike.

The liner was due off Halifax the next day for a refuelling stop. The Donahues were told they could put ashore there. Until then, they would be — class guests—for a nominal fee.

Donahue said he had $45 left. The trip did not say what he was charged.

When the liner reached Halifax Monday they were put aboard an old cabin cruiser dispatched from the port and brought them to Elmira. There was no room inside.

FINALLY RETURN

They flew to New York that night and returned to their hotel.

The next day, before they boarded a plane for Elmira and home, Donahue met the man in the hotel lobby who had sold him the tickets for the boat ride around Manhattan.

"How did you enjoy the trip? the man asked.

Donahue told him.

WINS AWARD

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Industrial Development Award for 1962 was presented to Mayor Horace Bolgin of Granby, Que., at Wednesday night's session of the conference of the provincial governments' trade and industry council. The annual award — donated by The Financial Post—is made by the council to the person who has done most for the economy of his community and the nation.

Opposition Mounts to White Rule in Any Part of Africa

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The news that still another rebellion against France, the part of Africa has reached independent statehood has as almost-commonplace ring.

The political makeup of the continent has been changing so swiftly since the Second World War that the cumulative effects of the changes sometimes go unnoticed.

But a series of events in the last few days point up one effect: The mounting opposition to white rule in any part of the continent.

In Uganda, on the first day of independence, Prime Minister Milton Obote said his new Commonwealth country will not recognize white - dominated South Africa or the Rhodesian Federation, still under Britain's wing. It hadn't yet decided whether to recognize Portugal, colonial ruler of Angola.

WORK FOR OUSTER

At the United Nations, Premier Ahmed Ben Bella marked Algeria's admittance with a promise to work for liquidation of all colonialism. He mentioned by name Angola, the Rhodesian Federation and South - West Africa ruled by South Africa under an old League of Nations mandate.

On the same way President Sekou Toure of Guinea stressed the need for unity among newly independent African countries and said the major reality of the world is "the division into free peoples and dominated peoples, into zones of plenty and zones of poverty."

In South Africa, there were a number of sabotage attempts against targets of the Afrikaan bloc in the UN. With the expected addition soon of Uganda, there will be 33 African members—including South Africa—in a total membership of 110.

The bloc is far from solidly united on anti-colonial issues. Its approach varies from a strenly anti-colonial attitude of the 4Casablanca group to the usually moderate view of the Brazzaville group, composed of 12 former French colonies.

TRAINED REBELS

Algeria is expected to play a leading part in the Casablanca group, which also includes Guinea, the United Arab Republic, Ghana, Mali and Morocco.

Ben Bella did not spell out what Algeria is prepared to do to support independence movements. But his country, economically prostrate after nearly eight years of war and terrorism, is rich in arms and military experience.

Many Women, Girls in World Cannot Read

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Of the one-half the world's population which cannot read, the majority are women and girls, the Associated Country Women of the World was told Wednesday.

Mrs. Ada Morris, Australian representative to the United Nations commission on the status of women, said literacy campaigns, such as are promoted by the UN educational, scientific and cultural organization in South America, Asia, Africa and the Arab countries are among the most important undertakings of the times.

In spite of recent progress, she said, half of the world's children do not have an opportunity to attend elementary school.

Mrs. Morris was addressing the 10th triennial conference of the Country Women of the World.

Admits Killing Exile Leader With Spray Gun

KARLSRUHE, West Germany (Reuters)—A confessed Soviet agent told Wednesday how he killed a Ukrainian exile leader with a cyanide spray gun while his victim fumbled with his key to get into his apartment.

Bogdan Stashinski, 30-year-old Soviet citizen charged before the federal high court with murdering Ukrainian exile leaders, said his orders came from the Soviet government and Communist party central committee. He told of spraying Stefan Bandera, chief of the anti-Communist Ukranian National Organization, on Oct. 15, 1959.

Stashinski also is charged with murdering Lev Rebet, a writer. He fled to West Berlin last year and told West German police he committed both murders.

UN Not Opposed To Take Over Of Power Firms

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson says he tends to believe that the people of Quebec favor public ownership of electricity production.

Mr. Johnson made the statement Wednesday in Montreal as he pressed his election campaign in two cities — Montreal and Quebec on one day.

Premier Jean Lesage has staked the life of his Liberal government on the issue of public ownership of private hydro-electric companies. He has insisted that a vote for Mr. Johnson's Union Nationale party is a vote against the expropriation of private power.

Said Mr. Johnson:

"A vote against Lesage is not necessarily a vote against nationalization." His party's program calls for expropriation of two small companies and a referendum to decide the fate of the others.

He said he has given orders to his organizers to take no campaign contributions from private power companies and accused Premier Lesage's party of accepting them.

CAMPAIGNS AT HOME

Mr. Lesage spent a quieter day campaigning in his home riding of Quebec West. He accused Mr. Johnson of trying to duck out of a proposed face-to-face television debate scheduled for Nov. 11 and said he will debate any subject Mr. Johnson chooses except the report of the Salvas royal commission which ISvestigated corruption under the former Union Nationale government.

Mr. Lesage said the CBC had proposed Nov. 11 — three days before the provincial election—as a good time for the debate and that it was Mr. Johnson who said "it seems that it no longer suits Mr. Johnson."

Mr. Johnson had said earlier in Montreal he wants an earlier meeting, wants it broadcast on both French and English networks.

He said he had been in touch with Montreal's two private television stations in the hope that a general network debate could be set up by them. He said one station had accepted, suggesting Nov. 4.

Said Mr. Lesage, "Absolutely ridiculous." There were no facilities for private networks in Quebec and in any case broadcasting regulations forbid setting one up. He said Mr. Johnson wants to use the Montreal station alone "so that the people of Quebec can't hear him."

He said he is anxious to debate with Mr. Johnson so that he can "make him say yes or no on the question of nationalization."

CITES HIS VIEW

In Montreal, Mr. Johnson had said he didn't want the debate to be limited to public ownership, which he insists is not the issue. He said he wanted to discuss:

1. The sale of the Crown-owned gas distributing system of Quebec Hydro to the privately - owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

2. Mr. Lesage's part in the Trans - Canada Pipeline Company deal when he was a Liberal federal government, in which Mr. Lesage was minister of Northern Affairs and National Resources;

3. Quebec's administration since the Liberal take-over of June, 1960.

4. Nationalization of electricity, mining and pulp.

5. The Salvas royal commission inquiry.

Mr. Lesage replied that the second report of the commission—the part dealing with the purchasing practices of the Union Nationale government—has not yet been released and therefore he did not want to drag it into public view.

[The commission's first report, on the Quebec natural gas deal, was released in part and criticized several Union Nationale government members for their role in disposing of a Crown asset to a company in which they held shares.

GETS LITERARY AWARD

BOSTON (AP) — Katherine Anne Porter received the Emerson - Thoreau Medal of the American Academy of Arts and Scientists Wednesday for distinguished achievement in literature. The medal and $1,000 honorarium was awarded for Miss Porter's short stories, especially in the two volumes, Flowering Judas and Pale Horse, Pale Rider.

Nibblers Not Tipplers Club Formed in Quebec

EDMONTON (CP)—The Nu-Ut club is losing part of its membership all the time and still growing.

Formed last April as a kind of alcoholics anonymous for nibblers instead of tiplers, it takes credit for a total loss in weight of 294 pounds among seven of its members.

One member, who once weighed 258 pounds, now weighs 182 and is hoping to reach 130, Mrs. E. G. Abrook, one of the club's charter members (195 pounds to 133), says most members are forced to lose weight for health reasons. Doing it together, they found they still could have fun while rejecting the calories.

Mrs. H. Moody (down 50) said: "We usually visit our doctors three days after the weekly club meeting. That way we have a double morale booster each week."

Another woman (down 35) said; "We all have incentive. Some have high blood pressure and some thyroid of heart trouble. I want another baby. The doctor says I must lose weight first."

All members are required to have a medical examination before they start dieting and then they follow the doctor's orders.

"When a luscious chocolate cake is served, I don't eat it," says Mrs. Abrook. "My telephone another member and drink a quick cup of coffee or glass of fruit juice in which a package of gelatine has been dissolved. Gelatine does wonders for the hair, skin and nails."

The women claim the club program does something for their husbands, too. One quoted her husband as saying: "Why your ankles are getting pretty."

"Thanks for bringing me home, Fred, only that doesn't happen to be me!"

House to Wind Up Throne Speech Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons winds up the general throne speech debate tonight, with a vote which the minority Conservative government apparently regards as the key test in determining whether it has this confidence in the House.

The vote will be taken at 10:45 p.m. EDT on a government motion for a formal thanks to address to Governor-General Vanier for delivering the throne speech at the opening of Parliament two weeks ago today.

The fact that the throne speech was written for Gen. Vanier by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet makes the vote, in effect, an adoption of the legislative program in the speech as the parliamentary agenda for this session. Other items can be added later.

There is no formal Commons rule declaring what motions are ones of confidence or of nonconfidence, but parliamentary precedents make any amendment to the motion for adoption of the address a non-confidence motion. The House has already defeated four of these this session, including one proposed by the Liberal opposition.

Passage of a non-confidence motion automatically overthrows the government. On each one this session the government needs the support of at least one opposition group to avoid defeat. There are 116 Conservatives in the Commons and 148 opposition MPs—100 Liberals, 30 Social Credit and 18 New Democratic Party members.

So far the Social Credit group has stood with the government in three non-confidence votes. On a fourth, that party deliberately worded its own motion to make Liberal and NDP support impossible.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

With a Cloud Nine optimism which was partially dulled by a sometimes silly argumentative cacophony, the Booster Club decided the other night to foundation an effort to keep OHA junior hockey breathing in the city.

The consensus was that with the use of certain club monies, a possible grant from a National Hockey League club and a successful response to an appeal to city fandom, the venture could be financed successfully.

With the appalling falling-off of hockey interest in the city as evidenced last season with the intermediate Pepsi's club, it seems the Boosters have taken on a tremendous task.

I am not saying it cannot be done. But if it is to meet with at least a modicum of success it will need the united effort of all concerned.

Finance, the bugaboo of all sponsorless organized athletic organizations, will be the biggest problem. The days of running hockey clubs on the proverbial shoestring are long gone. It takes money, and plenty of it to make the hockey mare go, no matter her size or calibre.

When the McFarland interests dropped the city junior "B" sponsorship, the powers-that-be, naturally took equipment, gear and whatnot with them. This constitutes an important financial item. It was reported that second-hand gear can be purchased.

The meeting endorsed a Booster executive motion that $1,000 of club monies be utilized in the new venture. It stated the Chicago Black Hawks will consider a grant similar to that given junior clubs under the McFarland sponsorship.

Estimates of seasonal club operation ranged from $2,800 to over $6,000. The latter was more to the mark. A guess from the gallery aired the rumor it cost the McFarlands well in excess of $5,000 to operate last year's club.

Equipment, including sticks and other items, transportation, and, if they are to be obtained, the services cost of player imports, will amount to a tidy sum. The only source of revenue apart from donations, grants, fund-raising gimmicks, etc., is the box office, a decidedly "X" quantity.

The idea behind the Booster Club is not, the meeting was told, to finance a championship club, rather to keep the junior brand of hockey "alive" and provide playing opportunities for the young players of the city and district.

Unfortunately the "sponsorless" situation arose at a time and year when the majority, if not all, the key players of last year's fine club "graduated" with an average diploma. It was stated that there are eleven holdovers.

However it seems the die has been cast. A nominating committee was formed to bring in a slate of executive officials composed of well-known hockey men and other sportsmen of the city. The list is an imposing one and if the gentlemen will act, the new club will be exceptionally strong in the executive department.

As this column noted last week, the effort to finance the new club must be an all-out one. No half-way measures will do. One highly optimistic suggestion was that some 300 or 400 hockey-minded citizens could be approached with a view to making donations of $10 each. It could be tried.

But with the season scheduled to open here on November 20th against Kingston, something must be done—and done quickly. There is no time for stalling or deferment of plans. The idea to finance the club could fold as quickly as it was hatched.

I would not want to see the club started on a one-legged financial footing and after three or four or more games be forced to fold and whatever finances have been raised go down the drain.

So it appears the situation calls for immediate action on the part of those in charge; the wholehearted support of fans and sportsmen of the city; the generous response of community-minded people to financial appeals and hard work on the part of those called upon to help.

Booster president Jim Matthews is to be commended for his efforts to retain junior hockey here. But unless he gets the all-out backing of all concerned, I fail to see how the venture can succeed.

Tresh Turns Tide With 3-Run Homer

By JOE REICHLER

The team that made a habit of coming from behind this season now finds itself faced with the most crucial comeback of all, after Wednesday's 5-3 loss to New Yankees. The decision gave the American League champions a 3-2 edge in the World Series.

As the rivals prepare for the sixth game in San Francisco Friday, the Yankees need only one more victory to record their 20th world championship in the last 40 years.

The Giants' task is much more difficult now despite the fact the balance of the series will be played in their home park. They must beat southpaw Whitey Ford and eight-hander Bill Stafford, although not necessarily in that order. Each owns a victory without having tasted defeat in the series.

PICKS PIERCE

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants named lefty Billy Pierce as his sixth-game pitcher immediately after Wednesday's Yankee victory, which was trigered by Tom Tresh's three-run homer in the eighth inning before 63,165 fans.

The 360-blow by the rookie outfielder, off right-hander Jack Sanford, snapped a 2-2 tie and gave Ralph Terry his first World Series triumph after four defeats, one in the current series.

Dark, however, delayed naming the rest of the lineup until he learned the identity of the Yankee starting pitcher. New York manager Ralph Houk said his pitcher would be either Ford or Stafford but declined to name him until after a workout this afternoon.

"I still think we'll win it," averred Dark, despite odds making the Yanks a 3½ to 1 favorites. "I've said all along the series will go seven games and we'll win it."

Houk did no gloating. He is fully aware there has been little to choose between the two teams. Going into the seventh inning, neither team has had more than a one - run lead in any of the five games.

GIANTS LEAD IN HOMERS

The Yankees have made only 28 hits to 37 for the Giants. Tresh's homer Wednesday was only the second for the Yankees. The Giants have hit five off Yankee pitching.

"This is far from over," said Houk quietly. "I remember the Milwaukee Braves were leading the Yankees three games to one in the 1958 and lost the series." If Ford pitches Friday, he will be making his third start in the series. He won the opener 6-2 and then went six innings, giving up two runs, in the fourth game last Monday, won by the Giants 7-2. Jim Coates was charged with the loss. Whitey has had three full days of rest.

Pierce owns an unblemished record at Candlestick Park. The 35-year-old left-hander won 12 without a defeat in his home park during the 1962 campaign. his first with the Giants after many years with Chicago White Sox. He lost a 3-2 decision to Stafford in the third game last Sunday but that was at Yankee Stadium.

Should the Giants win Friday, their seventh - game pitcher will be either lefty Billy O'Dell or Sanford. Stafford or Ford, whoever doesn't go Friday, would be the Yankees' final game pitcher.

HAD THREE HITTER

O'Dell was the losing pitcher in the opener, then gave up one run in three innings or relief in the fourth game. Sanford pitched the series' only shutout, a brilliant three - hitter against Ralph Terry in the second game.

Sanford had a three - hitter going into the eighth inning Wednesday.

Two of the hits were "bleeders—one a Texas League double by Tresh that shortstop Jose Pagan dropped after a long run, the other a topped single by Richardson that found its way to the mound. The first two Yankee

Canada Takes Top In World Golf

KAWANA, Japan (AP)—Canada shot into the lead in the third world amateur golf team championship today, overtaking a faltering United States squad with consistent near-par play on the dismally cold and wet Fuji course.

Long-hitting Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., the first player on the course for the second round of the 72-hole stroke play tournament, showed the way with a 71 on the rain-soaked par 70 course which measures 6,587 yards.

Two other Canadians, Bill Wakeham of Victoria and Dick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., carded 72s to give Canada a 217-stroke team total for the day and a two-day score of 432. Only the lowest three scores for each team each day are counted in compiling the team figures. After the first round Wednesday it was 212 for the United States and 215 for Canada.

The Americans, who had led by three strokes after the first round, came apart in today's cold rain and wound up six strokes behind Canada. Meanwhile Bonnie Sharks, playing in the next-to-last threesome, shattered the Fuji course record with a round of 73-75—148 and boosted the combined Britain-Ireland team into contention.

New Zealand held on to third in the team standings with a two-day total of 442. Britain-Ireland followed with 44. Then and a came Formosa with 453, Australia 455, South Africa 456 and Japan 457.

The Americans' play was just about as miserable as the weather. Billy Joe Patton managed a scrambling 73 but Dick Sikes, two-time U.S. public links champion, soared from 69 to 78. Labron Harris Jr., the U.S. amateur champion, had 77 after going six over par on the front nine and former champion Deane Beman staggered in with an 80 that didn't count in today's team scoring.

Shade's 66, with five birdies and a one-over-par hole, lowered the Fuji course record set in 1954 by Japanese pro Pete Nakamura and equalled Wednesday by Cowan.

Cowan, probably the longest hitter in the field of 82 players representing 23 nations, eagled the 516-yard, par-5 11th hole by posting a round of 35-36—71 over the par 70 Fuji course. He had two birdies but was over par on five holes.

Wakeham, 31-year-old British Columbia amateur champion said his 34 on the back nine was "the best nine holes I ever played."

Cowan's 36-hole total of 68-71 —139 put him eight strokes ahead of Patton. But individual scoring doesn't count in the team championship except as a contribution toward the team score.

Golfer Sinks Three Aces In Nine Holes

The first was on the 210-yard third hole, the next on the fourth hole of 135 and the third on the 132-yard ninth.

The feat was witnessed by three other golfers.

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Tresh said he was trying only for a single when he blasted a three-run homer in the eighth inning Wednesday to give New York Yankees a 5-3 fifth-game victory over San Francisco Giants in the World Series.

"I chocked up on the bat and was trying to get a hit—any kind of a hit," the 24-year-old leftfielder explained over the din of the winning dressing room.

"I hadn't seen any good pitches all day from Jack Sanford (the Giant pitcher) and wasn't expecting any. But when the fast ball came over the middle of the plate I took a fuller swing than I intended—and that was it."

The ball sailed into the right-field stands about 10 rows above the 344-foot marker and Tresh trotted home behind Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson, who had singled.

The blow broke a 3-3 tie and the victory gave the Yankees a 3-2 lead in the series.

"Certainly it was the biggest hit I've ever made in my life, and my biggest baseball thrill," the handsome young six-footer from Taylor, Mich., told questioners, who crowded around him.

"I was especially happy because my dad and mom were in the stands, along with my wife."

Tresh's father, Mike Tresh, former catcher for Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, started Tom in baseball and discouraged him from undertaking a career behind the bat "like the old man."

"He saw I had speed and he told me catchers didn't last as long as infielders and outfielders because of the strain on their legs," Tom explained.

Old Mike Tresh, looking fit enough to don the pads of a catcher still, came down to the dressing room later and posed for pictures with his illustrious offspring, one of the individual stars of the current series.

"Where were you sitting?" somebody asked Mike Tresh.

"I wasn't sitting—I was jumping up and down," the father said.

By JACK STEVENSON

NEW YORK (AP) — "That's the worst game we've played in a long time right there," San Francisco manager Alvin Dark said flatly after losing to New York Yankees 5-3 in Wednesday's fifth game of the World Series.

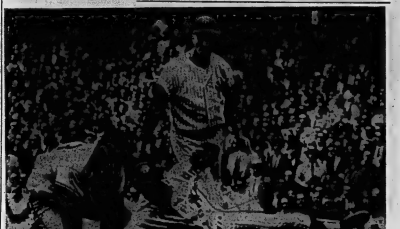
"We played badly today . . . We played bad."

But the Giants' manager said he had no intention of taking pitcher Jack Sanford out of the game when he went out to talk with him moments before Tom Tresh crashed his game-winning home run in the eighth.

With one out, Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson had hit sharp singles which brought Dark to the mound.

"I was just out there to slow him down," Dark said. "I had no thought of taking him out. He's pitched too well against the Yankees to take him out even though Don Larsen and Stu Miller were warming up."

In the second National League playoff game against Los Angeles, Dark took Sanford out quickly when he walked the first man in the sixth. The Giants were ahead 5-0 but were eventually defeated in that game.



"This was an entirely different situation," said Dark. "That day he was tired and had a cold. This time he had four days rest."

Sanford didn't think he was tiring either, saying: "I thought I still had it. Alvin had just told me to try to keep the ball lower."

Catcher Tom Haller said they wanted a low pitch to Tresh but "Sanford got it up and he hit it."

The dejected hurler, who beat the Yankees 2-0 in the second game, still maintained he had tagged Richardson at the plate in the sixth when the Yankees tied the count 2-2 Wednesday.

Dark was asked specifically where the Giants played poorly and replied: "Didn't you see that first inning."

RICHARDSON SCORES — Yankees' Bobby Richardson slides home to score in sixth inning at Yankee Stadium yesterday as Giants' pitcher Jack Sanford covers the plate. Yankee batter Roger Maris watches the play. Richardson's score tied the game at 2-2. Play began with Richardson on third. He came home when Sanford threw a pitch which got by catcher Tom Haller. Scores Twice Against Hawks

Armstrong Stars In Leafs' 3-1 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

George Armstrong, Toronto Maple Leaf captain, gets better as he gets older.

The six-foot-one right-winger whose early years in the National Hockey League had some people wondering whether the rave notices that preceded him out of amateur hockey were true, gained speed last season and was flying in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Wednesday night he picked up where he left off as the Leafs defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 in the opening game of the 1962-63 National Hockey League season.

He scored two goals against the same Hawks that the Leafs beat last spring to win the Stanley Cup.

The remainder of the league gets going tonight — Montreal Canadiens at Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings at New York Rangers.

The 31 - year - old Armstrong last season did better than ever before in the 10½ years he has played in the NHL, scoring 21 goals and assisting on 32 others. And in Leafs' 12 playoff games he had seven goals and five assists for 12 points.

He scored his second goal Wednesday night the hard way: Leafs were shorthanded (defenceman Carl Brewer was off) and he had to steal the puck from all - star left winger Bobby Hull.

That was in the second period, when Toronto was leading 2-1, and provided the clincher.

Armstrong had put the Leafs in front 1-0 at 4:01 of the first period while Chicago's Murray Hall was sitting out one of the three penalties he received. He grabbed the puck in a scramble in front of the Chicago goal and beat netminder Glenn Hall.

Chico Maki, up for another crack at the NHL after playing 16 games with Chicago last season, set up the play that led to Wharram's goal. He grabbed the puck from Toronto right-winger Ron Stewart at the Leaf blue line and Ab McDonald relayed it to Wharram. The winger put it past Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower from a difficult angle at 9:54.

Centre Billy Harris won a faceoff that led to Baun's goal on a 15-foot shot at 18:10. Then Armstrong wrapped it up at 15:38 of the second.

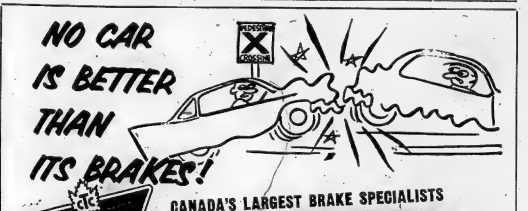
Two Leafs were missing from the lineup—defenceman Allan Stanley with a slightly injured shoulder acquired in the all-star game Saturday and centre Red Kelly who came down Wednesday with the flu after arriving from Ottawa and his duties there as Liberal member of Parliament for York West.

BEAT McMASTER

TORONTO (CP) — University of Toronto Blues moved into first place in the Intercollegiate Soccer League Wednesday with a 3-2 win over McMaster University of Hamilton.

Japanese Wins World 'Fly' Title

TOKYO (AP) — Masahiko Harada, a slight, 19-year-old Japanese who has been a pro less than three years, won the world flyweight title Wednesday night with an astonishing 11th round knockout of Thailand's Pone Kingpetch.



The crewcut youngster, conceded little chance to dethrone the experienced Thai, handed the defending champion a severe beating before dropping him for the full count at 2:59 of the 11th round of the scheduled 15-round bout.

Harada, ranked 10th among the contenders in the 112-pound division, weighed 111¼ pounds and Pone 111.

Pone received a $48,000 guarantee. Harada collected $3,000. Under the contract, Harada must give Pone a return bout in Bangkok within 90 days.

Yugoslavs Trim Yanks At Chess

VARNA, Bulgaria (AP)—Yugoslavia completed a 3-1 triumph over the United States Wednesday in the 16th Chess Olympics with the result that the winners clinched second place and the Americans skidded to fourth in the final standings.

Russia won the tournament with 31½ points, followed by Yugoslavia 28, Argentina 26 and the U.S. 25.

Bobby Fischer, the young grandmaster from Brooklyn, N.Y., conceded defeat Wednesday without resuming play while Robert Byrne of New York was beaten by O. M. Ivkov.

SIMPLIFY SEARCHES

VANCOUVER (CP)—All personnel at the Comox RCAF Station on Vancouver Island have been ordered to register before going on hunting fishing trips. Officials say the procedure will expedite searches when hunters and anglers become lost.

Underwent Surgery

Faloney Out For Season?

HAMILTON (CP) — Bernie Faloney, injured quarterback of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference, said Wednesday he doesn't think he'll be able to play again this season.

Faloney, voted Canada's outstanding football player in 1961, injured his right knee in Hamilton's second game of the season, against Toronto Argonauts Aug. 18.

He tried to play in several games but finally had to undergo surgery for removal of cartilage.

"I am optimistic about getting back in time for the playoffs and, of course, I want to if it is possible," said Faloney. "But I have been advised by both of the Tiger-Cat team doctors not to play again this year."

"I have been told there is a four-to-one chance of permanent injury if I played and got hit again."

Only a few hours after Faloney's statement, Jim Trimble, Tiger coach, announced that Joe Zuger will be his starting quarterback Monday night against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Young Frank Cosentino has been filling in for Faloney for the last six games, but Hamilton hasn't been successful under the Canadian-born quarterback.

Tigers now have lost their last three starts and have fallen to second place in the eastern standings.

Trimble also announced that George Scott was placed on waivers Wednesday and that a pair of newcomers, both former Syracuse University backfielders, will dress for Monday's game at Hamilton.

Fallon, a 213-pound fullback, is expected to replace Bobby Kuntz, who may be sidelined with a pulled hamstring muscle suffered in Saturday's game against Toronto.

Angelo Mosca, the huge lineman acquired from Montreal Alouettes this week, is also expected to dress Monday.

Second Channel Attempt Fails

DOVER, England (AP)—Mary Margaret Revell, American long distance swimmer, failed to conquer the English Channel Wednesday for the second time in three weeks.

The Detroit girl struggled for five hours and two minutes through fog and intense cold. Then, in agony, she was lifted into her escort boat.

GIANTS FACE

Pagan scored the first two Giant runs. He singled and scored on Chuck Hiller's double in the third and then homered in the fifth.

Sanford retired the first batter in the eighth but never got another batter. After Fanning Terry for his 10th strikeout, he yielded singles to Tony Kubek and Richardson. Then came Terab's homer and Sanford was finished.

Terry couldn't quite relax for his win after Tresh's homer. Willie McCovey opened the Giants' ninth with a single, Tom Haller doubled to left centre and McCovey scored. After striking out Felipe Alou and forcing Pagan to ground out to Jhorlen Terry was faced with Ed Bailey, a power hitter in the Giants' arsenal.

TEA SLIPPING

LONDON (CP)—Although it's still the national drink in England, coffee consumption has trebled since 1938. Britons also eat more meat and poultry than before the Second World War, less fish and less bread and butter, says a board of trade report.

Bobby Richardson Thinks

Ford Can Wrap Up Series

This is another in a series of daily articles analyzing the World Series by Bobby Richardson, second baseman of the New York Yankees.

By BOBBY RICHARDSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The right man was up at the right time. Tom Tresh says his home run was the "biggest hit" of his life. He'll get many more big hits before his career is over.

"That's why I've got you batting third," Ralph (Hoyt) told him when we all passed our manager in the dugout. (The "we" were base runners Kabek, Richardson and Tresh after Tresh's three-run homer beat the Giants 5-3 at New York Wednesday).

Tresh has been our hottest hitter in the last few weeks, and he has been our big man in the series—eight hits in five games.

Our first decent hit against Jack Sanford was Tony Kubek's liner to right with one out in the eighth. On the next pitch I made a bunt motion and singled to left. I think Sanford was tiring and he put one in there hoping I'd bunt a pop. But we crossed him up by swinging away.

I gave Ralph Terry a lot of credit for hanging in there. Outside of (Chuck). Hiller's double to the opposite field scoring Jose Pagan in the third, Ralph certainly took care with the top of the Giants batting order. All through the series our three starting pitchers have kept their big bats a bit quiet.

The same thing has been happening to us many times since this tensed - up series began. Everybody seemed tense out there Wednesday.

Once we tied the score I felt we would win. Terry was due and I figured we were due to hit Sanford eventually.

My knees buckled at second base in the ninth when Ed Bailey hit that pitch to right field. A homer meant a tie score. I felt relieved when I saw Roger Maris under the ball.

Today we have a workout at Candlestick Park under game time conditions and Friday I wouldn't be surprised if Whitey Ford pitches the sixth game in an effort to close out the series. Bill Stafford won't mind passing up his turn at a time like this. His left shin is still sore and we all know Whitey's ready.

Liston Requests Meeting

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Heavyweight champion Charles (Sonny) Liston has requested a meeting with the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, Commissioner Alfred M. Klein said Wednesday.

Klein said the request was made shortly after Liston won the title Sept. 25. No date has been set for the meeting.

Klein said discussions would cover Liston's plans both as a boxer and as a private citizen.

"We're as much interested in seeing Liston become a respected citizen as a respected boxer," Klein said.

Klein said he was checking into Liston's experience last Friday night. The champion, police, said, was driving a car which hit a parked vehicle. He arranged to pay for damages. About an hour later he was stopped in Fairmount Park by a park guard for driving too slowly. Later he was released without charge.

PILOT HONORED

LONDON (CP)—Veteran pilot Cecil Pashley has been awarded a silver medal to mark 50 years of flying. The award was presented by the Guild of Air Pilots and Air Navigators. The 76-year-old aviator had logged 18,900 flying hours and taught 1,900 students to fly.

Player Strength Distributed

City League Opens Oct. 31

Sixteen of last year's Pepsi's and McFarland hockey players were evenly distributed among the four teams of the City Hockey League at a successful "draft" meeting held last night.

The players, selected one at a time by the team managers, are those who are expected to lineup for play when the loop opens with a double-header on Wednesday, October 31.

The clubs drew numbers to get their order of selection with Trudeau Motors getting first choice, followed by Vagden-Welbanks, The Pepsi's and Joyce-Rollins, in that order.

Trudeau selected goalie Doc "Hurk" Barclay, defenceman Jean-Paul Lamirande and forwards Eddie Marineau and "Pug" Kellar. Vagden-Welbanks picked defencemen Floyd Crawford and Lionel Bolley and forwards "Wiener" Brown and "Bucky" Ethier. The Pepsi's got forwards Dave Jones, John "Shaker" Baker, Chuck Rowbotham and Billy McGuire. Joyce - Rollins took forwards Bob Taylor, Ronnie Hull and Duke Doran plus goalie Gord Parker.

Other ex-junior and Pepsi's players, such as Gary Goyer, Bill Moore, Moe Hunter and Larry Mavety, who may or may not wish to play in the loop, depending on how they make out at out-of-town hockey camps, will be drafted in the same manner if and when they wish to play.

Any player trades made between clubs must be approved by the two managers involved and by the league executive.

Club will be allowed to have 18 players signed and can dress 15 plus a spare goalie for each game. The final signing date is December 1.

A draw was made for the opening game, on October 31, and Joyce-Rollins will meet Vagden-Welbanks in the night's first game while Trudeau's and Pepsi's will clash in the night cap.

Plans call for the schedule to run through until February 5, with playoffs to follow. The league executive has the right to shift players if one team should prove overwhelmingly weak or strong after the opening weeks of the schedule.

An agreement between the league and the arena, which appears to be a good one for both parties, is all but finalized.

Nick Stefan, representative of Labatt's, offered a trophy for annual playoff competition, and this was accepted by all those in attendance. It is expected another trophy will be obtained for schedule winners.

The league executive and a representative from each team will meet in secretary-treasurer Bert Faulkner's office next Wednesday, October 17, at 7.30 p.m.

Teams are expected to open practice sessions shortly. It was also verified that all players, other than those on last year's Pepsi's or Macs, are wide open to all four teams.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jean First, owned and driven by Jacob Geisel Jr. of Hanover, Ont., returned to the Western Fair Raceway oval Wednesday night to capture the $600 C-3 mile pace.

A 2-1 choice with Barbara Grattan K. the five - year - old mare was held back over most of the muddy track. Geisel let her go at the turn home and she moved along the middle of the track for a one-length victory over Lock Stone in 2:10 2-5.

Co - favorite Barbara Grattan K made it easier for Jean First by breaking at the start. Jean First paid $6.20, $3.60 and $3.60 across the board.

Phillies Seek Top Pitcher

NEW YORK (AP) — General manager John Quinn of Philadelphia Phillies of the National League says his main aim in baseball trade talks during the World Series is to get an established pitcher and he's willing to trade shortstop Ruben Amaro to do it.

"By established I mean a proven big-leaguer whom you could count on to win at least 15 games next season," Quinn said.

"I think that with such a pitcher, to team with (Art) Mahaffey, (Dennis) Bennett and (Chris) Short as regular starters we definitely will be first division contenders."

FAVORED TO WIN

LONDON (AP)—British bookies made Harvey's Leader's horse Hidden Hearing a 10-to-1 favorite Wednesday for the Cambridgeshire Stakes — the last race of the year carrying the Irish Sweepstakes. More than 60 horses still are in the big race to be run over one mile 240 yards at Newmarket next Wednesday.

'Stoney Burke' Series Comes Up With Novel Character

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's new Stoney Burke, the series about a rodeo rider, has come up at least with a novel character—the semi-villain who is a regular member of the cast. That's a character called Ves, played by Warren Oates, and a sort of despicable nice guy.

In two episodes I've seen to date, Ves has been in the employ of cruel and shady exploiter of professional riders and—this week—the hireling of the shady promoters of a prize fight who were trying to keep the rodeo out of town.

Anyway, Ves is different from the evil villains and the mental cases which are so much around. He's—well, just sort of misguided and so sorry when he finds what mischief he's made.

Carol Burnett will be back visiting The Garry Moore Show next week, but the closest thing to a new "regular" on this season's series will be Roy Castle, the British comedian - dancer-singer, who has been signed for about 20 shows. Alan King will be on 12 or 14—and probably Marian Lorne won't be showing up at all.

Recommended tonight: McHale's Navy, premiere, ABC, 9:30-10 EDT—Ernest Borgnine in a nautical comedy series;

The Hitchcock Hour, CBS, 10-11—John Forsythe in a mystery about a novelist who writes a new book—or maybe a real outline for murder.

AT THE PARK — A hospitalized Jim Hutton pleads in vain for a date with Paula Prentiss in this scene from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new comedy, "The Horizontal Lieutenant", opening tonight at the Park Theatre, also starring Jack Carter. The CinemaScope and color attraction reunites the popular Hutton-Prentiss team for the fourth time, following their hits in "Where the Boys Are", "The Honeymoon Machine" and "Bachelor in Paradise." On the same program the musical film that caters to everyone "The Lady is a Square" starring Frankie Vaughn, Janette Scott, Anna Neagle and Walter Susskind directing his famous Youth Orchestra. Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

AT THE BELLE — Friday — Cary Grant and Doris Day make ready for an evening of fun, in this scene from "That Touch of Mink", romantic comedy in which the pair star together for the first time. Filmed in Color and CinemaScope, the picture co-stars Gig Young and Audrey Meadows, and is holding over Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Roy Rogers Works Steadily For First Time in 4 Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How to live with a heart condition is demonstrated by Roy Rogers, now doing his first steady work in four years.

A man-sized job it is, starring with wife Dale Evans in a weekly variety hour on ABC-TV Saturday nights. It marks for him the completion of the long road back to a full life after a long period of—for him—relative inactivity.

Roy's life had always been busy. As radio singer, then star of western movies, rodeos and television series, he was one of Hollywood's biggest moneymakers. He also supervised business enterprises and found time for a vigorous outdoor life.

"Then one day about four years ago I was hunting deer in Colorado, about 9,000 feet up," he related, "I had just shot a deer down in a canyon, and I called to the Colorado fellows to bring one of those bicycle affairs to carry it with."

PAINS IN ARMS

"They came down and loaded it and started up the slope like they were walking on level ground. I followed after them and I started to get pains in my arms. I thought it was the altitude, but the pains continued when I got back home."

Roy consulted a doctor and learned he had an angina, a contraction of the main artery of the heart. Roy explained that he had three big rodeo dates in Canada and six state fairs to play in the east.

Cancel, said the doctor.

The cowboy did. He began a regime of rest and relaxation that wasn't easy for him to endure.

He gave up hunting for skeet and trapshooting and curtailed his performing to seven or eight television hours a year. Gradually he was able to do more, and this summer Jo and Dale went out for a few fair dates in the east.

"On the way back, I stopped at the Mayo Clinic for a check-up at least with a novel char-

56 Try Out With Generals

OSHAWA (CP)—Oshawa Generals, returning to hockey this year in the Metro Junior A League, held their opening workout Wednesday night with 56 players fighting for berths.

Sponsored by Boston Bruins of the National League, the Generals are the only team not sponsored by Toronto Maple Leafs in the six-team Metro league.

DITTFACH BREAKS WRIST

TORONTO (CP)—Hugo Dittfach of Calgary, one of Canada's leading jockeys, may be sidelined for the balance of the thoroughbred racing season because of a training accident Wednesday at Woodbine race track. Dittfach suffered a fractured wrist when a horse he was breaking from the gate stumbled and flipped over. Dr. J. R. McRae, track medical officer, said it is doubtful that Dittfach will ride again this year.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Johnny One Eye, a horse with a record of finishing third, won his second race of the year and his first at Woodbine Wednesday.

After fighting for the lead with Lady Hilmount down the backstretch of the 1 1-16-mile Fashion Plate Purse, Johnny One Eye took the lead on the final turn. At the wire the four-year-old was 2¼ lengths in front.

Johnny One Eye returned $2.20, $2.50 and $2.40. The quinella of Johnny One Eye and Lady Hilmount paid $26.10.

BEAR Wheel Alignment And Balance

Here's What We Do :

- Correct wheel alignment. Inspect front suspension, ball joints, steering linkage and toe-out to correct specifications.
- Precision balance both front wheels. Install necessary weights to prevent uneven tire wear. Safety check steering components.

ONE-STOP MONTH ROAD HAZARD GUARANTEE IN-STALLATION.

N.B.: PARTS EXTRA. BOTH CARS

$8.95

MOST CARS

Free Wheel Alignment Check

Check your tire..... are they wearing evenly? Incorrect alignment wheels are not properly aligned — they scrub against the road and can throw wheels out of line. Come in, we'll gladly check your wheel alignment FREE — takes just 3 minutes.

TREASURER'S SALE of LAND FOR TAXES

CITY OF BELLEVILLE COUNTY OF HASTINGS

To Wit:

By virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville under his hand and the seal of the said Corporation bearing the date of the eighth day of May, 1962, the sale of lands in arrears of taxes in the City of Belleville will be held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, in the City of Belleville, at the hour of 10.00 o'clock in the forenoon on the eighth day of November, 1962, unless the taxes and costs are sooner paid.

Notice is hereby further given that the adjourned sale, if necessary, shall be held on Monday, November 19th, 1962, whereat the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall purchase any and all parcels of land the price offered is less than the arrears of taxes and costs accrued.

Notice is hereby given that the list of lands for sale for arrears of taxes was published in the Ontario Gazette on the seventh day of July, 1962, and that copies of the said list may be had at my office.

Office of the City Treasurer
Belleville, Ontario
August 31st, 1962.

Cyril J. Bender,
Treasurer.

Fire Appeared To Have Been Set in 3 Places

PICTON — Fire which appeared to be set in three different places threatened the J. J. Truchon block at 70 Main Street Wednesday evening. Mrs. Frank Dunning who resides three houses to the east, smelled smoke and on investigating saw a cloud of smoke rolling up from the roof of the rear part of the business block which is vacant at the present time. She called the fire department. The prompt discovery prevented what could have been a serious fire as the grounds are enclosed by a board fence on two sides and a steel building on the other, so that fire itself would not have been easily detected.

The outbreak which caused the smoke smelled by Mrs. Dunning was on the edge of the roof. There was a second outbreak in the wall at the rear corner and another at the front on the same side. In all cases fire was under lead brick siding which covered boards. In no case had it spread far and firemen had to do a minimum of cutting to get at it. There was a great amount of smoke.

The main part of the block is of brick with apartments on the second floor, all vacant. The section at the rear where the fires occurred, is of lumber with lead brick and formed an entrance over the ramp to the basement and stairways leading to the apartments.

Firemen were unable to hazard a guess as to the cause, but one commented, "It's funny to see it break out in three different spots without any evidence that one had started the other."

Another thought children might be to blame. There were no electrical wires where the outbreaks occurred.

Ont. Boating Federation to Meet in Town

PICTON — Picton will be the locale of the annual meeting of the Ontario Boating Federation, it was learned when directors of Prince Edward Yacht Club met Tuesday night. The three-day event, November 16 17-18, will see around two hundred delegates from many parts of Canada. Meetings and get-togethers will be held at the Royal Hotel and at the Yacht Club. This annual is usually held in Toronto or Hamilton, but, due to Picton's important role in boat racing circles, efforts of the Yacht Club officials to have it held here were successful.

The directors also planned for the club's own annual meeting with Commodore Jack M. Hartwick in the chair. This is being held on Wednesday, October 24 at eight o'clock at the Yacht Club and will be preceded by a full course Chinese dinner, followed by reports, and election of officers.

Attending the meeting were Robert Finlayson and Frank Ardron who represented the Boating Federation and offered helpful suggestions.

It was decided to install a heating system in the club house so that functions can be held the year round.

Baseball Fans Missed World Series Game

PICTON—Residents of this town did not hear the World Series broadcast yesterday afternoon at least not if they depended upon electricity. For, from one-thirty to four-thirty the town was without hydro power. The cut off at the substation was due to necessary repairs. Officials state it is likely this will be the last time a complete cut-off will occur as a second sub-station is planned.

Sport fans depended upon transistor radios or car radios to get the ball game, and those more devoted fans were able to find friends outside town who invited them to watch it on TV.

Ronald Turpin Loses Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Ronald Turpin, 29, lost his appeal Wednesday against a conviction for capital murder in the shooting death of Metropolitan Police Const. Fred Nash earlier this year.

Turpin is scheduled to be hanged Nov. 8.

Patrick Hartt, counsel for Turpin before the five-member Ontario Appeal Court bench, said an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Turpin had admitted killing the 31-year-old constable, fatally wounded in an east - end Toronto gun battle Feb. 12, but said he fired in self defence.

Must Sacrifice To Avoid War Pope John Says

Stern Warning Is Given To Leaders of Nations

CP from AP-Reuters

VATICAN CITY — Pope John sternly told the world's leaders today they must legislate and sacrifice to avoid war. It was the most powerful demand for peace of his reign.

Seated before Michelangelo's dramatic mural of the Last Judgment, Pope John solemnly warned the leaders they must "render an account to God . . . of their supreme judge."

The Pope said war would destroy humanity.

"It is time that something decisive was done" to bring about "the great peace that all men are waiting for and for which they have suffered so much."

The present council meeting of high-ranking Catholic church leaders, he said, will help to prepare a new climate of brotherhood and "remove the danger of war . . . which today would mean the destruction of humanity."

The 80-year-old pontiff, vigorous and alert after opening his church's first ecumenical council in 92 years, addressed the 25 envoys sent to the Vatican for the occasion by their governments.

In the unique setting of the Sistine Chapel, Pope John solemnly told them he was in no reason why there could not be peace "even if it calls for some sacrifices."

His words were more than an appeal. They were a demand that governments "in all conscience . . . give ear to the anguished cry of 'peace, peace' which rises up to heaven from every part of the world."

STRIVE FOR PEACE

May the thought of a reckoning, the Pope said, "spur them (the heads of state) on to omit no effort to achieve this blessing (of peace) which for the human family is the greatest blessing greater than any other.

"Let them continue to meet each other in generous and reach just and generous agreements that they faithfully observe, and let them not be ready to make the sacrifices that are necessary to save the world's peace."

The assembled envoys listened attentively as Pope John pointed to Michelangelo's Last Judgment and said the great painting "gives one much food for thought."

"We must indeed render an account to God. We and all the leaders of nations bear responsibility for the fate of nations."

He spoke of the blessing of peace: An "end of strife between peoples and between races and different mentalities," and a chance for the discoveries of science to "help make life on

First Secretary U.S. Embassy Ordered Home

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today charged the United States embassy's first secretary, Kermit S. Mildhun, with spying and ordered him out of the country.

Mildhun is the second American diplomat expelled within a week.

Last week, the United States expelled on espionage charges two Soviet diplomats at the United Nations in New York.

U.S. Counsellor-Minister John M. McSweeney said Deputy Foreign Minister N. Smirnovsky ordered the American embassy to send Mildhun home at a meeting at the foreign ministry today.

In a statement read to Mc-Sweeney, the Russians charged that the 41-year-old diplomat "attempted to induce a Soviet citizen, an employee of the government institutions, to transmit to him information of a secret character."

It said this was inconsistent with Mildhun's status as a diplomat and ordered his immediate departure from the Soviet Union.

McSweeney said Smirnovsky would not give further details of the alleged incidents. He said Mildhun denied the charge and could think of no basis for it.

The Russians last Friday ordered Assistant U.S. Naval Attache Raymond D. Smith out of the country on charges that he spied on military installations during a trip to the Baltic seaport of Leningrad. Smith and his family left Moscow Monday.

McSweeney said he had not protested the Russian action against, Mildhun as he had in Smith's case because the espionage knew nothing of the alleged attempt to obtain Soviet secrets.

Stay in Berlin Until Germans Get Free Choice

LLANDUDNO, Wales — Forecasting Lord Home said today he had warned the Russians the Western powers will remain in West Berlin as long as the Soviet Union denies self-determination for East Germany and a free choice for the entire city of Berlin.

Home told the Conservative party's annual conference that he made this clear to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in recent conversations in New York.

He declared the United States, Britain and France are in West Berlin as trustees for the people's liberty and will never abandon the West Berliners to Communist domination.

The Soviet, he said, must avoid any Berlin compromise "which is merely a cover-up for a take-over" by the Soviet Union.

Lord Home gave the 4,500 conference delegates a wide-ranging review of foreign affairs.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cooler weather which already covers all but southwestern Ontario will move in on this area today. Cool northerly to northwesterly winds will drop temperatures to the 40-to-50 range overnight throughout southern Ontario.

Partially sunny skies and light southerly winds Saturday should raise temperatures to near normal for mid-October but will be far short of Thursday readings.

Donovan Is Waiting in New York For Castro's Ruling on Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — American negotiator James B. Donovan was notified hopefully today that a summons back to Cuba and a decision by Fidel Castro on the release of 1,113 invasion prisoners.

Donovan termed his latest offer the maximum that could be made. He said it contained entirely of medicines, drugs, medical supplies and baby foods—the latter considered by him in the medical category.

The New York lawyer said he is optimistic that the Cuban prime minister would accept. But he acknowledged that their talks left certain points unresolved.

1. He declined to give details. He also declined to put a price tag on the Cuban supply offer. He said this could not be done because much of the material would be donated and some purchased at cost.

Castro originally demanded $62,000,000 in cash for freedom of the prisoners, seized in the abortive invasion of April 17, 1961.

Donovan flew in Thursday from Havana — where Castro had kept him cooling his heels for much of the time since last Sunday.

At a press conference he said he thought he might be called back for Castro's decision or further parleys in a day or two.

Donovan said he came back from Castro by thinking over matters, and also to get treatment for an infection resulting from his cold conditions.

At a press conference he took pains to emphasize several times that he had not knocked down rumors and speculation creating excitement and controversy in the United States. Among the points were:

2. There has been breakdown in negotiations. He and Castro are "still getting along."

3. On compensation, he says he cannot guarantee that the prisoners eventually will be released. "It totally depends on Castro and his government," he said.

3. No cash will be sent to Cuba as part of the deal.

4. His only conferences with federal officials have been for the purpose of making certain no laws are violated.

GOVT. REACHES CALMER WATERS AFTER 5TH VOTE

Socreds Again Hold Balance

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative minority government reached calmer waters Thursday night, easing through the last reef in its immediate path with more help from the Social Credit party.

It won its fifth vote of confidence in the two weeks since the 25th Parliament began Sept. 27.

For the fourth time, the margin of victory was provided by the Social Credit group against opposition contingents of the Liberal and New Democratic parties.

The vote, 136 to 108, marked the end of the eight-day debate on the speech from the throne.

Today, the Diefenbaker turns to its first item of government legislation—a resolution proposing extra millions to underwrite export credit.

Although Thursday night's vote could have overthrown the government, there wasn't much uncertainty about it. It was clear all along that Social Credit would again side with the government.

Standing in the 265-seat Commons is 116 Conservatives, 100 Liberals, 20 Social Credit and 18 New Democratic Party MPs, plus two vacancy. This is taken the backing of only one opposition group to uphold the government.

TWENTY ABSENTEES

The lineup last night was 109 Conservatives and 27 Social Credit against 92 Liberals and 16 NDP. Another 18 MPs were not voting because he was "paired" with a Conservative who was unavoidably absent. The Speaker votes only in ties.

The vote was based on the formal thank-you address to Governor-General Vanier for reading the throne speech to Parliament. This outline of government legislative intentions is prepared by the cabinet.

Failure of the government to achieve a majority on the vote would have constituted non-confidence, a serious step known as approval of a non-confidence motion moved by the opposition.

The debate was a test on the government's minority position is expected to be the first of six appearances by Parliament each session for more spending funds—a supply motion.

Under the rules, the Commons is expected to spend some time on the legislative program before it.

DEBATE CONCLUDED

Final contributions in the throne debate Thursday drew heavily on back-benchers whose speeches were flavored with the "one Canada-two Canada" charges that have characterized an unusually heated and political debate.

One of the few lighter moments came from Douglas

Gambler Tells Crime Probe Mafia Not After His Life

TORONTO (CP) — Gambler Maxie (The Baker) Bluestein was pictured Thursday as a man who told police he had balked an attempt by the Mafia to invade Toronto crime—and in fact run one member of the potent clan out of town—but he fervently denied it all.

"Not true . . . not true . . . not true," he barked in answer to a series of questions before the Ontario Royal commission on crime about police reports that he had been approached in 1958 as a go-between for an American Mafia takeover of crime here, and had opposed it.

But the commission heard police evidence that in 1958 he claimed his life was in jeopardy from the Mafia and as late as last May he had asked police protection for himself and his family for the same reason.

Police found no evidence of a Mafia invasion or threat to the small-styled retired bookmaker, and he got neither the special protection nor the gun-carrying permit he was seeking.

The wealthy 50-year-old Bluestein—whose unexplained slugging in a nightclub here last year has left an aroma of underworld factional strife—completed 19½ days of testimony Thursday amid a jumble of tangled personal finances, denial of asserted forms of wrongdoing, huge memory gaps, occasional snarling at questioners and complaints about his health.

Among the long list of things he denied were trafficking in social club charters, paying for police protection, winning $80,000 in a fixed sport event from one of the men involved in the nightclub beating, running a floating craps game and ordering a man's legs broken because of a doublecross.

About all he did admit—aside from the $4,000,000-a-year bookie business for which he has already done time—was to overcharge poker players for use of tables in his Lakeview Club.

The moody gambler said he was still in a mental fog from his 1961 slugging, a condition which he said also accounted for the fact that he is five months late in filing his 1961 income tax returns.

Foggy memory also clouded

Labor Management Board Never Got off the Ground

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor and management agreed more than 18 months ago to work together on a new basis for better government and government leaders —then promptly suppressed on orders from a high level in the cabinet.

Most of Canada's top business and union leaders attended the Ottawa meeting at the personal invitation of Trade Minister Hees and Labor Minister Starr.

They are reported to have agreed to establish a permanent council, to be financed by all three groups, to foster continuing co-operation and consultation on economic problems among labor, management and government.

They also agreed to meet again—but never did.

They set up a high - powered steering committee to recommend a basis for organizing the permanent body — but it was never called into session.

Instead, the sources, say, the government abandoned the whole project.

The government rejection was made in the face of unanimous agreement at the Hees - Starr conference that—in the words of a post-conference communique—"the national interest demands the fullest co - operation on the part of management, labor and government."

The motion that a permanent council be established was made by E. Davie Fulton of Kinglet, president of the Canadian Bar Association, and Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress.

The agreement — viewed by some labor and business observers as a major breakthrough in labor - management - government relations—never implemented.

Various reasons have been advanced by responsible informants.

Others close to the cabinet say the proposed tripartite council was regarded as a backdoor attempt by big labor and big business to usurp the policy-making powers of the cabinet.

Union sources believe the government blocked the proposed labor - management - government body because it would have acted, in effect, as an over - all economic and social advisory council to the cabinet —a concept rejected by Prime Minister Diefenbaker during the election campaign.

Another source cited the fact that the government had launched its National Productivity Council and held great

Sent to Trial For Murder of Bank Manager

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP)—George Armstrong, 40, of Richmond Hill, Ont., was committed for trial Thursday on a charge of capital murder in the Aug. 21 shooting of Haliburton bank manager Eric McConnell, 45.

At the preliminary hearing, Kracma Vaclav, a ballistics expert from the attorney-general's laboratory, said powder burns were found on one of three pieces of skin tissue entered as exhibits.

The burns would only be evident if the gun had been fired from less than 30 inches away, he said.

Two bank employees testified they saw Armstrong in the manager's office before the shooting.

Mr. McConnell was shot three times with a .25-calibre pistol.

Armstrong may go on trial Oct. 29 when the assizes open before Mr. Justice W. J. Stewart.

His brother, Alan 29, of Weston, Ont., will appear at a preliminary hearing here Oct. 30 on a charge of being an accessory after the fact.

Savings of Elderly People Targets of New Type of Swindle

HAMILTON (CP)—The savings of elderly people are the targets for what police today described as "a new and dirty type of swindle."

An appeal to the public to be on the lookout for the swindle, which has always followed the same pattern, was made by Edmund Kodis, head of the fraud squad.

"This is a new and dirty type of swindle which takes advantage of people who are a particularly underhanded way," he said.

The victim is asked by the swindlers to help catch a "dishonest bank teller" who has already stolen several hundred dollars from the victim's savings account.

Police revealed that a 79-year-old widow, Mrs. Ellen Armstead, was swindled out of $685.

The average age of eight carefully selected victims was 77 years, the average amount of savings specifically aimed at: $1,224. Six were widows; at least six lived alone.

Inspector Kenneth Scott, of the Burlington police department, which said:

"This swindling of elderly people is the worst type of crime we have. What good does it do an old person to hear that a swindler has been sentenced to jail—the old people can't get their money back."

The swindle begins with a phone call and develops in three stages.

The first stage is designed to get information about the intended victim's bank balance and to install sufficient fear to make it easy to gain support for proposals soon to be made in second stage.

The caller says that he is a bank manager, bank inspector or just "calling from the bank." He asks if the victim's bank account pass book is handy because he is checking accounts at the bank.

He explains that quite a few withdrawals have been made and the concerned victim must be told that money is missing from his account—$500 is a favorite figure.

During this stage of the conversation most victims promptly revealed the size of their bank balance.

If the balance justifies the effort the caller proceeds to stage two which involves enlisting the victim's co-operation in order to catch red handed an allegedly dishonest teller "who is leaving the bank's employ in a few days."

Nehru Orders Troops To Drive Out Chinese

Fierce Battle Rages On Northern Frontier

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru announced today that Indian troops have been ordered to drive Chinese communist forces out of India's Northeast Frontier Agency area.

His announcement came in the wake of the biggest Sino-Indian frontier battle since the border clashes between the two nations began three years ago.

Nehru said the Chinese had suffered about 100 casualties in the battle which erupted Wednesday in the northern sector between Bhutan and Chinese-occupied Tibet.

This was nearly three times the figure reported by Peking Thursday and indicated the battle is continuing.

Red China lodged a "strongest and most serious protest" with the Indian embassy in Peking, accusing India of invading Chinese territory and spreading the flames of war.

Nehru spoke to reporters before taking a plane for a three-day trip to Ceylon.

He said there appeared to be no chance of reconciliation talks with the Chinese "as long as the aggression is continuing."

Wintry conditions were setting in along the mountainous border area, he said, but the Chinese remain "a menace to us."

Nehru described Wednesday's clash as "a major incident" with Indian forces suffering some casualties but with the Chinese toll much heavier "probably touching 100."

The Chinese, he said had concentrated their forces in a strong position on high ground above an Indian border outpost where Wednesday's fighting broke out.

Lt-Gen. B. M. Kaul, one of India's leading officers, was said to head a newly organized army corps on the northeast frontier last week.

LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES

The Indians reported their casualties at 17 killed or wounded. Peking said 56 Chinese troops were killed or wounded.

Radio Peking claimed the Indian troops "fled in confusion, leaving six corpses and arms and ammunition behind."

Each government accused the other of rushing up reinforcements.

Not until September had there been anything but minor patrol clashes in the northeast, although sporadic fighting has been reported in the last five years in the disputed border area of Ladakh, about 1,000

CONSERVATIVES GIVE BLESSING TO MACMILLAN

Anti-Market Group Given Beating

LLANDUDNO, Wales (CP)—Any thought of an anti-Common Market revolt within the Conservative party was swept away when the party's annual conference Thursday overwhelmingly gave its blessing to the government's progress in Brussels.

Leaders of the anti-Market group strove to muster an effective attack and they got loud encouragement from scattered supporters but before the debate was half over it was obvious the battle had been lost.

Edward Heath, lord privy seal and chief negotiator at Brussels, got a thunderous ovation as he wound up the debate and fewer than a dozen members voted against the resolution which also expressed "confidence in the government's determination to find adequate safeguards for our special interests and those of the Commonwealth."

Heath said he hoped the negotiations to join the Market could have been concluded without political dispute—a reference to the Labor party conference support for party leader Hugh Gaitskell's rejection of the terms for Britain's entry so far broke out.

RAPS GAITSKELL

Deputy Prime Minister R. A. Butler, head of the cabinet Common Market policy team, called Gaitskell's attitude "passionately backward-looking."

Opponents claimed that if already was apparent the safeguards obtainable were not and never would be adequate." Their amendment recalled "the pledges given" that Britain would not join Europe unless terms were satisfactory to Britain and Commonwealth members.

One speaker recalled that Winston Sandys, Commonwealth relations minister, had said he would rather withdraw from Europe than have a hand in anything that would destroy the Commonwealth.

Speaking for Sandys said he still stands by that statement but that nobody who had attended the Prospect prime ministers' conference in London could have come away with the idea that the Commonwealth was breaking up. Unity and common purpose were stronger today than ever before.

Sixth Game World Series Is Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick today postponed the sixth game of the World Series between San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees until 3 p.m. EST Saturday because of rain and wet grounds.

Frick made his decision after a brief tour of the soggy turf of Candlestick Park, home field of the Giants.

It was raining when Frick made his inspection tour, and winds of 40 to 60 miles an hour were reported in the area, a point of land in San Francisco Bay.

The seventh game of the series, if it is necessary, will be played Sunday.

The Yankees lead the best-of-seven series three games to two.

The fifth game in New York, scheduled for last Tuesday, also was postponed one day because of rain there,

Recount Asked on Votes Cast for Cocktail Lounge

Campbellford Remains Dry

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP) — Voters Thursday rejected four proposed extensions of legal liquor sale in this town of 3,500 about 20 miles east of Peterborough.

Of the four proposals, licensed dining rooms came closest to winning approval. The vote of 1,041 to 703 was five votes short of the needed 60 per cent.

The other three votes: cocktail lounges — 992 for, 745 against; men's beverage rooms —864 for, 868 against; women's beverage rooms—872 for, 856 against.

◆ A recount has been requested of the 1,745 cast on the cocktail lounge question in the September 20th liquor vote in Belleville if it was learned today.

Application for the recount on the cocktail lounge question was made before Judge J. C. Anderson yesterday by Norman Hickson of the City Hotel. Judge Maxwell Strange of Kingston has been appointed to supervise the recount slated to commence on October 30th. The recount is expected to take at least three or four days.

In the September vote the dining lounge question was carried with a vote of 60.4 per cent, while the "yes" voters lost out on the cocktail lounge question, obtaining but 59.3 per cent of the vote.

In both instances 60 per cent of the vote is required to carry the questions.

Nobody Is Injured As Two Cars Collide

No injuries were reported as the result of an accident which caused damage to both cars at the intersection of Bridge Street East and McDonald Ave. at 5.55 Thursday evening.

Police said a vehicle proceeding east on Bridge Street East, driven by John Gordon Logan of 225 Charles St., was in collision with a vehicle proceeding south on McDonald Avenue, being driven by Gerald Leon Radford of 50 Ingham St., Belleville.

The two vehicles collided in the intersection. Police say charges are pending.

Obituaries

MRS. WILLIAM A. C. CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD — Funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon from Bennett's Funeral Home for Helen Denike Wood, wife of William A. C. Wilburn, who died suddenly last Thursday.

The late Mrs. William Wilburn was the daughter of the late Fred W. Wood and Laura Adella Denike. She was born in Campbellford in 1902 and spent the greater part of her life in this district.

She attended Campbellford schools and Ontario Ladies' College in Whitby. She was a member of the Methodist Church choir in her earlier life and was interested a member of the auxiliary of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Following her marriage the family made their home in Ottawa from 1939 to 1946 and for a time in Toronto. They returned to Campbellford in 1953 and spent their summers at their cottage at Bradley Bay.

Surviving as well as her husband is one son, W. H. Craig Wilburn at home in Campbellford; a daughter Anne (Mrs. R. B. Bennett) in Ottawa, and nephew, James Sparling, also of Campbellford. She was predeceased by her father, Edward, and a sister, Mrs. J. O. Sparling.

Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church, conducted the funeral service.

Honorary bearers were: C. H. Davidson, Austin Putnam, MacLean Kelly, Maynard Rombee, Ken Cairns, W. G. Vanderkar and Ivan Dean. Active bearers were Faud O'Sullivan, Dave Robertson, Cliff Gibson, John Davidson, Gene Pace and Emmett Lee.

Interment was in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

MRS. MARGARET GOODMAN Treston

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Goodman of Treston was held Thursday afternoon from the Rowe Funeral Home, Frankford, where a service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Charles Judd. Interment was in Stockdale cemetery.

The bearers were: Russell Parkhurst, Roy Cost, Bill Sandercock, Wesley Sharpe, William Easton and Nick Banika.

MRS. WILLIAM LONGMUIR

CAMPBELLFORD — Ethel May Fry, wife of William E. Longmuir, passed away at her Campbellford home on Wednesday last.

Born in Seymour nearly 79 years ago, Mrs. Longmuir was the daughter of the late William Fry and Annie McCrobie. About 50 years ago she married William Longmuir, a cheesemaker who worked in various Seymour factories and for a time in Trenton.

Surviving are her husband, four daughters, Mrs. Jack Snider (Elsie) of Trenton, Mrs. Jerrine Rose, Mrs. Joel Thomson and Miss Elva of Campbellford, one son, Albert Ronald of Picton and Bert of Campbellford. There are also two sisters, Mrs. Annie Nayler of Trenton and Mrs. Arthur MacDonald of Campbellford.

Funeral services were conducted from Bennett's Funeral Home by Rev. A. E. Toombs and Rev. L. A. Hembery.

The bearers were? Leo Lindsay, Ted. Harold and Roy Fry and Jack Naylor.

Interment was in Burnbrae cemetery.

MRS. SAMUEL J. MOORE

CAMPBELLFORD — Annie Lillian Colbourn, wife of the late Samuel J. Moore, passed away at Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Sunday. She was in her 83rd year.

The late Mrs. Moore was born at Chambly Canton, in the Province of Quebec, the daughter of the late James Gibson and Annie Barker. She had been a resident of Campbellford for the past 52 years. Her husband, who died many years ago, had been manager of the woollen mills here.

She was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. Ellis of Toronto (Grace), and Mrs. W. J. Owen (Ruth) of Campbellford.

The funeral was conducted on Wednesday from Bennett's Funeral Home by Rev. A. E. Toombs.

The bearers were: Roy Ford, Douglas Locke, George Pallister, Robert Fox, Earl Haig Jr., and William Moore Jr.

Interment was in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

his recollection of two interviews with the police seeking protection. He recalled that they had taken place but could only add: "I was a little disturbed . . . I don't remember."

As to whether he wanted protection against the Mafia:

"Nobody — no nobody — no one."

Insp. Herbert Thurston, head of the Toronto Metro police morality squad, said that in 1958 Bluestein, saying he believed his life was in jeopardy "from a group he called the Mafia," tried to get a permit to carry a gun.

Bluestein, he said, had told him of meeting an American of the group here and "chasing him out of town."

Under questioning, Bluestein described these Mafia references as "humour," but did not suggest who committed the untruths.

Wednesday, he said that if he complained to the police about the Mafia he was lying.

Staff-Sgt. Alexander Mawhyr of the RCMP told today of Bluestein asked last May for protection for his family because he was "afraid of the Mafia" and of "organized crime."

In a wide - winging romp through the hard-world of gamblers and hustlers, Bluestein revealed that some of his associates were willing to take up a club charter he had discarded —to set up a dog-racing venture.

Nothing came of the project, which he had left with fellow-hookies Sam Binder and Joe (Schmaltzie) Zeldin.

When Bluestein and this pair were awaiting trial on conspiracy charges in connection with the Lakeview Club in 1960, the commission heard, Thursday, Crown authorities were offered the surrender of four club charters which they held plus guilty pleas on behalf of the club if conspiracy charges against themselves would be dropped.

York Crown Attorney Henry Bull said that the offer was conveyed by Charles L. Dubin, now counsel to the federal commission inquiring into Great Lakes shipping violence and then lawyer for Binder and Zeldin. He said he was turned down, the men were convicted and the Lakeview closed.

Bluestein said he knew nothing of the charter surrender proposal.

Questioners made no progress in trying to pin down a motive for Bluestein's slightly-belating gift by several men in front of about 100 apparently-unseeing customers.

Other denials:

1. That he had told gambler Joseph McDermott that he had a friend on the Toronto morality squad—"I haven't a friend on the force."

2. That he had ever put up money to bank a crap game at Niagara Falls, Ont.

The commission bogged down when it got Bluestein's incremental arithmetic, complicated by memory failures, in trying to get at his earnings for recent years and his present financial situation.

He could not remember what he made from gambling in 1960 —the year he says he resigned his bookie business—the number and amounts of mortgages he holds, just what legitimate jobs he had in the last couple of years and whether or not he had a bank account under more than his own.

Accountant William L. Walton eventually testified he made out Bluestein's tax returns on $16,-818 taxable income for 1960, but some of the figures were away off Bluestein's offhand calculations. They disagreed, too, on the names of the companies from which Bluestein had received payments.

Bluestein bristled when counsel doggedly pursued the way through the cartoned figures.

"You're asking me a million questions. I don't know what you're trying to get at. Did I do something wrong. I go to jail and get sick on the head. Now you're bothering me about a salary."

The commission was to switch today to examination of government witnesses who testified earlier concerning issuance of social club charters.

Plans Are Made For Nov. 24 Visit by Santa

TRENTON — Early yesterday afternoon an undetermined origin destroyed a large barn on the farm of Harold Simonds, near Consecon, in a farm tractor, two young calves, two family dogs and a large quantity of hay were lost in the blaze, which was first noticed by Mr. Simonds at 2.30 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Simonds were awakened by the dogs barking but by the time Mr. Simonds got from the house to the barn, the fire was too far advanced for him to try to rescue the family pets. Lost in the fire also were close to 1,000 bales of hay, stacked outside the barn.

Mr. Simond's cows were in the pasture at the time of the fire.

Lack of wind was a possible factor in saving the family residence which is located close to the burned building.

Mrs. Simonds said yesterday afternoon that the loss was only partially covered by insurance.

Carl Weese '63 President Of Kiwanis Club

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club, Carl Weese was elected to take over as president at the start of 1963. Vice-president will be Howard Aziz, who will carry on until the first of the year. Vice-president for 1963 will be Walsh. Four directors elected were Ken Bentley, Ted Kinsella, Ron Jeffery, and Ken Stafford.

Following the meeting the club members were taken on an inspection tour of a section of RCAF Manufacturing, and shown a "Yukon" simulator. This mock-up is the pride of RCAF, was manufactured by Redifon, Incorp., England, and is used to train pilots, co-pilots, navigators and ground crew in Yukon flying operations. Since it cost $1,500 to keep a Yukon in the air for an hour and only $200 to operate the simulator, this type of training craft meets with the requirements of the government's austerity program. Another thing, it doesn't cost anything to crash a simulator. F/L Jim Stockwell was on hand to explain on the simulator and answer queries from club members.

Add Engineer To School Staff

TRENTON — W. L. Pickering, superintendent of buildings with the Trenton Board of Education, has asked for and received school board approval to hire one additional fourth class engineer for the high school.

Now that the new addition to the school is on the last lap of completion, (some of the rooms will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year), a new boiler will presently be added to the school's heating system. As Mr. Pickering explains, the addition of more equipment in the already heating plant adds to the responsibilities of the engineering and maintenance staff, and as it is necessary that a qualified man keep tab on the heating system almost on a full-time basis, the present staff is inadequate to cope with the situation.

Mr. Pickering also asked for and received permission to engage an additional caretaker for Queen Elizabeth school, where four additional rooms have been added recently.

Building Declines

TRENTON—Building values for the month of September were down in Trenton, a mere $35,102 in permits being registered in building inspector William Anderson's office. Mr. Anderson said today that October will see an upswing in building. Total building values since Jan. 1, stand at $2,147,810, and that's a town record, even if calculated on any one year's basis.

PC Executive Hears Minister At Meeting

Executive members of the East Hastings Progressive Conservative Association met last night at the Hupp Motor Hotel, Belleville, where they heard Charles Mac Naughton, minister without portfolio, speak on what was termed the forward thinking of Premier Robarts and his government.

Approximately 50 persons attended the meeting including a number of Belleville residents and East Hastings riding executive who attended by special invitation.

Other speakers heard at the meeting included Hugh Latimer, provincial party president, Conservative party organizer, Jack Simmonds, MLA for Prince Edward, Elmer Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West and Clarke P. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, and Mrs. R. N. Broad, Riding Association President and Mrs. Latimer presided over the meeting.

Mr. Mac Naughton told the gathering that today's rapidly changing times and conditions demand that government be aggressive.

Premier Robarts and his cabinet were meeting this challenge, and by their forward thinking were meeting every situation head-on," he said.

hopes that it would produce leadership in the whole field of industrial efficiency.

Since then, the Canadian Labor Congress has pulled Mr. Jodoin, off the productivity council—and left it without representation from the central union body of more than 1,000,000 organized workers.

Since then, too, the government has announced its plan to establish a new national economic development board.

In the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament the government promised such a board—to be "broadly representative," presumably including spokesmen for the major industrial sectors as well as labor, agriculture, education and consumers.

The board, said the throne speech, "would review and report upon the state of the economy and upon economic policies."

LODA Sponsors Industrial Conference

The Lake Ontario Development Association is sponsoring another Industrial and Municipal Relations Conference this year. Once again the purpose is to create an industrial climate in the Lake Ontario Region which will result in mutual benefit conducive to better understanding between industrial and municipal government. This year's theme is "Focus on — Industry, and their Relationship".

The Conference, to be held at the Empress Hotel in Peterborough on October 24th, will feature some outstanding speakers. Conference chairman, Read Budge of Port Hope, who is an L.O.D.A. director, today announced the names of those who will represent the fields of Education, Industry and Government. The luncheon speaker will be Mr. S. W. Clarkson, Deputy Minister, Department of Economics and Development Province of Ontario. Mr. S.G.B. Robinson, General Secretary Secondary School Teachers Federation, will address the afternoon session of the one day LODA Conference.

A highlight of the conference will be an afternoon panel discussion featuring prominent civic and industrial leaders chaired by Mr. Mark D. S. Brownlow, Personnel Manager and Public Relations Director, Quaker Oats Company of Canada Limited Peterborough with Director of the Association. Panel members will include Mayor Alene Holt of the City of Peterborough; Mr. R. F. Richardson, Ontario Regional Officer, National Productivity Council, Ottawa; Dr. Eldon F. Ray, Director of Education, City of Peterborough; Mr. L. T. Sylvester, Director of Mathews Conveyer Company Limited, Port Hope; Mr. G. Parker, General Manager, General Foods Limited, Cobourg; and Mr. L. M. Johnston of the Ontario Department of Education, Assistant Superintendent Secondary Education and Assistant Director of Canadian Vocational Training.

Delegates at the Conference dinner at 6.00 p.m. will have as their speaker Mr. J. M. Appleton, vice-president, Quaker Oats Company of Canada Limited, Peterborough.

It is expected that this LODA Industrial and Municipal Relations Conference will be attended by upwards of 250 educational, industrial and municipal officials.

Registration for the Conference will be 11.30 a.m. October 24th.

Pleads Guilty To Entering Club Canara

An 18-year-old Belleville youth, Thomas Henry Keck, was remanded one week for sentence when he appeared before Magistrate T. F. Aylsworth in city court here this morning charged with breaking and entering the Club Canara on Hambly Street.

Keck pleaded guilty to the charge. Damage to the club was estimated at approximately $40.

Inspector McLauchlan told the court that entry was gained to the building through a window which had been broken. He said Keck and a companion, Robert Clapp, were apprehended inside the building.

The inspector said Constable Davidson had checked the building at approximately 1:30 in the morning on October 7th and when he returned at about 3:30, noticed the drapes on the window were not in the same position as he found them earlier.

Const. Davidson called for assistance and he and a fellow officer, accompanied by an executive member of the club, entered the building where they found the two youths attempting to get out the front door.

Clapp, also charged in connection with the same offence, was remanded for a further week to obtain counsel.

this earth . . . ever more delightful."

He said the council, which opened Thursday, will help prepare a new climate and remove the danger of war, "that scourge of nations, which today would mean the destruction of humanity."

SHOWS NO STRAIN

He walked vigorously into the chapel after the envoys had assembled. He looked alert and fresh despite the strain of the two-hour council opening ceremony Thursday.

The Pope's audience for the envoys — including Prince Albert of Belgium, President Antonio Segni of Italy, Prime Minister Sean Lemass of Ireland — was the main Vatican activity today.

Canada's "ambassador extraordinary" to the council is Jean Brucheci, ambassador to Spain. About 60 Canadian bishops are attending.

No council session was scheduled. Most of the 2,700 cardinals, archbishops, bishops, patriarchs and other prelates here for the world-wide gathering were resting after Thursday's glittering opening ceremony and prior to Saturday's initial working session.

Police Officer Could Not Swim Child Drowns

TORONTO (CP) — A seven-year-old girl was drowned in Grenadier Pond as a policeman stood by helplessly, unable to give aid because he couldn't swim.

Michele Breidin, who had fallen into seven feet of water with her brother, Michael, 9, went under as Const. Gerald Switzer arrived at the scene in response to cries for help. Michael swam to safety.

"I can't swim," the constable said. "I've got three kiddies, too. It's no use sending anyone to get a dead child."

The constable had stopped his cruiser Thursday at the waterfront to call a friend and Toronto to make an entry in his log.

Two days each of them playing two or three minutes earlier," he said. "I was sitting in the car when I heard the boy's cries for help. I ran along the weir and saw her disappear. I saw then bubbles in a circle in the water where she went down."

Michele and her brother often played at the waterfront.

Cyrus Eaton's Grandson Leaves Home

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Nashville police picked up a youth Thursday whom they identified as Cyrus Eaton II, runaway grandson of the Canadian-born millionaire industrialist of Cleveland.

Detective Chief Williard Jett said the youth, who refused to identify after a telephone call was placed to the boy's parents at Cleveland.

Jett said he was informed the youth left home Monday morning in an automobile and that other members of the family were away when he left.

High school officials here turned the youth over to police after he attempted to enrol in school. He told police he identified himself as "Seth French" and said his parents had been killed in an automobile accident.

Police quoted the youth as saying he was unhappy at home and wanted to start a new life.

Jett said he talked to Cyrus Eaton Sr., the boy's father, and that the latter said he was flying to Nashville immediately to talk to the boy.

OFFICIAL RECOVERING

PARIS (Reuter)—NATO Secretary-General Dirk Stikker is "very well, as can be expected" after his operation at Walter Reed army hospital in Washington, NATO sources said here today. He was operated on for the removal of an intestinal tumor and the gall bladder. Although a final diagnosis has not yet been made, doctors were reported to be optimistic.

James E. Walker (L—York Centre) raked the Conservative record and suggested drug companies could set aside profits to help with the care of infants malformed by the use of the drug thalidomide.

Hamilton Seeks Girls' Attacker

HAMILTON (CP) — City police were placed on a round-the-clock alert today in Hamilton's west end as they hunted for "a madman who could do anything."

An 11-year-old girl Thursday was attacked and interfered with as she walked to school. The attack occurred in the Bay-Bold area — close to the scene of a similar attack made on another 11-year-old girl last Friday.

Police say the same man was responsible for both beatings.

"He's definitely deranged," said Deputy Sergeant William Stamp. "If he isn't caught soon —anything could happen."

Both attacks came at the same time—1 p.m.—and both were made on children going to school.

In each case the man was described as "dirty faced . . . filthy, and dressed in jeans."

Police believe he is a transient who may be sleeping out.

New Grist Mill At Cannifton Now Open

The Cannifton Grist Mill, built originally about 1860, and burned April 28 of this year, has been rebuilt, on the same site, by the owner, Roy Pound. The old frame building has been replaced by a modern concrete block structure, with a precast concrete roof, and almost all the machinery is new. The mill still runs on water power though, the same water turbine driver all the milling machinery, and a small generator which provides lighting.

The new machinery is of the same capacity, and of the same general type as that destroyed in the fire. Two large stones for grain storage bins are now being built beside the main building, and should be ready for use before winter. The sawmill burned with the former grist mill, will not be rebuilt. The new mill opened for business Wednesday.

Food Too Good To Be Ignored, Bypass Unused

GRANTHAM, England (AP)—A fine new highway curves round the edge of Grantham, but long-distance truck drivers ignore the bypass and continue to clog the town's narrow high street.

Investigating officials found they like to eat at Tony's Cafe, where a plate of eggs, chips and bacon normally sells for three shillings (45 cents).

"I'd rather get stuck in any traffic jam than miss a good fry-up at Tony's," said John Welsh. "Most of the lads think the same."

The authorities have persuaded Tony to move his cafe to a site on the highway.

"Education" Theme of Talk At Meeting

"Education" was the theme of the October meeting of the Purchasing Agents Association of Eastern Ontario, held at the Tops Motor Hotel on Wednesday. Education chairman F. R. Sheffield, Northern Electric Company, acted as chairman.

A film "Your Career In Purchasing" was given by Canadian premiere, and dealt with the aims, objectives and ethics of the purchasing profession as well as the educational and personal qualifications required of the individual. Produced by the National Association of Purchasing Agents in the United States the film "starred" four members of the Buffalo, New York, Association.

Two brief addresses on "Inventory Control" were given by G. P. Davis, Miller Brothers Limited, of Trenton, and C. E. McFanids, Phillips Electrical Limited, of Brockville. The former explained what inventory control is and its importance to business and the latter dealt with methods of successfully operating such control.

Both speakers stressed the importance of keeping some measure of control on all materials. Materials have a great deal to do with the success or failure of modern business. Buying under or over-stocked burdens business with unnecessary costs. Inventory control is the gauge that indicates the amount and value of materials required for economical and profitable operation.

President W. K. Templeton, Pyrotenax Co., Trenton, conducted the business portion of the meeting. He presented W.O. 1 Wilfred Smith, RCAF Trenton, with a certificate indicting the successful completion of the two year purchasing correspondence course. The course is sponsored by the Canadian Association of Purchasing Agents and conducted by the University of Toronto.

Those present from this area were: H. M. Burley, International Harvester; R. H. Evans, Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company; J. C. Hester, Corby Distillery; D. A. Laundry, Wilson Concrete Products Limited; C. J. McGregor and J. R. Peoples, Mead Johnson Canada; R. H. Sheffield, Ernie Palmer and John Morrin of Northern Electric Company and Jack Hamilton, Black Diamond Cheese Company.

Jaycees Hold Monthly Meet

Forty-five Junior Chamber of Commerce members assembled at the Tops Motor Hotel on Monday night for their monthly dinner meeting on Tuesday evening where they heard Ontario President, Bill Swain, talk about his recent tour of Northern Quebec and how well Jaycee clubs were progressing.

Past president Z. Kvarda introduced three new members to the club in the persons of Jim Bates, Jim Rombolds and Leon Wigmore.

Prior to the introduction of new members, a panel of four members from the Kingston unit, held a panel discussion on organization, which was found very interesting. The panel included Val Swain, Ontario president; Ken Keys, past-president, Kingston Jaycees; Jack McCrae, past-president district No. 8 and Ken Pearson, president District No. 8.

Fifteen members from the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce club were present at the local meeting.

Major-General Odlum to Speak At W. C. Club

Next Monday evening, Major-General Victor Odlum, CB, CMG, DSO, will address the Women's Canadian Club in Quinte Alexandra School, Ann Street, on the topic "A Canadian Diplomat Abroad." Because of his varied and distinguished career, which included Commander of the 2nd Canadian Division in World War II; Commander of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in World War I, Lieutenant in the 3rd Canadian Mounted Rifles in the Boer War; member of the Board of Governors of the University of British Columbia; member of the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia; Canadian Ambassador to Turkey, to China; High Commissioner to Australia, publisher and editor of the Vancouver Daily Star, Major General Odlum will be a most entertaining and enlightening speaker.

He was born in Cobourg, Ontario, of missionary parents and taken at six years of age to Japan, where he learned the Japanese language. Returning to Canada in 1893, he received his education at Victoria College, Toronto, and at British Columbia College in New Westminster, B.C.

He was mentioned in dispatches seven times during the World War, receiving the C.M.G. later, and the D.S.O., the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and the Order of the Bath, as well as the VD for long service as an officer.

Since returning to Canada in 1932, Major General Odlum lived quietly with his library at over 10,000 volumes on his seashore estate in West Vancouver. Later, due to ill health of his wife and himself, they moved to the centre of Vancouver where medical care was more readily available.

Warn Alpha 66 Not to Touch British Ships

LONDON (AP) — Britain warned today that she would take serious view of any attack on her Cuba-bound shipping by that Alpha 66 operates from U.S. territory using largely U.S. equipment. In that sense London takes the view that the American administration could be held at least partly responsible for any illegal activities by the exile group.

Western Lumber Dealers Ask Elimination of Tariffs

By HAROLD MORRISON

Foreign Trade, Agriculture to Be Pushed

WASHINGTON (CP) — Powerful United States timber holders are encouraging timber price boosts to enjoy tax benefit, says the Western Lumber Marketing Association in calling for an eventual free market in all forests products between Canada and the U.S.

Last of the major witnesses to oppose the demands of U.S. lumber manufacturers for higher tariffs on Canadian lumber, the association told the tariff commission the problems of the U.S. industry are mainly internal—the explosive growth of the plywood market, reduction in available timber and soaring timber prices.

Some of the biggest forest products companies in the U.S. hold vast timber reserves and it is to their tax advantage to keep timber prices high, said the association Thursday. It represents about 30 U.S. and eight Canadian wholesalers who handle lumber from 1,086 sawmills.

CAN MAKE CHARGES

Under American tax laws, these timber holders can charge themselves the current market price for the timber they cut—regardless of original cost—and pay a tax of only 25 per cent of the resulting capital gains instead of the normal 52-per-cent corporation income tax.

It was thus to the advantage of these holders "to keep current timber prices high to ease the capital gains difference between their cheap timber and current open-market prices as a basis for setting the 25-per-cent - lower rate of taxation," added the association which handles about one-quarter of all the lumber shipped by rail from the western region.

Instead of urging new restrictions against Canada, the association suggested the U.S. government should ease transportation and other internal problems limiting supply and encourage a broader cross-border outlook.

The forest of Canada and the U.S. should be considered as a single, continuous natural resource for the benefit of both Canadians and Americans "and we recommend efforts towards the eventual removal of all tariffs, quotas or restrictions on forest products travelling between these two great nations."

PROCLAMATION

To the Citizens of Belleville by virtue of my office, I hereby proclaim the week of October 14 to October 20th, 1962, as BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S WEEK. I urge the citizens of Belleville to co-operate with the Business and Professional Women's Club of Belleville in their plans to observe this week.

In recognition of the achievements of The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and particularly of the contributions made to the economy of our community, we salute the business women of Belleville and wish them continued success in their efforts to elevate the position of employed women, with the resultant beneficial effect on the welfare of our citizens.

An Unsatisfactory Situation

The distribution and clinical testing of "liefcort," a Canadian-produced drug for the treatment of arthritis, has been halted, at the request of the federal food and drug directorate. The branch had not been satisfied with the kind of reports it had been receiving of the clinical tests submitted by the manufacturer. It had followed its usual practice and made an analysis of the drug. As the result of these reports, the manufacturer was asked to stop distribution and has done so.

It is comforting to read that the food and drug directorate has been alert to its duties and has acted to halt testing of a drug which may, according to U.S. reports, be dangerous to patients receiving it. It is far from comforting, though, to learn that the drug's discoverer, Dr. Robert Liefman, has said that he is in no position to do a proper research project on his formula, with scientific controls and laboratory testing. Surely, there is something wrong with a system which permits a drug to be distributed to doctors, for testing on patients, when the producer of the drug admits that no proper research has been conducted into it.

There has been considerable criticism of the high cost of drugs distributed under brand names by the large pharmaceutical firms. Much of this criticism may be valid, when the prices charged by these firms are compared with the prices charged for precisely the same drugs under their generic names. But at least drugs marketed by these firms have been carefully tested in the laboratory before clinical tests are undertaken with patients.

If Dr. Liefman has discovered a drug which can relieve arthritis sufferers, and the apparent ill effect of which can be alleviated by some modifications, he will have made mankind his debtor. But it is disturbing, to say the least, to read that he considers he is still free as a doctor to prescribe liefcort to his patients, despite the doubts of the Canadian food and drug directorate and the outright disapproval of Commissioner George Larrick of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration that the drug is dangerous.

This situation seems to demand some action by Parliament to widen the powers of the federal food and drug directorate, or to improve its facilities for study and testing of new drugs, or both. The Government proposes to place amendments to existing legislation before the Commons.

Cry Wolf

Tuesday night a light plane, flying at low altitude was reported by many Belleville people as a flying saucer. The plane carried a panel of lights, flashing an advertisement. The people who reported it, apparently, did not stop to see that the flashing lights were spelling out, an advertising message in English, or that the plane carried normal navigation lights. They didn't recognize the sound of the aircraft as similar to the sound of the light planes that fly over the city almost every day of the year.

There are good reasons for the mistake, of course. Not everyone has eyes good enough to recognize the message being flashed by the lights. Some people could not hear the engine of the plane, and some people will report anything as a flying saucer, a ghost, or whatever strikes their fancy.

But the torrent of flying saucer reports that came to the air force and police in Belleville is enough to satisfy most people that most flying saucer reports means too many people read too many comic books.

On the other hand, competent pilots, radar operators and air crews have reported unidentifiable objects occasionally move in our skies. These reports are credible enough that fighter planes have been sent up to attempt an interception, and at least one fighter pilot has died trying to close with what the air force calls, "Unidentified Flying Objects."

There is a double danger in flying saucers. The first, and most obvious, source of trouble is in assuming they exist, and giving credence to all the hysterical accounts that are bound to occur. But just as serious is the danger that people will hear one hysterical report too many, and refuse to listen to a qualified observer who has seen something that does not belong in our skies.

Safety Hat Old Hat

Sault Ste. Marie Star

The safety hat — emblem of the modern industrial worker — is as old as antiquity.

When Diogenes was asked what he'd take to let himself be belted on his camel, he replied with typical pithiness, "A helmet."

The helmets worn in Corinth about 2,500 years ago — when he is the famed philosopher lived there in an earthenware barrel, spurned even a food bowl as an unnecessary encumbrance, and parried idly questioners are among the oldest known, the National Geographic Society says. But some anthropologists believe the protective hat outdates the fig leaf as mankind's first fashion statement.

The safety hat came into being, more than likely, when an Ice Age caveman hit a large torpid shell on his head to deflect an enemy's sticks and stones or icy missiles from a glacier.

Use of the hard hat in construction dates at least to Imperial Rome. During the reign of Constantine the Great (A.D. 306-337) soldiers, on the high Esquiline obelisk was erected in the Circus Maximus, the foreman says. His men had metal helmets to shield them from falling masonry.

The helmet went out with the fall of Rome. In Europe, boiled-leather models were in vogue until the mediaeval warfare and shrapnel revived the need for antiquity's "iron hat." World War I saw all sides wore a shallow, heavy pan of steel fitted with a padded leather lining.

Since World War II, the type of lightweight, steel or plastic helmet worn by miners has been widely adopted throughout industry. It is indispensable equipment in steel work, mining, utilities, construction, oil-logging and missiles.

On missile bases, helmets are something of a status symbol. These hard hats have a rear bow of colors — chosen to go with a man's job, not his complexion.

The white helmet is reserved for commanders and deputies. Munitions experts go about their grim business in appropriately sinister black headgear. Fuel men wear orange helmets; safety experts, green; contractor personnel, brown; maintenance men, gray; students, yellow; visitors, red. A white cross or red designates a medic.

So important is safety in massive, present-day construction that Air Force workers' hats are manufactured in the U.S. according to government specifications. The plastic hat weighs less than a pound, for instance, and it must withstand the impact of a five-pound hammer falling eight feet.

As a reminder for workmen to keep their heads by wearing hats at all times, the International Turtle Club has been organized. Men saved by safety helmets from death or critical injury.

Safety hats can be made of steel, plastic, glass fiber or any other hard material appropriate to the menace — falling objects, heat, electricity, the unexpected.

Not long ago, London was plagued by a series of hair-swinging, head - cracking assaults on bank and payroll messengers. It would have been unthinkable to deprive these gentlemen of their derby hats or dress. So their derbies were converted quite simply into safety hats by lining the crown and brim with leather shock absorbers.

Christopher Columbus discovered the Bahamas (islands, 300 to 400 miles from the mainland of America, 470 years ago today) in 1492. Land actually was sighted just before dawn on the 12th and the occasion was marked by a cannon shot from the deck of the Pinta, one of Columbus' three vessels, file took possession of the island in the name of King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella.

1822—Don Pedro was proclaimed constitutional emperor of Brazil.

1915 — Edith Cavel, the British nurse, was executed by the Germans for being a spy during the First World War.

Fluoridation Unnoticed

Montreal Star

Windsor authorities' confession that they had begun fluoridation of their water supply without the knowledge of even the most observant of its users — and consequently without any adverse protests — recalls the reverse of the story. Some residents of the U.S. have been notified that treatment of their water was to begin on a certain date at once detected in their coffee an unpleasant flavor, noticed that their complexions were behaving strangely, and were confirmed in their misgivings about the ill-advised step. What they felt when told that fluoridation had not yet begun is not recorded.

The Windsor area residents will have at least to concede that in the microscopic quantity used, fluoride make no perceptible change. Experience without the influence of any element of prejudice may change some minds.

Some minds, however, are resistant to the most illuminating experience. The United Kingdom experiment which resulted in an official test-monial to fluoridation was carried out in three towns, one of them Kilmarnock, Scotland. The end of the five-year test period has been marked there by the organization of a campaign against continuance of fluoridation, on grounds of ethics and ill effects possible effects on adults.

Opponents of fluoridation who pitch their opposition on this latter have an incalculable capacity to ignore the fact that there are thousands of communities whose residents have never drunk anything but fluoridated water, yet no one has ever claimed that their health was anything but the better for same. The East end West are doing a pretty good job in the Cold War.

Plain Talk On Colonies

Ottawa Journal

The British Information Service has issued a booklet on Britain's colonial record containing this:

"It would be foolish to pretend that the British Empire was one of unadulterated altruism. The colonies were largely acquired for reasons of national advantage."

Good! All this bunk about colonial powers being proud they were because they loved the backward natives should be ditched for good.

In the honest approach to colonialism the past and present is benefit to the West.

The British, who are not ineffective publicists, could further in their booklet that Britain has done a good deal for the colonies and hope that the colonies have gained as much from the association as they have.

"Only the historian of the future can judge," it could add, but the record so far justifies the hope that the verdict will be favorable," the booklet says.

That's a reasonable hope.

The British colonial empire is being disbanded at breakneck speed. At this rate it must be agreeable for London to read the words of Canada's Hon. Howard Green before the United Nations general assembly. He said the problems of countries in territories being guided to freedom by Britain's past record justified confidence in her purpose.

Mr. Green observed, too, that while the Communists were great critics of British colonialism there remained to be the Soviet empire millions who could not assemble the right of self-determination Soviet propagandists demanded for others.

"Colonial power" has become a very nasty title, and Communists have helped to make it so. One of these days they are to wake up to the fact that there is the only colonial power left. And what will it be say talk about then, poor things!

Doubtful Theory

Alfred Duggan writes this line in his recent novel, "Lord Geoffrey's Fancy": "If a conference lasts a long time, it must end in peace; no one can keep on defying his enemies all day." The East and West are doing a pretty good job in the Cold War.

Prize-Fighting Is a Perilous Profession

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Although not ordinarily a follower of Tattersalls, I was taken with an ironic fascination by events on the day of the Liston-Patterson fight.

Gene Tunney arrived at the Chicago airport that same afternoon. Asked by a photographer, "What do you think of the fight?" he said, "What fight?" and continued on his way to Seattle.

That same evening, Edgar Ray Robinson, now 42, had his brains further scrambled by a by a British fighter in London. Meanwhile, Patterson collected more than a million dollars gross for taking three or four punches.

If Patterson has any intelligence, he will follow the route of Tunney and not of Robinson. It would be distinctly pathetic if Patterson wound up punch-drunk and ball-headed, selling pencils in front of a seedy boxing stadium. This has happened before to more than one former champion.

Dr. Edward J. Carroll, writing in the Journal of the Medical Sciences some years ago, reported that almost every fighter, when he has engaged in between 30 and 60 professional bouts, has begun to "soften up" psychologically.

The symptoms of this softening are deterioration in attention, concentration and memory." In the midst of a conversation, he may be subject to a reverie, suddenly change the subject, or ask the same question several times.

It was fear of this deterioration that prompted Tunney's decision to quit the ring while he was ahead, financially, physically and mentally. He has told what happened to many of his training for the second Dempsey bout.

"Without going down or staggering from my sparring partners' blows, I lost my consciousness, but instinctively proceeded to knock him out. Another partner, Harry Greb, entered the ring; we boxed three rounds. I have no recollection of anything that occurred until the next morning, when I awakened and wondered in bed was and what I was doing there."

For the next three days, Tunney was dazed and disoriented. He has said: "From that incident on born I'm positive to quit the ring forever. I wanted to know the game before I met with an accident that would permanently injure my brain. The possibility of becoming punch-drunk haunted me for weeks."

Dr. Carrol's exhaustive study showed that about 60 percent of fighters who remain in the ring for more than five years develop mental and physical symptoms of degeneration. Some, like Joe Louis, are forced to keep fighting for long after reasons long after they have passed their prime; the bitter-day Louis was an embarrassment to all his friends and admirers.

Liston has frankly said "if I could do anything else, I wouldn't be fighting." With his newly acquired wealth, Patterson should find something else to do, or at 42 he will be a travesty of a prize-fighter.

To Your Good Health

Skin Cancer Has a Very High Rate of Cure

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about skin cancers? I have a dry, scaley looking place which I don't like, but it gives me no pain.

What is the best method of removal? A relative had one removed by X-ray and it never came back. A friend has one "painted," and I've heard of them being "burned off." — Mrs R. D.

Of all cancers, skin cancer has the highest rate of cure. It is, indeed, rare for it NOT to be cured if the patient doesn't put off having it treated. When you can see the lesion, you have the best possible chance of getting rid of it before it has a chance to spread.

There is no certain way to diagnose it without a microscopic test, although in some cases a physician may be pretty sure in his own mind. One highly suspicious sign is the way which may appear to heal over in the center, but leaves a raw looking edge.

The principal things to watch for are: the sore that does not heal and the fact that it is painless is no guarantee that it is safe; any new growth or skin blemish which changes shape or size, or is exposed to repeated irritation, or bleeds; raw spots, or thickened white spots on the lips or in the mouth.

"A good many of these various spots will not turn out to be cancerous, and others will have quite some other treatment or may be left alone.

When one is a cancer, removal is the only reliable answer.

The method depends on the site and location. X-ray is excellent for some. Others either must be removed surgically, or can be removed more easily and quickly that way.

Caution is possible - that is "burning" the cancer off; by chemical or other means, but notice that I said "possible." It should not necessarily be done that way.

Years ago, when little was known about such matters except that cancer was a disease caustic or corrosive chemicals were used. They were painful. They also caused hideous scarring.

Unfortunately some of these brutal old remedies are still attempted by quacks or by people who don't know any better.

You don't, however, have to worry much about the method. Your doctor will decide, generally speaking, on one which, in a particular case, will be the best, the quickest, and will leave the least scar.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told I have no acid in my stomach. Is there any kind of diet to follow? — R. B.

If a doctor said so, didn't he tell you what to do? And if "somebody else" told you that, I'd suspend judgment until a physician has confirmed it.

We normally have a slight amount of dilute hydrochloric acid in the stomach to help digest food. For people who lack it, dilute quantities can be prescribed. But don't do anything without first having exact instructions from your physician. Full-strength hydrochloric is a corrosive and dangerous acid. It has to be extremely weak for such use.

Farm Problems Are Different

Brockville Recorder and Times

Life in the country — on a farm, that is — poses problems of an entirely different nature to those of urban society. The greatest problems of rural life have to do with the soil and while modern methods are revolutionizing agriculture and helping the farmer to get the best from his land, these same methods (the equipment, fertilizer and son on) require heavy financial outlay. Moreover the farmer has no steady income such as those have the fringe benefits enjoyed by urban workers and professional people. These he must obtain for himself and his family.

There are compensations, of course in farm life. These are spiritual rather than material, intangible rather than tangible. This is not to say that the material things should be striving for a better life that includes education of the young and the making of a home of which all the constant need to increase the fruits of the soil are discounted. If anything there are the first essentials, from which the other benefits of farm life accrue.

One of my neighbors telephoned to say she heard I was an authority on Chinese food, and she was planning a party and would I come and have a variety of Chinese dishes sent in, would I make some suggestions.

I assured her that I was an authority on great many subjects, Chinese food among them, as an authority based on the principle that I learn best after somebody else has gone through the mistakes and found out the right way.

"Nobody under fifty," he says "can be such an authority. And then he would have had to have placed himself humbly in the hands of someone at least twenty-five of those fifty."

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved lower during moderate morning trading to day.

Industrials showed a one-point index drop, while golds, base metals and western oils managed only minor advances.

Papers and Steels led the slides in the main list, with Algoma Steel down ¾, Dominion Foundries and Steel off ⅛, Consolidated Paper off ⅜ and Abitibi off ⅛.

Other losers included Imperial Oil, Bell Telephone, BA Oil and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, all down in a ¼ to ⅜ range.

Among issues showing advances were Interprovincial Pipe Line, Moore Corporation and Power Corporation, all ahead ⅛. Canadian Oil gained ⅛.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 1.00 to 851.06. Golds rose .14 to 91.08, base metals 1.0 to 174.27 and western oils .53 at 114.81. The 11 a.m. volume was 788,000 shares compared with 696,000 at the same time Thursday.

Among base metals, Noranda gained ⅛, while Falconbridge dipped ⅛. Sherritt Gordon saw Northgate climb 20 cents to $3.80.

In brisk western oils action, Devon Palmer advanced seven cents to a 1962 high of 72 cents. Central Del Rio rose 25 cents to $2.10 on a turnover topping 29,000 shares.

Weakness overtook the market Thursday.

Industrial declined more than a point on index. Base metals, golds and western oils all dipped fractionally.

Bulk sales list: Banks reversed Wednesday's upward trend, with losses ranging to ¾ on a few heavy issues to 21.90; Steels, 20¼; Canadian Oil gained ⅛.

Canadian Celanese dropped one point. Power Corporation ½ and Consolidated Paper ¼.

Dominion Bridge paced the gainers, rising to a day's high 38.50 before slipping to 38 and ahead 1⅛. Algoma Steel rose and Consumers' Gas ¼.

Kiwanis Toy Project Now In 11th Year

Now in its 11th year of operation, the Belleville - Kiwanis Christmas toy project is again underway at the Kiwanis Centre where for the next two months the Kiwanians and others will be at work repairing an estimated 5,000 toys.

The repaired toys are distributed by members of the Belleville Fire Department to city and district needy children.

Today, members of the toy committee appeal for repairable toys to keep the teams busy.

The toy repair project got underway last Tuesday evening using a backlog of toys, left over from last year, but these will soon be used up and the repairmen will then be dependent on a new crop of toys donated this year.

The Kiwanis toy repair shop operates four nights a week — Monday to Thursday, with four teams of six repairmen taking weekly turns. Any volunteers to help for this project will be gratefully appreciated.

Although Kiwanians head up the project, many non-Kiwanians turn out to help the project along — many of them professional in a particular phase of repair work.

For instance, Mr. A. Leland does all the toy painting while Smith Signs does the paint striping the City Cleaners does all the dry cleaning of soft toys. A local woodworking firm sets up the jigs for the manufacture or repair of wooden toys.

Mr. Harold Clark is all done grafis. A number of local merchants contribute generously.

But there are still expenses involved in the toy project. For instance between 35 and 40 gallons of paint are used each year and repair materials have to be purchased. And it all takes money.

To help the project along penny boxes will again this year be placed in downtown business places. Every penny pennies will be welcomed. Your pennies, please.

Surveyor Hit By Car, Charges Are Pending

A 27-year-old Department of Highways employee, Shigeru Oikawa, was treated at Belleville General Hospital this morning for bruises to his knee and hip, which were not considered serious, after being struck by a car on highway No. 2 near Marysville, early this morning.

Police said Mr. Oikawa, a surveyor was working in the north lane of the highway when he was struck from behind by a vehicle driven by 22-year-old Ronald Rayner of Vanessa. He was thrown into the ditch.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $60 to $70.

Belleville Ontario Provincial Police, who conducted the investigation, said charges are pending.

India says Chinese troops from Tibet moved into the northeast frontier area Sept. 8 and dug in. Firing broke out Sept. 21 and continued intermittently for a week with a reported total of five Chinese killed and nine wounded and five Indians wounded.

In all, Red China claims 51,000 square miles of land that Indians insist always has been part of India in the northeast and Ladakh sectors.

Water System At Marmora To Be Opened

Two additional projects of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, one water supply system and one water pollution control system, will be opened officially during the week of October 15th to 20th at Marmora in Hastings County and the pollution control system at Nepean Township, adjacent to Ottawa in Carleton County.

Provincial, municipal and OWRC officials will take part in both ceremonies, at Marmora on Monday, October 15th and at Nepean on Wednesday the 17th. Both are scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Reeve W. A. Shannon of Marmora and Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West will take the leading parts in the official ceremonies at the Hastings County village, while Reeve D. A. Moodie and W. E. Johnston, M.P.P. for Carleton will officiate at the Nepean ceremonies. John Duff, a member of the Ontario Water Resources Commission will represent the Commission at both affairs, with Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior, a former member of the OWRC, attending the Nepean opening.

The Marmora system was built at a cost of $214,000 and is being operated by the Marmora Public Utilities Commission. It was designed and built by the OWRC. The water supply comes from the Crowe river, is pumped to a 150,000 gallon filtration plant, then passes through a carbon contact tower which removes color, and reduces taste and odors. A disinfection unit ensures water is not turbidity and the carbon which has been removed.

After filtration, the water is chlorinated to ensure disinfection. It is then stored in a 300,000 elevated storage tank which supplies the entire system by gravity feed. A multi-stage vertical turbine pump can handle 1,200 gallons a minute.

The Nepean system involves activated sludge secondary treatment with final effluent filtration through and filters following chlorination. The treatment is discharged to Watt Creek. There are two pumping stations which deliver sewage by water from low lying areas to the plant which is located at Shirley's Bay. One of these stations is located at Woos' Ice Arena adjacent to the railway tracks, and is one which 200 yards to the Carling Heights area, ultimately 7½ miles of trunk sewers.

The system cost $1½ millions, part of which was paid by contributions from the municipality and the National Capital Commission. The plant and pumping stations are being operated by the Commission's Division No. 1 Operating Unit, while the trunk sewer system is being maintained by the municipality.

Accused Could Not Remember Term Given

When asked by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city court here this morning what jail sentence was given him last week in Picton court on a charge of theft, 19 year old George A. Zachariah, told him he couldn't remember.

Zachariah appeared here this morning charged with stealing a bicycle from seven year-old Karen Brown of 201 Bleecker Ave., Belleville. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Inspector J. R. McLauchlan told the court that on Friday, Sept. 28th, a bicycle had been reported stolen to the city police department and Karen Brown.

He said the bicycle was located on the Bay Bridge Road and brought to the police station by Constable Grant of the Picton Provincial Police.

The bicycle was held at the city's police station here for several days and was later identified as the bicycle which had been earlier reported stolen.

The accused was remanded for sentence until next Tuesday.

High School Activities

And with a rah, rah, rah and an isolated "Yes Belleville", football season is upon us again. The time for organized brutality has arrived and we are urged on to muster up what school spirit we have and chatter meaningfully with our fellow hysterical cheerleaders. (Boom, get the ball, touchdown, a boot, saw, etc.) And then there is that classic of inanity, "Belleville Collegiate fights like hot potatoes". Is that praise, or encouragement for the other team? However it has not been by fighting like hotpotatoes that the Juniors have managed to tie two games 20-20 at Picton and 9-9 at Brighton, while the seniors, though losing 12-21 at Picton, won at Brighton 12-6. In the Quinte Collegiate fights the Quinte the Juniors took the game at 12-6, while the Seniors lost 12-21.

From the scene of organized mayhem to the more individualistic mayhem, the weekly dances have been going again, so far, both the Student Council and the Stage Crew have held dances in the school gymnasium, thereby owing its success to the policy of admission by invitation only, and the presence of the Key Club members and their initiation. The Student Council, however, will soon revoke the above as members have to pay for it. On the Graduation Ball will be held. This is a semi formal at which dress is optional. Held immediately after the Commencement exercises the Grad Ball will feature the music of the Commodores, and this social event of the term will cost but $1.50.

Students who had achieved exceptional attendance records at our school were honored at a twenty minute assembly on Friday last. Perfect Attendance Certificates were awarded students, Meribeth Anderson, Stuart Bowden, Elaine McNish and Marjorie Wilson. Also, "never late, never absent" for four years in succession. Congratulations!

Fourteen hundred pounds of books have been sent to needy in Uganda and Northern Rhodesia on the request of Dr. R. S. Mitchell, a Canadian missionary in Africa. A letter from Dr. Mitchell thanked our school for the books and that the books were received in good condition. No wonder, after all the careful packaging. Books were collected from the student body, from the Corby Library, from the Keyetten and the Girls' Hi-Y. The Student Council, Key Club and Hi-Y combined in their efforts to send the parcels. The Key Club and its adviser, Mr. Slave, deserve a good deal of credit for this effort.

Local Firm Gets Contract

TORONTO — Public Works Minister Ray Connell awarded a $53,965 contract to Hugh Murray Ltd., Belleville contracting firm, for the construction of an eight-bay metal patrol garage for the Department of Highways at Camden East, 10 miles east of Kingston.

Mr. J. R. Simonet, MPP for Frontenac - Addington, said the new garage would be located just south of Camden East on the west side of the county road about a quarter of a mile south of the interchange.

Mr. Connell expects work on this project to start within the next few weeks.

'Y' Offers Many Activities for All Citizens

The Young Men's Christian Association is one of the 18 community organizations in the Belleville United Appeal. In underlying purpose and in guiding principle, it is as its name implies, Christian.

The "Y" offers programs of freetime activities and other services designed to aid participants and members in meeting individual needs and problems; in developing significant recreational, cultural, educational and social interests; in maintaining health and physical fitness; in deepening their religious faith and sharpening their moral convictions, and in becoming worthy members of families and responsible citizens of the community and country.

The program of the YMCA are primarily activities of groups — swimming, basketball teams, camp life etc. — in which participants develop friendships, build a forming and carrying out purposes, and ability to work with others. Constantly new stimulating persons as leaders and counselors are another important aspect of the "Y".

Last year, support of the citizens of the United Appeal enmade the following program possible: 2,283 different members were registered; 568 boys and girls learned to swim; 968 boys and girls passed other tests; 36 boys and girls passed Life Saving and 206 different groups engaged in other physical, educational activities, for 3,134 sessions and with an aggregate attendance of 83,300 persons.

Belleville YMCA also serves the community in varied ways. Community groups use the 'Y' for their meetings and meals. Day-time such groups used the 'Y' 187 times last year. The swimming pool was available to scouts and cubs of this city regularly once a week and to other school and church groups.

Leadership training is one of the important areas of the Y.M.C.A. Leadership groups meet regularly in the 'Y' for training, and many others are encouraged to attend out-of-town conferences and training sessions. Over 100 'Y' members participated in these regional and provincial training conferences last year.

It costs more than the membership rates to support the YMCA and therefore all members are asked to do a to share in the expense.

Last year, it cost to decide $40,000 to run the YMCA. Membership dues paid amounted to $6,517 or only 16.3 per cent of the cost. The balance was paid out of United Appeal and by other YMCA special services and program.

No deserving boy or girl was refused membership in the 'Y' because of inability to pay the fee. Everyone is accepted.

Training today's youth to be leaders of tomorrow — this is the task of your YMCA — teaching the Christian principles of good fellowship, good sportsmanship, and the regard for the rights of our fellow man.

Your generous support of the Belleville United Appeal makes this task of the YMCA possible.

Several Voice Objections To Present Planned Use for Land in City

The directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce are preparing a brief covering fiercely of Belleville proposed official land use plan and in the near future will present it to the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board.

This was indicated last night at the public hearing on the city's proposed land use plan which was held in the city-hall council chambers.

Between 40 and 50 property owners attended the meeting, with several voicing objections to presently planned use for land in various sections of the city. The meeting was presided over by Dr. John Barlow, chairman of the suburban planning board.

Duties of the impending Chamber of Commerce brief was contained in a letter presented by the secretary, Earl Dickmeoter. The Chamber brief will be presented following examination by a special committee of the last draft copy of the official plan.

SAY PROPERTY TIED-UP

The Chamber feels that local industrial and commercial interests, together with the housing of citizens, should be considered when planning. It also suggests that the Chamber could offer much toward the planning board and those responsible in preparing the official city plan.

Strong objections to zoning the Hillcrest area at the meeting protested the fact that their properties are tied up.

"We object to the fact that our property is tied up. Rod Schaugerhorn said. "It has been tied up now for years and now we want it released. It's time something was done".

Several persons objected to the commercial area in the Victoria Ave., Church and Pinnacle Street area being restricted.

Also several residents objected to the commercial area along Station/Street being suddenly stopped off at Stokes Street.

WANT USE CHANGED

Dr. Barlow replied that the thinking of planning consultants was that restriction of the present commercial area would tend to result in a general upgrading of the business area and at the same time prevent commercial sprawl.

He noted, however, that the proposed plan allowed for local business to other parts of the city.

A local land developer asked that multiple family dwelling use be permitted for 20 acres south of Bridge Street, east of Elizabeth Crescent and north of Dundas Street.

Also asked was that 30 acres north of Pine Street in the as-

Boy Friend Isn't Sure

DEAR DORIS—My boy friend and I have been planning on marriage. We are both 21. Now suddenly he wants to break up. He says they had an office party and he took a girl home. This gives him the idea he wants to take other girls out, like the other boys do.

I told him if he wanted to break up, just to say goodbye. Then he wasn't so sure, and finally we decided that we could go out with others but keep seeing each other.

DORIS CLARK

But, Doris it just isn't the same. Everyone tells me to leave him, but it isn't easy. I do love him. Just what do men really want?—TORTURED.

* * *

DEAR TORTURED—Easy? It's about as tough as it can be.

But it's even tougher to keep on dangling. Your boy friend is still a boy. You have matured faster and know your own mind.

Call on all your reserves and send him packing until he finds out what he wants. Allow no dates with you at all. Then let him know you are not sitting home waiting for him.

When it dawns on him that he may lose you for real, it's ten to one he'll be back—for good!

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I am interested in becoming a marriage counsellor. Could you please tell me the following:

1. Where can I take a course in marriage counselling?
2. What will it cost to take this course?
3. How many years' training does it take?
4. What are the job opportunities after completing the course?—JOB HUNTING.

* * *

DEAR JOB HUNTING—

1. The course is social work; the place to take it is one of the eight universities across Canada which teach it.
2. Costs vary with location, length of course chosen. Government grants are frequently available to help out the deserving student.
3. One or two, after graduation from an arts course. For the degree of Master of Social Work, you need two.
4. Opportunities are just about unlimited. We need four or five times the number of social workers we have in Canada. Many of the jobs involve marriage counselling—in family agencies, child care services, mental health organizations, family courts, to name just a few.

A booklet about this profession is on its way to you.

DEAR DORIS—How would you feel if you were to receive an engraved invitation to the wedding of a dear niece in an unsealed envelope bearing a two-cent stamp? I don't feel insulted. Should I?—AUNTIE.

* * *

DEAR AUNTIE—Not in the least. She wants you and you are worth squandering an engraved invitation on. Doubtless everybody was treated to the economy of an unsealed envelope—at the expense of good taste!

Obviously she didn't know this was the wrong thing to do. Christmas cards go this way—so why not other printed messages? Such was her reasoning.

DEAR DORIS—I too get $25 per week. It works out to be $2.00 per day for eight people.

Does "Worried Sick" consider buying powdered skim milk? Also potatoes by the bushel, small ones (which are cheaper), day-old doughnuts (half price), large bag of puffed wheat (much cheaper than fancy packages?)

As for the clothes, Baby Bonus keeps us (all eight) in clothes. I have a charge account at a department store just in case I get stuck for jeans, etc., and payday is a long way off. Does she consider buying good used clothing, winter jackets, etc.?

Does "Worried Sick" sew? Drapes from factory cotton? There are some lovely prints at 33c per yard, suitable for dresses, kitchen drapes, sport shirts, etc.

I don't claim to be an expert on a budget chart, but we all well and healthy, and certainly not poorly dressed. Hope I have been of some help. Thanks for listening—MRS. T. G.

DEAR MRS. T. G.—A miracle worker! Your economy hints will help others besides "Worried Sick." Thank you.

* * *

TO OPEN HOUSE—Have pickles and relishes on the buffet table, if you want to. There's no law against serving them with sandwiches.

* * *

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Drownproof swimming pools, a comeback for an old cancer treatment and pollen-stopping fences for hay fever sufferers.

SWIMMING POOLS

A Netherlands scientist who believes too many children drown needlessly in backyard swimming pools, gives this advice:

Fill your pool with a comparatively harmless physiological salt solution — salt water that has been perfused with oxygen.

Dr. J. A. Kylstra of the department of physiology at the University of Leiden reached this conclusion after experiments a h w e d submerged mice could survive for hours in an oxygenated balanced salt solution.

"Many fresh - water drowning victims appear to succumb notwithstanding prompt and adequate artificial respiration," he wrote in Lancet, a British medical journal.

The Dutch physiologist said the effect would be due to lethal changes caused in the body and blood by inhalation of fresh water regardless of how much oxygen is supplied later.

OLD CANCER TREATMENT

Doctors have known for a half-century that exposure of certain tumors to heat would destroy them without extensively damaging the surrounding tissue.

Medical World News reports that the same heating technique has been found to amplify the tumor killing power of x-rays.

Skin cancers that normally required 1,500 roentgens or more of radiation for their destruction were killed by a single dose of only 600 roentgens.

Internal tumors also responded to the double treatment. In these cases internal heat was applied by diathermy or electrical energy.

HAY FEVER FENCES

A North Dakota doctor believes that modified snow fences might be practical in late summer for the relief of hay fever.

Dr. Kenneth J. Johnson of Bismarck said he has found that eight - foot slatted fences decrease the ground velocity of the wind and reduce the spreading of ragweed pollen and mould spores that plague hay fever victims. The plain wooden fences of city residential areas provide little protection.

Unending Quest for God

Sunday School Lesson

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the lessons any man learns very quickly, who writes articles on religion for the newspapers, is that the atheist is perhaps more sensitive to religion than any other man among his readers.

Criminologists have a way of saying that "the criminal always returns to the scene of his crime." I am not an expert in that field, and cannot offer any testimony of any value in that point, but I can say out of 50 years' experience to be able to dismiss the idea of God, no matter how stoutly they declare their atheism.

THE ETERNAL "WHY"

No man can lay claim to thoughtfulness who does not ask himself again and again, "How did this earth come to be as it is?" "What is the meaning of life?" "Is there anyone in this universe who really cares when a man tries to do the right thing?" "Why do good people suffer?"

TO THE UNKNOWN GOD

Having an empty afternoon and a loaded camera, one day about a year ago I set out from my hotel in Athens to climb to the top of the Acropolis, following as nearly as I could the route that St. Paul must have taken that day he addressed the philosophers and scholars on Mars Hill.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 14: "GOD," Genesis 1:1, 27, 31; Psalms 145: 8-20; Isaiah 40: 28-31; Matthew 6:9; John 4:23-24; Acts 10:34; 17:22-31; James 1: 15-18; Revelation 4:11.

It is far from an easy climb, and I took it leisurely, trying to reconstruct the scene in my mind as I climbed. Down on the streets of the city below me (where the hundreds of feet below, Paul had attracted the attention of certain learned ones as he harangued the crowd, and as consequence he had been invited to address them Areopagus, which consisted of a learned society of the most honorable and respected in Athens.

As I rounded the great granite knob, which is all that remains today of the point of assembly, my attention was attracted by a huge bronze tablet upon which was spread, in raised letters, the most famous address ever given there by Paul's speech on Mars Hill. A short climb of perhaps 20 steps brought me to the crest, and I stood looking over the ancient city and the ruins of the Parthenon.

As Paul had viewed the scene, the Parthenon had represented what was probably the greatest collection of art in all the world. Up the steep roadway he had passed one by one a colonnade of great statuary, in some of which he had the slightest interest.

One statue had attracted his attention, because of the legend carved in its base: "To the unknown god." It had been set in place by the very society Paul was to address.

That statue was beautiful admission that the great scholars had never found the thing they were looking for. They had dabbled in great ideas, and they had wrestled with great problems. But they had never found the eternal thing that forever drove them on — the quest for God. When they had exhausted all their sophistries and examined all their theories, there was one more fact — the greatest fact of all — that eluded them. And until they had found the answer to that question there was no hope for peace.

Who and what is God? Can a mere man find him? If not, then why are we forever pursued with the desire to know him? Why do we insist to know him? Why do we feel upon being sure in the field of religion?

WHAT WE BELIEVE AND KNOW

There is a vast difference between what we believe about God, and what we know about the Eternal.

It is just here that a religious experience becomes the final authority. The Apostle Paul, for example, was unsure about many things but he was sure about one thing: "I know him whom I have believed."

Along the Damacus Road that had left an indelible impression. It was something he knew — not something he had reasoned out.

Tell them what your experience with God has been, and it may lead them to seek the same experience." The old professor was teaching his students to preach, and he had hit upon the central core of it all.

Scharie

SCHARIE — Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Hennessy, Yeerville, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hennessy, Napanee and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hennessy and two children were Monday evening dinner guests of Mr and Mrs. Finley Hennessy and Paul, the occasion being the birthdays of Mrs. Jasper Hennessy and Mrs. Ronald Hennessy. A lovely birthday cake was a feature of the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hennessy, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Algar and Brenda left last Friday for a two week's trip to North Dakota to visit Mr. Algar's sister Mrs. Ronald Hunter, Mr. Hunter and family.

Miss Norma Foster kindly opened her home on Thursday evening for the Thanksgiving meeting of the Live Women's Circle. Mrs. Thompson, Picton was guest speaker on her work with the Children's Aid Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Milfred Simpson and Larry were Thanks-giving supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Loewen, Picton.

Highlights in Recreation

(B. Jarvah—Assistant Director)

"It's hockey time in Canada!" and with this short but well known statement millions of Canadians turn to their radios, television sets or to the schools, to get scores of hockey games passed out and this year, the number participating in Belleville Minor Hockey is expected to be larger than ever.

Coaches and managers are always in demand and a helping hand is always received with gratitude, but there is a job that many parents neglect, but yet it is sometimes more important than the coach himself and that is just going to the arena and watching your son play. He may just be in the squirt division or he may be a midget. He may be an expert player or he may hardly even be able to skate, but believe me, whether he'll admit it or not, there is nothing that will make him happier when he skates down the ice to look to see you up there watching him. By the way too, don't forget to ask him how the game went, who scored the goals and who do they play next. These are the kind of questions that make a son realize that Mom and Dad are really interested in his choice of a winter sport, the great Canadian game of hockey, and he — I'll see you at the first game!

FIFTH INDUSTRY

The production of motor vehicles now ranks as the fifth largest industry in Canada.

91 Paintings, Drawings, Sculptures to Be Shown At Queen's 5-Day Festival

In conjunction with the opening of the new galleries of the Agnes Etherington Art Centre at Queen's University, Kingston, on October 25, 91 paintings, drawings and sculptures provided by major galleries of Canada and private art collectors will be featured at the C.W.C. Arts and Music Festival on the campus.

The exhibition will be representative of the 19th and 20th century British art covering the continuous English movement in art from the time of John Constable to that of Francis Bacon.

"Nineteenth and twentieth-century British art has long been in the shadow of French impressionism," Professor Andre Bieler, head of Queen's Art department, points out.

Among the many fine paintings will be Constable's "Salisbury Cathedral" from the National Museum of Fine Arts; John Crome's "Ruined Building" from the National Gallery in Ottawa, and "Man with Dog" by Francis Bacon from the Albright Knox Art Gallery in Buffalo, N.Y.

Private collections will include "View from the Giudecca, Venice," by John Turner, from the Beaverbrook Art Gallery at Fredericton, N.B., and Augustus John's "Simone" from the collection of Col. W. E. Phillips of Toronto.

The sculpture works are on loan from the private galleries of the Arts and Letters Club of Toronto, among which will be "Eve" in bronze by F. E. McGillivray Knowles.

Quintena Lodge Views World Slides

On the night of October 2nd, the regular meeting of Quintena Rebekah Lodge No. 139 was held with Sisters Irene McMartin, Noble Grand, and Connie Wilkinson, Vice-Grand, in their respective chairs.

As this was the final regular meeting of the present Noble Grand, Sister Irene gave each of her officers, guard of honor and committee conveners a little gift as a token of her appreciation for their assistance during her year.

All thanked her for the lovely remembrance.

Following the regular business, Lodge closed in regular form and all retired to the upper hall where the Wonderful World," film presented through the courtesy of Coca Cola Ltd. of Belleville, under the direction of Mr. Don Charlton, consin of the Noble Grand and son of Sister Georgina Charlton, P.N.G. The film took the members in a short space of time all around the world, showing the audience a few of the natural beauties of the different countries through which it travelled by pictures.

When the film ended, lunch was served, prepared by Sisters Gladys Boonor, Edith Rushworth, and their committee.

A sincere vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Don Charlton for the pleasing pictures and comments. Thus ended another evening of Oddfellowship.

Legion L.A. Sponsors Social Meet

TWEED — Tweed branch of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion enjoyed their annual social evening at Tweedsmuir Hotel on Wednesday evening.

Following the delicious repast, cards were enjoyed. The winners of the draw prizes were Mrs. Charlie McComiskie, Mrs. A. G. Allen and Mrs. LaVallee. Mrs. Ruth Crawford, Auxiliary president, was in charge of the event.

Weddings

CRONKRIGHT — FISHER

Tall white standards of pink and white and red gladioli, interspersed with fern, adorned the chancel of Foxboro United Church on Saturday, September 22nd at 2.00 p.m. for a very pretty autumn wedding when Sandra Dianne Fisher of Foxboro, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rosslyn Gilbert Fisher, became the bride of Roy Carleton Cronkright of R.R. 1, Halloway, Ont., son of Mrs. Carleton Cronkright of Halloway and the late Mr. Cronkright. The Reverend Robert Nichols of Plainfield officiated.

Miss Marie Hollinger, of Foxboro, organist, provided the wedding music which included the wedding hymns, "I Love You Truly", "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her street-length bridal gown of powder blue net and nylon, fashioned with fitted bodice having a portrait neckline and short sleeves. The bodice front was gathered into a matching cummerbund, and the graceful skirt was accented by a nylon net overskirt enhanced with double front bows of velvet ribbon. She wore a floral headdress with shoulder-length veil of illusion tulle and carried a white Bible crested with red Sweetheart roses mingled with white baby's breath, and white satin rosebud-streamers. White gloves and blue shoes, with teardrop pearl and matching earrings, were the bridegroom, completed her costume.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Shirley Fisher, Foxboro, as maid of honor, and by Miss Hilda Cronkright of Halloway R.R. 1, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid. The attendants were gowned alike in navy blue ensembles w/ matching accessories, and carried blue accessories, and carried nosegays of pink and white 'mums. Pearl earrings and necklaces completed their ensembles.

Mr. John Emerson of Halloway attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Lorne Cronkright of Belleville R.R. 5, brother of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the church parlors, where bridal table was appointed with white lace, and centred by the wedding cake topped with a white bell and lily-of-the-valley, and misted about the base by white tulle. Pink and white garlands adorned the table and the bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial accent.

The bride's mother received, wearing a turquoise jacket dress with matching lace, black accessories, and corsage of pink 'mums. Assisting in the receiving line was the bride's groom's mother, attired in a match jersey ensemble in navy beige accessories, and wearing a corsage of yellow 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Ont., the bride chose a navy Kelly-green three-piece style with black shoes, white hat and gloves and drupi rhinestone earrings, the matching necklace and corsage of pink 'mums.

Guests were present from Belleville, Foxboro, Halloway, Oshawa, Wilbridge, Marmora and Glen Miller.

The bride was entertained, prior to her marriage, by several miscellaneous showers; one at the home of Miss Phyllis Cronkright, Belleville R.R. 5; one at the home of Mrs. Toni Hall, Mrs. Dan Demarest and Miss Nancy Reynolds as co-hostesses, at a linen shower at the home of Helena Shorey, R.R. 2, Frankford, and at a presentation of sterling tables, coffee table and money from the Foxboro community.

Mr. and Mrs. Cronkright are residing at Halloway, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Ross are shown following their recent marriage in St. Alphonsus Church, Schumacher, Ont. The bride is the former Anne Marie Delich, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Delich, Schumacher. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. Francis R. Ross and Mrs. Ross, Belleville.

ROSS — DELICH

Miss Anne Marie Delich, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Delich, Schumacher, exchanged wedding vows with Robert James Ross, son of Dr. Francis R. Ross and Mrs. Ross of Belleville, in a recent ceremony at St. Alphonsus' Church, Schumacher. Canon F. Sowinski officiated at the ceremony.

The church choir sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

The church was decorated with white gladioli and lighted candles.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. George Delich, the bride wore a floor-length white brocade bridal gown with a bell-shaped skirt extending to a chapel train, fitted bodice with square neckline and long sleeves. Another train from the neckline flowed to a cathedral train. An orange blossom bonnet held in place her shoulder-length silk illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses and white poms.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Mary Cox of Madoc and bridesmaids were Misses Lynda Ross, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Helen Vukasanovich and Miss Mary Oravkin, both of Timmins.

The attendants wore turquoise peau de soie floor-length gowns styled with bateau necks, bell-shaped skirts, three - quarter length sleeves and square necklines. They also had wateau trains on their gowns extending from the back neckline to the floor. For headdresses the attendants chose matching caps with veiling and carried bouquets of pink 'mums.

The groomsman was Joseph Rose of Belleville, brother of the groom. The ushers were James Cox of Madoc and Marty Halloran and Larry Black both of Belleville.

A noon luncheon was held at the Spruce Needles Golf and Country Club for out-of-town guests. A reception was held in the evening at the McIntyre Community Building.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Norma Delich wore a dark blue embossed brocade dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother chose a Venetian blue gown with blue accessories and blue and bronze feather hat and a corsage of roses.

The couple will reside at 64 King Street E., Brockville.

Women Can Be a Success In Field of Anthropology

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto - born Dr. Margaret C. Wheeler says anthropology is one of the few careers where a woman can be a success because she is a woman."

Dr. Wheeler is a Branford, Conn., anthropologist who has made a study of Canada's Iroquois Indians and the Navaho Indians of New Mexico, and is now engaged in a study of the North American consumer.

An anthropologist, she says, is "interested in the attitudes, values, emotions, behavior patterns of people of any given society."

In undertaking a study of a society there are often "inner sanctums marked women only," she says. It takes a woman to discover and study those attitudes, behavior patterns and rites peculiar to women.

She pointed to an intricate collar of turquoise and silver around her neck, made by the Zuni, a tribe of Pueblo Indians of New Mexico.

"You'll be interested to know that this collar is a fertility necklace of the Zuni women," she said. "But I don't have any children yet."

OWNS BUSINESS

She is the wife of Dr. George W. Wheeler, professor of nuclear physics at Yale University. They have their own building business as management consultants offering up-to-date scientific data on the attitudes and behavior of today's consumer.

She is vice-president of the company while her husband is president and chairman of the board.

Former MP Wants Women To Take Part in Politics

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian women should take their cue from India and make their voice mean something in politics and government, says a 93-year-old grandmother who formerly sat in the British House of Commons.

"We are far behind India in accepting women in politics," Mrs. Jean Mann said during a visit to Canada to promote her public publication here of her book Women in Parliament.

"Why don't you women take hold of a door that can be opened!" she asked.

Mrs. Mann doesn't blame men entirely for the problems of government.

"Women have not been courageous or tenacious enough in dealing with government officials. They are too easily put off with courtesy, a cup of tea and a promise of utmost consideration."

This was especially true of women's organizations.

The convention passes a resolution, then sends a small deputation to the cabinet minister. And then they think things will give their demands the utmost attention, and that's the last you ever hear of the affair."

Mrs. Mann, who was a Labor MP from 1929 to 1950, was also representative for Coatridge from 1945 to 1959, said women should get their heads into things that matter—consumers' rights, housing, neglected children, widows and orphans.

"I have spoken to so many of those conventions, urging them to take a voice for consumers' interests. After all, a society's economy and standard of living revolve around the kitchen."

Juvenile Court Work Topic at W.C.Y

The Womens' Church year of St. Thomas' Anglican Church held its October meeting in the parish house on Wednesday, October 10th.

Mrs. Gordon Pringle conducted the business meeting followed by the devotional reading by Mrs. V. Simmons.

An interesting program was given by Mr. Hy. MacIntosh, Juvenile Court of Hastings County.

Miss Dorothy Batchelor, of the Poultry Products Institute of Canada, gave a talk on consumer products with highlights of the poultry industry.

The evening concluded with a pleasant half hour of refresh-

Alliance Y.F. Again Wins Zone Crest

The Youth Fellowship of the Alliance Church was honored for the fourth year in succession when they again earned the greatest number of points in the Zone Rally competition held in the Yonge St. Alliance Church, Toronto, on Thanksgiving Monday. The presentation was made to Mr. Judson Rae, president of the Youth Fellowship, by Rev. Ross Ingram, District Youth secretary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

The speaker for the afternoon and evening sessions of the Zone Rally was the Rev. George Ross of the Alliance Church, Barrie. His challenging messages were given by Mr. Ross at both services when he stressed the great need of young people knowing God's will for their lives.

At the evening service, the attention took place for the officers of the Zone Rally for the coming year. Mr. Judson Rae of Belleville, was elected the vice-president of the executive.

Says Midwife Should Be Brought Back

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Harold B. Attlee says the midwife should be brought back.

From a medical point of view, he said Thursday, the transition from home to hospital delivery for a prospective mother is execellent, but it's psychologically bad for the woman.

"It is here that our maternity hospitals display their chief inadequacy," he told a combined meeting of the Eastern Canada and Montreal Obstetrical Gynecological divisions of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

"They provide no special techniques or accommodation for handling the final stage of pregnancy.

"Many have they created any special psychological atmosphere with which to support or fortify the frightened or untried girl having her first baby.

"She is dumped into a small austere bedroom in each close proximity to the delivery room that she soon becomes all too aware of pain, blood and tears around her."

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart H. Rosenberg

The picture we have of modern marriage is, in large measure the result of a Hollywood interpretation of the meaning and place of love in human life. According to the films, the marriage story follows some such sequence:

(a) Boy meets girl;
(b) They fight;
(c) They make up;
(d) They argue;
(e) They make up;
(f) They battle;
(g) They return and —
(h) Fall madly in love and —
(i) Marry.

What happens after is barely touched on by the impressarios of the cinema. Only the romantic storm and stress, the peaks and the valleys of the premarital period, seem worth depicting. In the Hollywood version of modern marriage, before one weds — if it is to be the "real thing" — he must fall madly in love. What follows the marriage occurs, seems to be less important. After all, they are always to marry and then re-marry!

The flippancy of such a suggestion is the direct result of the fundamental definition of love, in our culture. We think of love exclusively or biologically. The physical proportions are the significant measurements of marital attractions. The greatest girl — one who can best display her endearing young charms is merely likely to ensnare her willing "victim". The centering of the romantic attention primarily in the physical tends to distort the meaning of love. Ironically, the focusing of so much attention upon the size and shape of the human form as an index to marital happiness, often leads us away from the human fulfillment.

"It's not the man I married!" "She's no longer the same girl I once knew!" These are the insipid but necessary corollaries to a marriage founded principally on a bio-chemical or anatomical basis, in the dimmer aftermath of an earlier glow. It is difficult for a love relationship in marriage to deepen and to grow if we lead ourselves to believe that we must reach the peak of happiness before we've even started out.

Real marital love grows with the sharing of life; it develops with sacrifice, hardship, tears, even with pain. It doesn't come easily as a simple, fairy-land Hollywood film would have us believe.

There is romance in marriage — but not the romance of the body, alone. The lasting, legal romance grows out of the human spirit.

It is only when the spirit sanctifies the material side of life, when the adventure of living together reaches far beyond physical glorification, that love abides. It abides then, because there is so much more to give when we learn how to share. The body wears out — but the soaring spirit of man can continue to grow strong, and to stay sweet.

Honor Couple On 25th Anniversary

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Broadworth entertained recently at a surprise party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth, 4th. Concession of Rawdon, who were observing their silver wedding anniversary.

Guests were in attendance from Lindsay, Toronto, Peterborough, Belleville, Madoc, Campbellford, Bowmanville and Stirling.

It was a real surprise to the honored guests and they were the recipients of a floral bouquet as a memento of the occasion.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Roblin of Toronto showed slides of their recent trip to the west coast and of their visit with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Broadworth of Vancouver, B.C. Several group pictures were taken for future enjoyment.

The hostess and her assistants served dainty refreshments which included a decorated anniversary cake.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. H. A.: His lives at home and doesn't contribute any money.

Myron A.: My father has a good business and doesn't need my help.

* * *

Mrs. H. A.: Our son is 30, has a responsible job with an electronics firm which pays him a good salary, and also receives a government pension check of a disability incurred during the Second War. He lives at home and there's where my problem lies. He refuses to contribute on single dime towards his room and board, not to mention the maintenance of the household itself. What's more, he even "touches" me for a loan when he's broke. And it's a struggle to get my money back. He squanders his funds on an elaborate wardrobe and on entertaining his friends.

Instead of things getting easier for me, we're winding up supporting a fancy Beau Brummel. Since he probably won't marry or move out, things will not change for us unless we fight this out with him.

Myron A.: If my parents needed my money, I'd gladly give them any amount. But my father has a good business and an excellent income. My contribution wouldn't make any difference. It would just be more money for him to blow.

What's really eating my folks is the amount I spend on clothes. But this is the style, with me. I'm the "outside" man in my office. That means I'm in Washington a lot and I must meet visiting scientists, inventors and designers every day. Besides I lead a active social life which is both enjoyable and an important part of my business progress. I'm always dressed appropriately whether the occasion is golf or yacht trip, a batchelor dinner or a Harvard seminar.

I like living at home and I'm no special trouble or expense to my parents. My mom's just picking on me.

The Council: Both one, not even a son, can decide whether someone else "needs" money. Certain government officials dispensing welfare funds are given norms to follow when they must determine need, but everyone understands that, the computation is merely a necessary expedient and not definite. Therefore when Mrs. A. asks that Myron be made to pay his way at home, his answer that his parents don't need the money for his extra sumptuous and evasive.

Regardless of the size of his dad's income, Myron should be wracking his brain for ways to make life less burdensome for his parents — financially and emotionally. Granted that their concern over his freeloading is prompted more by emotion than by financial strain, most normal parents would speak up and have it out with an able-bodied adult (potentially) son long before he's 30. Something was left out in the course of Myron's upbringing: a sense of responsibility—which may explain why he behaves as still like a little boy with a Mamma and a Papa taking care of him.

It isn't the clothes, Myron, it's what's in them — you're that worried about. How about a new budget in which room, board, laundry, maid service, gas, electricity, telephone, nursing — and other items which you've been entering in your ledger under "miscellaneous" —all take precedence over clothes. You might have to give up a smoking jacket or two, but you'd be paying your way (or some part of it) like a man. Unquestionably, your ma would put a good sized cheque from you to good use each month, possibly for more household help. And your realization that every adult must either provide his own home or "pay in towards whatever home he occupies could hearten your parents. They'd feel freer to revise their own living arrangements. Maybe your mother dreams of a small hotel by a winding well for herself and you — with maid service for her, not you, for a change.

It's wise, Mrs. A., to have this (not fight it!) out now, rather than to coddle Myron indefinitely, and shortchange your self on the new freedoms that come after children grow up.

Young Couple Honored by Community

IVANHOE — A large number of friends and neighbors gathered in the home hall, Ivanhoe, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Shaw (nee Helen Kelly), who were married recently.

Mr. Reg Haggerty acted as chairman for the following program:

Community singing led by Mr. Haggerty with Mrs. Haggerty at the piano; girls' chorus, "Melody of Love"; reading, "The Snoring Husband", Mrs. Elmer Rollins; piano solo, "I Love You Truly." Miss Nancy Fargey; solo, "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree With Anyone Else But Me," by Miss Patsy Hanson; girls' chorus, "Whither Thou Goest," and a piano solo, Mrs. A. Hassall.

As Helen and Wayne took seats of honor the chairman sang, for the bride, a parody on "Has Anyone Here Seen Kelly?"

An address, expressing the best wishes of this community and St. Andrew's Church, for a long and happy married life, was read by Mr. Jack Wood.

The presentation of a corduroy cushion completely covered with money was made by Mr. Ivan Freed.

The bride and bridegroom expressed sincere thanks and appreciation.

Mr. Harry Lovibond spoke briefly after which refreshments were served by the ladies and a social time enjoyed by all.

Nearly one-third of married women in Britain have paid jobs, and half of all women working for pay are married.

Many Attend Shower for Young Couple

RAWDON—On the evening of October 3rd, over 100 neighbors friends and relatives gathered in Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Church hall and tendered Mr. and Mrs. Burton Wrightman a shower on the occasion of their recent marriage. Fall bloom were used for decorations.

The pastor the Rev. W. G. Fletcher was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly. Janet and Jim Scott contributed a vocal duet with Miss Gail Scott as accompanist. Selections were read by Mrs. Raymond McConnell and Lindsay McKeown. Miss Linda Potts rendered a piano solo. The Misses Brenda Campbell and Brenda Williams sang with Miss Barbara Williams as accompanist. Mrs. Carleton Potts and the pastor conducted the assembly singing of old favorites. Mrs. Mac Sharp and Miss Nancy Johnson contributed a piano duet and Mrs. Percy MacMullen recited "Mr. Harry-new's Letter on Wives."

Alma and Burton were given seats of honor and Mr. Herbert Smith read an appreciative address on behalf of the community, at which time Mr. Bert Sharp presented them with a gift of money. A long table was laden with a large array of gaily wrapped miscellaneous gifts from the relatives. Mrs. Francis Wrightman of Harwich and Mrs. Walter Wrightman of Mount Pleasant assisted the couple with the unwrapping. There were numerous items including electric appliances, electric lamps, linen, china, silver and other items for their new home in Trenton.

Burton and Alma voiced gracious thanks for the party in their honor, also for the many lovely gifts and the gift of money.

The committee in charge served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

The bride was the former Alma Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Copeland of Trenton and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wrightman, Stirling R.R. 3. They were married in Grace United parsonage, Trenton by the Rev. Jean Byrton, B.A.B.D. on September 15th.

The young couple are residing in Trenton.

Attractive Mother Says You Can't Be a Worrier With Family of Ten

MODEL MOTHER MODELS—Mrs. Paul Warner, tall, slender and attractive mother of 10 children, under the age of 16, is puzzled when people ask her how she manages to keep her sanity.

"I really don't understand what they mean," she says. "Certainly children are a lot of work. But the more you have, the more you appreciate them." This sort of remark is typical of Mrs. Warner who manages to take most things in stride. She and her husband, an insurance salesman, say you can't be a worrier if you have a large brood of 10. And perhaps because they both come from families of six they aren't overwhelmed by family emergencies.

Five came down with chicken pox last year, but we got through it and we always do," Mrs. Warner said.

Not only does she keep her happy-go-lucky outlook but she has managed to retain her size 12 figure. Just have your babies in the early years she'll tell you, then swim back into shape, is her advice.

Vying with their mother for attention are the Warners' 10 children, blue-eyed Da—Dolores, 2, Darla, 3, Dawn, 4, Darlene, 5, Dale, 6, Deborah, 9, Dianne, 12, Donna, 13, Darcy (the lone boy), 14, and Denice, 15.

The crowning achievement of a young woman once every two weeks and some help from her older children, Mrs. Warner does all the washing, cooking and cleaning herself and makes most of the children's clothes.

"I bake every second day—maybe six or seven dozen cookies and a couple of cakes. Washing? Oh, I toss in three loads every day."

Recently she and her husband even found the time and energy to paint the living room, dining room and halls of their home. And see that the older children can babysit they play badminton once a week.

The crowning compliment for Mrs. Warner came when she was invited to model gowns at a fashion show this month—and if you feel like it, swim back into shape, is her advice.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I'm taking my first plane trip in the near future. Since I've never been on a plane before, I'd like to know if passengers tip the stewardess before leaving the plane at the end of the flight. —Mrs. W.D., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: A stewardess is not tipped at the end of a flight, although passengers should remember to thank her for helping to make the trip pleasant and comfortable.

Question: I'm to be married next month, and am up to my ears writing thank-you notes for showers I've received. Various friends already have given me three showers, and I'd like to know if the gifts I received at each also should be acknowledged. Naturally, I'm writing personal notes for the wedding presents, but wonder if a printed card may be sent for the shower gifts.—Miss A. L., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: Since shower gifts are acknowledged on the spot verbally, further acknowledgement is not absolutely necessary, but I've always maintained that it's a gracious gesture. Printed cards may correctly be sent for shower gifts, but I still think they're a poor substitute for a one-line note or even a follow-up phone call.

Question: A friend arrived unexpectedly for a visit a few days ago, just as my husband and I were about to leave for an early dinner engagement. Since the hostess and the couple we're visiting, I called our hostess and asked if we might bring her along. She indicated it would be inconvenient to have an additional guest, so I had to relay this message to our visitor. It was very embarrassing. When one has an unexpected guest and an appointment at the same time, how is the situation best handled graciously? —Mrs. M. B., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: One way not to handle it is to call a hostess and ask to bring an extra guest to dinner. If she has to refuse, it puts her in an awkward position — to say nothing of the "third wheel" who is put into the even more difficult position when the request is refused. When such a situation occurs, it's more courteous to all concerned to explain to the visitor that you're about to go out, and invite her to drop in at a more convenient time.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

Question: Will you please send me the recipe for crab apple conserve so the apples stay round? . . . Ruth R.

Answer — Yes.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu

Chilled Vegetable Juice; Broiled or Pan-Fried Pickerel Fillets; Sauce Tartare; Parsley - Buttered Boiled Potatoes; Grilled Crumbed Tomato Halves; Fresh Fruit Cup with Melon - Balls; Sliced Pound Cake; Coffee.

PRESERVED CRAB APPLES (1 loaf)

6 lbs. medium-size perfect crab apples, 3 lbs. sugar, 2 cups water.

Make a syrup by combining sugar and water and bringing to boiling point. Wash apples carefully and trim out blossom end. Do not remove stem. Drop apples into boiling syrup and cook gently 5 minutes. Do not overcook. Skim out apples into sterile jars. Fill jars with boiling syrup and seal immediately. Note: If desired, whole spices such as stick cinnamon or cassia buds or whole cloves or allspice in bags may be added to syrup.

Letter: Apropros the recipe for Melting Moments, September 14th, do you mind if I send you my recipe for same? It's good. MELTING MOMENTS (Courtesy Ruth H.)

1 cup melted butter, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 cups flour (1 use to pastry type) 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 unbeaten-egg, 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar, vanilla.

Drop from teaspoon. Bake 4 to 5 minutes in fairly hot oven (Zmen suggests 400 deg. Fahr.) . . . Ruth R.

Answer: Thank you Ruth. Yours are very much better. I hope all readers who are interested in Melting Moments substitute Ruth's for my recipe given September 14th.

Question: Can you help an unorthodox cook to make one loaf of bread? . . . V.S.

Answer: There are so many white bread recipes it is a puzzle to know which to choose for you to make one loaf. Try the following. If it does not suit you exactly write again, reminding me of your present request.

WHITE BREAD
(1 loaf)

1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ tablespoons of shortening, ¾ cup scalded milk, 1 package granular yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water (small (or half large) egg, 2½ cups (about) unsifted flour.

Add the sugar, salt and shortening to the scalded milk and cool to lukewarm. Soak the yeast in lukewarm water for 5 minutes; then add. Beat the egg and add. Add flour to make dough that can be handled but is not too stiff. Knead for 5 minutes on lightly floured board. Grease bowl and place dough in it and cover and set in warm place (not over 85 degrees) to rise. When it is twice its bulk, turn out on board and knead again for a few minutes. Form into 1 loaf. Place in greased bread pan 9x5x3½", and let rise again to double its bulk. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. and bake an additional 30 minutes.

Yugoslavia's Experiment In Free Enterprise Without Private Ownership Failure

By EUGENE LEVIN

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia's experiment in free enterprise without private ownership is not going well-apparently due to too much enterprise.

President Tito puts it bluntly: "There is a chase after quick profits. A quick killing."

The economic momentum of his Communist country has slowed and his government has taken drastic measures to set things right again. This "austerity" drive is beginning to show initial signs of success.

Yugoslav Communists are determined to prove that their kind of decentralized socialism can work better than the Kremlin's tightly controlled and centralized system.

Following Tito's break with Moscow in 1948, Yugoslavia dropped rigid central controls on its economy. Shops and industries became the "social property" of municipalities where they are located.

Workers' councils took control of the individual companies—called "enterprises" here—distinguish them from capitalist firms—and named directors to undertake executive duties.

DEBT INCREASED

Many were efficient. Many were not.

Last year the Yugoslav economy began to lose its steam. The country's Communist planners expected a 13-percent increase in production this year. By April output had gone up only four per cent. The cost of living shot up six per cent between December and April.

Yugoslav exports failed to reach expectations. Imports went beyond. Foreign debt approached the billion - dollar mark.

Tito stepped in to put a finger on the trouble.

First of all, he said, too many enterprises were duplicating production.

Many enterprises, Tito said, were guilty of letting executives go abroad, "squandering foreign exchange."

"Cars usually come (back) with them," Tito said. "One cannot buy a car with per diem payments. There is corruption."

Tito also complained that some enterprise executives watched the market closely, quickly raising prices in event of shortage.

"They put a capitalist to shame," Tito said.

Tito's government enterprise director was jailed for corruption or "theft of social property." Mergers of enterprises providing duplicate services, especially in the export field, was ordered. Enterprises were told to cut wages. Import restrictions were imposed to curb the outflow of foreign exchange.

Preliminary figures through August indicate at least partial success for Tito. Production is up slightly. Imports have been cut and exports are expanding, reducing the trade gap.

A Western diplomat visited a steel mill which was building a resort hotel on the Dalmatian coast for its workers.

"I suppose," the diplomat told the plant director, "that you have stopped work on the hotel because of the austerity drive."

"Oh, no," the plant manager was quoted as replying. "The resort is a priority. We have to cut out luxuries. We've decided to put a concrete floor, instead of marble floor, in the new plant hospital."

229 Known Suicides Since Golden Gate Bridge Built

By M. A. RAISER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A cold sightseeing cruise boat passed under the Golden Gate bridge on a sunny July day.

Many of the 80 tourists aboard the 65-foot Blue Horizon gazed upward in awe at the big bridge — more than 200 feet above them.

"Suddenly there was someone coming through the air," said Capt. Russ Lewis, the skipper.

The suicide's body hit the water less than 100 feet from the Blue Horizon, whose crew recovered it.

The spectacular leap of Cecil P. Herrman, 34, a San Francisco bakery executive, was the 229th known suicide since the bridge was built in 1937. The actual total probably is higher — a jump in the darkness can easily go undetected, the body swept to sea.

Deaths recorded as suicides include a man who jumped twice, a little girl forced to leap by her father, who followed her in a graceful dive, and a stunt man who didn't plan to die.

Twenty years ago one young woman leaped—and survived.

"I had an irresistible impulse to jump and suddenly I clambered over the railing and fell into space," she recalled after her rescue.

"I know I prayed, and I had no sensation of falling. I don't remember when I hit the water, but I know I was conscious every moment."

She plunged 225 feet and hit the water feet first at 80 miles an hour with an impact of 15,000 pounds a square inch, a bridge engineer estimated.

A navy destroyer picked her up. Despite fractured arms, vertebrae and multiple internal injuries, she recovered after months in a hospital and later married.

The man who jumped twice was Seymour Webb, 33, of San Francisco. June 11 last he vaulted the four - foot high bridge rail—but landed on a girder only 10 feet below.

Stunned momentarily, he leaped again—to death.

Alfred (Dusty) Rhodes, a Hollywood stunt man, jumped Feb. 6, 1948. He wore a life jacket and a padded rubber suit. But his three parachutes failed to break his fall and he was listed as the 60th suicide.

Massassaga

MASSASSAGA — Thanksgiving passed off quietly with the usual holiday visitors. The Rev. Dawson was the guest speaker at Massassaga Church.

The U.C.W.A. of Massassaga Church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Bonter on Thursday evening.

Mrs. W. Osborne of Belleville spent the dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. George Flower and Roger.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Valleau and family of Montreal were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Valleau.

Mr. M. Wannamaker and Miss R. McKetheron spent a few days in the north country and called on the Rev. J. Neddow, a former minister here. Mr. Neddow is a patient in New Liskeard hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Wallbridge and baby, Karen, called on Mrs. Howard Wallbridge and Douglas, on Sunday. Mrs. Harry Alder and Mrs. K. Alder and baby Timmy, also called at the same home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston York of Markdale and Mr. Howard York of Toronto, were weekend guests with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cook.

Mrs. Bamford of Belleville, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Johnston.

Mrs. Woodall of Toronto, spent the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robin.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Finkle and boys, Belleville, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Belnap.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wallbridge motored to North Bay, Sudbury and other interesting places over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Miss Carrol Wallbridge and friend of Toronto were with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wallbridge over the weekend.

Mrs. George Reid and David of Oshawa, visited her mother, Mrs. Will Gray, over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chatterson and family were with Mr. and Mrs. Williamson, of Consecon, for the dinner hour, on Sunday.

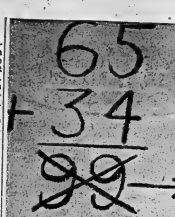
Mr. Robert Bell of Belleville, was a weekend guest of his daughter, Mrs. B. Thompson, Mr. Thompson and family.

Mrs. Fred McFarlane of Forest Mills, and Mrs. Wilmot Hart, of Napanee, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cook.

Friends were sorry to hear Mr. C. Deenell was taken to St. Catherines Hospital for an operation while on holidays there. It reported she is getting along nicely and will be coming home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Pope and sons were callers of Mr. and Mrs. George Flower and Rogers on Thanksgiving.

Glad to report Mr. Arthur Valleau home from Belleville hospital.



Mr. and Mrs. G. Rowbottom of Oshawa were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wallbridge and Mrs. Harry Wallbridge over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Don Rupert were recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Belnap.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cook, Derek, and Dwight spent Thanksgiving at Mr. and Mrs. A. Cook.

CROWDED INDIA

India, with an area of 2,221,790 square miles, has a population of 438,000,000.

If you were asked what 65 and 34 equal, you'd probably say 99. Jack Hutton explains in today's column how you could be wrong.

Teen-Age Canada

Teeners May Soon Wear Computers on Wrists

By JACK HUTTTON

Can you imagine the Canadian teen - ager of the future wearing a computer on his wrist just as many teen-agers now carry transistor radios?

Do not laugh. According to top mathematicians, it's entirely possible that we'll some day be wearing computers for quick calculations.

And if we do, those in the driver's seat will be teenagers (or former teen-agers) who have taken the trouble to stand on tiptoe and peer at the real mathematics behind their day-to-day homework.

I chatted the other day with several top mathematics teachers from across Canada who told me that only of the most interesting things their students do is to throw away the 10-digit system of numbers.

This can be tried by either adults or teen-agers with one difference: the teenager always catches on more quickly.

This is such fun that I suggest you try it in your spare time for one week. Imagine that you are working with a number system that goes up only as far as 7. All you have are 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6.

Is there any reason why we should do all out addition and subtraction in terms of the number 10 apart from the fact that we usually have 10 fingers and toes? Advanced mathematicians often forget the 10-digit system, so we can too.

Are you ready? Let's imagine that we're working with a 7-digit system for the moment. How would you add 65 and 34?

Did you say 99? Aha, you're still thinking in terms of a 10-digit system. You immediately thought of 5 plus 4 and 6 plus 3. Or, if one of the groups had exceeded 10, you would have marked down the number exceeding 10 and "carried one."

Let's take 75 plus 59 as an example. Of course, 4 plus 9 add up to 13. But you unconsciously think in groups of 10, so you mark down 3—the difference between 10 and 13 — and "carry" the remainder.

Now look at 65 plus 34 again, but this time in a 7-digit system. The numbers 5 plus 4 equal 9 which is 2 more than 700. Therefore, you write 2 at the bottom of the column and "carry" one.

The "carry-over" changes 6 to 7 and 7 plus 3 equal 10. Now ten is three more than 7, so you will mark down 3 with a "carry over" 1 beside it. The answer, therefore, is 132.

Sounds fantastic? Just try adding 74 plus 59 again and notice how you use the idea of 10. Try a few more examples in which the numbers add up to more than 10 and ask yourself exactly what you're doing.

Let's try another with a 7-number system. Remember that everything is divided into 7's and this is the basis of everything. This time add up 62 and 26 (don't peek until you've finished.

What did we do this time? Well, 2 plus 6 equals 8 which is 1 more than 7. Therefore, we mark down 1 and "carry" the 1 which leaves us 7 plus 2. That leaves us with 9, or 2 with a 1 beside it. The answer is 121.

Crazy? Not really, I think, because doing this gives us a glimpse into the groupings behind all our numbers — or the foundations of algebra, trigonometry or the set theory.

I mentioned the wrist computer. That isn't such a crazy idea since computers can work problems out so quickly using only two digits — 1 and 0. Ask your math - teacher to explain how this works.

It's just possible that sometime or other the fellows in charge will decide that something else is preferable to the 10-digit system. If they ever do, we'll be prepared.

SITTING BLUES

Sheila McCormick, 15, of Halifax writes: "When are you going to write something about the problems we baby-sitters have? Or if you already have do it again so a few more adults can read it.

"I'm tired of hearing again and again how the baby-sitter is pampered in Canada. Most adults imagine that all we do is stare at a TV set all night, or gab on the telephone in between trips to the icebox.

"Don't they realize that when they mention when they're leaving home we believe them? Time and time again my family has become worried because Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So were having too much fun at the party.

"I hope you emphasize, or that someone does, that baby-sitting isn't something anyone can do easily. You have to have a certain understanding of children to start off, or you're lost.

"The teen age baby-sitter has to be expert in several things. We are almost as an answering service for friends of the family who phone while they're out. It matters a great deal whether we sound pleasant or not.

"The reason I'm writing is that a mother recently became angry with me when I wanted to know the telephone number of the party she and her husband were visiting. Then she became home late and refused to pay any extra charges.

"It's time somebody stood up for the baby-sitter!"

6th Tyendinaga

6TH TYENDINAGA — Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lancaster and Ann had Thanksgiving dinner on Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wannamaker and family, Plainfield. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Jack Emerson and girls of Centenary in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Fox, Rickey and Judy of Trenton, spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie and boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick attended the silver wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reynolds, Carmel, on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dent, 2nd Thurlow on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Elliott and girls, West Huntingdon.

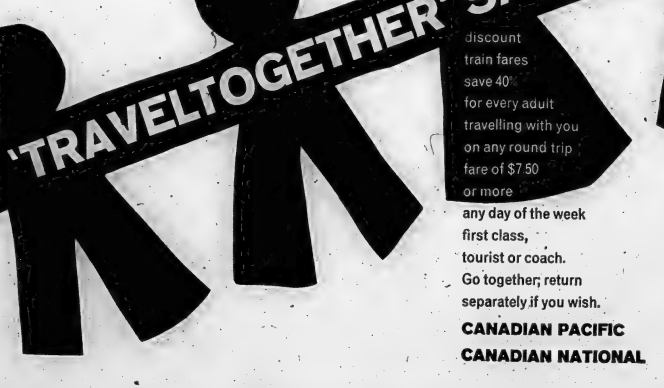
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick had Sunday night supper with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reynolds and boys and Carmel. Margaret Downing and Tommy of Calumet, Quebec, were also guests at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Boldrick and boys of Belleville spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick of Tyendinaga.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sherry of Wilton spent Sunday with Mr. Wilbur Sherry.

Mrs. Alton Goodman and Teddy spent the dinner hour on Thursday with Mrs. C. Cockins and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Treverton and girls had dinner on Sunday with Mrs. C. Parks and family of Picton.



Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton called on Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Dilts, 8th line, on Monday night.

Mrs. Douglas Mumby and Marlene, Ronnie and Terry, of Belleville spent Monday afternoon and had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne MaKenzie and boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Garry McKenzie and girls, of Frankford, spent Tuesday afternoon and had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne MacKenzie and boys.

Any Hopes of Alliance Of NPD With Liberals Dashed by Douglas Fisher

OTTAWA (CP) — Whatever hopes may have existed for a Liberal-New Democrat alliance of the so - called "liberally-minded left" were effectively dashed in the Commons Thursday night by Douglas Fisher.

In a blunt—almost brutal—assessment of the Liberal party that was both funny and funereal, the New Democratic Party's intellectual from Port Arthur performed with a relish that established him as a professional. One excerpt:

"Today the fact is that genuine liberalism is called for. But the bitter conclusion I have to reach is that genuine liberalism has been all but stifled in the very party which nurtured it in this country and claims to nurture it and which considers itself to have a chance of forming the next government."

He particularly attacked J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate) and the claim of "administrative genius" in the Liberal party. This claim he labelled as "the Pickersgill dogma."

"This is paradoxical—well, it is just damn queer, that's what it is," said Mr. Fisher. The statement "we have been slow to govern" was conservatism—"blimpism."

GALLERY APPLAUDS

This brought rare, spontaneous and quite illegal snickers and applause from the public galleries, crowded in anticipation of the throne-speech vote that was to follow in about half an hour.

Mr. Fisher's remarks were given added weight through his position as chairman of the New Democratic Party caucus.

He noted that Mr. Pickersgill has referred to Senator Wallace McCutcheon, former Argus Corporation vice-president now cabinet minister without portfolio, as the "bare-knuckle boy from Bay Street."

What then did Mr. Pickersgill think of the Liberal party's "impecunious members" such as Walter Gordon (Toronto Davenport), John Turner (Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George) and John R. Nicholson (Vancouver Centre)?

"Which party came up with the most money to throw around during the last election? Which party do you find the favorite among the big businessmen you meet?

"Which party has taken over the Madison Avenue type mastery of the slick guff and reiterated banalities, such as the boys jumping off the boat, the answer is rather obvious. . . .

"The senior civil service caste —the mandarin caste if you prefer—has been allowed to set the tone of the party."

Mr. Fisher said that if the party has this administrative genius and yet draws the support of "superb fellows" like Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood and Saskatchewan Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher, "surely there is some reason why we hesitate to see this Liberal party as the means for Canada's salvation — as a chance for one to get a party of the democratic left."

Parliamentary Notebook

OTTAWA (CP) — Random jottings on Commons business on Thursday night's final vote in the eight-day throne speech debate:

The public galleries above the MPs were filled at the start of the two-hour evening sitting, and an hour before the vote was called at 9:45 p.m. EDT crowds were standing in the side galleries.

The only vacant seats were in sections reserved for groups whose interest, apparently, was slight in the key political issue of the night: The senators, whose life appointments do not depend on the government obtaining the confidence of the Commons; the diplomats, whose interests are more lofty than mundane party politics; and the senior civil servants who are supposed to perform their jobs regardless of which party is in power.

Commons clerk Leon J. Raymond read the throne speech aloud by the clerks at the table and every pair of ears on the floor of the Commons strained to hear. Series was cocked to hear the result. He supplied the figures out in detail: "Yeas, one-three-six; nays, one—0—eight."

Finally he would say: "Yeas, one hundred and thirty - six; nays, one hundred and eight."

Conservative MPs burst forth with cheers and desk-thumping applause for themselves. They, plus the Social Credit MPs, carried Social Credit MPs started the cheers by waving their arms, conducting the chorus.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who sat solemn throughout the vote, grinned broadly and appeared to be chuckling with satisfaction. Beside him, deskmate Justice Minister Fleming pounded the desk steadily with one hand, grinning widely at the opposition.

The Commons witnessed the pairing between government and opposition members. The system whereby members may go went into disrepute in recent years when governments had the majorities behind them.

Pairing is a gentlemen's agreement arrived at privately between members on the two sides of the House in which one agrees to abstain from voting if the other is away from the House on the Commons when a vote is taken.

Alan Macnaughton (L—Montreal Mount Royal) announced he did not vote because he was paired with Works Minister Fulton, who was absent. Had he voted, Mr. Macnaughton announced, he would have voted against the government along with his Liberal party colleagues.

One witness to the proceedings was Esmond Butler, secretary-to-Governor-General Vanier. Mr. Butler and his wife have reserved seats in the Speaker's gallery, and are usually present for major parliamentary events.

The governor - general, to whom the Commons was voting the formal address of thanks in reply to the speech from the throne which opened the session Sept. 27, was one mile away in Canada who cannot attend a sitting of the House of Commons.

Not since 1942 when Charles Power burst into the Commons chamber at Westminster angrily demanding the arrest of five MPs —and had to go away empty-handed—has a monarch (or in Canada, the governor - general) dared to enter the Commons chamber.

Taxation Bd. Starts Hearings About Mar. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — The chairman of the new royal commission on taxation has begun inquiry, due to begin around March 1, 1963, on the source of "enormous benefits."

Kenneth LeM. Carter, 56-year-old Toronto chartered accountant, said Thursday "it is important that every pertinent fact be brought to light."

Mr. Carter and his five fellow commissioners have just finished a two-day organizational meeting to prepare for the hearings which will review the structure and effect of the federal tax system.

The terms of reference specifically authorize the commission to "make recommendations for improvements in the tax laws and their administration that may be consistent with the attainment of a sufficient flow of revenue."

The commission chairman said he was "pretty positive" at this conference that the inquiry will not be concerned with any political considerations in the light of them its recommendations.

Although its reports could deal only with federal taxes, the commission would have to look at the entire Canadian tax field, including provincial and municipal taxes.

The commission hopes to submit a report to the government by the fall of 1964.

PILOTS KILLED

MANILA (AP)—A Philippine Air Lines turbo-prop - Fokker crushed at Manila's international airport today, killing the three pilots who were aboard. They were practicing takeoffs and landings.

Former Clerk Of Port Dover Given Term

OTTAWA (CP)—Stimulus to foreign trade and agriculture is the keynote of the legislation to be pushed by the government in the first few business days of the new session of Parliament.

Having won a definitive vote of confidence Thursday night after eight days of general debate on the throne speech, the government intends to ask the Commons to spend today and all of next week on new items of legislation.

The first bills to go before the House for debate will increase the funds of the Export Credits Insurance Corporation to $400,000,000 from $200,000,000, and those of the Farm Credit Corporation to $40,000,000 from $300,000,000.

The third bill scheduled for debate involves amendments to the Food and Drugs Act "to make control over the distribution of drug samples more effective and to outlaw the sale of thalidomide, the drug blamed for causing malformed babies when taken by mothers in the early stages of pregnancy.

PLAN RIDING SHIFTS

High on the legislative priority list is Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal to establish an independent commission to recommend changes in electoral districts reflecting population shifts reported in the 1961 census.

Informants say debate on the export credits legislation is likely to range over the whole field of foreign trade. This is one of the subjects on which the government feels its record is good.

The Export Credits Insurance Act permits the corporation, upon government approval, to insure exporters against the risk that their bills may not be paid by foreign buyers. The corporation has had a favorable record in covering risks and has operated at a profit, a government source said.

RAIDS BROKEN UP

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Flying squads of party raiders, ranging from several hundred to 1,000 male students, swarmed across the University of Texas area early today. The raids were broken up by university policemen, who took up student identification cards and made group pictures with flash cameras.

New Jewish Bible Claims Moses Did Not Cross Sea

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A new Jewish Bible, first ever translated into modern English directly from the ancient Hebrew text, says Moses didn't really cross the Red Sea and revises the Third Commandment to condemn perjury, not profanity of God's name.

The new book, to be published Jan. 28, says Moses led the children of Israel out of Egypt through the parted waters of the Sea of Reeds, a marshy area near the Red Sea and not far from the present Suez Canal.

There are many other sweeping changes in this Bible, known as "The Torah, the five books of Moses." It will be published by the Jewish Publication Society of America, a non-profit educational institution.

Actually, The Torah—containing Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy—is the first of three scheduled volumes of The Holy Scriptures, commonly known together as the Old Testament. The others —Prophets and Writings — are to be completed by 1975.

NO "SOUL" IN BOOK

The new English translation virtually eliminates the word "soul," and it provides an entirely new meaning to the expression "with all my heart," asserting the phrase doesn't imply loyalty or devotion, as previously understood, but rather means agreement.

Rev. Luther A. Weigle, New Haven, Conn., chairman of the Standard Bible Committee of the U.S. National Council of the Church of Christ, said the new Torah's outstanding characteristics are its clarity and the closeness with which it adheres to the traditional Hebrew.

Dr. Weigle now is working on a new Protestant Bible, combining the Old and New Testaments.

Rev. Jolin La Farge, a Jesuit priest who is associate-editor of America, U.S. Roman Catholic weekly, said "none could be more authorized than eminent Jewish scholars, by tradition and by learning, to render a faithful version of the sacred books."

WORDS ARE NEW

The first words of Genesis now are "when God began to create the heaven and the earth." The old version, published in 1917, started "in the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

Dr. Harry M. Orlinsky, editor-in-chief of a committee of Bible scholars who worked eight years on the $250,000 project, explained that better understanding of the original Hebrew text, says Moses didn't really cross the Red Sea and eliminates the inaccurate implication that eternity began when God made the earth.

Dr. Orlinsky said that "in its fidelity to the actual meaning of the ancient Hebrew text . . . this new Bible represents the most accurate translation ever made into English—clear, modern and easily-understood English for today's reader."

Plowing Results At Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A two-man team from York County won the inter-county plowing competition Thursday as the 49th International Plowing Match completed its second day on the farm of Norman Brow, a few miles southwest of here.

Barry Diceman of Woodbridge and Peter Gibbons of Stouffville took top honors and Howard Brown and David Rife, both of Galt, representing Waterloo County, were second. The Halton County team of John Wilson and Ken Robinson, both of Norval, placed third in a field of 19 entries.

Mrs. Vera Jaques of Hagersville won the Bank of Montreal Trophy plowing against 13 male competitors. Ivan McGeer of Mount Albert and Floyd Forsyth, Stouffville, placed second. The Family Herald Trophy, awarded to boys under 18, was taken by Thomas L. Hunter of Hagersville.

Ronald Bagg, assistant secretary-manager of the association, estimated Thursday's attendance at 5 record 35,000.

The open horse class for those who had not won a first or second prize at an IPM prior to 1962 was won by Douglas MacRobbie of Guelph.

MURROW "SHAKY"

NEW YORK (AP)—Edward R. Murrow, director of the U.S. Information Service, arrived at Idlewild Airport Thursday from Teheran where he was stricken with pneumonia. Murrow said he felt "shaky" but had received excellent care in a Teheran hospital.

Canada's OAS Membership Has Hit Stiff Roadblock

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Cuban affair, combined with political unrest through much of South America, has thrown a formidable roadblock in Canada's path toward membership in the Organization of American States.

Events of the last several days have strengthened the hand of those who said all along that Canada would be asking for trouble if it went into the hemispheric organization.

Such a move, so goes the argument, would embroil the country in the political upheaval and endless squabbles which —as viewed by many a Canadian — seem to dominate the Latin American scene.

NEW TROUBLES

Now, in rapid succession, have come a series of developments tailor-made to bolster the arguments of the anti group: military takeovers in Peru and Argentina, unrest in Brazil and Ecuador, rebel terrorism in Colombia, sporadic revolt in Venezuela.

And hovering over the entire scene is the venomous dispute between the United States, supported by most of its Latin American allies, and Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime in Havana.

Canada has attempted to steer clear of this seemingly irreconcilable dispute—but it has managed to avoid being singed by it. For instance, there has been much criticism in the U.S. of the Canadian policy of continuing to trade with Cuba, even in non-strategic goods.

On the other hand Cuban authorities have sometimes complained that Canadian subsidiaries of American industrial corporations refuse to sell spare parts to the Caribbean island. U.S.

Opponents of Canadian membership in OAS say these are just examples of problems the country would face increasingly by joining up.

U.S. RELATIONS

As an OAS member this country would have been in an intolerable position at the inter-american foreign ministers meeting last winter in Punta Del Este, Uruguay, they contend.

Being on more or less friendly terms with Cuba, Canada could not have voted to expel it from OAS councils—a decision taken by majority vote of the ministers. Yet by refusing to take a stand against Cuba it would surely have offended the U.S.

However, proponents of membership advance a convincing argument to all this. They say that Canada is being dragged into the Cuban dispute anyway, therefore it might as well be inside OAS and have a proper say in a matter affecting its interests.

External Affairs Minister Green has said Canada will join OAS — some time. The consensus in Ottawa now is that the "some time" may be a long time coming.

Foxboro rural mail carrier Percy Reid stands beside a 1931 car on his 23-mile route.

Mr. Reid has been mail carrier for 37 years and used daily horse and buggy until 1949.

Mail Carrier Drives '31 Model A Ford on Daily 23-Mile Route at Foxboro

Percy Reid, rural mail carrier at Foxboro for the past 37 years, is not actually a vintage automobile fan despite the fact that he drives one every day.

He drives a 1931 Model "A" Ford on his daily 23-mile mail route, solely for utility reasons—for his particular job he claims the 31-year-old coupe beats a modern car by the proverbial mile.

Not only are its relatively high wheels and better road clearance more suitable for all types of winter driving, but its seat is at just the right height for the driver to place mail in the roadside boxes.

And anyway the job would be a tough one on the modern day auto geared for high-speed highway travel.

On the mailman's job it would never get above 20 miles per hour.

HAS LATE MODEL

Mr. Reid, however, appreciates the modern car and drives a late model auto for his "off the job" driving.

"I use the old Ford only for the mail. I have to drive it to Belleville," he says.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Reid took over the rural mail route at Foxboro back in 1925. At that time the route was delivered by horse and buggy and in fact Mr. Reid used a horse until 1949.

"Sometimes I still think a horse would be best for the job, but a man would have to do his own horseshoeing and keep his own carriage in repair."

No longer are there blacksmiths around to shoe horses and set steel tires on those wheels.

Mr. Reid's 23-mile route sees him deliver mail to 168 rural boxes and about 190 households. As in the urban area, the volume of mail has increased tremendously in recent years.

FOUR HOURS FOR ROUTE

His route takes him down the "station road" to Mud Cat Lane, then back to the village and north for about two miles on the Madoc Road. He again cuts back to the village and goes along the 6th of Sidney to a mile west of Marsh Hill when he turns south along a sideroad to the 5th and back to Foxboro.

The tail end of his route sees him go south along No. 14 highway to Benedict Flats south of the village.

Including mail sorting his route takes him about four hours. The part time job leaves his afternoons free so he acts as janitor at the Foxboro public school, all in the day.

The only thing which Mr. Reid doesn't like about his mail route job is the winter driving on all sorts of roads.

And it's winter driving conditions which will eventually force retirement of his 25-year-old car.

The reason is that he won't be able to replace his present snow tires. The size is apparently not made anymore.

Sparks Street Mall Now Open For Traffic

OTTAWA (CP) — The pedestrian paradise that was the Sparks Street mall became just another traffic-clogged street in downtown Ottawa today.

Buses, trucks and cars returned to the street for the first time since June 2 when three blocks between Elgin and Bank Streets were transformed into a traffic-free shopping mall for the third summer in a row.

The mall closed Tuesday. Workmen cleared the area of sidewalk cafes, trees, flowers, benches and other features that attracted thousands of citizens and tourists.

Directors of the Sparks Street Development Association decided Thursday to recommend to their members that a fourth temporary mall be installed next year. But they want the city and the federal government to decide if a permanent mall would be worthwhile.

Association President Russell Boyce, spokesman for the 74 up-town merchants who spent $25,000 putting up and promoting the 1962 mall, said Ottawa city council must make up its mind whether "hundreds of thousands of dollars" should be spent on underground wiring, new light standards, repaving and other projects needed if a permanent mall is to be established.

MERCHANTS NEED HELP

"It's beyond the scope of the merchants who, in many cases are tenants with long leases on the buildings they occupy," he said.

The federal government would be involved because its agency — the National Capital Commission—must decide if the mall fits in with its master plan of Ottawa.

Mr. Boyce said the mall helped Sparks Street shops combat the lure of suburban shopping centres in the city's outskirts and is "definite success as a whole because it attracts so many tourists.

Tourists do not consider Ottawa as the seat of government but as the place to go to see the changing of the guard ceremony on Parliament Hill, the tulip festival and the mall," he said.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Fan reactions to recent sports events gathered during a stroll on the Front Street rialto.

"A MILLION FOR MAHOVLICH?"

Teen-age department store clerk—"Sell him. No. If he's worth a million to Chicago, he's worth two to the Leafs."

Seventh grader wearing a Canadiens' sweater—"Who's Mahovlich?"

Construction worker—"Sure I'd take a million for him —and use it as a down payment on Bobby Hull or Gordie Howe."

My favorite bank cashier—"If I were you I'd sell him —now about that overdraft."

Drug store coffee hound—"The Leafs would be crazy to sell him. With Mahovlich in Chicago and Kelly in Ottawa where would they end up?"

My favorite finance corporation cashier—"After all, a million is a million. No hockey player living is worth that amount. That is, before the second round of highballs."

Old soldier—"Good thing the hockey brass was not attending a regimental reunion. Ten million would have crossed the bar-whoops-board."

A public relations type—"No one can accuse Chief Black Hawk Norris of not passing his bucks. Biggest publicity blurb since Tommy Manville announced he'd quit getting married."

CAN PATTERSON DEFEAT LISTON IN THE REMATCH?

An army corporal—"Sure—with a machine gun at fifty yards' range."

My favorite cop—"They say crime doesn't pay. This time it will. It will be a crime to put the pair in the ring together."

The guy who delivers the family oil—furnace—that is —"I think Patterson has a chance. He learned a lesson in the first fight. But it would be a good idea ta'he went into the ring like Ann Boleyn, 'with 'is 'ead tooked undernesth his ahm'."

The office expert—"Sure he will. The day after the Leafs sell Mahovlich for a million bucks—or for any amount."

THE STANLEY CUP—THE EXPERTS SAY:

Toronto Maple Leafs—Experienced veterans and ttreless youth. If nothing goes wrong they should finish first.

Montreal Canadiens—Bright outlook if they start hitting the net. First or second.

Detroit Red Wings—Will be fighting again for fourth spot. With the Howe-Delvecchio-Ulman nucleus they should make it.

Chicago Black Hawks—Speed, sound defence, more experienced youngsters. Will be rugged again in playoffs. Second place and the Stanley Cup.

New York Rangers—With everything clicking as high as second. Otherwise no worse than fifth.

Boston Bruins—Stronger physically, improved on defence and probably better in goal. Look good for fifth, but higher than that, a question mark.

Bruins Stun Habs With 5-0 Shutout

Wings Edge Rangers 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins finished last in the National Hockey League last season and opened in first place this season.

Rookie goalie Bob Perreault, playing his 10th NHL game, turned away 27 shots to shut out the Montreal Canadiens 5-0 Thursday night.

It was Bruins' first opening game victory since the 1957-58 season when they defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 in Boston. The shutout is Boston's first registered against Montreal since Don Simmons blanked them 3-0 at Boston Nov. 28, 1958.

The win puts Boston in first place, for a while anyway.

In other league play, old pro Gump Worsley held Detroit Red Wings scoreless for two periods but the Wings scored two third period goals to beat New York 2-1.

John Bucyk of the Bruins who scored only three goals against Montreal all last season, chalked up two goals. His first turned out to be the winner.

Doug Mohns also scored two goals, tying his record of two goals scored against Montreal last season.

The Bruins' other goal was scored by Irving Spencer.

In the other game Dave Balon scored New York's only goal, giving them the lead near the half-way mark in the second period.

Detroit tied the game up 1-1 at 6:04 of the third period when Howie Young scored after being set up by Alex Delvecchio.

Delvecchio also had a hand in the Wings' second and deciding goal by Parker MacDonald at 11:09 of the final period.

Canadiens' boss Frank Selke announced before leaving for Boston that his club plans to pay tribute to the players of last year's team who won trophies, when they meet the Rangers Saturday night in Montreal.

Bobby Rousseau will be awarded the Calder Memorial Trophy, given to the top rookie of the year; Jacques Plante the Vezina Trophy, awarded each year to the goalkeeper who played the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against.

The Prince of Wales Trophy, given to the NHL champions, will be received by Jean Beliveau on behalf of the team.

All teams will be active on the weekend. Saturday Rangers play at Montreal, Boston at Toronto, Detroit at Chicago.

Sunday, Montreal is at Detroit, Toronto at Rangers, and Chicago at Boston.

Meet Ottawa, Hamilton

Saskys Hold Key To Eastern Bye

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A club from the Prairies could have a big say in who gets a bye into the Eastern Football Conference playoffs.

Saskatchewan Roughriders invade the east this weekend and play each of the two clubs locked in the battle for first place and the all-important rest while the second and third teams meet in the sudden-death semi-final.

Tomorrow the visitors meet Ottawa Rough Riders, who hold the EFC lead by one point. Monday night they visit Hamilton Tiger-Cats who, with 11 points, are one behind Ottawa.

Sunday Toronto Argonauts are tied for the third and last playoff spot. Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts are tied for third with six points and there are only three games left for the loser to catch up after Sunday.

Saskatchewan coach Steve Owen won't say who'll sit out the games in the east, but speculation is that Dave Sarette and Dave Mince will be on the sidelines.

OWEN OPTIMISTIC

Owen won't predict the outcome but says:

"We can't do any worse than break even with the east and we may do a lot better. With this race as tight as it is, we need every point."

The Roughriders are in third place, two points behind Calgary Stampeders and one ahead of British Columbia Lions.

The east's Rough Riders remain fairly healthy. Millard Flemming has a twisted ankle and Coach Frank Clair is considering resting him and pressing Doug Daigneault who has yet to see action this season. Of his western opponents, Clair says:

"They do everything well. We studied the films and they're a strong club . . . Very much improved. And they're in playoff position so it's as big a game for them as it is for us."

ALS STILL CRIPPLED

The Alouettes still have five players on the injury reserve list—Don Clark, Don Paquette, Ron Brewer, Ted Page and Milt Crain—and it won't be off the list before Sunday's game against Argonauts. Joe Stratina will also be sidelined with a leg injury.

Marv Luster is expected to see considerable action on defence, in addition to his work as an offensive end, because of the injury situation.

It's expected Argonauts will dress newcomer A. D. Williams, a former National Football League end, but coach Nobby Wirkowski isn't announcing any changes just yet—"it's too early," he says.

Nor does he subscribe to the theory that if Argos win this game they have a good foothold on the last playoff spot.

"I like to think we need to win four ball games," he says. "If we win four games, then we're away."

Meet Lions In Big One

Eskimos Healthy But Low

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Isn't that something," said coach Eagle Keys of Edmonton Eskimos. "Now that we're all but out of the playoffs, everybody turns up healthy."

Eskimos have suffered a rash of player injuries for most of the Western Football Conference season and Saturday night go against the rampaging British Columbia Lions in Vancouver.

Quarterback Jackie Parker has been back for two games after suffering a broken collar bone against Calgary Stampeders Labor Day, and fullback Johnny Bright and halfback Dunc Harvey will be back after missing two games with assorted injuries.

This will allow Keys to move Tommy-Joe Coffey back to his accustomed end position after filling in for Bright and halfback Bob Walden, injured earlier in the season.

The game is all-important to Eskimos. One more loss would put them out of contention for third and final playoff spot in the conference. Esks have not missed the playoffs since 1950.

STAMPS PLAY BOMBERS

Another important game will be an afternoon encounter in Winnipeg with Calgary Stampeders seeking the win that would pull them in front of the Blue Bombers atop the league standings.

The Bombers, after losing two consecutive games to the Lions, have a one-point-edge over Calgary—16 points to 15—with two games in hand.

Meanwhile, Saskatchewan will be trying to enhance its playoff hopes also with an eastern swing in the interlocking schedule series. They start Saturday with Ottawa Rough Riders and play Hamilton Tiger-Cats Monday.

Saskatchewan is in third place in the conference with 13 points, one ahead of the Lions.

Lions star halfback Willie Fleming is hobbling slightly on a big toe that is out of line. Stampeder fullback Earl Lunsford, the league's leading rusher, has had trouble running on an ankle broken early in the season while guard Don Luzzi still favors a pulled hamstring in his left leg.

ADD NEW TACKLE

Lions have beefed up their reserve with the acquisition of tackle Bill Frank of the University of Colorado. Coach Dave Skrein was not expected to dress Frank for the Edmonton game.

Among the 'Riders, the only possible question marks are halfback Ray Purdin, who suffered a slight concussion in the first quarter Monday against Edmonton, and alternate quarterback Dave Sarette, who has missed the last two games with a sore knee. Both will be travelling with coach Steve Owens to Eastern Canada.

For the Canadian champion Bombers, the only player who might sit out is middle guard Steve Patrick, who injured a knee slightly Saturday against Lions.

Coach Bud Grant says Patrick was running satisfactorily in practice and the only thing he is worried about is the Calgary backfield.

"They are the best set of running backs in the league. Lunsford, (Jim) Dillard and (Ed) Buchanan can all run with the best of them. And (Lovell) Coleman can run too if they ever use him on offence."

ALS GET LINEMAN

MONTREAL (CP) — George Ray, younger brother of Ron Ray of Hamilton Tiger - Cats, joined Montreal Alouettes at practice Thursday night, completing an off-season trade with Edmonton Eskimos, the offensive guard and defensive end was acquired in exchange for Ray Baillie but declined to report here, taking a job in Houston.

A couple of weeks ago he changed his mind.

Like his 28-year-old brother, George, 24, qualifies as a Canadian under the old Canadian football league rules. Their father was born in Grand Bend, Ont.

Series Closest In History

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—How close can you get?

Not much closer than the current World Series between San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees.

With the Yankees leading 3-2 in games and the sixth contest coming up today, a check of the statistics shows one of the tightest battles ever.

The Yankees have scored 17 runs, the Giants, 16. The Yankees have 34 hits, the Giants 37. The earned-run average of the Yankee pitching staff is 3.07, of the Giants 3.14.

The Yankees have batting .214, the Giants, .228. Giant pitchers have recorded 33 strikeouts, the Yankee hurlers 30. The Giants have given up 15 walks, the Yankees 11.

Almost the only big edge is in the extra base hit department. The Giants have eight doubles to five for the Yankees and five home runs to two for the Yankees. Each team has one triple.

Must Meet Chuvalo In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—If Bob Cleroux of Montreal wants to fight George Chuvalo for the Canadian heavyweight title he'll have to do it in Toronto.

This was the reaction of Dec'con Allen, Chuvalo's manager, to a suggestion by Gene Letourneau, commissioner of the Canadian Boxing Federation, that the fight be held in Montreal.

Clercoux won the title from the Toronto boxer in Montreal last year, but has since been suspended by the federation and affiliated groups for not carrying out an agreement to fight Chuvalo again in Toronto.

Letourneau said promoter Allen Mitchell is ready to stage the fight, with 30 per cent of the receipts going to Clercoux and 20 per cent to Chuvalo—but with no guarantees.

Tops Field of Seven Schools

Moira Wins Cross-Country

The track and field future of Moira Secondary School looms bright after their fine win in the first Quinte District High School Cross - Country meet held yesterday at Norwood.

Some 120 boys representing 7 schools in the district competed in the three age divisions for both individual and team honors.

On its way to the overall team championship, Moira produced a first place tie in the junior competition, came 2nd in the intermediate division and won the senior classification.

In each of the groupings, the results of the best four runners in each school are used in compiling the team score. The team with the lowest total is the winning team.

TEAM RESULTS

Junior: Moira Secondary School 33; Norwood District High School 33; Prince Edward Collegiate 38; Belleville Collegiate 59.

Intermediate: Norwood District High School 19; Moira Secondary School 32, Ontario School for the Deaf 39; Prince Edward Collegiate 46.

Senior: Moira Secondary School 21; Tweed High School 38; Prince Edward Collegiate 40; Norwood District High School 42.

Over - all team standings: Moira Secondary School 86; Norwood District High School 94; Prince Edward Collegiate 117.

Although the final individual standings have not been published, the boys competing for Moira finishing high enough to count for their team standings were:

Junior: John Hayman 5th; Gary Lovell 7th; Hal Wilbert 10th; Ron Brooks 11th.

Total 33.

Intermediate: Bill Carswell 4th; George Pugh 6th; Ian Glen 10th; Wayne Ananny 12th.

Senior: Jim Poole 3rd; Jim Quincey 3rd; Pat Steele 5th; Total 32.

Charles Steele 11th.

Total 21.

Ray Bouma running for the BCI junior team was a standout as he ran away from the field to come home a winner well in advance of the 2nd place finisher.

Says Ford Will Wrap It Up

Rain Or Hail, Yanks In Six--Houk

By JOE REICHLER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Neither rain, nor hail nor wind —all predicted for today's scheduled sixth World Series game between New York and San Francisco—could prevent manager Ralph Houk from forecasting a world championship for his Yankees in six games.

Houk was undaunted by manager Alvin Dark's choice of Billy Pierce as the Giant pitcher, although he knew the veteran left-hander's record at Candlestick Park is 12 wins without a loss. Houk confidently expected the Yankees to tune it up today—weather permitting —behind the lefthanded slants of Whitey Ford.

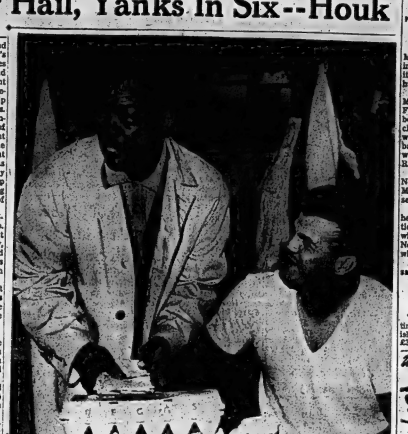
The Yankees lead the best-of-seven series three games to two.

"I expect Ford to beat Pierce," Houk said Thursday, picking Whitey to start instead of Bill Stafford although it was the young right-hander's turn in the regular rotation.

"I know Pierce hasn't lost here yet. But neither has Whitey. Remember he beat the Giants in his only appearance here."

WON THE OPENER

Houk was referring to the opening series game in which Ford scattered 10 hits and won 6-2, with left-hander Billy O'Dell the loser.



The odds-makers established the Yankees a 13-to-10 choice to win today and a 7-to-2 favorite to win the series.

According to the weather bureau, there was a 20-per-cent chance of rain today. Warnings of 30- to 45-mile-an-hour winds have been posted.

Houk planned to start the same lineup he has used in every game but the second, when injuries forced the benching of first baseman Bill Skowron and catcher Elston Howard. Skowron underwent treatment after a bruised heel injury Thursday but Houk said he would be in the lineup.

Should rain force a 24-hour delay, the clubs would shutdown Ford and Pierce—will face each other Saturday.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES — Willie Mays (left) of the Giants chats with Bill Skowron, Yankee first baseman, in the dressing room at Candlestick Park. Mays had showed up for a workout which was called off because of heavy rains. Skowron received treatment for an ailing back. The sixth game of the World Series was scheduled for Candlestick Park today, but the weatherman said a new storm moving in may bring a fresh deluge. The Yankees have won three of the first five games played. The eggs are Willie's and were brought to the ball park by a friend. (AP Wirephoto).

Mantle "Worse" Than Mays

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mickey Mantle's batting mark in the World Series is low but it hasn't affected his sense of humor.

Both New York Yankees' Mantle and Willie Mays, San Francisco Giants' slugger, have been comparative flops in the classic. Mantle is two for 18, with no homers and no runs batted in. Mays is five for 21, with no homers and only one RBI.

Before his departure from New York Wednesday night, Mantle told this story on himself:

"Some guy in centre field," he said, "yelled out: 'Hey, Mantle, everybody came out to see who was better, you or Mays. Now we're trying to figure out, who's worse.'"

Later, Mantle said, came the same voice:

"Hey, Mantle, you win."

World Team Golf

Americans Regain Lead

KAWANA, Japan (CP-AP)—The United States regained the lead from Canada after the third round of the world amateur golf team championship today as good weather and good scoring returned to the picturesque Fuji course.

The U.S., defending the title it won in a runaway two years ago, put together a three-man team score of 211 for the day and three-round total of 649 to lead the Canadians by two strokes.

Britain, paced by Mike Bonallack, took over third place by two strokes from New Zealand with 658. Scoring is on a team basis with the three low scores each day counting towards the team's total.

Dick Sikes, the lanky University of Arkansas senior, posted his second 68 in three days for the 6,587 - yard, par - 80 Fuji course to pace the American team. Deane Beman, former U.S. amateur champion, bounced back from a stretched +80 in Thursday's rain and mud, a par 70. Billy Joe Patton and Labron Harris Jr., the U.S. amateur champion, both had 72s.

COWAN STILL LEADS

Gary Cowan, Canada's No. 1 player, held on to the individual leadership in the 12-hole medal play tournament with rounds of 68-71-73—211. That gave him a three stroke lead over Sikes. In third place was Britain's Ronnie Shade, who fired a course record 66 in Thursday's rain and cold in between rounds of 75 and 78.

Cowan, 1961 Canadian amateur champion from Kitchener, and Bill Wakenham of Victoria shot 72s today while Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., had a 75 after going four over par on the first three holes. Bob Wylie of Calgary sided to an 80.

Canada's total that counted for today was 219, wiping out the six-stroke edge the Canadians held after the second day.

Dave Hill Leads Golf Field

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) Long-hitting Dave Hill, a young golfer noted for hot rounds, fired a five-under-par 67 Thursday that gave him the lead in the first round of the $46,000 Bakersfield Open.

The 25-year-old professional bagged an eagle and six birdies as he toured the par 36-35—71 Bakersfield Country Club course in 32-35—67.

Hill's finest shot came on the 11th hole when he pitched in from 53 feet for an eagle three. He sat at the two-par mark.

Tied at 68 were Tony Lema, Butch Baird and Jimmy Powell.

Former National Open champions Gene Littler and Billy Casper tied at 69 along with Bob Goalby, Bob Rosburg, Bob Pratt, Billy Maxwell and Jack Rule.

Sixteen players were tied in the 70 group, including George Knudson of Toronto.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver had a 73 and Al Johnston of Montreal toured the course in 77.

Million For Mahovlich

Who Called Whose Bluff?

TORONTO (CP)—The Mahovlich party is over.

The party last Friday night in a downtown hotel where a few hockey executives met after the annual all-star dinner. Even the party in a smoky 12-floor room came the bombshell:

Mullin — chairman — owner Jim Norris of Chicago Black Hawks offered $1,000,000 for Toronto Maple Leaf left-winger Frank Mahovlich.

The offer cut off the supply of gossip Thursday. Mahovlich stays in Toronto, they said.

The proposed deal had National Hockey League circles buzzing during the weekend but the talk died down with the question of whether Toronto would accept the deal officially unanswered.

On Thursday the men with the money behind Maple Leaf Gardens—hockey magnate Stafford Smythe, publisher John Bassett and millionaire Harold Ballard —met and the official answer was given in a statement by Smythe.

OFFER WAS TEMPTING

"We were certainly tempted, realizing that in all likelihood we would never have the opportunity to realize such a vast sum for a player.

"However, we decided from the point of view of hockey in Toronto and also from the point of view of the Maple Leaf fans to resist this temptation, although it was hard to do so."

Described as "a fantastic," the statement concluded: "So the matter now is settled."

Smythe later said the matter will be up top task at Leafs board of directors' meeting and dinner Saturday night, an annual event before the opening game at Maple Leaf Gardens.

In Chicago, Norris said: "It is with deep regret that the Maple Leafs rejected our offer. Evidently, they value Mahovlich as highly as we do."

The first reaction to Norris's offer after midnight Friday was that he was kidding. He proved he wasn't Saturday when he had a cheque for $1,000,000 sent to Smythe's office. The cheque was rejected. Smythe Saturday night termed the proposed deal a "publicity gimmick."

Mahovlich, who last season scored 33 goals and Thursday and the year before had 48, signed a four-year Leaf contract Saturday for a reported $100,000.

Sweeps Gross 14 Million

DUBLIN (CP-Reuters) — Total receipts in the Irish Sweepstakes on next Wednesday's Cambridgeshire race in Ireland totalled £4,631,000 ($13,893,000), it was announced here Thursday.

The Irish Hospital Sweepstake said the receipts were £1,000,000 down from last year, due largely to a big cut in United States sales.

Canada booked his drive on the draw which was made Thursday, said: "The drop in receipts is due to interrupted distribution of tickets abroad and circumstances over which we have no control."

The vast majority of tickets normally have been sold in the United States, despite the fact they were illegal there. Action against the sale has been intensified in the last six months with a tightening of controls at U.S. ports and airports.

Several big consignments of tickets were understood to have been captured with court proceedings brought against sailors and others carrying tickets. Customs and postal authorities x-rayed letters and packets from Ireland in an effort to plug the inflow.

The sweepstake is a state-run lottery which aids hospitals in the Irish republic.

Bobby Richardson Thinks

"No Wind, Ford Will Win"

This is another in a series of articles analyzing the World Series by Bobby Richardson, second baseman of the New York Yankees.

By BOBBY RICHARDSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It looks as though our defence, Tom Tresh's hitting and Whitey Ford's pitching may be the difference in this World Series.

One thing we're hoping for in the sixth game is that the wind stays dormant. Whitey Ford says he hasn't been able to throw a good curve in Candlestick. Yet with men on base last Thursday when we won the opening game, 6-2, he got two double plays. Five times with men on the Giants went out on infield plays to end an inning.

I've been looking over World Series box scores to which Ford has pitched and it's no wonder he has won 10 games. When Tom Haller hit that two-run homer last Monday I had to go back 54 innings to a 1958 game

Juniors Lose to Brighton

Moira Seniors Win 27-0

Moira Secondary School senior football squad ran riot over the Brighton High team here yesterday, defeating them 27-0 at the top half of a Quinte COSSA double-header.

The Moira juniors bowed to the heavier strength of the town school's youngsters, dropping a 26-0 decision.

The highlight of the senior tussle was John Wallace's 50-yard gallop for the fourth touchdown. Wallace recovered a Brighton fumble near midfield and raced all the way for the major score.

Bill Moifat opened the scoring for the city squad early in the first quarter, catching the Brighton defence off guard from his mid-field spot.

Bill Lang made it 14-0 with an end run from the Brighton one-yard line. Danny Fraser repeated the play later for the visitors' third major score.

Then came Wallace's fine run. Ron Faulkner converted three of the touchdowns.

Elsen Blake was the individual star for the Brighton juniors, scoring three of his team's touchdowns. C. Ewing left the other.

Harry Tuchmayer on a fine play scored Moira's lone major

Scored In Nine-Hole Round

Golf Ace Trio World Mark?

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A 55-year-old golfing physician says he scored three holes-in-one in nine holes course Wednesday—and he apparently has witnesses to prove it.

"I'm just beginning to realize what happened," said Dr. Joseph O. Boydstone.

Ed Nowak, pro at Bakersfield golfing club where Boydstone scored his aces, said his 21-year-old son saw the final hole-in-one and others Bill Mandel and Lorin Eddy saw all three.

Boydstone said he used a one iron for his ace on the 210-yard third hole, a nine iron on the 132-yard fourth and an eight iron on the 135-yard ninth.

Official Defends Durocher

"Lip" Remarks Distorted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An official of Los Angeles Dodgers who attended a party in which Leo Durocher allegedly criticized manager Walter Alston said Thursday Durocher's remarks were distorted.

Durocher, a coach under Alston this season, has been implicated as having said: "We would have won the pennant if I had been managing the club."

The Dodgers, after leading most of the season, were overtaken by San Francisco Giants on the final day and beaten in a playoff for the National League pennant.

The official, who did not want to be identified, gave another version.

"It was at a party that had been arranged in honor of the Dodgers for their front office help and other personnel," he said. "It was not made as a victory celebration but we decided to go through with it anyway."

"We were all feeling blue about losing the pennant and

80,000 Geese Rest on St. Lawrence

QUEBEC (CP)—A flock of 75,000 to 80,000 snow geese is reported on the shores of the St. Lawrence northeast of here, and game department spokesmen said there are a large number of young geese.

This would indicate a good nesting season on Baffin Island, while birds spend the summer before flying south to the Carolinas in November.

The geese stop on the St. Lawrence in May and September during their annual migrations, resting and feeding on the shores of the Ile d'Orleans, Isaux-Grues and Cap Tourmente.

Ulster Out of Playoffs

TORONTO (CP) — Ulster United, one of the oldest soccer teams in Canada, withdrew voluntarily from the National Soccer League's round-robin playoffs.

Following a hurriedly-called meeting of league directors, NSL President Walter Freer said: "It was purely a matter of finances."

Officials of the club were not available for comment but some of the players said it was becoming increasingly difficult to get their weekly stipend. The players, all semi-professional, received an average of $25 a game.

Says Harvey Kuenn

"We Came Back Before"

This is the eighth in a series of articles analyzing the World Series by Harvey Kuenn, San Francisco Giant outfielder.

By HARVEY KUENN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sure, we've got our backs to the wall. But that's nothing new. We've been bouncing back all year.

We are all very confident we can take two straight from the New York Yankees. We've faced situations before where we simply had to win a couple of games, and did it. There's no reason we can't do it again.

The home field helps. It's not so much those winds you hear so much about. But there's a certain familiarity. And having that last time at bat sure helps.

Candlestick certainly is a better hitting park than the stadium. First of all, it's faster. Of course, the rain slowed the field in New York a bit but that's not an excuse. Both teams had to play on it. But a fast field is

But Watson Warns "Lucky"

Perreault, Boston Toast

BOSTON (AP) — Barrel-shaped Bobby Perreault is a comic in the grim business of hockey goaltending.

But Montreal Canadiens didn't laugh Thursday night as Perreault and Boston Bruins blanked them 5-0. The Bruins launched a new National Hockey League season for the Bruins, who finished a distant last a year ago.

Perreault, a five-foot-seven, 144-pound rookie, turned aside 37 Montreal shots. On one save he made a frantic headlong dive and speared a loose puck by Red Berenson.

"I just closed my eyes and stuck out my glove," said Perreault, who once drove harness horses in Montreal's suburbs.

Coach Phil Watson calls his hero "lucky," adding: "You've got to be lucky to play here."

At 31, Perreault is the youngest regular goaltender in the NHL along with Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wing organizations but had trouble making the grade.

"I went to the Bruins' executives last spring," Perreault says. "I told them if they'd give me a chance I'd prove I could give them major league goaltending."

Despite his stubby build, Perreault moves quickly, guarding the nets in a swarming style.

"Our defence was much better and our goalie was tremendous," Watson said after the victory.

"Perreault is a character. He also has great spirit and these guys will play for him. At the start of last year's camp (Don Head) couldn't stop anything and we got off to a terrible start. Perreault kept the players' spirit and it never came back.

"Goalkeeping is like your pitching staff in baseball. Without it you're nothing."

Television 'Special' Now Appears On Way Out

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The television "special," which two seasons ago seemed to be a network fad, now appears to be on the way out.

But this, says CBS Vice-President Michael Dann, a programming specialist, is an optical illusion. Specials are around this season in just about the same quantity, but nowadays, the vast majority are public affairs shows instead of entertainment.

Dann has been doing some research on the subject. He finds that the 1954-55, when the idea of pre-empting a regularly scheduled show for a special one-shot really started rolling, there were a total of 55 on CBS and NBC (ABC has never been especially active in this area). Of this total, 46 were entertainment shows, largely variety, and only nine fell in the news and public affairs area.

By 1958-59, the total had climbed to 189, with more than three out of four filled with singing, dancing, comedy and often, special blockbuster dramatic shows.

This season, Dann estimates, CBS and NBC between them will mount 185 specials. Fifty-five will be music, variety and dramatic shows — and 130 will fall into the public affairs area.

Dann believes that the decline of the entertainment special came from various quarters: Many of the shows billed as specials were not really special at all; and, let's face it, public affairs shows are less costly to produce.

He said the average entertainment special costs the sponsor on an average about $500,000 and, even so, networks rarely if ever make any money on them.

CANADIANS ARRIVE

BAGHDAD (AP)—A 13-member Canadian trade delegation arrived here Thursday to seek a market for various Canadian goods, especially tractors. The group will move on to other Middle East countries in a few days' time.

AT THE BELLE — Last 2 Days — Doris Day is intrigued with the empty liquor bottle adorning her big toe, while Cary Grant is non-plussed over the effects of the bottle's contents in Miss Day. Scene is from "That Touch of Mink", a laugh-crammed romantic comedy. The color film is holding over tonight and Saturday at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE PARK — Jim Hutton is impervious to the applause of Paula Prentiss and Jack Carter in this scene from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Horizontal Lieutenant". The comedy of a military "Scrooge" operation on a Pacific Island co-stars Jim Backus, Charles McGraw and Miyoshi Umeki. It is in CinemaScope and color, showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program the musical film that comes to everyone, "The Lady Is A Square", starring Frankie Vaughn, Janette Scott, Anna Neagle and Walter Susskind, directing his famous Youth Orchestra. Both features are first showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

Olympics Team in The Making

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rev. David Bauer, hockey coach at the University of British Columbia, has picked up three stars from Toronto St. Michael's College around whom his 1964 Olympic team likely will be built.

They are defenceman Dave Chambers and forwards Terry O'Malley and Barry MacKenzie. They were among 35 players who turned out for practice Thursday. Also from the East is goaltender Ken Broderick, 21, a fine junior prospect who was with Brampton last season.

Picton Joseph Skratt New President Country Club

PICTON — Directors of the Prince Edward Golf and Country Club met Tuesday night to elect officers. Joe Skrtt was named president to succeed Gordon Shields and Lewis Garrison as vice-president.

Chairmen of the various committees are — Greens, Bill Draw; finance, X. P. Mayhew; house, Fred Rose and Stewart Allan.

The ladies' section met the same day, naming Mrs. W. Drew as games captain with Mrs. D. R. Taylor and Mrs. H. Beaumont as assistants. Members of house committee are Mrs. H. Shields and Mrs. W. Cooke.

Carl Ackerman Installed as Grand Patriarch

PICTON—Officers of Picton Encampment No. 72, independent Order of Oddfellows, for the year 1962-63 were installed with impressive ceremony, Wednesday night, by District Deputy Grand Patriarch Charles Anderson and team.

Carl Ackerman was installed as Chief Patriarch in succession to Ray Hicks. Colin Smithyman is Senior Warden; Willis Sills, High Priest; Amos Hicks, Recording Scribe; Lloyd Seeley, Financial Scribe; Leonard MacDonald, treasurer; Roy Clark, Junior Warden; Ray Hicks, Guide; Clairmont Rose, 1st Watch, Tom May, 2nd Watch; Reg. Moore, 3rd Watch; Jack Jones, 4th Watch; Robert Rolston, Outside Sentinel; John McCaw, Inside Sentinel, Fred Howes; musician, Fred Manlow, 1st Guard of Tent; Earl Hicks, 2nd Guard of Tent.

Jr. Past Chief Patriarch Ray Hicks expressed appreciation to members for fine co-operation which had made the past year one of progress.

During the evening, musician Fred Howes was presented with a handsome officers' musicians collar, donated by the Encampment and the Subordinate Lodge.

Following the lodge session, a delectable banquet was enjoyed in a setting of good fellowship.

Paul Muni Trying New Field and Does Not Like It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After 53 years as an actor, Paul Muni is trying a new field—filmed television. He doesn't like it.

The veteran actor left retirement and his Santa Barbara home to play in a Saints and Sinners segment for producer Marc Daniels, with whom he once worked in a revival of Counsellor-at-Law.

"I'm not cut out for outspokenness, commented: "It is madness. Do you know how many setups (camera angles) we did in one day? Forty-two! Why, when I was doing The Good Earth, the director, Sidney Franklin, often would get no more than one setup in one day.

"Now television is trying to make an hour film in six days. That's not much less than a feature movie. When I made I am a Fugitive in the early days of sound, it took five weeks. Zola took six weeks to shoot Good Earth—it took months!

"This pace in filmed television is ridiculous, and I let them know about it. Only Marc would put up with me. Any other producer would say 'how much can we pay to get rid of him?'"

You get the impression, however, that Muni's bark is worse than his bite. He has the reputation as an interview-hater; yet as he talked in his hotel suite he was completely charming.

Muni and his wife settled last June in a Santa Barbara seaside house which he hopes will be his last.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Cary Grant, Doris Day, Gig Young, Audrey Meadows in "The Touch of Mink", in colour, 2.30-7.15-9.30.

AT THE PARK — First Showings — "The Horizontal Lieutenant", Jim Hutton, Paula Prentiss, Jack Carter, 1.00-3.15 — "The Lady Is A Square", Frankie Vaughn, Janette Scott, Anna Neagle, 5.45.

LEAGUE CONTINUES

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters, who will represent Canada in the world hockey championships this winter, will play in a three-team Western International Hockey League this season with Rossland and Kimberley. It had been reported earlier that the league might fold following the decision of Nelson Maple Leafs to drop out.

takes the time to build the best

ROSAWOOD MODEL 648

This new 1963 Philips TV will still be going steady by the time she is

(Monitron Control is the reason why)

How long will it be before the pigeils disappear? Quite a while. And chances are your Philips MONITRON Control TV set will still be giving you dependable performance. How do we know? Because of a new TV discovery!

Philips electronic experts decided to do something about a common household fault that often results in premature failure of the picture tube and other expensive TV parts. This common fault is power surge. To tick this problem, our experts developed the MONITRON, a small but incredibly sensitive electronic device which prevents these power surges reaching and damaging the expensive parts of your Philips set. Because of this added protection Philips has increased its picture tube warranty to 2 full years.

Illustrated above: PHILIPS ROSAWOOD MODEL C48

Philips famous quality at a budget price. Ask your Philips dealer about a generous trade in allowance on your old TV.

- 2 Year Picture Tube Warranty
- Deluxe MONITRON Long Life Chassis
- Powerful Philips Nuvo Sonic Twin Cone FM Speaker

NOTICE

TOWNSHIP OF THURLOW
1962
BY-LAW NO. 1691

A BY-LAW TO RAISE $25,000.00 TO AID IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE STONE CHAMBERS DRAINS.

The Council of the Township of Thurlow, pursuant to The Tile Drainage Act, enacts as follows:

1. The Reeve may from time to time, subject to the provisions of this By-law, borrow on the credit of the corporation of the Municipality such sum not exceeding $25,000.00, as may be determined by the Council, and may issue debentures therefor provided, however, that the corporation shall not borrow from the Council any sum in excess of the amount so approved, with coupons attached as provided in section 6 of the Act.
2. Subject to section 10 of The Tile Drainage Act, that the Council is of opinion that the population of any person to borrow money for the purpose of constructing of a stone or timber drain should be granted by the Council by resolution. The debentures shall be made payable in twenty annual instalments, and may borrow a sum not exceeding the amount applied for, and may lend the same to the applicant on the security of the drainage works.
3. A special assessment rate shall be imposed, levied and collected over and above all other rates upon the land in respect of which the money is borrowed, sufficient for the payment of principal and interest as provided by the Act.

Read a first time and second time this 12th day of July, 1962, and designated By-law No. 1691.

H. E. POUND,
Reeve.
E. M. DAFOE,
Clerk.

Read a third time and finally passed, signed and sealed this 11th day of September, 1962.

H. E. POUND,
Reeve.
E. M. DAFOE,
Clerk.

NOTICE

Corporation of the Township of Thurlow

Take notice that the above is a true copy of a By-law passed by the Council of the Township of Thurlow on the 11th day of September, 1962, and all persons are required to take notice that any one who desires to apply to have the By-law quashed must make application to the Court of this application upon thirty days after the date of the last publication of this notice. Any one who does not make his application to the Clerk's of this municipality within 30 days after the date of the last publication of this notice, and before the 24th day of September, 1962, and the last publication will be on the twelfth day of October, 1962.

Conservatives Approve Progress Made for Britain To Enter Common Market

LLANDUDNO, Wales (Reuters) — The Conservative party annual conference yesterday approved by an overwhelming majority the progress made in negotiations for Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

It approved a resolution welcoming the progress of negotiations and expressed confidence in the government's determination to find adequate safeguards for Commonwealth and European free trade area commerce.

An anti - Market amendment was overwhelmingly defeated by a show of hands.

Passionate pro - European speeches by Deputy Prime Minister Richard A. Butler and Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath gained the victory for the government.

They called on Britain to accept her destiny and help lead Europe and the world to lasting peace and prosperity.

By a show of hands, the 4,500 delegates gave massive support to a motion calling on the government to continue the Brussels negotiations to link Britain with the six Common Market nations.

An amendment hostile to the Common Market was defeated, also on a show of hands.

The voting came after Heath received an ovation at the end in which he declared:

"Europe is incomplete without Britain. And we in Britain are incomplete without Europe."

Butler said there is no issue in peacetime "so vital to our future and to the future of millions all over the world" as the proposed linkup with Europe.

He denied that the agreement faced a choice between the Commonwealth and the Common Market. He said Commonwealth countries would benefit from Britain's move into Europe. Their primary industries would gain an expanding market, he declared, and Britain, with her prosperity increased, would be able to provide more development capital to meet Commonwealth needs.

Sir Derek Walker - Smith, a former government minister, led the attack on Macmillan's Common Market moves. Noting that the Treaty of Rome setting up the Common Market spells the death of the Commonwealth preference trading system, Walker-Smith declared:

"This means we will have to treat our old partners of the Commonwealth no better than our new associates in Europe."

He claimed Macmillan was asking the British people to throw away their birthright, remove the heart from the Commonwealth and give up British sovereignty itself.

30,000 Elm Trees May Be Destroyed

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto may lose all its 30,000 elm trees because of Dutch elm disease, parks commissioner Leslie Bell told the parks and recreation committee Thursday.

He said in 1960 his department removed 75 trees killed by the disease, in 1961 the figure was 145, and this year 235 have so far been removed with another 125 scheduled to be taken out.

The cost of removing each tree is about $200, he said.

"We can't hold our own with the present work force and money and the whole matter could get completely out of hand at any moment, with costs running into millions of dollars."

In an interview later Mr. Bell said his department is almost at the stage where more money will not stop the disease.

"We must decide whether we are wise in spending more money to save trees we are likely to lose anyway," he said.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Full Moon stresses need to make adjustments at home and at work. Cycle up. But you need co-operation of one close to situation. Take initiative. Display personal magnetism. Lead the way.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Lunar emphasis on dealing with secret desires. Means now you can analyze needs, ambitions. Determine how far the two are separated. Then close the gap.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Fine for being with humorless individuals. You learn much. You should relax instead of "pressing." Tonight good for social affair. Avoid tendency to get off in corner by yourself.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Review "campaign" - - - either one which outlines personal goals, or advertising-public relations accounts. Day to apply lessons learned from recent experiences. Check facts, figures.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Being timid about your own capabilities is mistake. Today you must be independent, original, daring. See situation as a whole, not in bits and pieces. Utilize intuition. Your extra-sensory perception leads the way!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Be sure your sense of humor is understood. Others may appear "offended," or try to make you appear dense. Best to socialize later, when you can be with one who does appreciate Mercurial wit.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Full Moon highlights your need to be diplomatic, gay, ready to see the best side of persons, events. The more pleasant your own reaction, the more others think of you. Combine tact and wit.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Avoid extremes. Excellent for meeting with those who can improve appearance of your home. Could be "bargain day." Good for shopping, asking questions. Be enthusiastic about efforts of others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Romance, travel and variety are emphasized. Also, creative pursuits, including reading, improving or adding to vocabulary. This happens, perhaps, through family or party game tonight.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good day to get involved with the culinary arts, for entertaining in general. Best to avoid places where one who bears a grudge might make things unpleasant.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Full Moon favorably aspects your sign; meanwhile your mind "wanders." Make it do so along creative channels. Think of places you want to go. Then begin mapping out program which gets you there.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Like Gemini, spread your influence. Exchange thoughts, ideas. Don't be afraid of self-expression. What you believe holds great interest for numerous persons.

150 Years Ago on Saturday A Few Canadians Turned Back U.S. at Queenston

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ask any historian what happened 150 years ago and the odds are 150 to 1 he'll launch into a treatise about Napoleon's abortive invasion of Russia in 1812 changed the course of world history.

The short end of the odds takes account of the Canadian who might refer is a vague, apologetic way to the War of 1812 between Canada and the United States.

Pin down the historian to Oct. 13, 1812, and chances are he'll be stumped. He might come up with the idea that Napoleon was then deciding to pull his depleted Grand Army out of fire-wrecked Moscow, a decision translated into action five days later.

Probably only a Canadian—one living in Ontario at that—would be able to attach the date to the Battle of Queenston Heights, an engagement on the Canadian bank of the Niagara River in which a handful of British soldiers with Canadian militia and Indian allies turned back an American invasion force.

CAPTURED DETROIT

The Unknown Country's only major defensive war is largely an unknown quantity, perhaps because it had no direct effect on the geography of North America.

Canada captured Detroit early in the war but lost it a year later. Canada controlled the Upper Lakes for three years by seizing Michilimackinac. The United States controlled Lake Erie for a year by defeating a British flotilla in 1813. Canada seized a slice of Maine and occupied it till the war's end.

The American burned York, now Toronto; the British burned Washington. Battles south of Montreal went both ways.

The Battle of Queenston Heights, where Gen. Sir Isaac Brock was killed after mounting Upper Canada's successful defence, was the only bloody climax of bitter Niagara fighting in two years later at Lundy's Lane decided nothing.

SEEDS OF UNITY

But in the context of the times, when the British North American colonies had only have different ways of spying 500,000 inhabitants of mingled so, each accentuating its own English, French and American descent, the victory at Queenston established traditions of independent battles compared to Canada" county. Ho- helped unite a diffident popula- ward E. Wilson and Wallace E. tion and planted the seeds of Lamb in American History, a common cause that bloomed text used in New York state 55 years later in Confederation. elementary schools. "We had

Although Upper Canada bore the brunt of the war, French-Canadians joined forces with English - speaking militia and British regulars to save Montreal. As Brock became Upper Canada's hero, so Charles-Michel de Salaberry was Lower Canada's hero at the Battle of Chateauguay a year after Queenston.

In the Maritimes, the war was mainly a time for profitable piracy when privateers took American booty under the noble design of keeping supplies away from Napoleon's Europe.

The United States went to war in anger at British interference with American shipping and because Britain supported Indians resisting the westward advance of American frontiersmen. The end of the blockade of Europe after Napoleon's defeat in 1813 removed the first aggravation and the treaty after the war of 1812 settled the second by fixing the U.S.-Canadian border roughly as it is today.

IGNORED BY BRITAIN

The postwar treaties are significant because they set the guide lines for peaceful coexistence between the United States and Canada. The war itself was an inconclusive struggle that has been clouded by vague ever since.

As Canadian military historian C. P. Stacey says: "The War of 1812 is one of those episodes in history that makes everybody interprets it in his own way.

"The Americans think of it is as primarily a naval war in which the pride of the Mistress of the Seas was humbled by what an imprudent Englishman had called a few fir-built frigates manned by a handful of bastards and outlaws.

"Canadians think of it equally, pridefully as a war of defence in which their brave fathers, side by side, turned back the massed might of the United States and saved the country from conquest.

"And the English are the happiest of all, because they don't know it happened. (The war is not mentioned in H. G. Wells' 1,200-page Outline of History.)

Vancouver humorist Eric Nicol once observed he like because the Americans lost it."

HISTORIES DIFFER

History text books on both sides of the now-undefended border agree generally that the war was inconclusive. But they

"We had failed entirely to Edith Deyells Canada: the New Nation, a public school text in Ontario, says that when the war ended Dec. 24, 1814, with the Treaty of Ghent, "it was generally felt that the war was "important" and Americ- ica's "greatest land victory" of the war.

Despite a disarming compliment in the Deyell account of the war that "men and women who write history are concerned with telling the whole truth," the different texts display divergent ideas on just whole the truth should be.

The New York texts — the Wilson and Lamb book and a high school history, The Making of Modern America by Leon H. Canfield and Howard B. Wilder—stress the naval victories of Stephen Decatur and Isaac Hull on the Atlantic, Oliver Hazard Perry on Lake Erie and Thomas Macdonough on Lake Champlain.

BATTLE NOT MENTIONED

Canadian texts — the Deyell book, Alleen Garland's Canada Our Country, George W. Brown's Building the Canadian Nation—Part Two—and the naval heroes by name. They concede that the United States won the naval battles, but say Britain won the war on the sea.

On the other hand, Brock and de Salaberry don't figure personally in the American accounts of the war. Tecumseh, "the great Shawnee chief" of the Garland book, that "staunch British ally" in Prof. Brown's text and "this honorable man" in Mon Pays, becomes "the great Indian leader" in New York high schools.

The Battle of Queenston Heights, a major victory in Canadian history books, is not mentioned in the American texts.

In the New York books, the Battle of New Orleans two weeks after the Treaty of Ghent, was "important" and Americ- ica's "greatest land victory" of the war.

Canadians learned more about the massacre of British invaders through its recent celebration in folk song on the hit parade than from their history books. The battle rates a footnote in Prof. Brown's book and figures not at all in the accounts of the war in the three other Canadian texts.

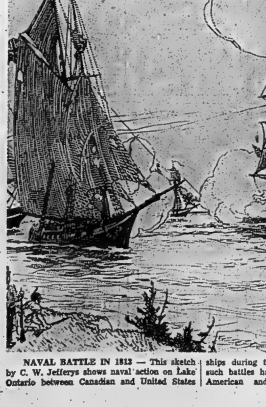
BURNED YORK

Likewise, the Canadian and American histories see Perry's 1813 victory on Lake Erie from differing angles.

Candlish and Wilder, New York: "After overcoming many obstacles, Perry launched a tiny fleet on Lake Erie and defeated a superior British squadron in a sharp engagement . . ."

Brown, Canada: "On Lake Erie, by dint of great effort, an American fleet of nine vessels [Vessel by vessel Tribstill, of which it was completely defeated."

On other events in 1813, the New York texts discuss only Perry's victory, the defeat of Canadian forces near Moravian- town in Western Ontario and the burning of York.



The Canadian histories mention the American victories but see the key event of the year as the de Salaberry vastly outnumbered Canadian ambush of two-pronged American advance on Montreal, the first at Chateauguay and the second at Chrysler's Farm, near Morrisburg, Ont.

The Canadian and American versions have this in common: "Our" forces either scored victories or brought about their own failure in battle by ineffi- ciency; both either was was beaten or won virtually by default.

An abortive Canadian invasion down the Lake Champlain route in September, 1814, is pictured in the American text books as a naval victory on the lake for the United States. The Canadian histories scarcely mention the naval engagement, blaming the failure on military bungling by Governor Sir Georges Prevost.

Rockefeller Heavy Favorite To Win Re-Election in N.Y.

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller appears to be a heavy favorite to win re-election in New York state in the Nov. 6 U.S. elections, despite opposition from Democratic President Kennedy on one side and the extreme right wing on the other.

A clear-cut victory for Rockefeller could put him in the lead for the Republic nomination for president in 1964.

The election pits the exuberant, dashing Rockefeller against Democrat Robert M. Morgen- thau, who was a political unknown only a few weeks ago.

Morgenthau resigned as a government lawyer to take the nomination. This was said to be at the urging of Kennedy. He is the son of Henry Morgenthau Jr., U.S. secretary of the treasury under president Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He is 43, married, the father of four children, a novice at grass roots campaigning, and wealthy.

Republic Senator Jacob K. Javits, 58, aggressive and athletic, is running for re-election with Rockefeller and also is favored to win.

The Democratic nominee for the Senate is James B. Donovan, a 46-year-old Brooklyn lawyer who negotiated the release of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers from a Soviet jail and now is negotiating with the Castro government for release of Cuban held prisoner in their homeland.

At 54, Rockefeller retains the youthful appearance and athletic slasm that served him well in his 1958 campaign. He came from behind and defeated incumbent Averell Harriman by 570,000 votes.

Rockefeller, who appears to have weathered such political storms as an unpopular tax increase and his divorce, has been campaigning strenuously most of this year.

Democratic leaders, in choosing Morgenthau, wanted a Jewish candidate, who theoretically would appeal to the large number of Jewish voters in New York City and had a well-known name.

Rockefeller is seeking re-election on the basis of a program that includes a mixture of big spending, particularly for education, social and civil rights legislation and such innovations as state subsidies for cultural activity.

Morgenthau, pressing the same theme Rockefeller did in 1958, holds that the state has lagged economically and must "take over the newly-formed Conservative party, comprised mostly of dissident Republicans, will be watched closely. Its candidate for governor is David H. Jaquith, a Syracuse businessman.

Says Canadian Wheat, Flour Exports to Drop

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada will have a reduction in exports of wheat and flour in this crop year, George H. McIvor, president of Robin Hood Flour Mills, said Thursday.

The extent of the reduction will depend largely on the amount of wheat bought by Red China during the crop year, he told 1,000 representatives of Canadian industry, labor and government at a one-day Canadian meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board, a U.S. research organization.

Mr. McIvor said the reduction would be caused by increased crops in importing countries and in most exporting countries thus reducing world demand for wheat and flour.

He was speaking in a panel discussion of leading Canadian executives on economic prospects of their industries.

J. D. Barrington, president of McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd., said expanded exports to Europe and revenues from new mines should more than offset normal depletion of resources and a certain loss in export sales of uranium.

But the outlook must be considered speculative, he said, as more than 80 per cent of Canadian metal production is bought by foreign customers.

"This is a particularly vital factor in view of the current world surplus of productive capacity over consumption for all major metals, and the U.S. stockpile of uranium."

D. S. Holbrook, president of Algoma Steel Corporation Ltd., said demand in Canada and in the export market indicates a high fourth quarter output for the steel industry.

W. Earle Mcleod of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, A. T. Lamberti, said the Canadian dollar crisis has passed, as the government's emergency measures of last June have had their intended effect.

Russian Ships Ready To Snoop On U.S. Tests

Nuclear Blast Scheduled For Sunday Night

HONOLULU (AP) — Three Russian ships bristling with electronic instruments have moved inside the Johnston Island test area, presumably to snoop on the United States' rocket - borne nuclear blast scheduled for Sunday night.

A spokesman for Joint Task Force 8, conducting the test, said the missile range ships—the Sibir, Suchan and Sakhalin—appeared two days ago on the western fringe of the U.S. restricted area.

The ships are moving in a southwesterly direction, headed for a point southwest of Hawaii.

U.S. naval patrol planets noted the Soviets they were inside the zone, a task force spokesman said, but the Russians "manifested little concern."

Because the U.S. nuclear test zone is in international waters, the United States cannot force the Russian ships to leave.

Sunday's blast is the seventh tests last summer, the Russians stationed a hydro - meteorological ship nearby to gather smaller electronic-equipped vessels near the test area.

WAR OF NERVES CONTINUE TO LIVEN DEBATES

Two Appeals Made Against Rulings

OTTAWA (CP) — Out of the haze of political battle that characterized the throne speech debate, the House of Commons sailed calmly — almost amiably — into its first legislative debate of the session Friday.

After day - long leisurely debate on a preliminary motion, the members gave first reading to a bill doubling to $400,000,000 the ceiling of government backing under a section of the Export Credits Insurance Act used to underwrite exports of Canadian capital goods to other countries.

One of the Social Credit newcomers to the house, David Ouellet (Drummond - Arthabaska), found the change of pace so drastic that he scolded his fellow MPs for "killing democracy" by continuing to talk on the measure it was obvious everyone was in agreement.

But while the parties had seemingly taken a breather in their four-way struggle, a war of nerves continued to embroil rookie Speaker Marcel Lambert who has pledged himself to strict application of the rules of the House.

Twice in Friday's question period, the Bellechasse Scholar left for Edmonton West was threatened with appeals against his rulings.

An appeal would mean putting his decision to a vote of the members, an infrequent practice that occurred only once during Hon. Roland Michener's 1957-62 tenure in the Speaker's chair.

In the coming week, the air of tension promises to renew in the House and with it the Speaker can expect renewed pressure from the opposition

Casino Is Back to Ribald Old Ways After Trying Straight Path

TORONTO (CP)—That aging Jezebel of Toronto show places, the Casino, has returned to her ribald old ways after a fumbling attempt to go straight for a year.

Burlesque came back to the Queen St. theatre Friday in a way it left exactly a year earlier — with a resounding rattle of cymbals and a swirl of diaphanous costumes, sinuously shed.

The Casino, senior sister among three Toronto strip palaces, turned her back on slapstick and stripper Oct. 12, 1961, after a quarter-century dedicated to the unsettled arts.

The downtown showhouse underwent an uneasy conversion to respectability that included changing the name to Civic Square Theatre — that fizzled a few weeks after it began in January. An attempt to make the theatre into an art-movie house also foundered.

The seduction that brought back burlesque was easy. Ray Lux and Eilisd Abells, direc-

Today's Chuckle

These days, almost anyone can hang onto a little money if there isn't anything left a little money will buy.

THE WEATHER

Cool weather will continue through Sunday. While some cloudy intervals are expected, generally sunny skies during the day should produce rather pleasant conditions.

tors of the mid - town Lux girlie theatre, and Sam Wagman, former editor with the tabloid Weekly Star, moved downtown and got the Casino dumping and grinding along in the old tradition.

Few changes were needed. A canvas banner that had altered the Casino for a year was torn from the marquee and up went the pictures to establish that the burlesque queens are back.

Even so, the Casino seemed to be having trouble reattuning to the old habits after a year's lapse.

Scarcely one quarter of the 1,100 seats were occupied for an opening night playbill featuring Tina Kay, The Shaking Shape; Grace Reed, The Bouncing Beauty; Vanessa Red, Burlesque's New TNT Girl, and the four (count 'em) four Casino Chorettes.

The colored spotlight had trouble at times choking the performers around the stage. The microphone went dead during the show, forcing a chorus girl to shouting level. The jugglar dropped a ball and the comedians' jokes were read from a visible script.

But Tee Tee, a dedicated redhead, got the enterprise back on track with a courageous performance. The headliner even maintained her composure when a purple slide clattered from a projector and Abells was striking her climatic, sequined pose.

Tee Tee flashed a "that's show business" smile and gyrated into the wings.

NEWSPAPERMEN WARNED AGAINST TWISTING TRUTH

Pope Voices Caution As to Consequences

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John warned journalists today that "the distortion of truth" by news organs can have incalculable consequences."

The pontiff received the newspaper men in the Sistine Chapel of the Vatican Palace as 2,700 Catholic churchmen wound up their first working session of the 21st ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church. The Pope told the newspaper men: "You are at the service of truth and you come up to men's expectations in so far as you serve it faithfully."

The Pope said "we look forward, gentlemen, to very happy results as regards the attitude of world opinion toward the Catholic world in general, her institutions, and her teaching.

"Deep-rooted prejudices exist on this as a result of different areas—and in particular where people do not enjoy faithful and objective reporting.

"These serve to keep alive in men's hearts pockets of resistance, of distrust and misunderstandings, the consequences of which are regrettable. They are an advancement of harmony between men and nations," he said.

"These prejudices rest more often on inaccurate or incomplete information."

EXPRESSES FEELING

Addressing the journalists from a throne set against Michelangelo's fresco of the Last Judgment, the 80-year-old pope said:

"You are at the service of truth and you come up to men's expectations in so far as you serve it faithfully. We speak purposelessly of the expectations of the world, that is in general—for though the press may have at one time reached the most distant, it is few, it is obvious that today it directs the thoughts and feelings and emotions of a great part of mankind.

"For this reason the distortion of truth by the organs of information can have incalculable consequences. There is admittedly a great temptation to pander to the tastes of a passing moment, to the easy success connected with speed than accuracy, to more interested than international than in the objective truth."

He said the ecumenical council is a good occasion for the press "to gain information from responsible sources by which clearly reflect the thought of the episcopacy and of the universal episcopal body assembled."

The Pope touched only briefly on the question of world peace in which he made a strong appeal Friday to the world's leaders.

"In serving the truth," he said today, "you will at the same time have satisfied that 'interior disarmament' which is the absolutely necessary condition for the establishment of true peace on the earth.

CITES HOPES, DESIRES

"These, gentlemen, are our hopes, these are our most ardent desires. Permit us to add a fatherly exhortation to you to precisate your efforts to inform the public of the manifestation of the church's life and you have, on our own account, good reason for satisfaction in the reciprocal understanding with which you have, in general, spoken of our own humble person.

"Called by the designs of providence to this high office and that at an advanced age, after many and varied experiences, we certainly count fort and encouragement in what is said about us; our personality, characterized Apostolic enterprises, but none of that disturbs the tranquil peace of our soul.

"We are more than that you may always and on every occasion be able to write about us our single and true title of honor: He was a priest before all else, a priest for people, a true and sincere friend of all the nations."

WORK STARTS

The Pope did not attend today's working session which was reported to have discussed voting procedures but to have postponed until the next session the election of members to 10 council commissions. The session lasted only an hour.

Federal, Provincial PCs Help Get Charters for Clubs Royal Crime Probe Told

TORONTO (CP)—Progressive Conservative provincial and federal politicians helped in getting two charters for Toronto social clubs with links to organized crime, the Ontario royal commission on crime was told today.

A string of major and minor political figures were named in connection with four clubs as the commission pursued its inquiry into allegations of provincial government misadministration of charters for clubs, often used as fronts for gambling and bookmaking.

Some of the evidence by Deputy Provincial Secretary R. J. Tudney:

1. Hon. Allan Grossman, now minister without portfolio and chief organizer of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, successfully went to bat for the After Friendly Society in 1960 shortly after the deputy secretary had turned it down because of an unfavorable police report.

2. In 1956 and 1957, Roland Michener, then Commons member for Toronto St. Paul's and later House Speaker, and David J. Walker, then a Toronto lawyer and later federal public works minister, helped the Club Macedonia get a charter without meeting the usual police report. The charter was revoked last year for infractions.

3. Former provincial secretary to the premier Leslie Frost for social step in 1959 of consulting then premier Leslie Frost for advice when the Chan Social Club in Chinatown wanted to change its name and location, last year—crime in Ontario complained. 'Gestapo Tactics' Charged By Candidate for Mayor

By STRUAN MATHESON

MONTREAL (CP) — Charges of police "Gestapo tactics" and counter-charges of "lies and fabrications" were being made almost daily in the civic campaign leading up to the Montreal election Sunday, Oct. 28.

Senator Sarto Fournier, seeking to regain the mayoralty he lost to Jean Drapeau in 1960, says he is subjected to mysterious telephone threats and "Gestapo-like" shadowing tactics by Montreal policemen.

Mayor Drapeau's outgoing administration says the charges "are lies from beginning to end."

A member of Senator Fournier's Citizens' Party, Antonio Capobianco, accused municipal police of "terror tactics" when they seized letters from a car addressed to the city administration.

Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Montreal executive committee, expressed astonishment that copies of a letter, which he said was addressed to him by a New York financial firm, could reach others before the original was delivered to his office.

SAYS HE WAS OUTGOING

Another Citizens' Party candidate, Lucien Croteau, said he, too, was being shadowed by the police and a video-tape recording was discovered connecting his telephone to a vacant apartment beside a police station.

Chairman Saulnier said the charges were "pure fabrication."

The Citizens Party and the Civic Action League are attacking two Montreal police department squads—the morality division and the social security branch.

Lieut. Jean Sarrasin, brother of the executive committee chairman, is appointed head of the morality division after the Drapeau administration won power in 1960.

The Civic Action League, backing architect Paul Lambert as mayoralty candidate, says the mayor set up the social security squad as political police forces to serve "undemocratic ends."

Mr. Drapeau and many of his supporters in city council broke away from the CAL shortly before the 1960 election to form their victorious Civic Party.

Mr. Drapeau's attempts to secure the 1967 world's fair have largely overshadowed political attacks, traditional in Montreal elections.

SUBWAY ATTACKED

The administration's start on its $150,000,000 subway has come under heavy fire.

Senator Fournier says the city negotiated a $300,000,000 loan to pay for the subway and automates it could eventually cost $800,000,000.

The Civic Party termed this charge "nonsense."

Senator Fournier's party put forward a program calling for a re-routing of the subway through working-class areas.

It also promised an end to school taxes, lower property taxes and an extensive program of slum clearance and expressway building.

The provincial and federal governments would be expected to pay a major cost of these construction projects.

The Civic Action League proposes building a huge Champs Elysee Paris boulevard type of project to prepare for the world's fair.

It wants to scrap the subway and build a monorail system with underground based on existing railway lines.

Second Rail Strike May Be Longer, More Damaging

By DOUG MARSHALL

Canadian Press Staff Writer

A second nationwide and national rail strike soon. It is likely to be longer and more damaging than last week's one-day "holiday" stoppage.

The leaders of the three big rail unions have already met in London to plan tactics. They are debating whether the strike should last a week, two or three weeks.

Whatever the duration, the rail unions will give the government a three-day notice of strike. They also expect the co-operation of road and dock workers.

The railwaymen are convinced the government will eventually give way under pressure. Their determination is also one of the many dangers facing the Conservative party's whole transport policy.

Economists have long been warning that Britain's vital transport system is dangerously run-down. The rail network is withering with age, roads are becoming increasingly congested, ports are being patched up rather than rebuilt and the government-owned airlines are limping in the red.

BIG PLANS

The government's answer, through Transport Minister Marples, has been sweeping modernization plans to make the rail ways pay and ease the bumper-to-bumper highway flow.

Ambitious plans for railways need to be streamlined but they object to the way British Railways' Chairman Richard Beeching has been going about it.

Beeching admits that he puts employee relations a long way down the list in his thinking. His first aim is improving efficiency.

So far dozens of uneconomical branch lines have been abandoned. In the near future 12 of the country's 52 main railway workshops, some of them sus-

Burning Grease Brings Firemen To Paragon Cafe

Fire rests from both stations were called to the Paragon Cafe on Front Street around mid-afternoon Friday, when smoke commenced rolling from the kitchen as the result of a grease fire in the restaurant stove.

City firemen said that outside of the smoke inconvenience no damage was caused. Doors were opened and the smoke blown out into the alleyway.

When the alarm was turned in, however, firemen had visions of another possible serious blaze at the Front Street cafe. Only a few months ago several thousand dollars' damage was caused when fire got into the partitions and ceiling in the cafe kitchen.

Firemen received two other, calls yesterday.

One was to a Catharine St. address where a chair was reported afire and the other to Byron Street in Hillcrest where electric wires became shorted.

QUIP NOT FUNNY

An old Middle East quip says: "Only two generations separate rags into the 13th century."

But to Brig-Gen. Abdullah Sallal, Algeria's new president and head of the new republic, it was no joke. He claims: "We are living in the 19th century."

Sallal, a professional officer whose pencil - like face reflects 10 years he spent cooped up in one of Ahmad's dungeons, says the new regime intends to bring progress to Yemen with an elected government and all the foreign aid it can get.

He faces formidable problems. King Saud of oil-rich Saudi Arabia, who has proved "republic" is treason, is backing the group of refugee Yemeni princes now in exile to get the throne through tribal strife. Even with peaceful conditions in the changing country, there will be an arduous job.

The bewildered foreigners have been barred—except for a few doctors to treat the royal family and Soviet and Communist Chinese and American aid teams admitted by Imam Ahmad.

Sallal's proclamation says:

"We will open our country up to tourists," say the new republic's deputy premier, Abdul Rahman Baryani.

But there is not a hotel or restaurant in the country. Even visitors of the past put up in government guest houses, since Yemen has no "tourists" plan for workshop closures.

LABOR CRITICAL

Meanwhile the opposition Labor party at its recent conference protest for a long-term solution to the transport crisis. Labor is bitter about the government's applying the axe criterion of profit in the modernization projects.

Labor officials suggest defects can be remedied by co-ordinating road and rail services.

But some critics advocate an even more radical policy. What is needed, says the weekly New Statesman, is a coherent philosophy of transport ranking.

First Veterans' Assoc. Formed 150 Years Ago

It was approximately one hundred and fifty years ago that the original idea of a veterans' association was first suggested in Canada. Its purpose was to protect veterans and their dependents from financial chaos. To look after their problems and to aid the widow and children aided the families of those who were killed or died in the service of their country.

At this time there were a number of veterans from Wellington's army and Nelson's army who emigrated to Canada and they combined with veterans of the war of 1812-14 to form the nucleus of the group of its kind in Canada. They decided that each member, when he joined, would be required to swear an oath of allegiance to the Crown and his country. At this time there were a number of families who had been classified with conditions in the newly-formed United States and classified as U.E.L. up to Canada. However it wasn't sure when they would support in case of serious trouble with the States. Hence the need for the oath of allegiance when becoming members of the Veterans' organization.

There are old documents that mention the mention of various meetings and parades being held by the veterans dressed in their old regimentals and wearing their medals. Nothing really official is mentioned, however, until the year 1840 when there was a big meeting in Montreal, a parade of veterans, both old veterans and the name of the charter was The Army and Navy Veterans. Navy? Where it makes this organization the only one in Canada to contain the word using unit in the British Empire. The members are very proud of this distinguished honor.

MEMBERSHIP DWINDLES

By this time, the average age of the members was about the same as that of the First Great War. There was a gap of the Second Great War and the membership dwindled down to 1938 the 100th Royal Canadian Regiment was raised for service in the Indian Mutiny. After this war was over they were returned to Canada for their discharge quite a few joined the Veterans.

"Soon after this the Fenian Raids of 1866 and 1870 occurring. Then the Riel Rebellion of 1869-70. After these actions a large number of these veterans joined and new unit was injected into the association. They carried on the good work, but the members were once again passing on and becoming fewer. Then the South African War started. A big contingent from Canada was sent an dagani, after the troops returned, more young blood was added to the ranks of the veterans.

The First Great War of 1914-18 was fought and won and the Veterans' organization got a share of members, numerous veterans' associations were organized. However, the Army and Navy Vets worked "a-der" than ever for the interests of their deserving comrades and their dependents. Look forward, ing resolutions to the government that helped better the lot of the veterans and their dependents, especially dependent ones who were left widows and fatherless.

Came the Second Great War and the Korean War and the United Nations Forces from which the organization got numerous members until now it is a large and powerful voice for the rights of all veterans in Canada.

CHANGED NAME

Just after the war of 1939-45 consideration was made to change the name of the association to the Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans and in time this change mission was granted. The members are still proud of its aims and objects and the vigorous way the association goes after its objectives. At the conventions, guests are invited to attend from the higher levels of federal, provincial and county governing bodies and they are proud and very interested to attend.

Maybe the old veterans who originally formed this fine organization know how it is carrying on their original ideas and the magnificent work it is doing today and they would be proud to know it is realized how the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada have fulfilled their trust.

Long may they prosper in their chosen work in aid of the veterans and their dependents and to fight their battles for their rights forever.

parties if he does not give them the greater latitude they'd like in asking questions of the ministry.

Speaker Lambert said he will call the house together Tuesday, on what he considers should be the "guideposts" for questions during the question period that comes at the start of sitting.

MORE BILLS FOLLOW

The Export Credits Insurance Act will come up for second reading — approval in principle — Monday with a debate likely by Agriculture Minister Harkness. Provision for farm credits by $100,000,000 and $400,000,000 for housing.

Also due to come up in quick order are: An amendment to the Bank Act to establish a law sales of thalidomide; a government bill to put redistribution in the hands of an independent commission; tabling of revised spending estimates—to move the opposition will asks upon to thrash out its views on austerity; and the tabling of public accounts.

The government bill to change the method of redistribution was discussed briefly Friday when a private member's bill along the same lines was "talked out" at the end of the sitting.

Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) said the bill was unsuccessfully before every session of the last Parliament, asked to have member representation realigned by a body independent of the Parliament of Canada."

His suggestion goes further than the government proposal. It would abandon the present practice of having redistribution by statute and would put the onus of MPs but continue to give Parliament the final decision.

Mr. Fisher said the bill had been voted upon when the House rose for the day. It now goes to the end of the list of private members' proposals and un-likely to be discussed again this session.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming of Canadian officials will meet here Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss problems arising out of the various differences over Canadian exports of softwood lumber to the American market.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he has made it clear to the Americans that these traditional exports of about $25,000,000 a year must be maintained. The American industry has been urging protection against Canadian softwood.

Hard Work To Raise Flag On City Hall

It would be interesting to know how many people know what one has to go through to raise the flag atop the city hall.

This reporter wasn't relaxing any the day, but rather his blood pressure when he had occasion recently to climb to the top of the tower to give a message to a fellow reporter.

After asking a few questions on the main floor one is confronted "Big Ben", located near the top, for even with the exhausting opportunity of winding him up, part of the way that is.

Anyone wishing to lose weight fast, should climb to the top of city halls' tower is recommended and if you don't lose weight, you'll certainly ladders and stairs, you are sure to become slimmer squeezing through the hatches.

OMB to Hear Residents on Their Petition

TRENTON — On Wednesday, Oct. 24, starting at 2 p.m., representatives from the Ontario Municipal Board will preside over a meeting in the municipal office at Trenton when they will hear objections to the town's stated intention of raising the sum of $35,000 by the sale of debenture for the purpose of street repair and reconstruction.

Following the publication by the town of its intention to raise the money in question by the means outlined in the advertisement, town council received a petition, signed by 31 Trenton citizens, in which objections to the town's proposed action were outlined. This objection, coming from the citizens, necessitated a hearing before the Ontario board.

On Thursday, Oct. 25, at 10 a.m., OMB representatives will preside over a meeting in the municipal office in which to hear details of the town's proposal to grant certain areas in the townships of Murray and Sidney and objections, if any from municipal council or residents. As town council and Murray Township council have previously agreed on an equitable agreement about the area the town proposes to annex in that township, little if any official objection is anticipated. However, private township rest dents are to be heard on their objections. What objections, official or private, will be voiced before Township 1 is still anybody's guess, according to report.

SEEMS IN FAVOR

Last week, the members of Murray Township council met with a representative of the Ontario Municipal Board in Toronto to discuss the setting up of a township planning board. The councillors came home with the feeling that the OMB was basically in favor of the move. Some months ago, the town council announced its intention of withdrawing from the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board, claiming that it had unequal representation on the area board.

Women Will Spend $1,000 For Equipment

TRENTON — At this week's meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Trenton Memorial Hospital the members voted to purchase equipment for the X-Ray department and several other pieces of equipment for use in the institution. In all, $1,0 will be spent in this manner.

Oct. 29 to Nov. 2 will be designated Trenton Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary Week, and a door-to-door sale of auxiliary calendars will be carried out.

Mrs. Harold Keefer and her Volunteer Services Committee will supply favors for the hospital patients' Christmas trays again this year.

The auxiliary executive accepted the resignation of Mrs. Larry McClintock as first vice-president, with regret and expressed hope that Mrs. McClintock would continue to help out when possible.

CAR HITS TREE

Around 8 a.m. last night, a car owned and operated by Alfred Blondin, 21, Trenton was damaged to the extent of $300 when the driver failed to make the curve on the Wooler Road north of the school and hit a tree, also knocking over two road signs.

NOT BADLY HURT

Cpl. Walton Dawson, 22A Ramsay St., reported to police last night that around 6 p.m. a young boy on a bicycle had struck his car on Dundas St. East, but that the boy, who was knocked to the pavement, jumped back on his bike and rode away without giving his name.

ADAMS, — In loving memory of our dear grandson, who passed away so suddenly October 13th, 1960.

He didn't have time to say farewell,
He'd to say goodbye,
He just went while we were not looking,
And left us to sigh.
Now I to say goodbye,
We go once before I knew,
And we never knew we'd say goodbye so soon.
A secret wish that he could return,
But it's only a dream and then I wake,
Peacefully sleeping, lies one we love,
So dear.
—Ever will be remembered
Gran.

ADAMS, — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, John Gerard Adams, who passed away suddenly October 14th, 1953.
We think of you today, dear son,
You were always kind,
And now once more the sudden
Shock
Has brought to mind.
Sweet memories of you, dear son,
Are always dear to me,
We long for you more and more,
—Lovingly remembered by Dad, Mother, brothers and sisters.

BOYCE, — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Harry Boyce, who passed away October 14th, 1952.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day;
But sweet will be the memory of you,
From memory pass away.
—Inserted by his wife and family.

RENSON, — In loving memory of my dear mother, Annie Renson, who passed away October 14th, 1946; also my dear Dad, October 14th, 1951.
It's not the words, they are but few,
To golden memory of both of you;
Each fleeting year we bear another
Each evening sun may bring to mind,
The hearts we love you
Are those who never forget,
—Always remembered by daughter-in-law Jack and grandchildren.

Bursaries Will Be Given at Commencements

Two minutes of silence for departed comrades was observed as President Cec Brown opened the regular October meeting of A.N.A.F.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and special meetings were read and passed and several interesting items were discussed under general business.

The financial statement was read by the treasurer, Comrade Hank Gray up to the end of September, and it was a very favorable statement and the members were pleased with it, and showed their appreciation by giving the secretary a hearty round of applause, along with pleased comments from the president.

Letters were read from Quinte Secondary School and BCIVS, naming the pupils who had won the bursaries donated by the ANAF Unit No 201. These bursaries are awarded to the pupil, who must be one of the daughter or a veteran, who have the highest standing in Grade 13 and who are going to continue their education. The president read the letters of representatives of the unit to present the bursaries. At Quinte it will be on Friday evening Oct. 19th and at BCIVS on Friday evening, Oct. 26th.

A letter was read from Lt.-Col. Angus B. Duffy announcing the appointment of a series of lectures on civil defence and civil preservation in case of enemy attacks. The first one to commence on the 23rd of October in the council chambers at the city hall. Invitations are sent to members to attend as the meetings are open to the general public. He also asked the unit to appoint a liaison officer between the unit and his office. Comrade Mitch Melchiotte was unanimously elected to the office and expressed his willingness to act in this capacity.

The president's closing remarks expressed his pride and thanks for the great turnout on Decoration Day. He complimented the members on their small turnout as being a great credit to the unit and thanked Comrade Geo. Christopher for the fine appearance and music of the Pipe Band. He reminded the members of the annual visit to the sick, Saturday, October 13th and wished the various sport teams the best of luck in their endeavours to bring back as many trophies as possible.

The meeting concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

Refreshments were then served to end a very good and well conducted meeting.

HOWLING

ers faced plenty of emergency calls with scores of burglar alarms set off by power breaks. Thieves were active in many sections of the city as store windows crashed in.

One report said roofs were being blown off houses in an area alongside the Fraser River.

Even earlier storm was blamed for two deaths. Chartered accountant Franchise Coplithorne, 56, was electrocuted in his back yard when he went out in his night attire to investigate the damage and Harry Young 70, died of a heart attack while on his way fleeing a wind - damaged television aerial.

The big blow also hit the Victoria area and other parts of Vancouver Island. Windows of a major Victoria department store were in, along with windows in the city hall. Gusts up to 80 miles an hour were reported in the Victoria area and many power lines were mapped down by the storm.

Air-sea rescue officials said they had no distress calls. They said all ships are safe and under warning to head for safety. But damage was expected to craft, docks and various lower mainland marinas.

Three Members Admitted to Legion Branch

The regular monthly meeting of Branch 99, Royal Canadian Legion, was held on Tuesday evening in the Legion hall on Pinnacle St.

Three new members were admitted to the branch, two by transfer and another branch ex, and one by reinstatement.

A letter from the Zone Commander, Comrade W. McVicker, was read informing the meeting that the Deseronto branch would be officially opening their new hall on Saturday, Oct. 20th.

The next zone meeting is scheduled to be held in Wellington on Sunday, Oct. 28.

Entertainment chairman F. H. Davis stated that the weekly dances held each Saturday evening were proving quite popular.

1st vice-president M. Trimm was appointed to represent the branch has liaison to the Quinte Area Emergency Measures Organization.

The president, Les Digby, briefly outlined arrangements for the Remembrance Day Parade were progressing favorably and that the Remembrance Day fell on a Sunday this year he expected a good turnout from the branch.

A committee was set up to meet with the Ladies' Auxiliary to organize a Christmas party for the children of both organizations. Those appointed were: R. Kirby, C. McDonald, J. Rushby, C. Storms and the president.

The president reported that to date three of the branch bursaries offered to the high schools in the city had been accepted, but that no reply had been received from Moira Secondary School. One had already been awarded to a student at Nicholson Catholic College at their graduation ceremonies and the ones for students at the other schools would be awarded when they held their commencement exercises.

Two Belleville high school students had been awarded $400 Ontario Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary bursaries. This was a record for the city.

A letter was read from the Ladies' Auxiliary announcing their Hallowe'en dance on Friday, Nov. 2nd, with all members being invited.

A committee was set up to meet with city high school physical education teachers with a view to considering the possibilities of promoting track and field activities amongst the youth of the district.

Houses Entered In Stanley Park During Night

The Belleville city police department is investigating a series of break-ins in the Stanley Park area, including Melrose Crescent, Elisabeth Crescent and Parrott Drive, which occurred during the early hours of this morning.

Numerous houses were reported to have been entered and in most cases money and small articles were taken.

City police continue their investigation.

Apple Cider Offered on Local Market

A large number of vendors and purchasers braved the chilly weather this morning to attend the local farmers' market. Skies were clear, but the wind was just a bit on the cool side.

Prices on the market remained steady this morning, unchanged from last week.

In the vegetable department, cabbages sold from 15 to 20c a head, according to size. Onions, cheese and beets sold for 25c a half peck. Egg plants were offered at 10c apiece and vegetable marrows at 25c.

Potatoes have been selling for some time now for 50c a six-quart basket. Tomatoes were offered this morning for 25c a three-quart basket, apples at 25c a basket and pears at 80c a dozen.

Eggs rose slightly price this week being 45, 55 and 60c a dozen for small, medium and large.

Apple cider was offered for the first time this morning, and sold for $1 a gallon, 10 and 15c a bottle, according to size.

670 Miners Out of Work Due to Fire

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Firefighters dozgedly maintained their struggles with a five-day-old fire that Noranda Mines Limited Horne mine Friday night after the blaze was brought under control earlier Friday.

Company officials said the fire, which broke out in the 900-foot level of the 35-year-old mine, burned through supporting timbers at the 900-, 800- and 700 - foot levels before being brought under control.

Nine firefighting crews of five men each have been dousing burning timbers with fog-soaked hoses since the blaze was discovered Monday.

F. A. Patton, assistant mine manager, said no miners were in the vertical shafts when the fire broke out and there have been no casualties during the firefighting.

He said cause of the fire is not known and will probably not be determined until the tunnels are cleared of smoke and inspectors search the area of the outbreak.

More than 670 of the mine's 1,800 employees are out of work because of the fire, and Patton officials said Thursday more than 300 of them have applied for unemployment benefits.

The assistant mine manager said the fire is confined to the west end of the mine above the seventh level where rem nants and pillars of ore were being mined. He said only 15 per cent of the mine's monthly output of 115,000 tons production was being mined from that area.

Although underground mining operations have been halted in the 8,000 - foot - deep mine in this town 50 miles east of Kirkland Lake, Mr. Patton said it is expected the fire will seriously affect the scheduled production of the mine for the year.

Police Report Three Minor Traffic Mishaps

A fairly quiet night was reported by the Ontario Provincial Police here, with the exception of three minor traffic accidents between 3.30 and 10.45 p.m. Friday.

A one-car accident was reported on the 6-RD road at Thrasher Corners, Joseph Lemoine of the RCAF Station Trenton, was uninjured and damage to his car was reported to be slight.

A two-car collision occurred at the intersection of the Point Anne lane and No. 2 Highway. Neither of the drivers was injured and damage to the two vehicles was said to have been very minor.

Minor damage was also the result of a two-car crash on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve on the York Road, and no injuries were reported.

Must Join Common Market To Retain Say in European

LLANDUDNO, Wales (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan said today that Britain must seize the opportunity now to enter the Common Market or "forfeit the chance of shaping events" in a revitalized Europe.

He told the final session of the Conservative party conference that the Common Market is a growing and dynamic grouping and added:

"In many respects its policies and future have still to be worked out. If we wait indefinitely it will be too late. Now is the opportunity and we must seize it."

His speech underlined the urgent efforts of the government to wrap up the Brussels negotiations on Britain's membership application by mid-January if possible.

Macmillan stressed that the movement for unity in western Europe "has caught the imagination of the young."

"It has transcended party politics and national barriers. Its impact has not even been limited to economic affairs.

IS NEW OUTLOOK

"With the development of the Atlantic Alliance and the new and modern world.

"Europe is once more on the move," he said.

Macmillan noted that Soviet Premier Khrushchev opposes all this.

Shortly before Macmillan spoke to the party conference, Peter Thorneycroft, told the conference that Britain's entry into the Common Market "would make for a closer integration of defence in western Europe."

Thorneycroft said that no one was suggesting a physical merging of armies, but a lot could be done by getting a unified programme of weapons production and development.

Couple Appeal Order Making Child Ward

KINGSON (CP)—Counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forsyth said Friday the Jehovah's Witnesses couple are appealing a court order making which their infant child was made a ward of the Children's Aid Society so it could be given a blood transfusion.

Counsel Glen How of Toronto said the appeal, to be heard by the Supreme Court of Ontario Oct. 22, is the first of its kind ever launched by Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada.

The baby, Gregory Forsyth, was born Sept. 29 with an Rh blood factor. A few hours after the child's birth, Judge James Garvin ordered him made a ward for a month. Doctors later ordered a successful transfusion.

SEEK REVERSAL

"We are asking that the order be quashed because no hearing in any legal sense was held," Mr. How said. "The whole proceeding was a travesty of justice and contrary to the statute (the Ontario Child Welfare Act) they were operating under.

"The statute gives right of notice and the Forsyths did not know anything until the hearing was actually under way."

The Forsyths say they are opposed to blood transfusions on medical as well as religious grounds.

Mrs. Forsyth after her second confinement—Gregory was her sixth child—refused a blood transfusion which the couple have blamed for illnesses in the four subsequent months.

Dr. Alex Bryans, pediatrics department head of Kingston General Hospital, testified that without the Sept. 29 transfusion the Forsyth baby would likely have suffered from cerebral palsy or deafness.

Off and on Customs Squeeze Put on Monaco

MONTE CARLO (Reuters) — France today applied as offand - on customs squeeze on Monaco in a determined bid to bring a quick end to the principality's standing as a haven for French and foreign tax dodgers.

The move came after a break-down of negotiations aimed at reaching a new pact on relations between France and the principality ruled by Prince Rainier.

The barriers were withdrawn less than an hour later but reappeared again at 5 a.m. Monday time to check travellers again after 24 hours and then restored at 9 a.m. only to be removed once more at noon.

Just before the customs officials withdrew for lunch a truck driver was stopped and asked if he had anything to declare.

"Yes," he replied, "I declare that peace between nations of the world and international cooperation are necessary at this moment."

The customs man told him to pass.

The customs men asked motorists leaving Monaco whether they had anything to declare but did not interfere with those entering France for the principality.

A French foreign ministry spokesman announced in Paris the suspension of talks between France and Monaco to replace the 1951 convention governing customs, taxation and postal services.

The agreement was due to expire at Thursday midnight but a 24-hour delay in France's action was agreed to negotiations could continue.

The central issue of the dispute was Monaco's position as a haven for hundreds of French firms—some of them big ones—and pharmaceuticals manufacturers — which have been able to dodge France's 50 per cent company tax by setting up their headquarters in the principality.

Couple Acquitted On Charges of Soliciting Bribes

TORONTO (CP)—Magistrate Frederick W. Widdifield, reeve of suburban York Township, and Harold Linden, a former York councillor, were acquitted Friday of charges of soliciting bribes.

Linden was also acquitted of a charge of accepting a $100 bribe from contractor Harold Payne.

A county court jury deliberated almost four hours before reaching its verdict, returning 15 minutes before the verdict was delivered to clarify the charge given them by Judge H. J. M. Conley.

The two men were charges after manufacturer Neel J. May said both sought a campaign contribution in exchange for approval of a building permit.

APPROVED EARLIER

Evidence showed council's general purpose committee had approved the building permit before the alleged solicitation for a bribe took place. Council approval was then only a formality.

Dealing with the charge against Linden, the judge said the jury was dangerous to convict him on the evidence of an accomplice, Payne, who would become a criminal if convicted act by giving Linden money.

The charges were first laid after Judge Joseph Sweet, of Hamilton, in a report on a judicial inquiry, criticized administration of the township's building by-laws at the time Hall and Linden were on the council.

The two men were acquitted in a jury trial after senior county Judge Robert Forsyth directed a jury of bring an acquittal. An Ontario High Court of Appeal later set aside the acquittal and the Supreme Court of Canada in March ordered a new trial.

Final Action In Mississippi Case Delayed

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Final action in contempt proceedings against Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett in the University of Mississippi desegregation case has been delayed until next week by a federal appeals court. Barnett faces possible arrest and a $10,000 daily fine.

A lawyer for Barnett startled the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals Friday when he said he had not been authorized to say 10 days ago that Barnett would comply absolutely with all orders of the court.

Charles Clark said Barnett would comply "insofar as he is physically able." He said Barnett would decide himself when he could comply with the orders.

Clark contended the court had misinterpreted his language.

Representative W. Rives of Montgomery, Ala., present at the previous hearing, commented:

"We have indeed entered Alice in Wonderland where language doesn't mean what it says."

Six Canadians Draw Tickets On Favorite

DUBLIN (CP) — More than 500 Canadian tickets were drawn for the last Irish sweepstakes of the year, coming two days of counting which ended late Friday night. Six Canadians drew tickets on Hidden Meaning, 10-to-1 favorite in the Cambridgeshire Stakes to be run at Newmarket, England, Wednesday.

Tickets were drawn on all 113 eligible horses, although more than half have withdrawn but entries are smaller now and her will actually run. Canadians drew tickets on 111 of the eligible horses.

The six Canadians with tickets on the favorite, identified only by name-plume listed home addresses as Campbellcroft, Scarborough and Willowdale in Ontario, Victoria, B.C., Regina and Calgary.

Five Canadians drew tickets on the second favorite, Bewildroon, last quoted at odds of 12 to 1. Five other Canadians were drawn for Golden Wedding, third favorite at 14 to 1.

A total of 231 Canadian tickets were drawn. Those whose horses start will collect about $150,000 for a first - place finish, about $60,200 for second and about $30,100 for third. All those whose tickets were drawn Friday in the state-run lottery which leads pools in the Irish republic will receive residual prizes based on the size of the pool, which totals some $13,393,000.

Two Men Ward Seriously Hurt In Collision

PICTON — Mrs. Don Ward, Picton, was seriously injured Friday afternoon when the small car she was driving was in collision with another car. After emergency treatment at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital here, she was rushed to Kingston General Hospital. She suffered severe head injuries.

Driver of the second car, Frank Wallbridge, Huff's Island, R.R. 7, Belleville, was treated at the county hospital and then released. Both drivers were alone in their cars.

Scene of the accident was the intersection of Highway 14 (Picton to Belleville), and the Consecon road, which connects it at Hoff's Corners. In a similar accident in that last summer, a child lost its life.

Mrs. Ward was driving north on the main highway and Mr. Wallbridge had come from the Consecon road. The small car driven by Mrs. Ward struck the Wallbridge car on the right front, causing a dent in the wheel and hood and raking the side of the car, which also had its windshield shattered. Mrs. Ward's car, a total wreck, had no driver's door, even with the windshield, the motor being in the rear. It had 70,000 mileage.

At county council in September, there was a discussion in regards to this intersection which is regarded as dangerous. An Ontario Highway Department official stated there is a proper "stop" sign but many motorists say they are driving on the intersecting Socharis road and not aware there is such an intersection and do not see the sign. Both roads were gravel surface.

OPP Constable Earl Graves investigated.

Car Production Up Slightly From Last Week

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian motor - vehicle production this week is estimated at 9,876 units compared with 9,514 last week, says the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Production is estimated at 8,183 cars compared with 7,849 last week and 1,489 trucks compared with 1,665.

Hooded Bandit Robs Station Near Picton

PICTON — A hooded bandit held up a service station on the outskirts of this Prince Edward county town early today and escaped with $175, in bills.

The one a.m. holdup drama had all the earmarks of a television script.

John Tank, 22, night attendant : the Ross Fearnall Service station on the Glenora Road opposite Rickarton Castle, looked up when a man entered the building.

Yank froze in his seat.

The man was wearing a pulled-down fedora hat and a trenchcoat with turned-up collar. His features were hidden beneath a nylon stocking.

In his hand he carried a heavy tire wrench.

Waving the weapon he ordered Yank "Give me the money, and be quick." He continued to waved aside the silver in the cash register.

Yank gave him the bills as requested.

The bandit paused before going to the door. "Get under that table and stay there" he ordered. Yank did as he requested.

A minute or so later he heard a car drive away.

O.P.P. Constable Arnold Bestenan is investigating.

Might Revise System

On the face of it, the Canadian Labor Congress would appear to have made a valid case for objecting to the manner in which winter works payments have been distributed. CLC researchers found during the winter of 1961-62 that the Atlantic region received winter grants covering only 5.1 per cent of the total man-days' work provided by these grants, although this region had 16.8 per cent of the unemployed, while Quebec, at the other end of the scale, with .34 per cent of the unemployed, received grants covering 46.7 per cent of the man-days' work.

However, federal grants cover only 50 per cent of the cost of labor in winter works projects. In any program in which costs are shared, other factors must be considered besides federal contributions.

The provincial government in Quebec paid 40 per cent of the payroll costs, leaving only 10 per cent to be picked up by the municipalities. Surely, it is evident municipalities would be much more eager to undertake winter works under this system, where they were required to find only 10 per cent of the labor costs, than under the system operative in Ontario, where the province paid only a quarter of the cost and the municipalities had to pay the remaining 25 per cent.

Unemployment figures for months past have shown that the Atlantic provinces have consistently had a higher proportion of their labor force without work than have other sections of Canada. Under circumstances like these, the need for winter works projects is enhanced, but the high rate of unemployment reduces the ability of municipalities to finance their share of the cost. To a lesser degree the ability of provincial governments to share in these costs is also effected. Parliament might do well to consider revising the system, so that federal grants cover all the labor costs, at least when the figure for unemployment exceeds a certain proportion of the total labor force.

Pot vs Kettle

In one Toronto coffee house, there is a poster advertising the need for funds to "liberate Cuba." Because the coffee house is a leftist centre, the poster has been defaced with notes on most of the adjectives used. The notes imply that the Cuban refugee organizations are fascist agitators, who are begging money to go back and reclaim their privilege of exploiting the Cuban masses.

The original poster implied the refugee organizations are composed of free men who have the ideal of liberating their captive country.

The truth, of course, is neither. Cuba, in the days before Castro, was a dictatorship in which the established wealthy classes co-operated with the dictator. But because the established wealth was private, and because Cuba was once willing to accept money from the United States and ostensibly fight communism, this dictatorship was considered a part of the "free world."

Now, the last of profiteers has been deposed, and another dictatorship has been imposed. Because this one is based on state ownership with power, rather than money, the main reward for the leaders, it has the support of the communist world, and the enmity of the "free World."

But the implication of the Cuban refugees' organizations that if they can take control of Cuba, a democratic government can be set up, is no more valid than Castro's promises of democracy while he was a bandit in the Oriente Hills. The record of most of those who have left Cuba since the revolution is that of people who took good care of their own comfort in a land of misery. There is no good reason to doubt that they will follow the same course on their return.

If Cuba is to become free, the movement must come from within.

Any society in which there appears to be two separate cultures, divorced from one another, is in fact a society where culture is in decay. If it is possible to speak of a scientific culture on the one hand and a literary and artistic culture on the other, then it is certain that neither of these so-called cultures is genuine.—Sir Richard Rees.

VIPs Become Plain Joes To Enhance Party Image

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — As Parliament, uncertainly, lives from day to day, the politicians and their party headquarters are thinking more and more of the election that must come sooner or later, and of what the advertising world would call their public "image."

The Diefenbaker Government — and no, this strange touch-and-go Parliament, too — could conceivably live for four years . . . It could die, at any unforeseen moment, of a sudden accident on the floor of the House of Commons.

There were times when it was very much closer to the end, but the Government would readily weather any political storm that the Liberals managed to blow up in the Throne Speech debate.

Well in advance of this initial test of political strength in the Commons, the two splinter Social Credit and the New Democrat groups had made it very clear that they were no more anxious for an early, Winter election than the Conservatives.

And there has been suspicion all along that many of the Liberals — perhaps a majority of their rank and file — would be in no hurry to rush out on a snowbound, perhaps frozen campaign trail, either.

THE UNFORESEEN

So, things would seem to be reasonably under control for the Government in the Commons on such "set pieces" as the purely formal vote divisions on the Throne Speech, the Budget and other such Parliamentary "state occasions."

But accidents can happen when least expected,— perhaps in some honest issue — and that could be the end of this troubled Twenty-Fifth Parliament.

An Opposition demand for disclosure of information or production of documents that the Government considers confidential could trigger such a blow-up.

In other Sessions and other Parliaments, this Government and the many Liberal administrations that ruled the Parliament Hill roost for more than 20 years, routinely took the position that disclosures were "not in the public interest," as it traditionally is phrased.

And each Government simply wheeled out its automatic majority to steamroller the Opposition.

But in this Parliament there is no such handy steamroller. So, unless the various Opposition groups are careful about the questions they ask and the demands they make, and the Government is equally careful not to dig in its heels on any such issue, there could be a fatal collision.

This being so, everybody is looking to their "image," and wondering how it might be improved for the next exposure at the polls.

WHO'S A VIP?

Just how seriously they all are taking it might be seen from the way the Conservatives, for example, are examining every smallest detail that possibly might reflect on the all-important "image."

Take the business of airports.

It long has been the custom to "pre-board," as they put it, the Very Important Persons among the passengers.

There is a special line at the gate, and suddenly, over the loudspeaker comes the announcement that two or three special people will board the plane ahead of the others.

Aboard then, perhaps to the blind and the halt and the lame — and this is fine. Nobody objects.

But it has happened that among the "pre-boards" have been a VIP or two one of them, a Cabinet Minister.

There is public resentment in this.

"Who does he think he is," the waiting line-up mutters, "What's so special about him?"

From how on, there will be no pre-boarding VIPs among the Federal Cabinet. The Ministers of the Crown will take first-come-first-served grabs for seats with the ordinary taxpayers.

A detail? Perhaps. But important to the "image." At all costs, stuffed-shirtism must be avoided like a political plague.

MIX WITH THE MOB

Then there has been the sticky little formality of what the airports have come to know as the "VIP Room."

This is a quiet, comfortably furnished little hide-away, where "Mr. Big" may sit at his ease.

These VIP Rooms — at Montreal's Dorval, Ottawa's Uplands, Toronto's Malton and likely other major airports — came into being as the result of a Cabinet Minister having to wait, uncomfortably, long and late at night for a plane in a crabby terminal.

Reduce Fares To Up Profit

Vancouver Province

Another air-travel record was shattered recently. An aircraft built for 102 passengers arrived in London from Montreal with one solitary customer aboard.

In any other business circumscribed by a host of regulations, the answer to the present surfeit of seats would be obvious. The commodity offered could be made cheaper and more business would be sought not by the promise of greater speed and comfort, but by the allure of economy.

Perhaps passengers don't want to cross the Atlantic in five hours. Our marine correspondent, in fact, thinks that's the biggest day for trans-Atlantic travel by airplane in 1962, with nearly 10,000 passengers leaving New York for Europe in one 24-hour period. If they can spend not five hours, but upwards of four days on the journey.

Now there is talk of supersonic airliners, but presumably these plans look far into the future. There are problems as much as "sonic boom" and remain radiation to solve first.

Surely, if governments committed to the use of more and more expensive craft, and shackled by governmental regulation that stifles fare-cutting competition, are going to say on the charter flight gimmick to catch customers with their eyes on the dollar.

CPA reports a 32 per cent increase in charter flight business since the quiet agreements were made more gregarious.

Perhaps the neighborhood on enterprise by the airlines comes from over-regulation. This is especially so in the case of the significant instance of government thinking.

For some reason, the inhabitants of Northern Ontario, England, feel a compelling urge every Sunday afternoon to travel to Toronto and the coast. But only 50 of them usually took the train, for the fare was a dollar return.

Finding some chink in the armor of government regulations, the Northern station-master reduced the fare to 40 cents. There are now 700 passengers every Sunday.

But is the British Transport Commission pleased about this? Not at all. The experiment "must be regarded as an isolated innovation to be kept in proper perspective by the commission.

In other words, no' pandering to the crass commerical attitude that turns a loss into a profit. The airlines squandering their revenue and demanding bigger and bigger airports for their monstrous craft, should take a long hard look at the current situation and begin enticing the customer with the bait he so readily takes

Nervousness Contributes To High Blood Pressure

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a man 48, nervous but physically healthy. The only thing that troubles me is my blood pressure, which constantly is 140-95 or 150-100. Sometimes it goes to 180-100, then back to the lower figure.

Is that normal? Can anything be done toward lowering it? — E.L.

The higher figures aren't normal but neither are they devastatingly high. My feeling is that you would benefit by being checked thoroughly for the cause of the nervousness as well as for any other factors contributing to high blood pressure.

Nervousness often is part of the cause of high blood pressure. But controlling the nervousness is worthwhile itself, don't you think?

Job tension and excessive smoking and drinking are two common factors causing this type of blood pressure in your age bracket.

Your attitudes and living pattern may need changing. Many of us gradually slide into bad habits (including too much tension and worry) as we get into middle age. If we can manage to stand back and see ourselves as someone suddenly realizes that a different way of looking at life can make a distinct change in our health and way of health.

Another question: How much do you weigh? Just getting rid of excess pounds is one of the soundest methods of getting blood pressure get back to where it belongs.

In specific cases, special treatments may at times be called for. But my experience is that if you do a good all-out job of taking care of the things I've mentioned, a good deal of the blood pressure problem resolves itself.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: At what age does the average girl reach full development? — J.P.

Do you mean physically, mentally or emotionally?

Physically, I'd say they often have their full height by 14 or so, a few have it fully figured at 16, some don't fill out and reach full beauty until along in their 20's, but emotionally and mentally they mature considerably earlier - and grow old earlier.

Mentally and emotionally, some teen-agers are very some teen-agers are pretty mature, sensible people at 15, and others just never grow up.

It is extremely difficult to give an exact age.

Dear Dr. Molner: Should a child with chicken pox be permitted to be out? We have a neighbor who is a very nervous child has the disease (she claims very slight). This woman feels that a short step above a tug on the sleeve and a plaintive "can you spare a dime for a cup of coffee?"

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some weeks ago the packsack had something to say about people who read in buses. It referred to us as a remarkable demonstration of the power of concentration to be able to read in the swaying box. But at the same time we deplored the lack of interest the bus-reader manifested in the drama of life that is being played out by the shoulders of my fellow passengers. I have since thought straight ahead at nothing. None of these devices to allay the dullness common to a great many girls is to be compared with burying one's nose in a good little book."

Moira Students Advised To Cultivate Philosophical Rather Than Material Things

Moira Secondary School's graduating students were advised to cultivate the philosophical things in life rather than the material aspects when it came to advancing one's self and humanity by Dr. J. S. Barlow M.A., Ph.D., the special speaker at yesterday evening's graduation exercises in the school gymnotorium.

Noting the advances of the past 25 years since the time that he had graduated from secondary school, the speaker noted that there had been many technological advancements and the development and discovery of completely new branches of science. Even now the world and mankind stood on the threshold of discovering new worlds to explore and develop the speaker suggested, but, despite these many material benefits, mankind had advanced very little as far as moral or ethical developments were concerned.

In the field of man learning to better understand and live with himself and the rest of mankind there have been no great advances or discoveries to parallel those strides which have been made in technology, Dr. Barlow advised.

Yet it is the philosophical field in which humanity must find the answer and solution to the most important problems which it faces today, he suggested. New philosophical beliefs and concepts will be very difficult to accept, much more so than it is to accept a new model car, the speaker said.

It is therefore most important that people develop the habit of clear thinking, Dr. Barlow stated and urged the graduating class members to continue to engage in activities which would develop their minds.

It was only if an individual was able to advance both himself and his society in this fashion that he would find life truly successful the speaker concluded.

The valedictory address was given by Howard Nemtin. Its context was as follows:

HARD TO FIND WORDS

"Oftentimes we find it difficult to find words that describe how we feel inside. I am in that predicament now. I am much more honored, much more than happy to be here this evening. Thank you, Mr. Musgrove, members of the staff for considering me for such an honor as this.

"It is good to be back at a school I think as much as I do to go to a high school in Toronto now. I think it would do the students in this school well to go there — only for a day.

"Then you would appreciate this school much more. Not that Bathurst Heights is not a good school — do not get me wrong. It is rated with the best in the city. But it has 2,000 people; 2,500 pairs of feet and arms pushing and pulling and running and stopping; 2,500 lockers banging; 2,500 mouths talking. To be happy with Moira.

"You have much more to be happy about than the number of students, however. Moira school seems to emit a genuine warmth, a friendliness that mysteriously seems to be missing in a large city school. The moment you walk into the school it can be felt. Again, one cannot quite find the words to describe it.

"Last year a teacher from this school phoned my mother. He explained to her that I was not developing a proper attitude towards his subject and, consequently, my study and work habits were poor. After my mother got word of this, needless to say, my attitude changed considerably and my work habits picked up.

"I did not think too highly of the teacher at the time for doing such a cruel deed, but later on I realized he did it because he cared what happened to me. He could have ignored me, but instead he took the time and effort and cared enough to make that phone call.

"Now I can thank him. This is merely one typical example of the many extra steps the teachers of this school take for the student body.

REAL GOOD STAFF

"After going to a new school I see that Moira has something I would not trade for all the schools in Canada. It has a staff that has a sincere interest in each and every student in this school.

"Yes, I am very fond of Moira. I remember the first assembly held outside with Mr. Musgrove and the staff on a platform of cement bags with planks. Mr. Reid with an old school bell ringing the change of classes. Those classes held in the upper corridors or outside. It was fun getting adjusted to those few days — all of us could see the making of the best school in Ontario.

"I also remember the days of 13 years ago when I entered kindergarten. I was given a cheery hello, a promise of many things to come and a hunk of modelling clay. I squished it, moulded it, smoothed it and squished it. I made a bump and lump here, a hollow there, and then put it on a shelf, expecting to finish it up the next day.

"Well, by some mysterious power, the clay had hardened. The bumps and lumps and hollows and each finger mark had hardened and I could not reshape it no matter how hard I tried.

"We are like moulds of clay. When young we can be twisted, moulded and shaped. From the time we are small until we graduate we are in a moulding stage and have many sculptors working on us. Our teachers and parents play an important part in this process. The books we read, the friends we have — every magazine and television, have parts to play in how we are moulded for life.

"It is neither the sum of all the characteristics which are being built for us that hardened. Each mark, good or bad, will be made fast and be extremely difficult to change. So now is the time to make sure that every mark is there — that a smooth spot is one you want to maintain for life.

"I relate this process of clay to a person. Color has no bearing on its pliability or flexibility. Black and white clay are equal—neither is better to work with than the other. Both can be shaped and developed into fine, upstanding individuals, beings.

"After we are moulded we are the sculptors over to our children but to our country. We young Canadians here today general course of technical, graduate or non-graduate will be faced with a tremendous task—we have a country to mold.

"Our country is young, as we are, and, like ourselves, not perfect. We hollow the hardest. It is our job as young Canadians to see that our country's mould is flawless. We are the artists in moulding this hunk of clay called Canada. The better moulded we are the better it will be.

"Yes, in kindergarten the next time I was given clay had hardened. I was sorry I had not put more work into moulding it. When our clay hardens let us have no regrets."

IRISH WEDDING BELLS

"And never was piping so gay . . ." William Butler Yeats.

Into our hands has fallen a magazine from Ireland this morning. There's something very adventuresome turning the pages of another land's periodical, familiar to it, quite unknown to us; horizons to other worlds.

The smooth 50-paged September issue is filled with photos and accounts of Irish social events. In fact its very title is, "Social and Personal"—Ireland's gayest society magazine (price: two shillings). Now we turn the pages with enquiring interest, our attention is suddenly caught by a caption: "Canadian Ambassador's Daughter Weds", with an account of the event accompanied by a half-dozen or so photos, to discover it is of special interest to Belleville. But before we explain, here first is the wedding as given:

"The Unitarian Church, St. Stephen's Green (in Dublin) was the scene of the wedding of Miss Harriott A. Rive, elder daughter of His Excellency the Canadian Ambassador and Mrs. Alfred Rive, to Mr. William Nevin Appel, a United States law student from Pennsylvania, now entering his final year. The beautiful floral decorations in the church included a posy of flowers at the end of each of the pews. The celebrant was Dr. L. E. Owen, Principal of Manchester College, Oxford, and Mr. Robert Johnston was at the organ.

"It was a full-dress wedding in every sense of the word. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of white satin brocade with a cloak train. Her headdress was of pearls and Alencon lace which had been the bridal veil for over 100 years; it was worn by her great-grandmother, also for her presentation to Queen Victoria.

"Her bridesmaids, Misses Bibi Jane Rive, Marilyn Bateman and Jane Sarcroft wore dresses of identical cut in pastel shades — one primrose, one blue and one pink. Mr. John Rive, brother of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. William Boyd (also official Secretary for Canada at Dublin), Miss Rive (a brother of the bride), Mr. Keith Maclennan (son of the British Ambassador) and Dr. Jeremy Thompson.

"After the ceremony, the bride's parents held a reception at the Canadian Embassy Killiney, for about 150 guests. Standing alongside the host and hostess as they greeted arrivals was the bridegroom's charming youthful-looking mother.

"The address of congratulation to the happy couple at the cutting of the wedding-cake was most ably made by Dr. P. A. Kasteel, Netherlands Ambassador. Among the guests were: British Ambassador and Lady Maclennan, the Netherlands Ambassador and Mrs. Kasteel, the Belgian Ambassador and Countess Lalaing, the Spanish Ambassador and Mrs. de Baralbar, the Minister for External Affairs and Mrs. F. Aiken, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cremin (Secretary Dept. of External Affairs), Miss Bridget (the countess) Charlemont, Joyce Lady Talbot de Malahide, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Galpin (Consul, Canadian Embassy), Mr. David Lawless (Vice Attaché, Canadian Embassy) . . ." and many others which space regretfully does not allow to list.

But the fact is, the former Harriot Rive affectionately remembered by many in nearby Belleville as guest of her college-roommate (at Queen's) Jeanne Bennett Boland "she fitted into our household like a member of the family. We were certainly sorry to see her father and His Excellency . . ." and the two girls were inseparable, even though happy summers together in Ireland.

Thus when "Hailey" invited her close friend and roommate to be present at her wedding this summer, that's how it happened that Miss Harriot Rive, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Bateman, 193 Bleecker Avenue, flew to Dublin to be on hand as one of the bridesmaids of the bride.

BPW Club Holds Fall Dinner Meet

TWEED — The first fall meeting of the Tweed Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the Hotel Tweed-mur for a dinner meeting.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Anne McClean, who welcomed the members and guests.

The various officers and conveners gave their reports.

Plans for Business Women's week, which is to be held from October 14th to 20th were discussed. It was decided to hold a card party during that week with Mrs. Hilda Sexsmith in charge. Proceeds to go in aid of a girls' scholarship.

The regular meeting nights of the club are every third Wednesday to Tuesday the fourth week of the month.

Mrs. Lena Hollis' name is to be suggested as a delegate for a United Nation's Fellowship.

Tentative plans were made to delegate attending the annual provincial convention in Windsor October 26th and 27th.

Mr. William Marsh showed films of his trip to the Seattle World's Fair.

U.C.W. Meetings

UNITED LUTHERAN C.W.

The October meeting of the United Lutheran Church Women will be held at the parsonage at 27 Melrose Ave.

The devotions will be opened with singing "The King of Love, My Shepherd Is." Mrs. Ross Mills will read the Scripture.

The topic of the evening was "Canada" on behalf of the September topic, "Leisure that Recreates." This was taken by Mrs. Lindsay Bird, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Simpson by slides to show recreation in Canada by camping with family in picnics, trips, fishing and church.

The various committees chairmen gave their reports and the Christian Service committee presented its project for next month and Christmas. Thankoffering was spent with lunch in charge of Mrs. Rolof and Mrs. Simpson.

SHANNONVILLE U.C.W.

The October meeting of the Shannonville U.C.W. was held at the parsonage evening, the church hall with an attendance of 22.

Mrs. A. Cook opened the meeting.

Mrs. D. Vance was in charge of the devotional, the theme being "Thanksgiving." The Scripture, taken from Deutgronomy 8, was read by Mrs. A. Cook and the meditation was given by Mrs. D. Vance.

Mrs. Lloyd Hollinsworth was in charge of the program on "Christian Stewardship." A reading "Tithing" by Mrs. Ross Mills, "Tithing Pays" was given by the following: Mrs. R. Bratton, Mrs. W. Ross, Mrs. R. Wescott and Mrs. C. Kierl. This play brought out the many different views concerning women being the stewards of their rewards.

"The session is the heart of the church, and just as a home without both father and mother, is a crippled home, so a church that does not make full use of all the gifts of both men and women, is failing short of its opportunities."

"We worship together; why shouldn't we plan together?"

Mrs. Caldwell gave the prayer. After the singing of "Now Thank We All Our God," Mrs. Cook led in prayer.

BUSINESS SESSION

The president opened the business with the secretary reading the correspondence. An invitation to attend a tea and bazaar was read from Holloway Sales United Church women. Several thank-you cards were read.

A report concerning the sale of tickets for the turkey supper was given by the treasurer.

The ladies collecting for the blind had gratifying reports.

The next meeting was planned for October 12th at the home of Mrs. K. Vivian.

Mrs. Cook closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Large Number At Liberal Women's Meet

TORONTO (CP) — A record 250 delegates attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association Friday heard district reports that area group memberships are increasing.

A report of the Rideau district, Leeds County group, shows that membership started at 21 and now is 80 and the central Ontario south group said that at a recent meeting they had to arrange seating for 165 members where only 50 were expected.

Other groups, including Napanee - Picton, reported new groups in their riding and increased membership in existing groups.

Members elected included:

Honorary presidents, Mrs. Lester B. Pearson and Mrs. J. G. Winsnor; president, Mrs. D. M. Shaver, Galt; vice - president, Mrs. Harry Alison, Chesterville, Mrs. Robert Clark, Harrow; Dr. Aileen Newman, Mount Forest; recording secretary, Mrs. Gladys Lahti, Peterborough; constitutional, Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, Port Arthur; political editor, Mrs. E. H. Grant, Espanola.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Glenn T. — She has broken her parent's heart by turning agnostic.

Myrna B. — Why must my parents insist that I believe what they believe?

Glenn T. — My niece is 25, married and the mother of two children. Her mother is my sister and we are a closely knit family. We watched Myrna grow up and we rejoiced that she joined into church activities so enthusiastically. When she married a fellow from New York, she had a beautiful church wedding and took her vows at the altar.

But that was six years ago and tragedy has set in since then. At least it's tragic to our family, and especially to my sister and her husband. Myrna has renounced the church. She says she and her husband have a new philosophy. Her children have not been baptized, and have never stepped inside a house of worship.

What can she be so disrespectful and ungrateful?

Myrna B. — Once away from all the small-town narrowness I grew up in, I realized that this important thing was to be kind and good, not to sit through boring sermons and say the right kind of prayer books. My husband opened my eyes to other philosophies. He's a research professor, teaches psychology and logic, and frequently lectures at colleges. Our friends are other couples who feel as we do, that this is the important thing in life — love and hell must be right here, and that trusting to the unknown and waiting for the hereafter is a waste of time on earth, as well as an affront to intelligence.

I love my parents dearly and I regret that they are taking this so hard. But just because the church fills their needs doesn't mean it must automatically fill mine. They should think about that.

½ ½ ½

The Council: Some defections from the family "ways" stem from normal rebelliousness, are more emotional than reasoned and are restored when anger is spent, and the "point" has been made — namely that the proud gal has a mind of his own. In Myrna's case, however, the parting of the ways at the foot of the church steps seems more serious. Our exhortations, therefore, are to not that she return to the fold merely to make the family happy, but that she honestly try to accept the fact that she has found a peace and a grace which seem to satisfy her. Although some churchmen will object to our position here, we accept Myrna's thesis that the "faith" of a child need not necessarily be the identical faith of the father.

While Glenn and the family balcony and hoped that Myrna would just follow along in the traditional spiritual paths, they must now accept her and her husband the right to soul-search on their own and in the process still left blank to them, despite the years of church instruction. Least a child unreasonable rule. Beethoven because his parents don't like music deeper than is required for the finds, by happy coincidence, that Beethoven responds directly to music, to his parents, that Beethoven supplies the emotional food for which he is hungering.

Tell Myrna's parents, Glenn, that all is not lost. Myrna is probing for worthy moral thoughts, philosophies, moral systems in search of insight into both herself and her parents. It is a compliment to the latter that she has not cut the loose and still remain appreciative, loving and understanding toward them.

As they stand by, however, waiting for Myrna and her husband to find a workable code to live by, they must not twist their hands at their loss. Myrna is not going to be returning to the fold. She may not be satisfied with a religious "vacuum". She will either find a substitute for "that old-time religion", such as Unitarianism, Christian Science, Bahai, etc., or revert some day to the old "tried and true" of her ancestors.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

By PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

Luckily, most parties run fairly smoothly, but occasionally a hostess has to cope with difficulties that she can only most tactfully handle:

1. The guest who becomes argumentative or belligerent.

2. The shrinking violet?

3. The guest who has one too many.

4. Guests at a buffet party who wander off without waiting from the hostess to start help-ing themselves?

5. The guest who drops ashes on the floor and deposits his cigarettes in your coffee cup?

6. The guest who stays glued to one spot and doesn't circulate?

7. The guest who monopolizes a conversation?

8. Helpful Hannahs who insist on offering to help?

9. Guests who linger over good-byes at the door as if seemingly can't bear to walk through it?

10. Hangers-on who don't know when to go home at all?

ANSWERS:

1. Ordinarily, a hostess doesn't want to silence a conversation, but if it's argumentative and provocative, but if a guest constantly starts to argue his point to the point of absurdity, then a tactful hostess should step in and swiftly introduce a new topic of conversation.

2. Draw that wallflower into a group where there are several men who can light her cigarette and serve her coffee graciously.

3. Overlook his empty glass while serving other guests. If he insists on another, make sure it's well watered down. He probably wouldn't know the difference at that point. Meanwhile, have some hot coffee brewing in the kitchen and ask him to help you out by setting the coffee cups.

4. Ask a special friend or two to circulate in the hall willing. When a few guests start helping themselves, the rest usually follow suit.

5. Keep a supply of small ash trays handy that aren't too trustworthy be slipped under his hand before he flips or stubs. Generally, this is a person's most sort of carelessness is caused by nervousness. Hostess who doesn't keep enough ash trays around. At parties, they should be big, heavy ones that don't tip.

6. If he can't be budged, a wise guest will whom he has something in common should be steered in his direction. An interesting conversation usually gets a rise out of a chair-bound individual.

7. Again, the hostess should have a voice in the discussion, and introduce a new subject that might encourage others in the group to express opinions.

8. Accept any kind offers with thanks, but, if help is not needed, don't let a guest lead them back into the living room and suggest they lend a hand when it's time to depart.

9. When this becomes overly long-drawn-out, the host might ring for the elevator or suggest he guide guests to their cars — a flashlight.

10. If subtle hints like a yawn and saying you don't work, a kind friend might be asked in intercede and suggest that you're tired and that the guest and hostess can finally get some rest.

60-Year-Old Widow Ready For Fall Hunt

CANDLE LAKE, Sask. (CP) — Erika Nielsen is a 60-year-old widow who knows how to bleed and dress a game animal. She is like and wears it home herself through the rugged countryside.

A crack shot — dropping a running elk at 300 yards is instinctual with her—she no doubt will be one of the first hunters out roaming the bush northeast of Prince Albert this fall, making use of a trapping license she has held for more than 30 years.

Born in Germany, Mrs. Nielsen's early years were spent in the forests of eastern Germany where her father and grandfather were woodsmen.

She was educated by her father, who didn't believe women should have to earn a living, but left home for Switzerland and journeyed to Canada in 1920 because she wanted to be financially independent.

MISSED THE TREES

Southern Saskatchewan was a disappointment to her, mostly because there were so few trees. She moved north, married, had a son and a daughter and still has death two years ago and homesteaded 165 acres from Hudsonland.

She earns extra money from the fur and hide harvests, selling foxes, coyotes and squirrels she shoots or traps. In summer, Mrs. Nielsen is canning wild fruit keeps her busy. She has filled 10 bears.

The north area provides her with little social life, but she manages to relax by reading, and has read the Bible through four times.

"There is far too much to do and too little time to think about being lonely," says Mrs. Nielsen, who has no intention of changing her lonely way of life.

Young Couple Honored at Presentation

MADOC JCT. — A pleasant time was enjoyed when some 50 neighbors and friends gathered at the Orange Hall on Saturday night to honor Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Frost who were recently married.

Mr. Allen Reide acted as chairman for the evening and presided over the interesting program which opened with a duet by Sharon Reide, accompanied with Mrs. Bruce Stapley at the piano. Nancy Harper gave two humorous readings, and following this a piano solo by Sandra and Linda Meiklejohn sang "Prayer Perfect" as a duet and later in the service Linda and Sandra Meiklejohn rendered, "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul". Mrs. Bruce Stapley, Miss Sharon Reide favored with a vocal duet and Miss Audrey Stapley with a reading. Duets were sung by Miss Grant Forbes on Hammond and Donna Vardy who played their accompaniments for the Rev. J. R. McLeod. Mrs. McLeod was organist.

Following the service a reception was held in the upper room of the church hall, where granddaughters served tea and lunch and grandsons were in charge of the gifts. The eldest grandson took pictures.

Pouring were Mr. Green's eldest sister Mrs. James Sweet sell who is 89 years old and Mrs. Green's sister, Mrs. Alfred Burkitt, Mrs. Harry Grills and Mrs. Hugh Collins.

A family dinner was served by the U.C.W. to 40 guests among whom were the first cousins of the bride of 50 yrs.

A beautiful anniversary cake graced the table and the bride's daughter Hilda Eilenore Barker and decorated by a sister Hilda Barker Grills. Floral decorations were in bronze and yellow.

QUESTION:

I would appreciate it very much if you would forward a recipe for preserving horseradish . . . Mrs. P. C.

ANSWER:

HORSERADISH NO. 1:

When grating the root, work out of doors, since the aroma stings the eyes.

1 pound raw horseradish root, 2 tablespoons sugar, white vinegar, 2 drops garlic or onion juice (optional).

Scrub the root, and peel off the outer thick skin. Grate the root on a very fine grater. Mix with sugar (and garlic or onion juice, if desired). Barely cover with white spirit vinegar. Allow to stand and soak, adding more vinegar only until the horseradish will absorb no more. Seal in small airtight jars. Do not use large jars, since the root will turn dark quickly after the jar is opened.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Grilled Calve's Liver and Kidneys; Onion Gravy; Mashed Brown Potatoes; Chive - Buttered Carrots; Sliced Tomatoes; Sliced Peaches and Cream; Melting Moments (see Friday); Tea.

HORSERADISH NO. 2:

1 cup finely grated raw horseradish, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 cups white spirit vinegar.

Mix well and seal in small sterile jars.

QUESTION:

For one three years ago, several of the women's magazines featured a recipe for a cream pie called "Open Sesame Pie."

Printed in:
BOSTON, LOS ANGELES
LONDON

which contained, and was garnished with, pecans. I would be grateful if you (or one of your readers) have this recipe you would include it in a column in the near future . . . Alice McB.

ANSWER:

I do not have a recipe called "Open Sesame Pie which is a cream pie containing and garnished with pecans. Readers, If you have what Alice McB. is seeking would you please copy it out carefully and mail it to me?

QUESTION:

. . . Could you give me any tips on broiling steak? What is the absolutely best cut to buy for broiling, and how thick should it be? My steaks always turn out a little "tough" and almost tasteless . . . Terry

ANSWER:

BROILED SIRLOIN OR PORTERHOUSE STEAK:

Buy fat-marbled, red brand beef, preferably aged for 10 to 20 days, at least 1" to 1½" thick. Gash the fat around the edge of the steak. Preheat the broiler for 10 minutes. Place steak on broiler rack 2 to 4 inches from heat unit. Broil top is well seared and fat in brown; this should be about 5 minutes for a steak 1" thick, 15 minutes for a 2" steak, if you like it rare. Season with salt and pepper as seasoned and also turn over. Finish browning on other side, cooking slightly less than the second side. Serve on hot platter and add butter. Steaks 1" thick require a total broiling time of 10 minutes for rare, 18 minutes for well done; steaks 1½" thick, 18 to 25 minutes; steaks 2" thick, 25 to 35 minutes.

WEDDING

CRAWFORD — JOHNSON

Pink gladioli and pink and white asters adorned the altar in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, and white satin bows marked the guest pews for a very pretty autumn wedding on Saturday, September 8, at 2.00 p.m. when Margaret Jean Johnson of Stirling, daughter of Mr. Harold Johnson, of Stirling, and the late Mrs. Johnson, became the bride of George Allan Crawford, of Madoc, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford. The Rev. P. J. Hommersen, of Stirling, officiated.

The traditional wedding music was rendered by Mrs. H. Brown at the organ, who accompanied the soloists. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson, of Stirling in their rendition of the "Wedding Prayer," and "Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ralph Johnson, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta featuring a fitted bodice having a Mandarin collar, long fitted-point sleeves, and bouffant skirt with front panels of Chantilly over net and taffeta. Her headdress was in crown style with sparkling crystal sequins and simulated pearls and nylon tulle veil in two tier effect to elbow length. She carried a white Bible crested with a white orchid encircled by garnets and bronzed garnet streamers.

The maid of honour was Miss Mary Johnson, twin sister of the bride and the bridesmaid Miss Vonnetta Valsear, cousin of the bride. Both wore matching gowns of turquoise nylon organza, with headdresses in rose shades of turquoise, with matching veils and carried bas kets of white, gladioli. They were identical with matching earrings, gifts of the bride, completed their costumes.

Mr. McCoy, of Madoc, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Charles Crawford, also of Madoc and Max Valsear, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The church parlor was the setting for the reception where the guests were received by Mrs. Johnson, who wore a gown with matching beige duster, of floral nylon organza, over taffeta, with brown and beige accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

The bridegroom's mother assisted in the receiving line, attired in navy lace over taffeta with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bridal table, with its white damask cloth and three pedestal wedding cake, was topped with two white doves, with wedding rings, latticed by lily-of-the-valley, and flanked by pink candles, was most attractive.

For the honeymoon to Niagara Falls, and the Muskoka district, the bride travelled in a peacock blue linen dress with contrasting accessories and cor-

Napanee Woman Calls Meet 'Ten Days of Friendship'

The 10-day world conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World ended Friday and delegates, including 35 from Canada, set out for home or for visits around Australia and in other countries.

Miss James Haggerty of Napanee, Ont., Canadian delegation leader, called the conference "10 days of friendship and learning."

Some Canadians left immediately for home, but Mrs. Haggerty said about 20 others will make a five - day tour of New Zealand before going home via Hawaii.

Mrs. Haggerty said Mrs. Keith Rand of Port Williams, N.S., was elected Canadian area vice - president.

Mrs. Haggerty and members of other delegations appeared on television and radio and radio shows during the conference.

No one from the Canadian delegation spoke on a motion calling on the United Nations to speed up efforts to abolish slavery and the slave trade, but the Canadians voted for the motion, which was approved.

The world president, Mrs. G. M. Beckett of The Netherlands, said the next triennial conference will be held in Dublin in 1965.

Far Safer to Have Baby Now Than Anytime in Past History

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Edward C. Hughes, president of both the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, says it is far safer to have a baby now than it was at the time in the past history.

Dr. Hughes, from Syracuse, N.Y., is heading a three-day conference of the ACOG which started Thursday.

"In the last 10 years in the United States there has been a 70-per-cent decrease in maternal mortality," he said Friday. "Before every 10,000 live births in 1951 there were 6.6 mothers who died whereas last year there were 3.2 deaths for the same number."

Statistics show that in 1940, 376 mothers died for every 100,000 births, whereas in 1961 there was only one maternal death for every 3,100 live births.

Infant mortality also has been lowered considerably in the past decade," he added, but the decline has been slower."

Infant mortality rates are based on infants from birth to one year. There was a mortality rate of 25.2 per 1,000 live births in 1961.

"Seventy three per cent of these deaths occurred within the first 28 days of life, showing only a six - per - cent drop in the past 10 years, said Dr. Hughes. "However, there was a 22-per-cent drop in the number of deaths from 28 days to one year."

The greatest cause of death in the first month of life was due to prematurity and 75 per cent of these babies died in the first 24 hours, he said.

MOROCCAN TEA BREAK — Margaret Ness (left) and Mrs. Dora Dyson, set off on a four-month tour of Europe and North Africa, say that with care such trips can be inexpensive, especially if taken during the tourist off-season. Off-Season Is Best Time To Save Money on Trip

By MARGARET NESS

TORONTO (CP) — You can make that dream tour of Europe, and you don't have to be an economist or earning $15,000 a year to do it. Just plan ahead and count your pennies.

Mrs. Dora Dyson and I had a marvelous time by cutting costs during our four-month vacation jaunt around Europe. We made our trip in the off-season, the best time to save money because the other tourists had all gone home and the hotels, restaurants and airlines had cut their costs to attract people like us.

Some people have toured the Continent for as little as $5 a day during the off-season. We weren't quite that economical. Our travel agent estimated our daily budget at $15, but we trimmed away many unnecessary items and still made it comfortably on $11, including hotel, outing, food and sightseeing, but not plane fare.

The plane fare is what scares most people. But when you stop to think that our $656.30 fare from Toronto to Vienna — with stopovers at seven cities—came to only about $5.45 a day, it was a bargain.

You can cut down on the food, but you've got to have some place to sleep, so hotel bills are another worry for the potential tourist. They needn't be.

EXTRAS ADD UP

Your daily hotel bills can be quite reasonable. It's the small extras that mount up suddenly. European hotels are graded from deluxe down through first and second class ad so on. An added incentive for staying at second - class hotels, many of which are very good, is that the waiters and maids are more likely to be natives of the country.

We paid only $2.75 a night for an old - fashioned, overstuffed room including breakfast of rolls and coffee, in a Madrid hotel located on the main shopping street.

Our hotel bills could have been less during the trip, but we treated ourselves to the luxury of private bathrooms with bath. Showers cost $1 to $2 a day less. Many travelers take cheaper rooms with only running water.

Our most expensive trips were a nine-day conducted bus tour through Algeciras, Seville, Granada and Madrid in Spain, and 13 days on our own in Morocco. We averaged $14.50 a day for everything.

Since we were two women alone, we stayed at deluxe modern hotels in each city on our trip. But we did travel around the country extensively by public transport and by one of the two trains I've ever used. We even stayed in a palace in Fez, built by a grand vizir in the 18th century, and now converted into a small hotel.

CANARY ISLANDS CHEAPEST

Contrasted with this was our cheapest jaunt, three weeks in Las Palmas on the Canary Islands. It cost us about $6 a day. We were on the European plan and took picnic lunches to the beach. Included in this cost were three exceptionally interesting all-day tours into the volcanic interior mountains and to the tropical fruit farms. Lunch where camels work on the farms.

At $2.50 each, these trips were the best sightseeing values we found anywhere.

We spent a day in a large hotel in Palma, Majorca, on the sea promenade for eight days. Because it was in - season time (pre-Easter) there, we had to take the full pension plan of three meals. This always is an expensive way to travel since lunch is a large meal you really don't need.

We took a couple of fairly expensive tours to some astounding caves across the island and to the monastery where George Sand and Chopin spent a winter. The hotel, plus the tours, cost us around $10 a day. However, we did scout out some excellent small hotels on the outskirts of the city which had reasonable prices.

TOUR LOCAL SIGHTS

We stayed at a pleasant hotel in Vienna, within walking distance of the famous Ringstrasse and Vienna State Opera House for nine days at $10.10 a day. We took one sightseeing trip to the Vienna Woods but otherwise we went nowhere in the city by bus or streetcar. A five - day trip in Austria averaged $12.50 a day, including train fare.

We spent slightly more than $10 a day in Spain and Morocco staying in first-class hotels. We did our sightseeing in both these cities leisurely by local transportation, which you should plan on if you stay five days at least in each centre. It's not only cheaper and entertaining, but less exhausting.

We found that in most cities, the meals were more expensive than the hotel rooms, but not nearly as costly as Canadian meals. Most hotels include continental breakfasts in their bills, but where room and meals were broken down on the bill, breakfast was usually one of the 90- cents.

We saved a lot of money by eliminating the small extras like coffee with meals, not buying a hardship because the European coffee is strong and bitter. Extremely expensive, it runs as high as 60 cents for a demitasse of Cappucino in Rome, the only coffee I liked.

The Canadian embassy can be a great help. The embassy receptionist in Rome suggested a delightful restaurant where the meal cost only $3.75.

Another way we reduced costs was by drinking natural water in all the large cities. This was contrary to all travel advice. We didn't like either the carbonated or flat bottled water sold in restaurants and hotels.

A constant expense is the moving from city to city. In many cases it is cheaper to make one city the centre for day-by-day excursions.

300 Expected To Attend Conference

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Three hundred delegates are expected for the 47th annual conference of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario.

Business sessions open this morning. Miss Katherine Peden, past president of the United States Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will speak at the evening banquet.

Workshops will be held Sunday and the conference will close with a luncheon address by Miss Stella MacGill, president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Ride on Bermuda's Tiny Ferry Excellent Tour at Small Cost

By Ekirley and Bob Sloane

HAMILTON, Bermuda — The clunky canvas-topped Triton, little different from all the harbor ferries of the world, wallows uncertainly at its dock. Only yards away, the majestic Queen of Bermuda looks down her bow at her.

It costs only 70 cents to ride the tiny Triton on Watford Bridge, Cavello Bay, Somerset Bridge and back to Hamilton. That's considerably less than the tariff on the Queen, but it must be remembered that the Triton's voyage lasts only 90 minutes and never leaves the Great Sound, for the price, there isn't a better tour going.

The ships, motorbikes and tourists (slight extra charge) are wheeled aboard, the makeshift gangplank and the Triton chugs her way out into the harbor.

The great clutter that surrounds the Great Sound is soon apparent - yachts, sailboats and cruisers fill the basins; the shocking pink of the Bermudiana Hotel and the peeling-pink of the somewhat-dilapidated Viewing of the Princess Hotel float past to starboard. And to port are the squalid, Negro section and Belmont Manor Hotels dominate the scene. In Bermuda, the best of all possible colors is pink.

The island is one long coral rock of vista-rich hills covered with flaming hedges, purple-hued stone and ponies. There are few beaches and those are small, but there is scarcely any break in the string. In Bermuda, the best of all possible colors is pink.

Coves and inlets, beaches and islets speckle the scene. Sometimes they were given by kings, sometimes by Queen Victoria, but mostly they were given by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spencer, the president.

Correspondence was read, also a thank-you note for a gift from Patsy Spencer, choir organist at Bayside Presbyterian Church. An invitation was received from the Stanwood United Church women to attend an afternoon tea at their church on October 24th. A draw prize number is to be supplied for the program. Transportation is to be given for missions.

Mrs. Will Rutherford was the convener for the balance of the missionary program. A paper on stewardship was conducted by Mrs. Will Rutherford, with short readings on the following—"Vision," by Mrs. Wilfred Spencer; "Obedience" by Mrs. Clarence Thomson; "Gratitude" by Mrs. Cecil Finch; "Concern" by Mrs. Chester Mellkjohn; "Dedication" by Mrs. Clarence Thomson; "Partnership" by Mrs. Cecil Finch; "Faith" by Mrs. Jack Spencer and "Conviction and Worship," by Mrs. Will Rutherford.

Missionary prayer was led by Mrs. H. D. Fillen.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and committee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ray Stewart, by ward, "Remembered or "Remembrance"; program committee, Mrs. Ellis Jones and Mrs. Clarence Thomson; refreshments committee, Mrs. C. Finch and Mrs. Jack Spencer.

few feet long, its opening is but 18 inches - enough for the mast of a sailboat. The crew must debark to open it, and passengers usually stop to assist in this whimsical nautical maneuver.

Somerset itself is a picturesque, remote village, with the curious tranquility that is so much a part of Watford Bridge, despite the island's congestion and surface bustle. Mark Twain lived in Somerset, and so did James Thurber.

We turn on the home leg of our trip here, back to Hamilton Harbor by the U.S. Naval Base with its gawky patrol planes, like oversized gulls, squatting on the ramp. Along the south rim of Bermuda this time, past the yacht harbors and discreet homes sheltered by hibiscus and oleander, and into Two Rock Passage, the only entry to the harbor.

The Queen herself must pass this way, for more than 400 shipwrecks to their credit, Bermuda's shoals have been prime respecters of individuals.

When His Girl's Away, He Starts to Play

DORIS CLARK TROUBLED.

DEAR DORIS—This boy and girl are going with each other. The girl went on holidays and he was by himself. The next day he and his chum went for a ride with three girls in the back and I was in the front with him. We stopped and started to kiss and then I really started to like him.

Another night we went for another ride and he said on the phone we would go for a ride on Tuesday (even when he knew his girl friend would be back.) Did he use me as a sucker or what?—TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED—By now you'll know. I must say I don't think he feels very loyal to his girl friend. Perhaps he thinks it's time for a change.

DEAR DORIS—I wonder whether you have any information on the procedure for cashing baby bonus cheques outside of the country.

My small son and I will be in the U.K. for a few months and so I would like to know if this is possible. If not, will the cheques be valid on our return?—MRS. J. R.

• • •

DEAR MRS. J. R.—Regulations read:

"Family Allowances are not payable while a child is outside of Canada for more than one month. The regional Director should be notified immediately before the departure from Canada.

"The return to Canada should be reported at once so that the payment of allowances can begin in the month following the return. If the total absence does not exceed three calendar months, the allowances may be paid for the entire period of absence."

DEAR DORIS—At one shower the girl's fiance was present and the gifts were opened by both of them. He made short work of cutting ribbons with a pen knife and parcels were opened with the rapidity of a machine gun.

Then at another the girl painstakingly untied every knot and took all evening to get things opened.

Isn't there a happy medium?—MINES COMING UP.

DEAR MINES—Right. The bride-to-be owes it to her friends to make a ceremony of opening gifts. Ribbons are untied when this is reasonably simple. Cards read out. Gifts admired—for all to hear—and passed around.

But at most showers there are Fun and Games ahead of the Undoing. As it were.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO P.O.E.—It this lack of desire is something new with you, I would suggest you see your doctor. You may be run down or otherwise physically lacking in energy.

• • •

TO MAY THE LORD BLESS YOU—I know the Bible too; and appreciate your blessing. But—no signature? Won't you stand up and be counted?

• • •

(Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. Write a letter to Doris.)

Garden Notes

Here Are Reasons for Pruning And Some Mistakes to Avoid

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

One or more of the following reasons may be cause for pruning.

1. To maintain plant vigor. Take out oldest branches periodically. Remove, one or two each year as needed according to growth conditions.)

2. To remove dead, injured, diseased or insect infested wood.

3. To balance top growth with root system at transplanting time.

4. To control the form of the shrub.

5. To obtain the highest performance of bloom and fruit.

6. To renew and rejuvenate old and unsightly shrubs.

Errors to avoid in pruning shrubs.

1. Late fall pruning that leaves a dishonored appearance over winter.

2. Pruning early spring blooming shrubs before they bloom instead of after blooming. (Forsythia blooms on two year old wood. Lilacs bloom each newly formed wood each spring.)

3. Pruning shrubs too severely. (When they become old and ugly cut them back to the ground for a new start.)

4. Cutting back strong growth at the top only. Giving a "brush hair cut" type of pruning destroys natural form.

5. Heavy pruning of ornamental fruited sorts. Prune these moderately before and after bloom.

Except at planting time, spading shrub beds is a waste of time and energy. Over time it destroys shallow feeding roots. If weedy growth appears scrape it off with a hoe rather than spading it under, then mulch the shrub with leaf or peat moss.

After fall pruning you can apply a slow acting fertilizer such as bonemeal, sheep manure or meal blood or wait for a few weeks until growth is dormant and apply a granule type fertilizer. This will be carried down to the roots by the fall rains, freezing and thawing will open up the soil and spring rains will dissolve the fertilizer and make it available to the feeder roots. Half cup to one cup is a good general rule for each shrub according to the size.

Vines can be taken care of at the same time. Cut out dead wood and if the vine is badly matted last out little pruning and space them according to their eventual spread. Informal and naturalistic plantings are best spaced at a distance of about three fourths the branch spread at maturity. Shrubs are most beautiful when allowed to develop their characteristic proportions and habits of growth. Plant with plenty of growing room and prune the barest minimum to maintain an open structure.

Pause before you prune. Think first why you are going to prune, then how, and remember the six reasons and avoid the five errors listed above.

Your Car

Flooding, Leakage Hard on Gas

By EUGENE R. HILMOE

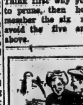
Every street and highway you travel is well spotted with evidence of oil waste via leakage. In many cases, oil loss is due to a slight seepage or drip from a faulty gasket or seal . . . at the oil pan, for example, or around valve cover plates. Less common are oil leaks from the fuel pump, the oil filter, or the distributor. Some minor oil leaks occur only after the engine has been running a while and the oil gets good and hot . . . thus they are not readily detected.

Some cars are also accused of using too much gas when actually they are losing part of it through leakage (or constant flooding). Gas leaks may occur from a split from tank to carburetor. The more likely spots are fuel line connections, fuel filter bowl, fuel pump breather hole.

From S. V.: "My car has a left rear noise from the direction of the shock absorber — but it's really only noticeable during or immediately after a rain. One garageman wanted to replace the rear shocks, although he couldn't sensibly explain why nothing happened in clear dry weather."

(A) A slightly loose spring is possible. Rear acting much like a lubricant, can exaggerate the looseness.

H.U. asks: "Reading all of the advantages of other brands tempted me to change to another gasoline, but it didn't help. Our car is sluggish, warms up very slowly and seems to eat gas. What brand do you recommend?"



(A) Don't be anxious to using the right grade . . . regular or premium. Secondly, keep in mind that no brand can compensate for poor spark timing, incorrect fuel mixture, inefficient cooling or inadequate lubrication.

L.C. writes: "Generally my car runs OK. In recent Mr. weeks when I drive up a steep or long hill, car speed dies out, but engine speed sounds as strong as ever. Shifting to low gear position seems to make no difference."

(A) Sounds like transmission slippage. Low fluid is probably the most common reason.

Q. Is it true that a car idles roughly and believe it or not, it sometimes stalls when I go around a sharp corner. A friend who knows cars well says this might be due to a binding float in the carburetor. Do you think he's right?

(A) It could be. Another possibility is looseness at the carburetor mounting which permits air leakage when the car banks toward one side.

Ask Henry

Henry invites letters from readers. For the most interesting letter he receives each week, he will award a copy of his best-selling book, "Ask Henry," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry—My father got a raise at work, a lot of extra money. But he told me not to tell anyone. How come?—WHY.

Dear Why—I don't understand it either but it seems that your parents are ashamed to be proud.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—My boy friend is always going out with other girls but he says he likes me and he's sorry.—HEARTBROKEN.

Dear Heartbroken—He can't like you that much if he leaves you waiting at home. Show him that he hasn't hooked you yet and go out with other boys. Seeing this he might be reasonable and sign a disarmament treaty.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I could give you a better version of how people should act than you gave in your column a little while ago. For instance, the woman with no children should stay home and give the job to some unemployed person. Then no one would throw stones on her lot. In the other letter the mother should stay home too so that she can look after her boy instead of working for extra beer and wine.

I am in the same position. Both my parents work and leave me to mother the baby sitter and brother so they have money to waste on bingo, have friends in and spend $25 on liquor. The result is I failed a grade, too tired to study, parents always cranky. I wish I was 16—A 14-YEAR-OLD.

Dear 14-year-old—Sure you are mad at everyone. My advice is to count to ten, rip up some paper and go to bed early.

Now let's pretend you are 16. You flunked your grades and can't get a good job. Then there is no fun to being 16. The best you can do now is to stop blaming things on your parents, and other working people and get to work hard yourself. Minding your brother and sister shouldn't be a roadblock to success.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a bigger sister that criticizes everything I say. What do I do?—MAD SISTER.

DEAR MAD SISTER—Be happy that your bigger sister takes the time to pay attention to what you do and say. You might learn something.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am 16 in grade 10. My boy friend is 15 in grade 9. My mother does not approve of him because he has been in a training school for a year.

People who have known him all his life say he has changed considerably since then. He is mannerly, clean and dressed decently and is nice to me. I have known him for three months and like him very much and cannot go steady until I'm 16.

He hangs around my brother and if my brother gets into trouble or does anything wrong my mother says that's my boy friend's fault. My father calls him an ex-convict and doesn't like me hanging around him.

The other day while he was swimming a sailboat tipped over and he swam out, helped them set it back up and helped a girl who was tangled up in the sails to get free. He is not a bad person when you get to know him. What can I do to persuade my parents to change their mind?—WONDERING.

Dear Wondering—I don't know how much of an angel your boy friend is but I'll take your word for it. Parents don't get persuaded on "vital questions." They have to be convinced.

Tell your boy friend to follow these helpful hints: Tell him not to play with your brother. Tell him to be always very polite and helpful to your parents. Tell him to try to get some touchdown marks at school. After you use the new plays, write me and tell me what the score is.

Belleville One of 27 Federal Harbors

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and provincial governments have agreed on the boundaries of 27 federally-owned public harbors, office announced today in confederation.

The settlement must be ratified by Parliament and by the Ontario Legislature before coming into effect.

Transport Minister Balcer introduced an act in the Commons today to approve the federal-provincial agreement.

It is designed to clear up confusion that began when the British North America Act vested ownership of all public harbors actually in use in 1867 in the hands of the federal government.

However, the act did not specify nor define the boundaries of the harbors used at the time of confederation.

The new agreement resolves this confusion by defining which harbors in Ontario are the property of Canada and what their boundaries are.

Under the agreement, the public harbors are:

Amherstburg, Belleville, Brockville, Chatham, Collingwood, Fort William, Gananoque, Goderich, Kincardine, Kingston, Kingsville, Leamington, Oshawa, Owen Sound, Penetanguishene, Port Arthur, Port Burwell, Port Hope, Port Stanley, Prescott, Princess Bay, Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie, Southampton, Toronto, Whitby and Windsor.

A Lift for Living

God Knows What We Will Do But Does Not Make Us Do It

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

How far is life predetermined? Did God a million years ago foresee and foretain that on this particular day of October 1962 we should be engaged in whatever we are doing?

Or take the question which has often been put to me, "Did God predestine that Judas should betray Jesus in order to carry out the divine plan of salvation? And if so, should Judas be blamed for being merely the instrument of the divine purpose? And of course, we might answer that if Judas deserves no blame for fulfilling a foreordained plan, then Jesus merits no praise for carrying God's plan through to the cross. Such reasoning reduces the question of predestination practically to absurdity.

But swing to the other extreme and say that there is no such thing as destiny at all. Say with Bertrand Russell: "Man is the product of causes which had no prevision of the end they were achieving; his origin, his growth, his hopes and fears, his loves and beliefs, are but the outcome of accidental collocations of atoms . . . Blind to good and evil, omnipotent matter rolls on its relentless way." Personally I cannot find it rational to believe that a blind shuffling of atoms could produce the mind of a Plato, the conscience of a Shakespeare or the character of a Christ.

I believe that our careers combine both the factor of destiny and the fact of personal freedom.

It is not hard for me, as an American, to believe that God has a destiny for our beloved nation. I think back a thousand years to that change in climate which caused a migration of the Turks from the heart of Asia westward toward the Mediterranean until they closed the eastern end of that sea. This shut off the European trade route to India, and caused Columbus, who was seeking a new route to India, to sail westward and discover America. Then the settlers began coming to these shores seeking God rather than gold, and these colonists eventually brought forth on this continent "a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." When I think of all this and put together the links in the chain of events by which our nation has come into being, I feel that America has a destiny in some divine plan.

Moreover, as one who calls himself a Christian as well as an American, I believe Christianity has a destiny. I let my imagination run back to the prehistoric period when the mountains began to emerge from the sea, and the giant dinosaurs began to blink their eyes and lick their bloody chops ,when amid these animals there appeared a being called man, comparatively small of stature but so mighty in power that he gained dominion over the earth, when among these billions of men was born one named Jesus so sinless and perfect, dying for His love and then so defeating death by His life that He has been a living and growing force for nineteen centuries, holding men fascinated even though they do not follow Him — when I consider all this, I believe "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself."

I believe that we must distinguish between God's foreknowledge and His foreordination. The All-Knowing God may be aware of what we will do tomorrow without prescribing that we do it. He may foreknow that I will walk out into traffic and get hit, but He does not force me to do it. We must remember that there is a difference between what God intends and what He allows.

God is a Father and He is raising us as children. If we were dogs, He could lead us by a chain and keep us out of traffic. But as children we must be given our freedom to grow up. Hence we can run into cars.-We can make wars. We can go to the devil if we choose.

God has a purpose for us, but we are free to defeat it. Without the possibility of being bad, there is no virtue in being good.

Moreover, if we try to learn God's purpose, we are free to help Him fulfill it. When a son becomes responsive to his father's will, the father can do new and better things with him tomorrow than he could today. Hence, although Our Heavenly Father has a purpose and plan for us, we do not need to sit back helpless saying that the future is all cut and dried. We can pray and work to change things for the better.

New Guinea Pagan Tribes Raid Mission

HOLLANDIA (AP)—At least 80 persons were killed and 76 wounded in a five-day battle between Christian Papuans and neighboring pagan tribes in the mountains of West New Guinea.

Rev. Charles Craig, secretary of an Australian Baptist mission north of the Baliem Valley, arrived in Hollandia Thursday with a report of the battle.

He said more than 1,000 tribesmen attacked the mission with bows and arrows Sept. 30 while 200 Papuans were praying ,at a church service. The tribesmen hoped to wipe out the Christians and liquidate the mission, which is operated by three Australian families.

A member of the mission tried to scare the attackers away by flying a Cessna plane over them at low altitude, but he abandoned this tactic when the pagans turned their bows and arrows on the plane.

Police finally drove the attackers off. Eighty villages were burned during the fighting.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

When Coach Claude Ruel trots his Montreal Junior Canadiens out on the ice here next Wednesday night his memory will jolt back to the last time he appeared in Memorial Arena.

And it won't be pleasant. For an incident occurred here that changed the entire course of the stocky young coach's hockey career.

It was the night of November 23rd, 1957. The Baby Habs were playing the Belleville McFarlands in a senior "A" league tussle.

There came a players' scramble along the boards late in the third period. Sticks flew high. There was shoving and pushing. After it was over they took Ruel off the ice, blood streaming down his face.

Ruel was rushed to hospital where it was ascertained he had suffered a severe eye injury. Two weeks later it was reported from Hull that the Habs' star defenceman had lost the sight of the eye.

Some of the Canadiens players blamed Russ Kowalchuk for the injury. But Ruel in a statement to the press said: "It was one of those things. It was purely an accident."

The loss of the eye was a serious blow to the young French-Canadien. He was well on the way to stardom and possibly the National League. It ended his hockey career but the parent Canadiens retained his services and he has blossomed into one of their top junior coaches.

Ruel at the time of the accident was a member of a Canadiens' star-studded powerful junior squad. With him were such names as Ralph Backstrom, Gilles Boivert, Jean Gauthier, Murray Balfour, Bobby Boucher, Terry Gray, J. C. and Gilles Tremblay, Bobby Rousseau, Claude Richard, Jean Laperriere, and others.

Coach Ruel and his Baby Habs will meet the Clinton Comets of the US Eastern League in an exhibition tilt on Wednesday. He heads the club that won the OHA junior "A" title last year, nosing out Hamilton Red Wings by a point. Hamilton went on to take the Memorial Cup.

The Comets also ended in first place in the United States Eastern League, but like the Junior Canadiens lost out in the playoffs after topping their schedule by 13 points.

Junior Canadiens will ice such players as Johnny Taylor, Ted Houston, Chuck Charlebois, Andre Laguex and Andre Bourdais, who won the OHA scoring championship last year. They have a promising new star in Jimmy Ingles from Pembroke and are solid in goal with George Holmes, who won the leading goaltending award in the league.

Some familiar faces and names will appear when the Comets take the ice. Back in goal is the veteran netminder, Normie Defilice. Benny Woit the former NHL star, who played on four Stanley Cup winners with the Detroit Red Wings, is the playing coach of the squad.

Then there are Jack Kane, who once tried out with the Belleville McFarlands, Skippy Teal, Tim Hook, Pete Babando, well known here; Ted Sydlowski, formerly of the Cornwall Cheries, Lennie Speck, Reg Mulholland (one of the family) and Art Rose.

Newcomers to the Comets are "Dusty" Blair, with the Soo Thunderbirds last year; Johnny Ayotte and Brian Collison, topflight Junior "A" stars from Western Canada.

Last, but by no means least and ready to toss his fedora and do the twist step of it will be my ebullient buddy of the ice lanes, the guy with the wayward blonde forelock, one Wren Blair.

They tell me since joining the exalted ranks of the pros, Wren carries an extra pair of tonsils with him. One set for the bench and the other for the dressing room. He carries an extra high gear set for interviews with sportswriters.

Wren is one of the guiding lights of the Comets, among his many other hockey activities. But to him a hockey game is a hockey game and with the little blonde behind the bench, the Comets will have fire behind their tails when they take the ice next Wednesday. Game 8.30.

College Net Title Is Split

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The weatherman said there was a 70-per-cent chance of rain for San Francisco today, threatening another postponement of the sixth game of the World Series.

Rain and strong winds forced postponement of the game between New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants Friday. The Yanks led the best-of-seven series 3-2.

Sixth Game Today? - Don't Bet On It

Players Get Edgy

By JOE REICHLER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An all-night rain threatened the already delayed sixth game of the World Series today between San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees.

Even before the downpour began Friday, the weather bureau announced there was a "60 to 70 per cent" chance of rain today with one to two inches expected to fall on already drenched Candlestick Park before scheduled game time.

"It will take four or five days for the field to become perfectly dry even if we had no more rain," said Matty Schwabe Jr., head of the grounds crew.

The sixth game was originally scheduled for Friday but baseball commissioner Ford Frick called it off.

The rain, which lasted all day Thursday and through most of Thursday night, had let up early Friday, but Frick examined the sodden field and promptly declared it "unplayable."

Players of both teams have become bored sitting round in their rooms or hotel lobbies, and even the rival managers were becoming irritated.

BATTERS GROW RUSTY

Yankee manager Ralph Houk, concerned that his hitters might become rusty, was seeking an indoor fieldhouse so his players could limber up should today's game be postponed.

"We haven't been doing much hitting in the series as it is," said Houk, "but this layoff is bound to hurt their timing even more."

Despite their lack of hitting the Yankees have won three of the five games played so far and need one more victory to clinch their 20th world championship in 40 years.

Giants manager Alvin Dark, bedded by a heavy cold, didn't like the postponement either but saw one ray of sunshine through the heavy clouds.

"I kept hoping we would be able to play," said Dark between sniffles.

Five players were up for it and my pitcher, Billy Pierce, was fit and ready. He will continue to be my pitcher, too, if we can get the game in.

"The postponement has provided us with one advantage, anyway. Now I am in position to pitch Jack Sanford in the seventh game with his normal three days rest. I had been considering both Sanford and Billy O'Dell. I may use O'Dell in relief of Pierce if the occasion calls for it."

Houk, too, planned to go with his original selection, Whitey Ford.

"Ford is my sixth game pitcher no matter when the game is played," he said.

Says Bobby Richardson

Rain Not Helping Yanks

This is another in a series of articles analyzing the World Series by Bobby Richardson, second baseman of the New York Yankees.

By BOBBY RICHARDSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—This is the toughest World Series in which I have ever played. I am not speaking about the Giants, who are tough enough. But this weather is frustrating.

All I've seen is rain ever since our return from New York. The rain couldn't come at a worse time, as far as I am concerned. Our club hadn't been hitting well in the series and we had hoped to get in some batting practice after arriving here.

Naturally, with the field absolutely unplayable, we didn't get any hitting practice Friday either. A few of us went out to Candlestick Park, anyway, but we found the field muddy and soggy.

I finally got a taste of the wind that I've heard so much about. Those gales were really blowing out there. Somebody said the winds were blowing at 60 miles an hour. Maybe they exaggerated a little, but it sure felt like it.

SHOP FOR GUNS

How does a player spend an off day? Well, yesterday, Tony (Kubek) and Yogi (Berra) and I took in some shopping. We visited a sporting goods store and looked at some guns. Tony and I do a lot of hunting during the off season. He hunts mostly pheasants and duck while I hunt mighty quail and duck. Yogi doesn't share our interest in hunting.

Yogi must be the most recognized athlete in America. While we were walking down the street, everybody in San Francisco must have recognized him. It was "hey, Yogi," "hya, Yogi," and "there's Yogi," everywhere. And you know something? He was embarrassed. That's how he's so wonderful. He can't believe he's famous.

Well, I hope we can finish the series before Thanksgiving. More than ever I want to get this over with in six games and I think Whitey (Ford) will do it.

Player Slugs Official in Soccer Brawl

TORONTO (CP) — A National Soccer League playoff game in which Olympica defeated Ohawa Italia 10 Friday ended with a slugging bout between a player and a linesman after an exchange of words between club officials.

A brawl between linesman Bill Smyth and Ohawa outside left Benito Dulella started after Smyth waved a red flag to give Olympia a throw-in. Dulella took a swing at the linesman. Smyth retaliated and the pair were separated after a minute or so.

Referee Derek Smyth said Dulella had been muttering at Smyth all during the game.

When the teams were heading for the dressing rooms an internal squabble broke out. George Schneider, an executive of the Olympia club and a league director, exchanged verbal blows with secretary Dave Slade.

Klaus Woltschatzke scored the lone goal.

Could Miss The Playoffs

Trimble's Tiger-Cats In Trouble

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don't look now, but Hamilton Tiger-Cats, early season leaders in the Eastern Football Conference, could conceivably be the team to miss the playoffs.

This, of course, must seem highly unlikely as Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts, battling for the last playoff spot, are tied five points behind Ti-Cats in the standings.

But Jim Trimble's Tabbies are in trouble. A combination of a continued downfall by Hamilton and a sudden spurt by passing Argos and Als could put both of the East's bottom clubs into the playoffs.

All three teams have four games remaining.

Montreal and Toronto meet at Toronto Sunday afternoon and Ti-Cats, on a three-game losing streak, play host to Saskatchewan Roughriders at Hamilton Monday night.

Because Montreal and Toronto play one another twice, they have a possible six points if they split—enough to put them both one point ahead of Hamilton if Ti-Cats don't snap out of it.

And two of Ti-Cats' remaining four games are against Montreal and Toronto. The fourth is against Ottawa Rough Riders.

Hamilton has been in a slump since regular quarterback Bernie Faloney was forced out of the lineup with a knee injury. Now the word is that Faloney is gone for the season.

Young Frank Cosentino was thought to be an adequate replacement, but this wasn't the case. Monday, Trimble will use Cosentino as a flanking halfback. Joe Zuger will call the signals.

If Zuger doesn't fill the gap, Trimble is at the end of the line. Zuger is his last quarterback candidate.

Argos, who are expected to dress A. D. Williams, a former NFL end, for his first Canadian game, will have to find a way to stop Montreal's Georges Dixon and quarterback Sandy Stephens.

Dixon, almost a sure bet to be chosen as Canada's outstanding player this season, is the East's leading scorer with 8 touchdowns which has scored only 18 points all season.

Stephens, dynamic in his debut against Argos early this year, has been improving steadily and can hurt a team by running or passing.

Giants Threaten Lead

Packers, Skins Favorites

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Green Bay Packers and Washington Redskins, only unbeaten teams in the National Football League, are favored to keep it that way Sunday, but the favorite tag looks more formidable on the Packers.

Green Bay, 4-0 and in first place in the Western Conference, travels to play the winless Minnesota Vikings (0-4) and is a three-touchdown favorite to whip a team it beat 24-7 in the season's first game.

Washington takes its zinder-ella act to St. Louis to play the Cards (1-3), one of its three victims to date. The astounding Skins, who won a total of two games the past two seasons, are first in the Eastern Conference with a 3-0-1 mark.

Should either fall, the challengers seem ready to move up.

Detroit's Lions (3-1) are tied with Chicago for second place in the west and are favored to take Los Angeles Rams (0-4). The Bears are slight choices over San Francisco 49ers (2-2).

COULD TAKE LEAD

The defending eastern champion New York Giants (3-1), in second place, open their home season against the Pittsburgh Steelers (2-2), and could take over the lead with a victory if Washington loses.

In other NFL activity Sunday, Baltimore Colts (3-2) are at Cleveland to meet the Browns (3-2) and Philadelphia (1-3) travels to Dallas (1-3).

The American League continues its weekend activity tonight, with San Diego at Buffalo. Dallas opened with a 27-7 victory over Boston Friday night, New York is at Houston and Denver plays at Oakland Sunday.

The defending NFL champion Packers, with 12 straight victories stretching back to last December, came out of last week's tough 9-7 victory over

Dallas Stuns Patriots

BOSTON (AP)—Dallas Texans stunned Boston Patriots 27-17 with a pair of Abner Haynes touchdowns, the second on a startling 63-yard pass play for the climax, in their American Football League battle Friday night.

The Texans' great ball - carrier squirmed two yards off his right tackle in the second quarter for Dallas's first touchdown. After the Patriots fought back on a 46-yard pass from Babe Parrilli to Larry Garron just before the end of the third quarter, Clatsop struck again. Quarterback Len Dawson threw a long pass which Haynes grabbed at the 30 before going the rest of the way.

Red Wings Out-Brawl Flyers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Hamilton Red Wings whipped Niagara Falls Flyers 3-1 here Friday night in a wild Ontario Hockey Association Junior A exhibition game. There were 106 minutes in penalties, including four game misconducts and four majors.

Pete Buerling, Jim Peters and Pit Martin counted for the winners and Gary Dornhoefer spoiled goaltender Buddy Blom's shutout bid.

Plante's Age, Or Asthma?

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Was it asthma or age?

Jacques Plante says it was Asthma. His team-mates say that's all it was, but there is a slightly hollow note to their voices. Other people wonder.

"I'll never go into a game in that condition again," said goaler Plante after the 5-0 nightmare that the Boston Bruins inflicted on Dallas's fans Thursday night.

Plante has kept keeps getting pesticide attacks of it—was particularly bad that night and he couldn't play his best, he explained. Coach Toe Blake backed him up.

"It's the last time I'll put him in the nets when he's feeling that way," promised Blake.

Plante has had his asthma and his bad games before, and he has recovered remarkably well.

That he recovers again, if he can, is the fervent hope of the Canadiens. As he goes, they generally go. This was proved last season when they took first place with Plante in the nets and beaten in the playoffs when he was injured.

His nerves system is as tight as a violin string. He is tense, moody, explosive, unpredictable. A Montreal doctor once said the asthma attacks were the result of simple nervous tension.

Whether Plante or the tension wins this season is what a lot of fans are betting on.

The Bruins-in their win over Canadiens were led by the cool, steady goal-tending of Eddie Perreault, a long-time minor leaguer who was called up early this season, when he is 31, to get a job as a regular NHL player.

In many respects, he resembles Toronto's own sensational Johnny Bower, who started to play away his prime years in the minors before becoming a NHL regular at his age no one likes to mention.

MEET IN TORONTO

Perreault and Bower meet in Toronto in tonight's game. Red Kelly, who plays hockey as well as politics, visited Toronto's opening game because of the flu but is expected to be in the lineup for the Leafs tonight.

Still doubtful is defenceman Allan Stanley, who has a shoulder injury.

Another old-time goaler Terry Sawchuk, recent convert to the Plante philosophy of covering up the face, leads the Detroit Red Wings into Chicago tonight.

The Hawks lost the Stanley Cup to Toronto last season and their opening game to the Leafs this season. They will be looking for a victory to boost their confidence.

Stan Mikita, their all-star centre, is out of action with a sprained ankle.

New York goes to Montreal tonight in hopes of spoiling Canadiens celebration day. The game is Montreal's home opener and a between-periods ceremony will be held to give the Canadiens' players the batches of trophies they won last year. That includes the Vezina and MVP prize to Plante.

Sunday: Montreal is at Detroit, Toronto at New York, and Chicago at Boston.

Gary Cowan Individual Winner

Yanks Take World Golf

BY ALAN CLINE

KAWANA, Japan (AP)—The United States, putting on the pressure in the final 18 holes, retained the Eisenhower Cup today by whipping a surprising strong Canadian team by eight strokes in the third world amateur golf team championship.

The individual championship went to Gary Cowan of Kitchener, the 1961 Canadian amateur champion, who was the only player to shoot par for the entire tournament.

Deane Beman, an oldtimer at international golf at 24, led the four-man U.S. team in beating back the Canadian challenge with a brilliant 66 on the difficult par-70, ocean-rimmed Fuji course.

Dick Sikes, U.S. public links champion, finished with a 69 and U.S. amateur champion Labron Harris, Jr. had 70, giving the Americans a 205 total for the 54-hole test and a 72-hole team score of 854 strokes.

TWO BROKE PAR

The Canadians, beginning the final round two strokes back, got 69s from Cowan and Bob Wylie of Surrey, B.C., who had been off his game until the final round, and a 73 from another former Canadian amateur champion, Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont.

Canada had 211 for the last 18 holes and 862 over-all.

The combined Britain-Ireland team placed third with 874 and New Zealand was fourth at 882.

The Japanese team finished competing on this 6,587-yard layout of undulating fairways and elevated, tricky greens, threw out the high daily score from among the four players. For the Americans this was a real break.

Billy Jo Patton, who at 40 was the old man of the American team, started off today with an 81, while his Canadian opponent of the day, Bill Mungall, 23, of Victoria struggled in with a 78.

PUTTING CLINCHES IT

This put the Canadians ahead by a stroke, but Beman's 66 accomplished with phenomenal putting, brought the United States back into the lead.

Beman, who finished with a total of 286, canned four birdie putts ranging from 25 feet to nine feet, winding up the 18th with his sixth birdie on a nine-footer.

Wylie picked up a stroke, but it was pretty certain that the Canadian cause was hopeless as Sikes got off to an excellent start and had a five-stroke lead on Weslock, 45, after nine holes.

Cowan, 23, won the low individual honors with rounds of 68-71-72-69—280, par golf and three strokes better than Sikes' 69-76-69-69—283.

Cowan said: "Beman dropped five putts on the back nine and that made the difference. I wasn't bad but I wasn't good enough."

Weslock's total for the tournament was 71-73-75-73—292. Wylie had 72-78-69-69—304 and Wakelam 76-73-72-78—299.

Looks Like This One Is Out, Too

TORONTO (CP) — A hectic intercollegiate tennis tournament ended Friday night with the University of Toronto tying the defending champions from the University of Montreal for the team title after three days of competition.

The annual championships ended with a tie for the team title, a three - way tie in doubles competition and almost a three-way tie in the singles event.

The team deadlock came when Toronto and Montreal earned 25 points.

Results Friday included:

Singles:

Bruce Denny - Brown, McGill, defeated Joe Gates, Assumption, 6-3, 6-3.

Jacques Potvin, Laval, defeated Mike Hackshaw, Assumption, 6-1, 6-3.

Robert Kelder, McGill, defeated Gary Flewelling, Assumption, 6-4, 6-2.

Hugh Parker, Toronto, defeated Gates 6-3, 6-1.

Clermont Dyon, Montreal, defeated Kelder 6-2, 6-2.

Gus Reinsch, Toronto, defeated Terry Fahlenback, Assumption, 6-4, 6-4.

Yves Pelletier, Laval, defeated Flewelling 2-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Crash Driver Walks Away From Crackup

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Roger Ward walked away from a spectacular crackup Friday when the two-time Indianapolis 500 champion went off the first turn at Riverside International raceway and rolled over twice.

Officials said a spindle on the right front wheel of Ward's Chaparral sports car broke, knocking out the steering wheel and brakes. The car was demolished but Ward escaped with back injuries which may keep him out of action 60 days.

Ward's mishap came in the midst of qualifying trials for Riverside's $32,225 Grand Prix.

American Hockey League

Clippers, Aces on Top

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Clippers and Quebec Aces—a most unlikely combination—are first place co-tenants in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League today.

The Clippers, a new entry in the league, made their debut Friday night with a 6-4 victory over the defending champion Springfield Indians, while the Aces, who finished second-last in the Eastern Division in the 1961-62 season, crushed the Providence Reds 4-2.

The results left the Clippers and the Aces with 1-0 records. Hershey now is the only team in the league that has not seen action.

In the only other game Friday night, Rochester Americans downed Cleveland Barons, 6-1.

SULLIVAN SCORES TWO

Player - coach Red Sullivan scored two of the Clippers' goals against the Indians. Springfield led 2-1 after the first period on the goals by Danny Anderson and John Sleaver. But at 2:11 of the second period Leon Rochefort tied it and Sullivan then sent the clippers ahead to stay.

The Aces jammed three goals home within 1:30 in the first than 12 minutes in the second period against the Reds. After a scoreless first period, Jean Attwell (2:38), Jim Morrison (10:30) and Skipp Burchell (11:44) broke the game wide open.

Rochester had no trouble with Cleveland, running up a 5-0 bulge after two periods, mainly through the efforts of Bruce Draper. The former Bear scored at 16:59 of the first period, set up Dick Gamble at 12:42 of the second, then whipped another goal home at 15:48. That was more than the Americans needed.

Hull, Kingston Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Either Gus Kyle's Syracuse Braves had a bad night, or the coach of the newest Eastern Professional Hockey League team underestimated Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

Earlier this week, Kyle, a newcomer to the league, boasted that he had the first-place team—one with a defence which would be tough for Sammy Pollock's defending champions.

But, Syracuse was whipped 6-1 at Hull Friday night in the season opener.

In the other opening game, Kingston Frontenacs, second-place finishers behind Hull last season, edged Sudbury Wolves 5-3 at Sudbury.

Defenceman Chuck Hamilton paced Hull-Ottawa with two goals and others were scored by Terry Harper, Brian Smith, Billy Carter and rookie Norman Beaudin.

Merv Kurzyluk scored the only Syracuse goal.

Gerry Ouellette scored twice for Kingston at Sudbury and Ed Westfall, Jim Hackbourn and Bobby Leiter scored the others.

Sudbury marksmen were Dave McComb, Paul Andrea and Marc Dufour.

Canadiens, who have won the Tom Foley Memorial Trophy two years in succession, again look to be a power in the four-team league.

Pete's Whip Guelph 7-1

GUELPH (CP)—Peterborough Petes defeated Guelph Royals 7-1 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A exhibition game Friday night.

Taking advantage of a series of penalties to Guelph, Peterborough ran up a 5-0 first-period lead and coasted to its second pre-season win of the week over the Royals. They won 3-1 in Peterborough Wednesday night.

Stu Mulrhead, Tom Carty, Ron Neud, Lorne O'Donnell, Roy Pyke, Danny Grant and Terry Pembroke scored for Guelph.

Cupid, Hill Share Golf Lead

Cupit, 24, in his second year on the pro tour, bounced back the picture Friday with an excellent six-under-par 66, lowest of the tournament, for the 36-36—72 Bakersfield Country Club.

Hill, 25, led the first round with a 67 and came in with a 69 Friday.

One stroke behind the leaders were Mason Rudolph, who had a 67 Friday, and Tony Lema and Jimmy Powell, each with 70.

George Knudson of Toronto and Stan Leonard of Vancouver each shot a 71 Friday while Al Johnston of Montreal had a 73. Knudson's score now is 70-141, Leonard's is 72-71—143 and Johnston's is 77-73—150.

Optimist Kuenn Says Sanford In Seventh!

This is another in a series of articles analyzing the World Series by Harvey Kuenn, outfielder of San Francisco Giants.

By HARVEY KUENN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If I rained again Friday, but this time I think it's to our advantage.

Our pitchers got another day of rest, and that's something that figures to help us a lot more than the Yankees. It's definitely going to help Jack Sanford in that seventh game—let me say right now that everyone still had the confidence we can win the series even though we are behind three games to two.

Another day of rest was good for Billy O'Dell and our whole bullpen, too, and of course Billy Pierce can always use an extra day.

Ralph Houk has been saying how Whitey Ford pitches better with three days rest, but I don't think the fourth day hurt Whitey any—he can use an extra day just like everyone else.

If we are rained out today, though, that would take a little edge off Whitey.

PREPPER TO PLAY

The Yankees won that fifth game so you might say they had the momentum, but I think the two days off—one for travel and one for rain—might have taken the edge off.

Outside of the pitchers, I think that everyone would just as soon we'd play the rain breaks. Everyone's tired at the end of a season, but we'd still like to play on through.

I'm not worried about the field. I think it drains water real well, and even with all the rain we had the outfield won't be too bad shape.

Another thing I'm not worried about is Ford. We got to him in New York and did pretty well in the first game. A lot of fellows that hadn't seen him before are facing him for the third time now, and they'll know how he's pitching against them.

Sports Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Seventeen years ago, Gordie Howe refused to sign with New York Rangers because they wouldn't give him a jacket. The Rangers weren't particularly impressed with the Floral, Sask. farm boy—they thought he was a bit awkward for National Hockey League play.

The New York decision was the best thing that could happen to Detroit Red Wings. Red Wings grabbed him and the "big fellah," as former general manager Jack Adams fondly refers to him, developed into a super-star.

This season, the 34-year-old right-winger should take a big stride towards becoming the league's all - time high goal scorer in regular season play, unless, of course, someone chops him off at the knees.

But Gordie has been an indestructible player in this heavy bodily-contact game and has missed only 18 games in the last 13 seasons. That, alone, is a record.

With the 1962-63 season under way, Gordie needs 43 goals to surpass the 544-goal total set up over a wild, temperamental year career by now - retired Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens.

STILL DEADLY SHOT

It isn't likely that Howe will reach the record this 70-game season, although just about anything is possible with him. He has been the backbone of the Red Wings for years and he still remains one of the most feared and deadly shots in the NHL.

He started this season with 502 goals in 16 seasons and there is no indication that he has lost his touch.

Last year, for instance, he ended the league schedule with 33 goals, an output that scores of younger chaps in the league would love to match. He never has been under 20 goals a season since he started to find the range in spectacular fashion back in 1949-50.

That season he scored 35. In 1951 he potted 43, the following season 47 and then reached a personal high of 49 in 1953. And, to prove this sharpshooting was no fluke, he won the scoring title in 1956-57 with 44 goals.

Up to this new season he had played 1,005 league games, 72 more than Richard who, late in his great career, suffered serious injuries. In his 16th season, the Rocket played only 28 games, 42 in his 17th season and finished his career in 1959-60 with only 51 game appearances.

Otherwise, it is conceivable the Rocket could have boosted his total by another 20 or 30 goals. But the way Howe is going, it is conceivable, too, that he could still beat the Rocket.

There's one consolation for Richard fans. He is likely to go down in history as the greatest scorer of all time in league and playoff games.

His total here is 626 goals. Howe started this term with 543.

Fullmer Tiger Bout Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The world middleweight championship boxing match between title - holder Gene Fullmer and challenger Dick Tiger of Nigeria has been postponed until Oct. 23.

Fullmer's camp announced Friday that the second postponement of the title fight at the same site.

Co - promoter Norman Rothschild said California's stranglehold on keeper Matty Schwab informed him the ballpark would not be ready for Tuesday's scheduled outdoor fight.

To avoid conflict with the Fullmer-Tiger fight, the Olympic auditorium group in Los Angeles postponed the Archie Moore - Cleveland Clay heavyweight bout scheduled there Oct. 23. The new date was not announced.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

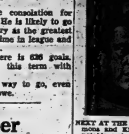
A couple of weeks ago man-handling Mike McNab of Vancouver Canucks was talking to a friend about his rookie goalkeeper, pintsized Gilles Villemure.

"I think he's going to be all right," McNab said. "He has good moves."

Villemure was all of that in Vancouver Friday night in his professional debut with the Western Hockey League club. He stopped 23 shots in a 2-0 shutout over Seattle Totems.

Los Angeles Blades, last-place finishers in the Southern Division in 1961-62, whipped Edmonton Flyers 4-1 for the second straight loss for the defending league champions. Portland and Victoria opened San Francisco Seals 4-3.

Veteran Phil Maloney sparked Blades' attack, scoring the first goal and assisting on Buddy Boone's clincher.



Stan Maxwell, Fleming Mac-lell, Bruce Carmichael and Gord Labreche scored for Los Angeles. Edmonton's lone goal was scored by Don Chic.

A seaman advantage allowed Orv Tessier and Bill Saunders to score the tying and winning goals for Portland as Larry McNabb served a major penalty in the third period.

Tessier's goal was his second of the night. Arlo Goodwin scored the other Buckaroo goal while Ed Panagakos, Leo Haley and Al Nicholson scored for the Seals.

COLTS BUY WILLIAMS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles announced Friday the sale of outfielder Dick Williams to Houston Colts. Williams hit .247 in 82 games with Baltimore this year but batted .319 with 11 runs batted in as a pinch-hitter.

NEXT AT THE BELLE — Jean Simmons and Kirk Douglas, head a fabulous cast of stars in "Spartacus," in Roxarama, notable for its unique wide screen, at the Belle. Also see how many set in a Dracula, or eye-filling spectacle "Spartacus" opens tonight at 8.00 and 8.00 p.m. at the Belle.

AT THE BELLE — Last Day — Doris Day reminisces with Cary Grant's charm as they star together in "Send Me Nowhere," a refreshingly romantic comedy in colour, now at the Belle and they also co-star in "Move Over Darling" and Audrey Meadows are co-starred.

PACKERS

Detroit without an injury.

This season's Lee Viking's beleaguered defences will have to stop fullback Jim Taylor, the NFL's top rusher, and try and cope with the loop's best defence. Minnesota has not been able to show any consistent attack to date.

The Redskins, 24-14 victors two weeks ago over the Cardinals in Washington, are also in good shape. The Cardinals have benched veteran quarterback Sam Etcheverry, former/Montreal Alouette star, for second year pro Charley Johnson.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Johnny Lee Hal, three-year-old pacer owned by Jack Kennedy of Ancaster, Ont., won his third straight race at Western Fair Raceway Friday night, pairing the feature $900 invitation pace for three and four-year-olds.

Johnny Lee Hal, winning in 2:11 2-5 for six times-the-board payoff of $3.60, $2.80 and $2.70, just managed to take the race by a nose from Karen Direct, the only four-year-old in the mile dash. Charon Star was third in the seven-horse field.

Johnny Lee Hal's share of the purse was $600, boosting his earnings for the year to $7,117.

A total attendance of 2,657 waged $74,135 in mutuel betting.

FAIR SUSPENDED

TORONTO (CP)—Nine Woodbine horsemen have each been suspended for six months, for possession of electrical apparatus at the track, the Ontario Racing Commission announced Friday.

Bans on owner Rade Segedinac and trainer Sean Engleby were made effective back to Sept. 6.

The official charge is "possession of an electrical device designed to increase or decrease the speed of a horse (or that would tend to do so), namely an electric battery and a buzzer, respectively."

Wandering Cliff Arquette Back in California, to Stay

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The gypsy life of Cliff Arquette has led him back to California, that time to stay.

That's what he says, anyway. But you never can tell about Cliff. Life has been one continuous surprise for him.

Cliff is that old fussbudget of Jack Parr fame. Charlie Weaver. But Charlie is not Cliff, if you get what I mean. Cliff himself is a razor - sharp, jolly fellow who seems to fuss not at all.

Cliff - Charlie now appears every Saturday night on the new Roy Rogers variety show over ABC-TV. For Arquette it is a return to the area where he spent the bulk of his performing years.

"I guess I was out here about 30 years in all," he recalled. "For a while I was following radio wherever it went. I started in Chicago when the big action was there. Then I moved to New York and I went with it. Then back to Chicago, then out to Hollywood."

PLAYED MANY PARTS

Longtime Californians remember the many characterizations on local and network radio shows; my favorite was a lovable old bag named Aunt Addy.

"I was always playing old men and old women," he laughed. "I used to say some day I would grow into these parts. Now I'm almost there!"

His crew - cut white hair and bristlelike belly re the only indications, however. He looks totally different and many years younger when not in his Charlie Weaver get-up.

Cliff had to quit the business before reaching his greatest fame. He had been retired for a couple of years when Jack Paar asked him to come on his late-night show.

"I don't think so, Jack," Cliff replied. "I'm tired of having some bright boy out of Harvard tell me the old man should trim his moustache or wear his pants a little higher."

Paar assured him there would be no ad - agency boys to interfere. So Cliff agreed and returned to centre - stage. "Because if we have one and we get mad at each other, the lawyers get all the money."

The handshake did it, and four highly successful years followed. When Paar quit the show, so did Cliff.

PROFITABLE MUSICAL

A £50,000 deal with theatre ticket agencies has assured Noel Coward's "Sail Away" of making a profit on its London run.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday, October 14
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Analyze reserves. Take time to think, plan. Day for summing up. Spiritual advice should be heeded. Attend concert or other entertainment with family members.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Take initiative in suggesting improvements. Spotlight on hidden talents. Hobby could be turned into profitable venture. Encourage and accept added responsibility.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be sensitive to "undercurrents". Analyze expressions, notions? Be alert to changes. Attitude of loved one may serve as barometer. Attend to practical affairs early.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Organization, club, activities in connection with hobby command attention. Take care in communicating feelings, thoughts. Say what you really mean.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Learn by teaching. Take time to answer questions young person asks. Obtain new knowledge by reading. Visit from one you respect could make this a banner day. Be ready!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Pleasure indicated in connection with family members, friends. Fine for reunion, buffet-type dinner. Good time to finish postponed details.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Take time to investigate. Read check references. Arrive at delayed conclusions. Good for writing, stimulating conversation. Be patient with friend.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Caution would be better part of valor today. Refrain from restlessness. Overcome tendency to "move" merely for sake of change. Count "ten" before acting. Attend church for inspiration.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Best for remaining close to home; for attending spiritual services with family members; and for striving to eradicate recent domestic friction. Good talk could clear the air.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Self-analysis is important. Be sure you know what you want. You could get your wish. Make for desires clear. Relations with loved ones improve. Help this along!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Clear up chores which have been "left hanging". Be moderate in eating, drinking. Good for dining out tonight, trying new dishes. Think about what you can make of future.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Excellent for obtaining ideas from written word. Keep mind open, alert. You could see the "light". Act on intuition. Avoid person who attempts to discourage originality.

If today is your birthday . . . you have had exciting, active year, and this month sees more of the same. Try to develop your ability to impart personal enthusiasm to others.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Aries, Taurus, Gemini. Spotlight is moved to Scorpio. Your feeling of wanting to "break through" is basically healthy. But this is not the best time. Accept "cooling off" period.

For October 15

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Make each action count. Best to keep work to minimum. Let ability speak for itself. Assert authority if necessary. Financial success depends upon business-like approach.

Taurus (Apr. 21 to May 20): Tension could cause break. Be prepared. Opposing forces are in weak position. Your own cycle continues high. Best to finally let skeptic know that you hold key cards. Be firm.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Job takes on new glamour. Appeal based on fact that you are asked to give your best. Means you have opportunity for creative approach. Be original. Take a chance. Set new pace.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Favorable lunar aspect; today means friends present problems which you help solve. And this in turn helps you. Be co-operative, stress sincerity. Your own problems will soon disappear!

Leo (July 23 to Aug 21): Day for expanding activities. No time to feel you have gone as far as possible. Begin to jot down ideas for advertising, promotion. Think over proposal which involves journey, or a change.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Best to get "close up" of intriguing situation. Means you may take short journey to "see for yourself." You may find there is more fluff than reality. Check details.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Push ahead for change, travel, romance. Express yourself through creative arts. Money matters challenge your ingenuity. Perhaps a petty annoyance here, but problems soon overcome.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may be giving more credit than is due. This becomes very clear later. Stop brooding over person who has only your assistance to claim as an asset. Be realistic. Your worry is changed to feeling of gratitude.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Deter into hidden or obscure matters. Day when you are able to "read between the lines." Show initiative. Do what comes naturally. Let curiosity, sense of humor have full play.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Day when you can shine with pride. Some research, or extra work performed in recent past, pays off. You could be commended for sense of responsibility. Group, job or personal honor appears to mark day.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Like Taurus, go your own way. If it's opposition, make short work of it by stating the facts. Self-confidence works wonders today. Whatever you do, be definite in purpose.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Avoid journey which merely wastes time, tires you emotionally and physically. Speak up for your own position. Don't depend upon others to set the record straight.

If today is your birthday — you are enthusiastic about the creative arts. You have magnetic personality and would do well in acting or writing.

* * *

General Tendencies: International friction affects stability in numerous areas. Buyers' market indicated. True picture not completely in focus.

The Golden Years

Man and Wife Want to Spend Half Time at Home, Half Away

By THOMAS COLLINS

"We have always lived in Icicle country. My husband will retire next year and we want to move to sunshine country ... at least during the icicle season.

"Our income will total $242 from pensions. We own our home. We have built up a nest egg of $21,000 which is in a savings and loan association at 4½ per cent return, or about $75 a month.

"We would like to rent an apartment in the sunshine from Nov. 1 to Apr. 30 each year, then come back to our home for the comfortable six months. We figure that rent on the quarters we would like with run about $90 a month, or $1000 a year.

"We plan to take this $1000 a year out of our savings and loan association account. Since we both are 64 now, our program would carry us into our mid-70's. By then we could discover a gold mine, or something. Else we could come back to the Icicles for good on our $242 basic income - until the Master called us.

"I'm nervous about doing this. So is my husband. But, so help me, we are going to try it ..."

This is a familiar song of retirement.

All over, there are couples between 60 and 65 who are figuring in this vein, and who are working out schemes to hold to this and reach for that. It's not necessarily bad.

But what is a fair appraisal of the retirement plan of the nervous wife and her husband?

A BIT COCKEYED

Financially, it's a bit cockeyed but it should work. Life expectancy for a couple at 64 doesn't extend beyond the mid-80's. If they live longer than that, and their $21,000 has been exhausted in sunshine rent, then their $242 a month (plus their house) should see them through with dignity to age 100.

But every $1000 they spend from their savings will cut their income from this source by $42.50 a year. Every year they will be a little less able to handle a long illness or major family crisis because every year they will feel — and be — a little poorer.

Even if the couple has no desire to leave the $21,000 to heirs, there is protection in holding to it — especially when there is such a small gap between the $892 a year income they now get from the savings and the $1,000 a year they want.

There are other problems for the icicle couple. They will find that six months of renting in the sunshine will get them few friends and few social invitations. The faces they come to know will forget, or be gone, after they go back home for six months. And it is people more than temperature that make retirement good.

Something similar will happen in the old neighborhood back home. Friends at retirement age go away or die. Those who remain pick up a new life that has little room for somebody who spends six months of the year somewhere else.

And it is not good for a house to leave it locked up six months of the year.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

Some suggestions for this couple:

Ask a good life insurance company what kind of deal it can give you on a lifetime annuity for your $21,000. This may be the highest income you can get. If this doesn't suit you, stick with savings and loan.

Consider renting in the sunshine for only January, February and March each year, instead of six months, then close up your house and leave it. You can maintain your neighborhood contacts this way.

Or consider renting in the sunshine for nine months a year, (make it the nine months of the school year) and leasing out your home to teachers. You can make and keep friends in the sunshine this way.

Don't start easing up $1,000 a year.

Don't fit around in the sunshine. Pick one community and stay with it, whether for three months or nine. Only in this way can you cultivate permanent friends.

Finally, consider leasing out your house for a year and shoot the works on the sunshine country, with a view toward making it a year-around home. Half-North and Half-South couples are seldom as content as the couples who pick one or the other and stay put; and they're usually twice as weary, since travelling back and forth becomes a bother not too long after 65.

Race, Language Rivalry Causes Riot In Brussels

40 Arrested as Flemings Give Battle And Walloons Battle

BRUSSELS (AP)—Police held 40 persons today after thousands of Flemish-speaking Belgians swarmed into Brussels and clashed with French-speaking Walloons they accused of "subjugating" them.

Members of both groups were taken into custody as a result of the outbreaks Sunday which injured about 20 persons. Counter-demonstrations by Walloons continued far into the night.

The race and language rivalry goes back 132 years to Belgian independence and it repeatedly has threatened the country's unity. Although the Flemings now have a majority in Parliament, they claim discrimination continues, especially in Brussels.

Officials estimated 25,000 to 50,000 Flemings from northern Belgium invaded the capital to stage a protest march. But their sweep across the city from the southern railway station had scarcely begun before they crashed into Walloon counter-demonstrators.

The crowds pelted each other with rotten eggs, tomatoes, iron bars and stones. Two persons were hurt by sticks, staves and thunderflashes, a kind of firecracker that can burn severely. Only two of the injured required hospital treatment.

Shortly after the battle were the furry remains of baby chicks. Flemings had trampled the chicks as an insult to the Walloons, whose symbol is the rooster.

A thousand gendarmes, reinforced by riot squads armed with tear gas and water trucks, had difficulty restoring order.

The Flemish marchers were mostly young men and girls, many from farms. They carried yellow flags stamped with the black rampant lion.

The Walloons countered by waving yellow buttonhole emblems imprinted with red roosters. They carried posters in Flemish which said: "Friends of Brussels. Return to your village."

Wat Anter, president of the Flemish Action Committee for Brussels said there are 500,000 Flemish people in Brussels with no representation in Parliament.

"We want Flemish schools for all Flemings," he said, "and we want the barriers between Flemish-speaking and French-speaking Belgium to be set once and for all. We are not for absolute equal language facilities in Brussels—even in private shops."

Four Injured By Blast In Port Hope Cafe

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Michael Wladyka called for an Ontario Energy Resources Board inquiry after a gas explosion ripped apart a cafe today, sending two to hospital.

The mayor said council would want to know why it took Lakeland Natural Gas Company Limited officials about two hours to cut supply to the area.

Firemen said the explosion occurred in the Parkland Cafe kitchen after workmen installing a unit in an adjoining building accidentally cut a gas pipe.

Mayor Wladyka phoned the resources board and demanded an immediate inquiry. He said the board would send an inspector to Port Hope.

In hospital are cafe owner Bill Barrett, suffering from second-degree burns, and Mrs. John Francey, suffering from shock. Mrs. Francey lives in one of two apartments above the cafe.

Mrs. Barrett and her two children, Nancy, 6, and Lynn, 11, were discharged after treatment for minor injuries.

Police sealed off the entire block and, cleared adjoining stores of stock, but firemen said they would be able to prevent the fire spreading.

They estimated damage will probably total $50,000.

Port Hope is 25 miles east of Oshawa.

OAS 'Suspends' Attempts to Kill de Gaulle

PARIS (Reuters) — Former colonel Antoine Argoud of the Secret Army Organization said in a letter delivered to the French news agency today that the terrorist "national council of resistance" has suspended attempts on President de Gaulle's life pending a national referendum, Oct. 28.

It called for a "yes" vote in the referendum on whether future French presidents should be elected by popular vote.

Portable Device Can Shock Heart Into Resuming Its Normal Beat

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) At home one day 2½ years ago, a man suddenly keeled over, apparently dead of a heart attack.

Today he is alive and well, thanks largely to an electrical device about the size and weight of a heavy suitcase, it shocked his dying heart back to its normal beat.

This new portable device has brought three men and one woman back from the dead. And it promises to save hundreds of people who otherwise would die of heart attacks, drownings or electric shocks.

The machine was described today to the American College of Surgeons at the opening of its 48th clinical congress by Dr. James R. Jude, William B. Kouwenhoven, a medical engineer, and G. Guy Knickerbocker, an engineer of the Johns Hopkins University school of medicine in Baltimore.

The human heart normally is regulated by its own electrical current, Jude explained.

But often in heart attacks, it begins to beat so rapidly but feebly that there is no recognizable pulse. To all intents, the person is dead. This heart trouble is known medically as ventricular fibrillation.

Electric shocks, applied on the chest directly to the heart after the chest has been opened, can stem the wild beating and restore normal rhythm. Many hospitals have such devices now working from alternating current.

The Hopkins team developed the portable machine. It weighs 45 pounds and contains condensors or capacitors which can be charged through batteries from an automobile or by plugging the device into a wall socket.

So far, it has been used only in the hospital. But the goal is to be able to take it to the victims.

Jude said it is hoped the machine ultimately can be carried to where it is needed, at home or at beaches.

Two minutes of the wild beating can be fatal unless the heart chest massage and artificial respiring is carried through by a trained person.

LIBERALS SPELL OUT MEDICAL CARE PLAN

Would Include Every Resident

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said here Saturday night that a Liberal government would introduce a universal medical care insurance plan financed by individual premiums and a special medical care tax.

Such a plan, Mr. Wintermeyer told delegates to the Ontario Liberal Association's one-day meeting here, could be worked out in co-operation with the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Ontario Medical Association.

"Every resident of Ontario, regardless of his ability to pay is entitled to medical care," said Mr. Wintermeyer. "The people of this province, today, are paying for the cost of medical services in one way or another. A public plan covering everyone is the cheapest way to pay this cost."

The Ontario Liberal leader said such a plan would cost about $175,000,000 in the first year of operation.

PASSED UNANIMOUSLY

Earlier in the day, delegates unanimously approved a resolution that a provincial Liberal government introduce a universal plan...the features of which would be:

Administration by a medical care insurance commission, including representatives of government and the medical profession;"

Coverage for home calls, office or hospital treatment by general practitioners or specialists;

Financing by a combination of individual premiums and medical care taxes, the former independent of the consolidated revenue fund of the province;

Freedom for the group practice in or outside the plan, choice their doctor, and freedom for patients to choose their doctor;

Coverage to include all diagnostic and treatment services of a physician-medical, surgical and obstetrical care, dental services, x-ray and laboratory services;

Coverage for all Ontario residents, regardless of age, health or ability to pay;

Coverage for prescription drugs to old age pensioners and recipients of federal, provincial welfare or disability allowances.

The resolution also added that an income maintenance plan for persons prevented from working by illness "will be considered by a Liberal government as the next major step forward in the province's field of social justice."

Mr. Wintermeyer told delegates at a Saturday banquet that a Liberal government in

Former Mental Patient Kills Girl, Then Self

HAMILTON (CP)—Ills Trkulja, 33, former mental hospital patient, Saturday shot and killed his 21-year-old girl friend then turned the revolver on himself, police said today.

Police said the killings were a murder-suicide pact, evidence shows.

The bodies of Trkulja and Vas Kovljenich, the daughter of his best friend, were found in a car by friends.

Miss Kovljenich had been shot three times in the chest and once in the right knee. Trkulja had two bullet wounds in his chest.

Early today an unsigned note written by Trkulja was found in a dresser drawer at his boarding house.

Police said Trkulja was released from hospital care after treatment for mental depression. He bought a revolver two days later.

Trkulja and Nico Kovljenich, the dead woman's father, had been close friends for years and came to Canada together from Yugoslavia in 1951.

The dead man left his wife and children in 1959 and went to stay with the Kovljenich family two years ago.

Give Assurance West Will Keep Berlin Access

As Red Move Awaited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has assured West Germany that it is determined to maintain the right of civilian as well as military access to West Berlin against any new Soviet move aimed at isolating the city.

U.S. policy on this point is understood to have been stated emphatically to West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, who began a round of strategy talks with state Secretary Dean Rusk here Sunday.

Schroeder will be followed by Washington Nov. 7 by West German Chancellor Adenauer, who wants to discuss the Berlin situation with President Kennedy in advance of a possible June meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on the Berlin dispute.

Kennedy, Rusk and other Western leaders believe that Khrushchev is planning some new action which may precipitate a fresh Berlin problem before the end of the year. U.S. officials see a chance that before taking any decisive step the Soviet leader may want to let the United Nations General Assembly session in New York end and also confer with Kennedy in the hope of winning Western concessions on Berlin.

AIR ROUTS VITAL

If the Russians launch an invasion of Berlin, they would cut the Western position in Berlin the point of attack may well be the surface and air routes across East Germany linking the city with West Germany. The U.S. policy decision on civilian right of access, therefore, is considered of vital importance.

Western diplomats say it is expected that the East Germans will shortly institute some regulation requiring regular diplomatic visas for civilians crossing East German territory to the Western sector of Berlin.

The East Germans already handle the flow of traffic on the Autobahn and transportation to West Berlin and superficially a visa requirement would not appear to change the situation materially. But if it were coupled with a Communist claim of sovereignty it would almost certainly be considered by the Soviet as opening the western hold on Berlin's lifelines.

The United States, Britain and France maintain their position in Berlin and their access to the city as a right of occupation resulting from the Second World War. The right of access has sometimes been narrowly interpreted as meaning only the right to supply military forces but not to secure and safeguard civilian traffic.

U.S. administration officials say such a narrow interpretation no longer makes sense and the occupation powers have a duty not only to protest West Berlin but to provide for the economic health of the 2,300,000 people.

West Berlin Mayor Willy

Catholic Council May End Pledges Now Imposed in Mixed Marriages

ROME (AP) — Reliable sources say the Roman Catholic Church's ecumenical council may dispense with the pledges now demands of non-Catholics who'd marry Catholics.

The sources said there also is a chance the council may change its attitude to the other Christian churches. Exchanges between Pope John and other Christian leaders have been cordial.

A fitness of mind can be detected in public statements by the Pope and such other prominent Christian leaders as Dr. Ramsey. The Anglican leader commented last week that there are many issues on which the views of the Anglican and Catholic churches "would be substantially identical."

The Pope made a markedly similar statement Saturday, telling Protestant observers at the council he did not know of any issue on which Christians "were divided on principle."

Question Men Who Sank Cuba Patrol Boat

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Six men described by the U.S. Coast Guard as raiders who sank a Cuban patrol boat and rescued two wounded Cuban militiamen east of Havana are being questioned by immigration authorities.

The unidentified men were taken to Key West by a coast guard boat from the British island of Cay Sal Sunday night. They had sought refuge at Cay Sal after the raid. Reporters were flown from the tiny island of the southeast Florida coast to Miami by helicopter. They were listed in fair condition at a hospital after surgery for bullet wounds.

District Immigration Director Edward Ahrens said one of the two, Sgt. Filberto Suarez Lima, 25, asked for asylum in the United States. The other man was identified as Cpl. Miguel Montina, about 30.

Ahrens said the two told immigration officers they and two unidentified men were on a patrol duty in an 18 - foot boat, off Varadero Beach, east of Havana.

Cao and Suarez said a larger boat opened fire on them about 11 p.m. Friday, sinking their vessel and wounding CAO in the groin and Suarez in the leg. The two men boat said rescued the larger boat lifted the two militiamen from the water. The wounded men were refloated to shore when last seen, Suarez said.

ACCOUNTS CONFLICT

Suarez' account of the incident conflicted with a Cuban armed forces ministry announcement that a gunboat vessel had attacked a pleasure yacht, apparently killing two persons.

The incident, if true, took place in the Cardenas Bay area in Matanzas province, was reported by Havana radio as "Yankee imperialism."

Anti - Castro action groups in Miami Monday announced they had no part in the raid.

Alpha, 66, which claimed killing 20 "enemy men" in the attack on Cay Sal Feb. 3, said it had no part in the raid.

The Cuban student revolutionary directorate, which claimed a Havana hotel Aug. 17, also said it knew nothing other than news accounts of the incident.

A Cuban exile, Antonio Bustillo, however, said the raid had been planned in Cuba by Cubans in Miami. Bustillo identified the raiders as Manolo Quiza, Manuel Rodriguez, Jose Gonzalez, Juan Espinosa, Jorge Rodriguez and Roberto Farzon.

50 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA DURING WEEKEND

Forty Die In Traffic Mishaps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fifty persons died in weekend accidents in Canada, 40 of them in traffic accidents.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to Midnight Sunday, local times, shows Quebec had the highest toll with 17 traffic deaths, two drownings and one person killed in a fall.

Friday night's disastrous Pacific Coast storm was blamed for five deaths. A traffic accident, a drowning and three others.

The toll by provinces, with traffic deaths bracketed: Quebec 20 (17); Ontario 10 (7); British Columbia 8 (4); Alberta 4 (4); Nova Scotia 3 (3); New Brunswick 2 (2); Saskatchewan 2 (2); Manitoba 1 (1). There were no accidental deaths associated with normal weekend activities in Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

Five persons drowned, two in Ontario, two in Quebec and one in British Columbia. An accidental shooting killed one man in Ontario.

The survey does not include industrial or natural deaths, slayings nor known suicides.

Ontario deaths:

Frank Graham, 53, of Keswick, struck by car Friday near Lake Dr. Keswick.

Patrick Beguil, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beguil of Attikokan, drowned in the Attikokan River Saturday.

Richard Beal, 8, of Lively, near Sudbury, drowned in Lake Penage Saturday.

Steve Koca, 45, of Trenton, whose car collided with a train Saturday near Trenton.

Joseph Crawford, 14, of Kerwood, when the car in which he was a passenger rolled over near Alvinston Saturday.

Glen Davey, 18, of RR1 Harrowsmith, and Thomas Sigsworth, 25, of Hardington, when their car smashed into an embankment near Kingston Sunday night.

Oliver Robinson, 22, and Normal L. Turpin, 21, both of Toronto, when a car smashed into a pedestrian island in Toronto Saturday night.

Ronald Jodway, 20, of North Augusta, shot with a .22 calibre rifle in his farm home 12 miles north of Prescott Saturday while preparing to go hunting.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—A 15-year-old junior high school student died Saturday night while doing the twist at a school dance. Authorities said David Ross suffered a heart attack.

India to Fight to Last Man To Oust Chinese -- Menon

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Indian government has served notice on Communist China that Indians will "fight to the last man" to oust Chinese from "illegally-occupied" Indian soil.

Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon said in a speech Sunday India will not negotiate her border dispute on the basis of surrender. Indian had not violated Chinese territory and there was no place where a single Indian soldier was on Chinese territory.

"We will fight 'to the last man, the last gun," Menon said in his speech to Congress Party workers.

He said India had no quarrel with the Chinese people—only with the Communist administration which has occupied areas of India and maligned India's position.

The border dispute revolves around India's claim that Chinese troops have occupied 10,000 years ago.

acres of Indian territory. The Chinese claim it is Chinese territory and charge the Indians have committed acts of aggression in the territory which lies along India's northeast frontier.

Menon said the decision to oust China from the disputed land came only after India had exhausted its traditional policy of patience and friendship with China. He said the decision will be carried out if it takes "one day, or a hundred, or a thousand."

At the time Menon accused Pakistan of taking advantage of India's dispute with China by negotiating with the Chinese on the border demarcation between Sinkiang province and the part of Kashmir Pakistan controls.

But on Friday, 100 Chinese troops were reported to have been killed in the biggest clash the Indian troops since the border dispute began three years ago.

Cleaning Up Havoc Caused By Hurricane Freida in B. C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Roaring gasoline saws cut through trees covering highways and power lines or blocking traffic.

Some families gorged themselves on food in fireplaces and on camp stoves.

Telephone and power linemen spliced broken wires and replaced shattered poles. High-way and railway workers struggled to clear debris.

Householders and contractors patched leaky roofs and replaced broken windows.

This was the scene as British Columbia's lower mainland continued clearing up havoc caused by hurricane Frieda Friday.

The hurricane, which started near Mare Island Friday across the Pacific, caused damage in B.C. estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Another storm a day earlier added to the damage. Death toll for the two storms was six.

B.C. Hydro and Power authorities could not say when full power would be restored. Linemen from several interior points were brought here to work on what officials described as the worst disruption in the grid's history.

Trees crashing down on three cars caused deaths.

Many families went back to the era of the candle and kerosene lamp. Supermarkets put thawing frozen food on sale during the weekend. One woman was seen to take two market baskets full of half-price food.

Many houses lost their roofs.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The west coast from San Francisco to British Columbia mopped up today after hurricane winds and torrential downpours left at least 47 dead and scores homeless in one of the vast area's worst storms of the century.

Damage amounted to uncounted millions in northern California and western Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. Not even a rough estimate of the total loss could be tabulated.

Parts of major cities and many communities in the storm area still were without telephone service. Emergency phone crews flown into the area in chartered planes were patching the lines today.

Pope Atlas, windrush tail of two dying Pacific typhoons — struck the coast Thursday and Friday, battering Oregon the hardest. It lost its punch Sunday as it moved inland and rain began to ease in the mountains.

Fair weather was forecast for San Francisco today. The forecast for the rest of the coast was "partly cloudy" and the weather will some rain, but normal winds and a little sunshine by Tuesday.

REBUILDING AHEAD

The job ahead: Caring for the homeless—more than 150 families in Oregon alone; restoring broken gas lines, power lines and telephone service; clearing sewers, streets and highways of storm debris — tons of mud, windblown trees, shattered billboards and signposts; shoring up sliding houses and clearing

Assessment Officers of Five Counties Meet in Lindsay

District No. 5 of the Association of Assessment Officers of Ontario is taking in the five counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Durham and Northumberland, Victoria and Haliburton, held it annual convention at Lindsay on Friday, about 60 delegates attended the conclave held in the new provincial government building.

The president of the Ontario Association, John VanHassell, of Sudbury, brought the meeting up-to-date on the many facets of the provincial organization and also reported on the national convention held in the U.S.A.

Lorne Cummings, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, reported on research committee work in his department and on municipal assessment costs and legislation.

He told the meeting that the department's new assessment manual would be off the press by the end of 1953.

Frank Purnell, deputy assessment commissioner for the city of Peterborough, reported on the Institute of Municipal Assessors, noting there were over 220 institutes presently installed and that 70 others were enrolled in the first year of the three-year-course at Queen's University.

TALKS ON AMENDMENTS

Maurice Jelly, regional supervisor for the Department of Municipal Affairs at Peterborough addressed the meeting in the absence of Department Minister Hon. Fred Cass, outlining delegates up to date on new amendments in the assessment act. He also talked on the equality of assessment values and on private bills.

Those addressing the meeting were Mr. Dixon, solicitor for Dominion Stores, and Leighton Thompson, assessment commissioner at Belleville who spoke on re-assessments.

A luncheon was tendered chairman by Mr. Jelly with John Fargus, Victoria; Cecil Geen, Hastings and Mrs. Edna Allen, Northumberland; Dick Hall, Haliburton, was held. The panel discussed such subjects as school support, business assessments for Brewers Warehousing Company and municipal assessor and party ownership, information for taxpayers, provincial parks, shopping centre problems and plaid farms.

District No. 5 executive officers for 1952 are A. W. Jennings, Prince Edward county, as chairman; Jame sMosher, chief as assessment commissioner for Peterborough as urban vice chairman and Ewart Hopkins of Warkworth as rural vice-president. Secretary treasurer is Leighton Thompson of Belleville.

CAS Gives Service 24 Hours Daily

Twenty-four hour service to care for children in need is provided by the Children's Aid Society every day of the year in this community. A member agency of the Belleville United Appeal, the Children's Aid Society is always on call to provide either an experienced, trained worker to assist in a family problem or a meal, a bath and a warm bed for some neglected child.

Often the Society is called into action when a child is discovered wandering about the streets late at night, or locked alone in an upstairs room, or severely beaten or whose one remaining parent is suddenly taken ill.

The Society may also become involved in such a case as a physically unwell mother with too many children for them to care. Assistance with such a family problem, when requested, is readily given by the Society.

The Children's Aid Society is one which believes heartily in the old adage — "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure". Its motto has broadened out considerably since the days when it cared only for children who were neglected. Particular focus is directed to-day on helping parents with wayward or out-of-hand children before it is too late to cast their character in a constructive positive mould.

In a campaign which has many modern facilities and conveniences the local Children's Aid Society requires a solid refuge centre and as up-to-date facilities as possible through the efforts and public support of the United Appeal.

Toronto Man Killed Near Baptiste Lake

BANCROFT (Special) — A 37-year-old Toronto man was pronounced dead on arrival at Peterborough Civic Hospital, when a car in which he was a passenger, rolled over on the Baptiste Lake South road, about 12:30 a.m. Sunday morning.

Police said Lloyd Allan Ouderkirk of 833 Kennedy Road, Toronto, hit his head on a tree, when he was thrown from a vehicle driven by Colin James Robson, of 50 Lamb Avenue, Toronto.

It is understood the two men were proceeding east on the Baptiste Lake south road when the driver failed to negotiate a sharp curve to the right.

The vehicle entered the north ditch and rolled over several times.

Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson of Bancroft, pronounced Mr. Ouderkirk dead on arrival at Peterborough hospital. He is survived by his wife, Frances.

Mr. Robson escaped serious injury, although he did receive bruises to one leg.

Police at Bancroft said the car owned by Thomas Ross of Campbell Street, Toronto, was a complete wreck.

Coroner Dr. Anderson ordered but as yet no date has been set.

Constable R. L. Phillips of the Bancroft Ontario Provincial Police detachment, investigated.

Mr. Branch Colors Deposited in St. Thomas

The colors of the Col. Fhay Wills Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion in the service women were placed at the altar of St. Thomas' Anglican and Church Monday morning by the members of that organization who attended the morning service.

The church rector, Archdeacon A. E. Cartwright conducted the service during which he explained to the congregation the group were "his girls" as he acts as chaplin to the branch.

Color bearers for this unusual event were Mrs. Clare Jamieson and Mrs. Doreen Burnett.

At the previous day the branch held a successful rummage sale at the Legion hall.

Brandt reiterated determination to protect his city against Soviet pressures. "If the Soviets want their cards they can have it," he said in a radio address.

Meanwhile in a television interview in the United States, McGeer, Canada's confidential assistant who specializes in national security affairs, endorsed a proposal for a permanent security foreign minister conference on the Berlin and German issues.

At the same time, Bundy approved a proposal by Brandt for a referendum to put West Berliners in record in favor of keeping Allied troops in the city and said it "is very constructive step."

Peterborough Wins Chess Match 6-2

Peterborough defeated Belleville by a 6-2 score in a chess match played at the Recreation Club, Peterborough Saturday afternoon. Both clubs are members of the South Eastern Ontario Chess League, which yesterday's match, the first of the season was the league's fixture, but a friendly affair.

Belleville's first league matches will be on Nov. 4, against Orillia on Nov. 4, against Ottawa and Cornwall. Matches originally scheduled to be held here on Oct. 7 were postponed until a later date.

Following are the results of yesterday's match, with the names of the Belleville players being given first in each pairing: D. Payne 1, E. Riemer 0; L. Bell 1, D. Day 0; R. Sillsbury 0, J. Blodgett 1; B. Batchelor 1, A. Hamilton 0; C. Ward 0, D. Becker 1; G. Pellerin 0, H. Lang 1; W. Hinderle 1, C. Cowey 0; R. Sloat 0, Delair 1.

Hi-Y Delegates Attend Meet At Woodstock

An enthusiastic representation of local Hi-Y boys and girls attended the two-day annual regional conference held in Woodstock last week. The girls' section was represented by Helen Weeks and Shannon Knight, while the boys included Terry McCabe, Bill Vaughan, David Craig, Don Brearly and David Smith were the local Hi-Y delegates.

Friends were quickly made with other delegates and the first afternoon was spent registering and being allotted to private homes. That evening delegates heard Dr. C. W. Booth, deputy Minister of education for Ontario, speak on the theme "The Character Builder for Youth".

The following day included a church service, discussion groups, and a variety show. The discussion groups centred on methods of betterting local clubs and various projects, which clubs could undertake.

The following morning a rededication service was held, following which the delegates returned home.

French Agents Check Cars on Monaco Border

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—French customs agents resumed their discreet checks of cars leaving Monaco's principality today but there was no sign that the tax war between the two countries was heating up.

A tour of the short frontier showed three customs agents on duty. They were posted on a road leading eastward to Menton. Cars were waved on quickly after the agents asked if the occupants had anything to declare.

Monaco officials here and French officials in Paris were conferring separately on the next steps to take in the pocketsized fiscal war. While there was no sign of a backdown on either side, neither was there any sign of spectacular initiatives.

France put up a thinly manned customs barrier around Monaco Saturday after negotiations broke down on a new economic agreement between the two states. France wants Monaco to levy taxes on foreign corporations and individuals who have found a haven in the tiny Mediterranean state. Monaco fears this would put a damper on its economic boom, although it has agreed to meet French demands part way.

Stephen Koc Killed as Car Hit by Train

TRENTON — Around 11.15 am on Saturday, 45-year-old Stephen Koc of 32 Richard St. in Trenton was instantly killed when his car which he was driving was struck by an eastbound CPR freight train. The accident occurred at a level crossing on the McMaster side of the north of Highway 2, two and a half miles west of Trenton.

Mr. Koc moved to Trenton a year ago from Hamilton. He had been up to a gravel pit north of the level crossing, to place an order for gravel. He was building a new home in North Trenton. His car, a small Germanesake, was demolished.

Mr. Koc was a corporal in the RCAF. He had seen 12 years' service. Recently he was with the air communications division of the service where he served as a mechanic.

He is survived by his wife, the former Inge Moeller and a son, John, 4.

The fatality was investigated by Ontario Provincial police officers from the Brighton detachment.

Plan 'Idiot Golf'

TRENTON — "Idiot Golf," sponsored by the Trenton Golf and Country Club for the past two years, will be held on order of the day this Saturday.

Players are allowed to take one club out on the golf course with them, but have to rely entirely on their inherited cues or what have you. The object is still to get the ball into the hole. The event starts at 1 p.m. and to wind the day up there will be a buffet lunch in the curling lounge and presentation of prizes.

Church Raises $1,000

TRENTON — On Saturday members, young and old, of the Grace United Church turned out at the church in great numbers to work at Project '52, designed to raise money to be put at the disposal of the church building committee. Highlights included an auction sale on the tennis court a turkey supper in the church parlors, pony rides and a barn vest home sale. Close to $1,000 was realized.

May Vote on Movies

TRENTON — Trenton council will meet tonight, with one of the items on the agenda being whether to seek the opinion of the electorate on Sunday movies in the December elections. Application for the approval for the voting must be in by Nov. 1. The manager of the local theatre claims that Sunday movies are the best choice for Sunday entertainment is desirable.

OBSERVE WEEK

TRENTON — This week is Business and Professional Women's Week in Trenton, as well as internationally. Plans of the local club call for a special B and P. W. luncheon next Sunday. The Trenton B. and P.W club has been active for a number of years. Projects sponsored by the club include the annual presentation of a scholarship to a high school girl graduate.

Believes War Over Berlin Is Imminent

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Representative James E. Van Zandt (Rep. Pa.) says the Soviets formerly McNamara told a recent congressional meeting "war over Berlin is imminent."

Van Zandt also told a press conference he believes President Kennedy is about to impose a blockade on Cuba. He said "our naval forces will intercept ships carrying supplies to Cuba."

"I don't believe the Cuban situation is as serious as the Berlin issue," he added. He said the administration thinks Russia will sign a peace treaty with East Germany by the first of the year.

"As a matter of fact," said Van Zandt, "McNamara told a congressional meeting that the Berlin situation is more serious than Cuba and war over Berlin is imminent."

Charges Govt. Conspiracy Against Him

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuter) — Dr. Joseph Adam's "black pimpernel," Nelson Mandela, accused the government of a conspiracy against him in court today.

The 44-year-old bearded Negro nationalist, wearing full tribal robes and a monkey-skin cloak, appeared in the guarded courtroom on the charge of inciting and leaving the country illegally.

He asked for two-weeks postponement of the trial on the grounds that he had not retained him of a defence lawyer, when, for security reasons, the trial was suddenly transferred to Pretoria from Johannesburg.

Mandela's lawyer, Joe Slovo, was expelled in court and ordered under the Act for Suppression of Communism.

The magistrate told Mandela "I would like you to feel you are receiving a fair trial." And adjourned the case until next Monday. Mandela was ordered held "in custody.

WANTS RIGHTS

Mandela told the court: "It is clear to me there is a high-level conspiracy between various governments and departments against me to make it difficult for me at this trial . . . One of the few rights the black man still has in this country is to have counsel of his own choosing. I am entitled to apply to this court for protection when my rights are violated."

Mandela organized a national strike by Negroes in May, 1961, when South Africa became a republic outside the British Commonwealth.

He earned the name "black pimpernel" when he went underground and eluded police capture for 18 months.

IN MEMORIAM

WOOD. — In loving memory of my father, Carl Wood (Rock), who was taken suddenly, October 13th, 1933.

To me he will not pass away.
Nor has he travelled far;
Just over God's eternal home,
And left the gate ajar.
— Sadly missed, daughter, Isabelle.

REMARK. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie Remark, who passed away October 14th, 1946; also my dear father, Charles Remark, who passed away October 23rd, 1947.
We loved them dearly, but not more than we all showed.
Our memory is the only friend,
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
Our love for them will still be found
And never fade away.
— Sadly remembered by Charles and family.

Parrott Drive residents Ray Huffman and Bill Kennedy point to bared gas main lateral in front of their homes which was uncovered when city employees cleaned out ditch. Area residents have signed a petition demanding action.

Natural Gas Pipes Left Bare For 2 Weeks on Parrott Dr.

Residents of the North Parrott Drive area in the east end of the city are up in arms over uncovered natural gas pipes which they claim have been left bare for nearly two weeks.

The uncovered gas pipes are laterals leading from the street main to residences along the street.

They were uncovered when city public works department cleaned out a ditch to relieve flooding conditions in the area.

One of the laterals was badly bent when the public works backhoe caught it as the ditch was being cleaned out and residents are afraid that joints may have been sprung allowing an underground gas leakage which may seep into basements resulting in an explosion.

Alarmed householders say they have notified Mayor A. M. Haig and at least two members of council as well as the Ashland Gas Company, but nothing has been done to remedy the uncovered pipes.

Lateral bent when caught by backhoe is seen in Parrott Drive ditch. Residents fear bending of pipe may have loosened underground joints leading to gas seepage and an explosion. "It happened in Windsor," they say.

Youth Injured When His Car Strikes Pole

An 18-year-old Belleville youth, James Lockwood, of 82 West Street, was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. following an automobile accident on Cannifton Road.

Mr. Lockwood lost control of his vehicle on a curve, striking a telephone pole.

He was taken to Belleville hospital suffering a fractured forearm, concussion and lacerations.

The car was considered a total wreck.

Italy, Famous for Cuisine, In Grip of Food Scandal

ROME (AP) — Italy, famous for cuisine, is in the grip of a food scandal. It is making consumers queasy and the government uneasy.

Some recent cases of food substitutes brought to light could give a goat indigestion — or worse; cheese made with dirt and garbage; horse hoofs and mineral oil in butter; rotten eggs in spaghetti paste; denatured alcohol instead of grapes in vino; and pig fodder baked into loaves of bread.

"We never saw such disgusting things even after the second world war when food scarcity was general," a high health ministry official told premier Amintore Fanfani's cabinet.

"We must stop this and restore the buyer's confidence in what he is buying," said another.

It's apparently going to take some doing.

City investigators in Milan recently accused a number of firms of selling loan of parmesan type cheese fabricated from garbage, dirt and dairy by-products used to manufacture buttons and umbrella handles.

It was the latest in a series of such discoveries made over the last three years.

TEARS INJECTED

Months ago the government closed down hundreds of butcher shops when chemical analysis showed their meat was beefed up with chemicals to give weak old steaks that fresh-cut look.

Wherever investigators turned, it seemed, they found abuses.

A number of olive oil dealers were found to be adulterating their product with unhealthy mineral salts to increase oil weight and thus give a greater profit.

Customs officials inspecting export supplies of bottled wines found in some cases that lambs' blood, sea plants, ox bones and iron cyanide had been used to create artificial flavoring that was cheaper than the real stuff.

The rush of recent revelations touched off a widespread outcry. For days newspapers and television programs were filled with the food fraud story.

Fanfani's government promised a crackdown. Improved legislation against food frauds is expected to be introduced soon in Parliament.

"We shall see that both those who sell and those who buy can trust each other," Fanfani pledged.

Householders, diners-out and restaurant owners hope so.

Columnist Reads Mail

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Although the world has some 6,000 languages, half of the people on earth speak one of seven major tongues . . . of these, English is by far the most widely understood.

France is considered the international feminine fashion centre. . . But a recent poll in Paris revealed that men there spend more money on their clothing than women do.

Prosperity note! Americans spend more each year to buy and operate automobiles than the combined total national income of Canada and Mexico.

How they got started: Jimmy Cagney was a hoofer . . . Ed Wynn, the timeless comic, was a millinery salesman.

Quotable notables: "By all means marry: if you get a good wife, you'll become happy; if you get a bad one, you'll become a philosopher." —Socrates.

MISSING HUSBANDS

Lost on purpose: According to Interpol (International Police Organization) there are more than 4,000,000 missing persons in the world . . . most of them husbands.

Household hint: Tell your wife that if she wants to "touch up" your wash-wear clothing after laundering, to iron them lightly wrong side out . . . that'll avoid surface shine.

Wisecrack of the week: Groomer Mike Clifford says his girl friend serves him TV dinners that melt in his mouth. (He only wishes she'd defrost them first.)

Love of games: Playing cards once were the diversion only of the nobility and were hand-painted . . . In 1415 the Duke of Milan had artist Marziano da Tortona execute a personal deck of cards for him and paid him 1,500 pieces of gold for the job.

Britain's Transport Minister Getting Things Done But Has Been Criticized by Papers

By PAUL WESTBROOK

LONDON (CP)—While Brl. walked to work during a cold day rail and subway strike, the man many blamed for the stoppage was whirling through London on his bicycle "just to have a look around."

Some critics felt there was an unselfless brotherhood chauffeur about Transport Minister Ernest Marples' actions just before the strike took place.

He was especially rebuked by some newspapers for a failure in human relations in dealing with Britain's railwaymen.

He was hotly criticized for a last-minute television appeal to end the strike. Angry union men demanded the "insolent minister's" resignation. But high government officials were quoted as saying he would not toss

The Difficult Is Always Attractive

Northeastern University has a student from Haiti, Maxime St. Victor, who is trying out for the college's football team, its American football team, of course, St. Victor was "discovered" when one of his fellow students saw that his scope-educated toe could boot an American football for tremendous distances.

St. Victor's case is one of a couple quoted by L. Dana Gatlin, sports writer for the erudite Christian Science Monitor, in an article discussing whether American football can co-exist with "that played in most of the rest of the world," soccer. Some "radicals," he says, see American football being crowded out of stadiums by soccer "within 15 years after world television becomes an everyday thing" and brings first-class soccer into the living rooms of American homes. Gatlin himself appears to harbor some doubts as to this conclusion, and he is right in doing so. In what was once the world stronghold of soccer, Britain, rugby has continued to live and flourish. ("Rugby" is the name of a famous English public school, while the word "soccer" is an abbreviation of the word "association" in the phrase "Football Association.")

What interests us, though, is not the respective merits of soccer and rugby, in any of the English, American or Canadian variations, but some remarks by Gatlin on the observations of soccer stars concerning the American game. Its vast complexity amazes these soccer players and they wonder how players can remember the vast variety of plays. There is the distinct hint here that they consider the game must involve a great deal of hard work, mental as well as physical.

This, of course, is true. But precisely the same thing holds true for almost all pastimes, games and sports, if one is to achieve excellence. It is certainly true of tennis. There is no physical game which is more fun to play casually — or which involves more gruelling punishment if one is to play it superlatively. Those who like their pastimes to provide mental tests will find few games more rewarding than chess, which soon becomes fun when even a little proficiency is obtained. But at the recent tournament to select a challenger for the world championship one player looked at a simple position blankly until his time ran out. He had played seven hours and was exhausted. These are just examples. To a degree, perhaps to a lesser degree for some games, the same holds true of all the better games. Even golf is easy to play casually—but make heavy demands on physical or mental capacities if they are to be played with great skill.

Are they worth this hard work? Most of us will answer in the negative—but that may be because most of us have not developed the talent to excel, even if we were willing to pay the price. Perhaps champions still enjoy these games—most of them say they do.

But exactly the same thing holds true for other activities besides sport. Many people who state reasonable proficiency in their jobs envy them—but only a few are willing to pay the heavy price of true excellence. In a way, this may be a great advantage. The world's fields would never get sown if all farmers tried to attain the standard of a champion plowman. Our society's wealth could not exist if every worker insisted on applying the highest standards of craftsmanship. Only the wealthiest newspapers could afford staffs large enough to achieve perfection.

In work, as in play, most of us are satisfied with a standard high enough to refute any charge of mediocrity. But there will always be some, in all lines of endeavor, who will be driven to strive for perfection, and the more difficult its attainment in any line of endeavor, the greater will be the appeal of that activity to them. If soccer triumphs over American football, it will not be because the former game is so complex, but because, in the words of the Haitian St. Victor, "soccer has more finesse."

Need Some Homework

George Patarracchia, the leader of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the University of Toronto, said recently that there were no Jews or Negroes in his fraternity. He was questioned about the membership after he admitted that members of his fraternity had loudly insulted a Negro policewoman at a football game. He defended the honor of his fraternity by affirming that non-members were also shouting the discriminatory insults.

The University of Toronto students' organizations in general have been positive and vocal in their criticism of Southern universities, and of discriminating landlords in Toronto. But in the light of an incident like this, one might suggest that their own house needs cleaning, as well as that of their neighbors.

Insecticide To Homicide

Vancouver Sun

Hunters have been warned by government biologists that woodcock shot in New Brunswick this year are dangerous to eat. Eighty per cent of birds examined are carrying measurable residues of highly poisonous insecticides. So far the danger to human health is not believed to be great.

But it is significant that the New Brunswick biology minister of health warns that great numbers of birds, not only woodcock, are affected, and that this slow poisoning is cumulative.

The birds are exposed to the chemicals at both ends of their annual migration.

In the summer, foresters dust the timber areas of New Brunswick to control tree pests. In winter, Louisiana farmers spray their crops.

The circle is a vicious one. In both eastern and western U.S. and Canada, insects have already a major threat to bird life. Birds are a major means of keeping down the insect population declines, more insecticides will be used.

And as they have Brunswick authorities warn. Insecticides can be homicidal.

Ironically, of all life forms, only insects have so far shown the ability to develop immunity to these synthetic poisons.

This has inspired chemists to create even more deadly and persistent insecticides. Until now a farmer in Louisiana was the poison a hunter in New Brunswick.

Progress, indeed.

Broadway Prices High

Welland Evening Tribune

Two years ago when top price for a theatre seat was $2.50, according to the startling figure of $8.50, many theatregoers made quiet remarks about how the fantastic shods would freeze over before they'd pay that much.

For only some time after wards a hue and cry was raised by producers demanding tax cuts so that the ticket prices could be lowered and the risk minimized. The tax cuts were granted, but the prices would be priced out of existence.

Not much has happened since then except that the top price for the season's hit, "Guys and Dolls" was increased by 50 cents. Now we learn that the movie people are planning to push ticket prices for the most of heights for presentations along the Great White Way. Twentieth Century Fox is contemplating admission of $5 or even $10 for "Cleopatra," scheduled to be shown next year.

Since it is one of the most expensive pictures ever made, reported to have cost more than $30 million, it will need to become one of the highest grossing pictures in motion-picture history to break even.

But before "Cleo" comes out with a new high for a motion picture admission the record will be held by "Laurence of Arabia", due to open in New York in December. Loge seats for Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings while this picture is running will cost $4.80.

So they'll be able to get your way from the $2.50 and $3.50 tops for outstanding hits, including the reserved seat showings of "Cinerama."

The price hikes will drive more people to matinee performances and to the neighborhoods to prevail. The increases may also make theatregoers more considerate of their wallets more reasonable prices that are charged in their home movie houses.

Gold was discovered in Melbourne, Australia, 111 years ago today—in 1851. As gold discoveries spread, wages and the prices of goods and land soared to fantastic heights. More than £1,000,000 in gold was taken in 1851 and nearly £17,000,000 the following year in Victoria. The population jumped to 500,323 in 1860 from 265,903 in 1850 in Victoria and New South Wales.

1785 — Writs were issued for the election of the first representative assembly in New Brunswick.

1917 — Mata Hari, German's notorious First World War spy, was executed by an Allied firing squad.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 15th, 1942

Centralization in Toronto of the accounting departments of the Central Region of the Canadian National Railways will take place early next week, according to information received here today. Seven Belleville employees, including six families, will be affected by the order, and a result will go no more from the city to Toronto. The accounting department of the Belleville Division, has been located here since 1919.

Sincere appreciation of the all-out effort of the Belleville Fire Department and the brigade of fire fighters of the Trenton Air Station RCAF in the disastrous fire which completely destroyed the main headquarters store of Mr. Alex Lipson in Front street on Thursday, an estimated loss of $200,000 was expressed today by Mr. T. E. Schryer, chief of the Belleville store of the Lipson chain. "The Belleville Department did a splendid job and it was mainly through their initiative and energy that the fire fighting that more extensive damage was not caused to nearby buildings," he commend.

Although there has been a splendid response of local talent to make up the Concert Party which will proceed entertainment at the Air Station this winter, there are still openings for more musicians, dancers, players to take part in skits, and others who can contribute entertainment. Miss Mary Forester and Miss Joan Marshall are assisting the YMCA War Service in this regard, and any wishing to assist could get in touch with them.

Mrs. J. H. Reynolds and daughter Joan of Belleville Street have returned home from Montreal where they spent Thanksgiving.

The Rev. Allan Pepper, incumbent of the Holy Trinity Church at Bancroft, has returned home after spending a few days in town.

Mr. Theodore Marsakas is home from Hamilton for a short visit to his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Waits and Miss Gretta McCaw of Toronto spent the weekend here with friends.

Mrs. J. L. Tickell's group in the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Church were entertained last evening at the home of Miss Beatrice Jones on Dundas Street East.

Mrs. Gemmel Shaw has returned to the city after Kingston where she visited friends.

Stupidity Not Easy Thing To Diagnose

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Are stupid people "happier" than intelligent ones? This seems to be the general opinion among laymen, who are fond of pointing to some stupid acquaintance and saying, "He doesn't have enough sense to let things bother him — he's just like an animal grazing in the field."

I would tend to take issue completely with this judgment. Not only do I disagree with the opinion that stupid people are "happier" than more intelligent ones; I also happen to think that much of what seems to be "stupidity" is a form of neurosis in itself.

The way some people retreat from their problems is by being stupid more than they really are, by dulling their senses and blunting their responses to life. This reaction itself is a symptom of unhappiness that is expressed by withdrawing in a bovine way.

We can see it beginning more often in the child: when a certain type of child is emotionally troubled, he will act stupid. He will hang his head at simple questions, he will seem thick and uncomprehending, and will even begin to think and behave as he should, if we did not know him better. If persistent, this emotional defense will turn the child into a stupid-seeming adult.

It is axiomatic in the field of psychotherapy that, all things being equal, those with intelligent patient will recover faster and more fully than the less intelligent.

An intelligent person seems to be unhappier because he can see the world as it is, condemned, and because he is more obviously sensitive to his environment; but this very sensitivity is what enables him to change, to grow, and to heal the psychic wounds.

I happen to believe firmly that most people are much more intelligent than they give evidence of being; that a great deal of what we call stupidity is really a self-protective defense against pain; it is simply the way a particular kind of personality handles its problems.

In an article on Sonny Liston in a sports magazine a few weeks ago, the writer shrewdly observed, during an interview with the fighter, that Liston was smarter than the public impression he has given in the past. The writer went on to observe that:

Liston is not stupid, but his insights ampeded by his neuroses. Emotionally he is a child — stubborn, obdurate, and completely lacking in flexibility.

Given his dreadful background, this is perhaps the only way the boy could have developed. And what is true of Liston is true of millions of others who live angrily behind the iron curtain of the mind.

Regulation Now Normal

Vancouver Province

We live in a highly regulated world. Some say over-regulated. It's a world in which a citizen starts collecting numbers as soon as he quits school — driving licence number, unemployment insurance number, social roll number, club number, medical insurance number, charge account number, and so on.

The regulations and embargoes multiply until it's hard for every constructive action a man takes, there are barriers to be overcome and petitions to be met. A North Vancouver service station wants to serve the public in its own good time — day and night and Sundays if the operators choose. They are prevented by a swarm of the public, despite customers' petitions.

Tshirtar must keep its powder dry. The WCTU of Miami protests it must not plug demon rum than it is good time.

The West End Sketch Club runs into protest when it holds its weekly sessions in the Vancouver park. "Unfair competition!" claim the commercial artists serving the public, which Village and the Left Bank of the Seine!

There was a protest over the B.C. Society for Crippled Children using "bunny buses" to bring children to Christmas parties. Children to school.

Staff at London airport must no longer offer to carry passengers' babies. They must carry the expected parcels instead. They might be butter fingers with the babies.

And as for mail, a postman was punished for being "improperly dressed." His shoelace hooks and eyes were replaced by brown one in a black shoe. The mail went through, but the postie lost a day's pay.

Things are rough all over. But with diligence it is still possible to find some rays of light. Bill Podovenniköff, unwilling host to 1750 Sons of Freedom marchers on the Trans Grand Forks, drove 90 miles to pick up a couple of cows to give the visitors milk.

And "Transition," magazine of the B.C. Penitentiary, reports finding a Toronto employer with a staff of 600, who goes out of his way to use men with police records. They have all been good men and honest servants.

The frustrations, protests, regulations and disciplines are all in a day's work at the city via of a day's news. It's a mixed up world.

Ethnic Groups Unnecessary

Oshawa Times

Canadians can pride themselves on their diversity of origin and culture and on the fact that a surprising unity has been achieved without any enforced conformity. Only in this way can preserve and strengthen this unity only if we recognize that we are Canadians, no matter where the accident of birth has placed us, that our interests and viewpoint are those of citizens of this nation of Canada. Unity is impossible if we constantly view the government of Canada through the eyes of the Britton, an American, a German, an Italian, a Ukrainian or an Outer Mongolian.

Do ethnic groups meet special champions? Our politicians seem to think so, but we do not.

Asks Owner's Name on Car

Milwaukee Journal

Why not . . . pass state legislation requiring everyone to display the name prominently on his car?

A state full of cars announcing the names of their owners might cut down law violations by about 50 per cent.

A man behind the wheel of a car possesses certain anonymity. That, coupled with the power he feels while grasping the wheel and touching the accelerator, tempts him into actions he'd never dream of doing if he thought everyone knew who he was.

He may take out his frustrations in horn blowing, in swearing in and out of traffic, in jumping stop lights, in cutting off other drivers and bearing down on pedestrians like a charging bull. With a sign announcing his name to the world, he would be very apt to curb his bad manners.

Radioactive Fallout Has Been Over-Interpreted

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Frankly, I was somewhat hesitant about printing today's letter, for fear of alarming nervous people. Then on second thought, I decided to go ahead on grounds that the whole truth doesn't hurt, and anyway there's no point in coddling ourselves and pushing unpleasant topics into the background.

The letter, from a woman who was graduated from an excellent medical school a decade ago, but now is a housewife and mother, writes:

"We are electing to remove the one constant source of radio-active strontium, etc., from our children's diet with the knowledge that it may be so negligible as to mean nothing, but it may lessen their statistical chances of having blood or bone malignancy 40 or 50 years from now.

"We no longer serve them milk to drink. The occasional cheese, ice cream and the universal use of milk additives we are ignoring. The children observe we don't drink milk and ask questions. S. M. A."

I am disturbed to have such highly-trained person take this attitude. What's been said about radioactive fallout has been overdone, or let's say that it has been over-interpreted.

Members of my staff tell me that there was a 1,000-fold increase in the fallout count, and we dwell in it for, you may say, 20 years, so might have some ill effects.

Therefore, while it's well for us to know about it, there is no logical reason for being so terrified that we can't even breathe.

In any case, why attack milk? There is radioactivity from fallout in beef, in vegetables, in fruit. The reason for the emphasis may be that we have figures on the radioactivity in milk from week to week. It is a handy food to collect, as it is feasible to kill cattle one a week to find out radioactivity, although this has been done on occasion.

We do, of course, keep a continuing check on the radioactivity of major foods, but for some reason we never hear anybody talking about not drinking water. Any idea what I'm getting at?

I say, however, been told that I should watch the type of fertilizer I use in my own backyard vegetable garden. This might is certainly about the height of the ridiculous.

Naturally I am horrified to speculate on the consequences of nuclear war but I'm quite a different thing from such fallout as we have or we will encounter in peacetime.

I can't find any reason to worry about the amount of radioactivity in our food. I am particularly upset when this fallout-mania singles out such a valuable food as milk and deprives children of it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I get migrain headaches and have been using an ergot compound with good results, but I am beginning to worry about the after-effects.

E.C.

Continued, frequent use of ergot can predispose to ergotism, or ergot poisoning, but the doses must be large as well as continuous.

With migrains, only a modern aide does is required, and it is intermittent, so you are worrying needlessly. I do not know of any instance of ergot poisoning from use of the various compounds for migrain.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is "thyroid heart" and should a person with it be allowed to smoke?

M. C. D.

"Thyroid heart" is heart disease caused by an overactive thyroid gland. It causes extreme nervousness, rapid heart beat, shortness of breath. The condition is corrected by treating the thyroid disorder. Smoking should not be allowed. Excessive use of coffee or stimulants should be avoided, too.

• • •

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Ontario Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 182, Rockefeller, for your copy of his new booklet, "How to Have Better Of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

New Zealand Works 'Louts'

Vancouver Province

While Canada ponders the proposal to put social assistance cases to work for their welfare, New Zealand is experimenting by applying the working principle to "louts and vandals" aged 15 to 21.

Those who display symptoms of anti-social behavior will be taken into custody periodically and made to spend a weekend working for a hospital, old people's home or some other charitable institution.

Following up the "ounce of prevention" idea, New Zealand hopes to deter her "louts" from possible career of crime by thus removing them occasionally from the temptation of fire-raising, rock-throwing and other activities of lout-hood.

In New Zealand, hoodlums are called louts — but a hood by any other name smells just as bad.

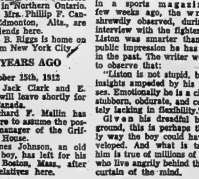
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK



The way to take a country walk at this time of year is to drive out on the highway some miles, turn off on a side road, and, a few concessions over, park your car and start up from there. Then walk around a concession. It gives you a comfortable mileage for the walk and offers the pleasure of seeing unfamiliar things. On such a walk last week I came to a cemetery on a knoll with woodlots on three of the angles, and on the fourth, a small red brick church built around 1860 or 1870 by the look of it. From the lonely corner, not a human habitation could be seen. There was something forlorn and neglected about this little church.

While I was standing looking at it, a car came by and the driver, an elderly man, pulled up as if to enquire what I was doing. I expressed my curiosity and he said it was a forsaken-looking church.

"When it was built," he said back in New Ross, this whole neighborhood was occupied by farmers, drovers. They couldn't agree where their church should stand. The most strong-willed and ignorant of them won; and here she stands."

STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP)—Central Del Rio began today where it left off Friday in stock market action.

Del Rio climbed 25 cents to $9.75—best price this year—as it sparked the western oils section to further gains.

Devon - Palmer and Security Freehold both touched 1962 highs—31 cents and $7.30, respectively—then eased slightly.

Bailey Selburn A gained 1 cents to $2.85, while Pacific Petroleum rose ¼.

A stronger group of banks gave industrials a firm undertone as the main list slipped fractionally on average. Bank

Metro Policemen Assaulted in 3 Incidents

TORONTO (CP)—Five Metropolitan Toronto policemen were assaulted in three separate incidents during the weekend, two of them in a raid on a suspected gambling house.

The beatings sent two constables to hospital and brought charges of assaulting police against six persons and of obstructing police against three others.

Most severely beaten were Sgt. Earl Snider and Const. Malcolm Smith who were kicked, punched and shoved into the street when they tried to execute a liquor search warrant at a suspected gambling house.

Yarnos Kassian, 34, Rene Lavoie, 31, John Mineault and Raymond St. Amour, 33, all of Toronto, were charged with assaulting police.

St. Amour was also charged with selling liquor illegally and keeping a gaming house.

STAGE ESCAPE

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP)—Ten prisoners in the local jail overpowered three guards and used their weapons to kill two other guards in staging an escape Sunday. In a later gunfight outside the jail five were captured but the other five got away. A passerby was wounded in the exchange of gunfire.

Taxi Licences Under Review In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says Metropolitan Toronto licensing is on the verge of a large - scale crackdown after months of investigation into "under-the-table deals" for taxicab licences.

"Eager entrepreneurs are using their big bankrolls," the newspaper says, "to bypass the licensing laws and get a stranglehold on the cab industry."

The story adds dealers are offering up to $2,700 for the use of an owner's cab and licence for two years "to bypass the lengthy cab licence waiting list of the commission and the stringent regulations governing the sale price of a cab and its licence."

The "management contracts" that govern the operation of 109 of Metro's 1,600 cabs are reported to be under scrutiny of the licensing commission.

The commission has evidence that these contracts—which permit an individual owner to rent his cab to a manager for a share of the vehicle's earnings—have been used "as a front for the wholesale renting of cab licences."

The growth of these deals is stemmed from a commission move in 1957, when new licences were issued to end a monopoly created by Toronto's limiting the number of cabs to 960.

The monopoly situation to that time had "meant any newcomer to the industry had to buy an existing licence and had to offer plenty of money to convince an owner to sell."

Librarian Reports In Detail

The annual meeting of the Federation of Film Councils of Eastern Ontario was held in Kingston, recently, with Miss Wilma Lloyd, Belleville, presiding.

Among the speakers present were, Mr. B. Lalande, executive director of the Canadian Film Institute; Mr. Gregory Donovan, chief liaison Division of the National Film Board; Mr. A. G. Mackie, public relations manager of the Ahlthi Power and Paper Company Limited.

Several outstanding films were shown, among which were: "The Top of the Continent;" "Hong Kong;" "The Purple Turtle," and "Ahlthi."

These facts were reported to the Corby Public Library board at its recent meeting by Miss Delaney.

The librarian reported the opening of libraries, during the week of September 17-22 with that at Hillcrest on the 24th. The local Film Council executive met in the library auditorium, also the registration for the art and crafts and the Hastings Historical Society.

Donations of books and periodicals from library borrowers received during the year, with especially large donation of books from Mrs. E. G. Gurnett, which contains some excellent titles in this collection, many of which are new books.

The statistical report follows: films loaned, 29; projectors, 11; new members, adult, city, 227; rural, 13; boys and girls, 721. Books circulated; main library, adult, 12,200; juvenile, 4,108; hospital:: adult, 183; Avondale, juvenile, 279; Harry C. Clarke, 449; Hillcrest, 142; King George, 628; Prince of Wales 694; Queen Elizabeth, adult 99, juvenile 963; Queen Mary, juvenile 629; Sir Winston Churchill juvenile 753.

Circulation of books during September, 12,952; boys and girls' books, 6,673; pamphlets and magazines loaned, 100; recordings, none; total circulation, 21,794.

Mr. Willson, who has his arm in a cast, still continues to see that the library is well looked after.

CLEANING UP

The 50-foot spire of Vancouver's Evangelical Tabernacle — highest in the city—crashed through the roof. The church had wanted to take the spire down but wreckers had said a helicopter would be needed.

Barns were blown down in B.C.'s Fraser Valley. Traffic was left in a mess throughout the area. Looters struck at shop windows which had been blown out. Radio stations went off the air, some to come back on with emergency generators.

Oregon's Governor Mark Hatfield estimated storm losses in his state at more than $100,000,000. Property damage estimates for British Columbia ran as high as $1,000,000.

No tally had been made of the loss in Washington or California but it was expected to reach into the millions.

Oakland, centre of the sprawling San Francisco East Bay Community, was cut off for hours Saturday by a storm-driven choking streets and highways into the city. Emergency crews had opened all thoroughfares today except a main access tunnel to the east.

Former Premier Gives Triplets Dollar Bills

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Former premier Leslie Frost, who also served as provincial treasurer, dipped into his personal treasury Sunday to give $1 bills.

It happened when the King triplets, David, Sandra and Kenneth, were presented to Mr. Frost by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. C. King, at the 150th battle of Queenston anniversary ceremonies at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Mr. Frost told the triplets, now six years old, that he recalls having sent the King family a letter of congratulations on their birth. Then he reached into his wallet, peeled off three $1 bills, and presented them to the excited youngsters.

Pop Singer, Don Everly, Goes Home

LONDON (AP) — American pop singer Don Everly, 25, left for New York today after being treated in a hospital here for what police said was a drug overdose of sleeping pills.

"I wanna go home," the singer told reporters as he and his wife mounted the steps of a jetliner. "I don't feel good."

A spokesman for Everly and his brother Phil, who is his partner in their singing act, asked about press reports that he took an overdose of sedatives, said:

"Well, it's all a bit of a mystery. I'd say he's suffering from severe physical and nervous exhaustion."

The admission sheet at the hospital recorded his entry as: "Donald Everly—overdose."

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McConnell Happily Wed Fifty Years

PICTON—Many relatives and friends called to extend congratulations and good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. John Henry McConnell when they were "at home" on the occasion of their Golden Wedding anniversary. The home at Point Petre was bright with summer flowers and the tea table with a white linen cloth was centred with the anniversary cake and enhanced by golden candles, gold streamers and floral arrangement. Serving were their daughters, Mrs. Carman Scott and Mrs. Lawrence Hinsman, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Thomas McConnell, Mrs. William Fraser and Mrs. Rex. McKee. Many lovely play.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell were gifts and cards were on display. They are Wesley McConnell and his wife, nee Elizabeth Brennan. Mrs. Brennan was a member of the former Gertrude Hanaghan, daughter of Matthew Hanaghan and Rose Ann McGuinness. She was born at Merrickville and lived in Picton at the time of her marriage. Since then, they have resided on the farm at Point Petre.

Both are members of St. Gregory's Church, Mr. Brennan a member of the Catholic Women's League, and he a member of the Holy Name Society.

They have always been active in community affairs and still enjoy attending social functions. Both are in good health and active. Both possess friendly personalities which have helped add to the number of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell's family consists of a son Thomas of Point Petre, daughters, Mrs. Carman Scott (Bernadette) Picton, and Mrs. Lawrence Hineman (Adeline), South Bay. There are ten grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Among those attending the anniversary were Mrs. Mark Goodwin, R. I. Milford, who was bridesmaid at the wedding.

The groomsman Leo Farrington is deceased. Those from a distance present were Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McConnell and Pat of Rochester, N.Y.

Harry W. Hunt Served Board For 30 Years

PICTON — Harry W. Hunt has retired after more than thirty years as secretary-treasurer of Picton public school board. However, he will continue to serve as secretary-treasurer of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute board. Due to the growing amount of work connected with education, Mr. Hunt felt that his health did not permit him to carry on both offices.

"The public school board has lost a most efficient servant. He has been a great help at all times to members of the board as a result of great interest and wide knowledge," stated supervising principal Carl Reid.

Appreciation to Mr. Hunt was expressed at the weekend when members of the board met at his home and presented him with an easy chair as a token of good wishes for the future. In expressing thanks Mr. Hunt recalled some of the many changes which had occurred during the years he had been associated with the board. Mrs. Donald Andrews has been named secretary-treasurer of the P.P.S. Board, chairman W. W. Evans announced.

Quinte W.I. Hears Talk On Education

The October meeting of the Quinte W. I. was held at the Institute Hall on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. Parrott presiding. She extended a welcome to all and especially to the visitors.

The secretary Mrs. N. Gerow read the minutes and correspondence. The leader for the Girls' Club for the next project is Mrs. M. Mitchell and her assistant is Mrs. F. Jones.

Mrs. Harry Murphy and Mrs. M. B. Weese conveners for education presented the following program with Mrs. Murphy in charge which opened with community singing with Mrs. Parrott presiding at the piano and Mrs. Insley leading in the singing.

Mrs. E. Sandercock introduced the guest speaker Mr. Arthur Dunnan who spoke on education, saying that education is a wonderful thing but everyone cannot be university graduates or have white collared jobs. He further went on to say" Our forefathers had wonderful talent and foresight and invented many useful and workable devices of which many of these are still used, but modernized. Much of the credit is due to solid and simple teaching in the home. The greatest school of all is experience". The speaker closed with a Thanksgiving poem by Edgar Guest.

Mrs. Weese on behalf of the members moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for a most interesting talk.

Mrs. Percy Ray gave an interesting paper on the motto— "A wise man shall hear and increase knowledge and closed with a poem "Psalm of a Good Teacher". Mrs. Murphy reported on a meeting which she had attended at the Home for the Aged. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Home are spending a bazaar there on October 17 and the Quinte W. I. are to make and donate sandwiches of various kinds for the occasion. There will be a turkey supper at Shannonville Church hall on October 17 with proceeds to be donated to Melrose United Church in aid of the new church which is replacing the one destroyed by fire last spring. A bazaar is to be held at the Front Road Church hall on October 24th. Mrs. Murphy told of a display of various articles at the Canadian Exhibition this year.

The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Charles Woods and Mrs. F. Bedell, conveners for historical research and current events and the lunch committee will be Mesdames Sharpe, Trumpour, Wood, Bedell, Brickman.

Lunch was served by Mesdames C. Reid, C. Gross, McMullen, Doctor and Robertson and a social time was enjoyed.

BEEF EATERS

Per capita consumption of beef in Canada rose to 69 pounds from 53 between 1939 and 1960.

Weddings

WILSON — LUCAS

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 28 at 7.30 p.m. by the Rev Canon A. S. McConnell, in St Thomas' parish house, Belleville, when Lulu May Lucas, of Belleville, became the bride of Edward Roy Wilson, of Plainfield.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Charles Lucas was attended by Mrs. Phillip Van Dusen, of Belleville.

Mr. Ross Wilson, of Plainfield, was groomsman.

McCAMBRIDGE — MILLIGAN

The Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, Ontario was the setting for a recent pretty wedding, when Helen Agnes Milligan, of Shannonville, R.R. 1, was united in marriage to Charles Ambrose McCambridge of Marysville, R.R 1. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Milligan and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McCambridge. The Rev. J. J. O'Neill, of Marysville, officiated before a lovely background of white and mauve gladioli. The guest pews were designated by white satin bows.

Miss Anne McAlpine provided the wedding music and Miss Sharon Freeman was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Carman Milligan, was radiant in her full-length bridal gown of white satin with organza overlay, featuring a fitted bodice accented by a Bertha collar of pearls and lily-point sleeves. The full graceful skirt which tapered to a chapel train, was enhanced by tiers of lace and accented by bows with seed pearls. She wore a regal crown covered with seed pearls and simulated jewels with pure silk illusion veil. She wore a regal crown covered with seed pearls and simulated jewels with pure silk illusion veil. She carried a semi-cascade of red roses, white stephanotis and white Shasta daisies mingled with a distinum fern.

Miss Mary Ellen McCambridge of Kingston, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor while Mrs. Jack Weese, of Toronto and Mrs. Gerard Walsh, of Belleville, sisters of the bride were bridesmaids. All the attendants were gowned alike in street-length beige silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodices, embroidered with darker brown flowers. Their matching hats were completed by matching floral hats, gloves and shoes. They carried crescent-shaped bouquets of white Shasta daisies centred with roses.

The two little flower girls Miss Debbie Mulrooney and Maureen Walsh, both of Toronto, cousins of the bridegroom, were sweet in their light-green silk organza over taffeta frocks, fashioned bouquets and white floral bandeaux. They carried small baskets of yellow Shasta daisies.

Mr. Joseph McCambridge, of Marysville R.R. 1 attended the bridegroom. Ushers were Bernard McCambridge, of Chalk River ,Ontario and Percy Milligan, of Shannonville, R.R. 1, uncles of the guests.

The reception was held at Tyendinaga Township Hall with 125 guests attending.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask linen, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with miniature bells, holding rings, and misted about the base by white tulls. The bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial accent to the setting as did the tall white candles in crystal candelabra.

The bride's mother, gowned in cocoa-brown crepe with imitation jacket, matching accessories and corsage of pink roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore turquoise organza over taffeta in sheath style with scooped neckline, white accessories and corsage of white Shasta daisies.

For the wedding trip to Western Ontario, across the prairie provinces to Alberta and return, the bride donned a three-piece linen ensemble in melon shade, with white accessories, and corsage of yellowish-orange roses.

Guests were present from Rochester; London; Belleville; St. Catharines; Kingston; Smiths Falls; Chalk River; Toronto; Marysville; Ajax.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at three miscellaneous showers held at the homes of Mrs. James McCambridge, of Marysville; Mrs. Roy Doyle, of Melrose, and; Mrs. Jack McLaren, also of Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. McCambridge are residing at R.R. 1, Marysville, Ontario.

'China' Topic At Albert College Guild

While this October meeting of the Albert College Guild, beginning with a pot-luck lunch was the first of the season, the Guild was recalling the pleasures of a happy occasion in September when members gathered as luncheon guests of the College.

Because of the illness of the president, Mrs. Fred Wilson, the vice-president, Mrs. F. Davidson, conducted the meeting with a verse of thanksgiving setting the key for the beautiful autumn afternoon. The business was largely confined to preliminary arrangements for the annual Autumn Tea at the Manor, Saturday, October 20, 2.30 to 5 p.m. The convener is Mrs. F. Davidson and the co-convener Mrs. G. Moore.

Mrs. G. Moore led the worship service; the theme was "A Cup of Cold Water." In illustrations she called attention to the important service one renders in a kind word, a warm handclasp, or a visit to the sick.

The worship service concluded with Mrs. Bird singing The Lord's Prayer by Malotte, accompanied by Mrs. J. Demeza.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Moore introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. H. J. Mullett of Toronto. With the wide experience of 35 years in West China, she carried the Guild with her on "China Re-Visited." No one could understand her remark that the longer she lived in China the more amazed she found the Chinese. It was reassuring to hear from Mrs. Mullett that, while only a small percentage of the population of China is Christian, the important service one leaders have been Christians or have been influenced by Christianity. In the speaker's words, "This represents the best that the West has given the East."

The thanks of the meeting to the speaker and the soloist were expressed by Mrs. E. Hickey.

A pleasant feature of this gathering was the introduction of the newly appointed Dean of Women, Mrs. Graham, and the informality of the occasion gave the members the pleasure of meeting her, and gave her the opportunity of becoming acquainted.

Ivanhoe W.I. Hears Address On "Health"

The October meeting of Ivanhoe W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Barton Haggerty with a large attendance of members and visitors.

Mrs. Ted Pollock presided over the meeting. Correspondence was read and bills were ordered paid.

The treasurer reported a successful bake sale with returns of $55.

Mrs. B. Haggerty, health convener, presided over the following program — Mrs. A. Reid read a well-prepared paper on the motto, "Health depends on something to do something to love, something to hope for". A reading by Mrs. Tuinan — "How to Guard Your Health in Winter". Music by Mrs. George Wood.

Miss Jayne Gay introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. B. Rigilio, who gave a splendid talk on "Health". She spoke of Health Units in the other countries, with a registered nurse in charge; of visiting the public schools; supervising the children's health, teeth.

Hastings county has no health unit. She also told of the work of the Victorian Order of nurses.

Mrs. Haggerty thanked the speaker and presented her with a small gift.

The hostess and her assistants served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Fashionable Gifts

By ALICE ALDEN

One way to see the world richly, to do global shopping and be the recipient of handsome gifts is to marry a famous musician. All this is the happy fate of Mrs. Ruggiero Ricci, but one who accompanies her virtuoso violinist husband on his many travels.

In Barcelona, Marti-Marti fashioned into a beautiful dress the red and gold sari cloth presented to Mrs. Ricci by an Indian Maharajah during a concert tour of the Far East.

The sari dress is really top-flight fashion this season.

Delegates Urged to Become Spokesmen for Work Women

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Delegates to the Kingston, Ontario Provincial Women's Clubs of Ontario's conference were urged Saturday to strive to become spokesmen again for the working woman.

A plea for an energetic crusade was made by Miss Virginia Allan of Wyandotte, Mich., first vice-president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the United States.

Miss Allan said women are still seen in traditional role of wife and mother even though the industrial revolution altered that theory years ago.

"Women are no longer nurses in the home . . . they are no longer the mistress only teacher. It is up to you to stress to the public that women, too, are intelligent, a varied asmen in their capabilities."

SIGHTS LIMITED

Miss Allan said women's sights are limited because their pay-scale is down-graded in the working world. Starting salaries for women college graduates were lower than men's "because women are expected to marry soon after they obtain a position."

In business sessions, the 370 conference delegates passed a resolution asking the Ontario government to amend the succession Duty Act so that it would no longer be necessary to seal deposit boxes not held in the name, jointly or alone, of a deceased person.

Another resolution passed asked that the provincial government be petitioned for a true exemption of $50,000 on all estates and that this amount be deductible from the value of all estates before the calculation of duties.

The following regional advisors for 1962-63 were approved: Mrs. Marjor Foster, Leamington; Miss Kathleen Schafer, London; Miss Vina Ufland, Exeter; Mrs. Anne Frith, Dunville; Mrs. Lyn Hughes, Unionville; Miss Isabel McLellan, Toronto; Miss Leslie Ward, Port Hope; Miss Orpha Lempke, Fembroke; Mrs. Jennie Will, Trenton; Mrs. Inka Zellinger, Sudbury; Mrs. Jane McGuire, Huntsville; Mrs. Kae Callahan, Fort Frances.

The conference ended Sunday with an address by Miss Elsie Macgill of Toronto, president of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Members Asked to Purchase Goods With Union Labels

MONTREAL (CP)—The head of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters says women form the backbone of organized labor's attempt to boycott goods of companies considered unfair to unions.

"A union label, rather than a Dior label, is the prestige label on a dress to our members," Mrs. Grace Rembert of New York said in an interview while attending an auxiliary convention here. "A dress without such a label won't be bought by members.

"When a labor dispute is pending, it's the wives who boycott the product of the company concerned and buy only when they see union labels.

"Similarly, a magazine not produced under union standards will not be read by them or their families. The husbands don't have time to see to such things, so we have to."

Boycotts in the United States, she added, are undertaken under the direction of the AFL-CIO, with whose national auxiliary her group is affiliated.

"There was a time when wives were expected to stand behind their husbands and the labor movement," Mrs. Rembert continued." Today, women are expected to be wife by side because women today are more aware of the fantastic challenges."

MONEY FOR CAMPS

One of the major objectives of the auxiliary, formed in 1925, is to teach women aware of the union movement and its effects upon family life. Its international aspect, she said, dosed six years ago because of financial difficulties, but the women attempted to revive this during their Montreal meeting.

The auxiliary has about 300 members throughout the United States, and Canada in 28 branches. Another of its projects is setting up scholarship funds and camps for the latter usually given to children of deceased brothehood members.

However, Mrs. Rembert said their most difficult undertaking is adjusting to the hardships they and their families must face as automation takes away jobs formerly held by their husbands.

"It's a matter of progress, we realize that, but we want to educate ourselves to cope with it. For some, it will mean learning new skills. In other cases it will be a matter of relocating—moving to where the jobs are."

Discrimination is an extra burden in the family Negro union families because "Negro workers are the last to be hired and the first to be fired."

"We have to learn to live economically and we have to encourage our men to keep their chests out in spite of discrimination."

CONCERNING UNINVITED GUESTS

People sometimes take hospitality very much for granted. There are even a few who casually take the tack that their hostess' delight, "how nice, love you to stay," and proceed to take at few extras along to dinner and other parties. Many times, the hostess has neither enough love nor food to go 'round for unexpected arrivals.

Occasionally a hostess doesn't mind having a few additional guests; providing the party is a large one and there won't be any strain on the refreshments. However, before a guest even suggests bringing someone with him he should take stock of the situation:

First; what kind of a party is it? If it's a dinner, then only the most inconsiderate person would call up a hostess at the last minute and ask her to set another place for a buddy who just got off the train. If it's a friend requires his presence, then the guest should explain the circumstances to his hostess and ask to be excused. An extra should not be foisted on the hostess as a matter of course and should be brought as a dinner party only if the hostess herself says it's no extra trouble and insists he be brought along.

If the party is a big production, like a cocktail party, a large tea, an "open house," or a concerted reception, then it's possible to call the hostess with a clear mind, knowing that even the suggestion of an added guest won't cause the slightest ripple in her plans or good disposition. Most often, the suggestion is met with approval. However, if, for some reason, she declines, this should be met with good humor and grace, and the date should either be cancelled or the third party left to his own devices while the invited guest attends the party.

Even if all conditions are ripe for acceptance of an added guest, person who suggests it should make sure of his ground on another score: Is the extra guest the sort the hostess would ordinarily invite if she knew him? No hostess wants to be saddled with someone who is argumentative, self-centered, or in any way disagreeable. A congenial, attractive, well-groomed and well-mannered person is the ideal candidate for acceptance.

One other thing to consider: Don't suggest bringing along someone the hostess might already know to any extent. It might make her feel embarrassed that she hadn't invited your friend in the first place. Or, in the second place maybe she had considered inviting him, but for one reason or another, had vetoed the idea.

Actually, it's quite presumptuous to ask to bring along extra guests to a party. But, if you feel there are legitimate grounds for doing so, it's best to size up the hostess, the friend and the situation before making a move. It's the only sensible thing to do to avoid hurting anyone's feelings in the process.

Thanksgiving Theme At Tabernacle WMS

"Thanksgiving" was the theme of the October meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, Afternoon Group of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, opened by the president, Mrs. J. H. Barlow. Mrs. Harold Songston's poem, "Autumn", Dr. Evelyn Williamson and J. H. Diamond, Miss Leila Weir and Mrs. W. M. Barlow were in charge of the program which was based on the Thanksgiving Service of Worship from the Book of Tidings".

Mrs. John Foote was guest speaker for the occasion. Mrs. Foote, whose husband is the Rev. John Foote, minister of the Presbyterian Church in Cobourg, has had many year's association with the W.M.S. and her discussion had to do with the importance of the work of the Society.

As she stated, it would sometimes seem the significance of the local group would appear to be not great, but, when combined with the total effort of all other such groups throughout the world, not only of the Presbyterian Church, but together with all other churches, the importance of the aggregate of women is immeasurable. But the organization must not become static but continue to grow. The work of the W.M.S. therefore points to each member a real challenge to which at least as much enthusiastic support should be given as to any other group, club or society in which the women are interested.

Facing rival claims and ideologies at work in the world today sometimes seems overwhelming but, since freedom and religion go hand-in-hand, it is imperative to be firm, and never lukewarm about creeds and beliefs. In order to meet pressing challenges, Mrs. Foote stressed the importance of taking time to be well informed, especially in regard to world affairs, reminding members that the main importance must start with the individual, and that with the will to win, the aim of the W.M.S. which is, "The World for Christ", can be attained bringing that night the final victory of peace.

REPORTS GIVEN

The customary reports were given by various secretaries. It was announced by the president that the next County Home visitation by the group would begin on December 3rd.

It was also announced that the Friendly Auxiliary of the W.M.S. was having a meeting at the home of Mrs. Mary Miller, 224 Parrott Drive, with an invitation to all members of the Afternoon Group to attend.

Mrs. Barlow welcomed to the meeting for the first time, Mrs. Agnes Bell, who had attended for many years. Mrs. Bell will also be remembered as a member of the choir while residing in the city.

A most pleasant interlude in the program of the afternoon was her generous contribution of a lovely solo, "Great Is Thy Faithfulness".

Another most pleasant musical offering in keeping with the theme was "Thanksgiving" was a duet, "Grateful Am I", by Mrs. W. F. Mantle, and Mrs. J. Bollins. This, too, was rendered with appreciation and pleasure by the members and visitors in attendance.

Women's Institute

CHATTERTON W.I.

The October meeting of the Chatterton W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Rose with an attendance of 11 members and four visitors.

The roll call was well answered with "Memories of a Kind Act to Me," the answers pointed out the value of friends and neighbors.

The treasurer gave her report.

During the business period several thank-you cards and notes were read and different items of business were discussed.

The district president, Mrs. McMillan, was at the meeting for her official visit and gave an interesting talk on "Institute Procedure," pointing out the value of knowing the work and how to conduct it in an orderly manner. She told some interesting things about the Adelaide Hoodless Home, which has been restored; the "Pennies for Friendship" collection and the Institute work in the North West Territories, several new branches having been formed recently. She closed her talk with a poem, "Anniversary Prayer."

Current Events were given by Mrs. Floyd MacIsaac.

A contest pertaining to the names of flowers was conducted by Mrs. Gerald Irvine.

After the meeting closed the hostess and her assistants served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Plane Talk

by Mary Moore

"Never make a big business deal on a Friday" was the final admonition of the mother of the Italian businessman who sat beside me on the plane on my return flight from New York. Naturally I asked "Why?" and he said, "Because Friday is a holy day and Italians are superstitious". Then he went on to tell me of an offer to buy one of his properties amounting to about $20,000. The deal had to be closed by 5:00 p.m. on a Friday for the prospective buyers were returning to New York that night. He finally refused and the deal was off. But three seconds later his agent came to him with another offer of $27,000 early in the week and that deal went through. Was it his mother's heavenly influence which brought about the more lucrative deal? He doesn't claim to understand.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Meat Loaf; Spanish Sauce; Fluffy Rice; Green Beans; Celery Hearts; Pineapple of Italian Rice Pudding; Coffee.

But when we waved goodbye on the tarmac I had a happy little feeling that people are wonderful. On a plane you sit nearly touching your seat companion and easily drift into telling personal experiences you might never confide to close friends. Suddenly it's "tasten your seat belts please" and you stand up, backs are fursed and that association is over But the memory lingers on and sometimes a strong character leave behind precious nuggets of wisdom.

But I have wandered too far away from the delicious French fried or baked rolled chicken breasts Vera Chard had prepared for us. These were served to us piping hot. Try to visualize a chicken breast with half of the wing left on looking a little bit like a handle. I think on the new boned breast had been placed a finger of hard butter. The breast meat had been pressed inside roll, then eggs and crumbed and French fried (or baked). This was served to us hot and when I cut into mine a little stream of golden butter was released from within and flowed over the tender chicken meat. It was a perfect example of succulency and was served with colorful vegetables that had been cooked to just the right degree of doneness. How the chefs accomplish this as they reach over one hundred passengers hot and flavorful meals and attractive is not known. I hope sometime to be invited into the inner sanctum kitchens of TCA to learn some of their secrets.

However, I do know how to make the scrambled eggs which they served really hot with sausages for breakfast on the flight to New York to the Food Editor's Conference.

SCRAMBLED EGGS (to serve 4):

6 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, shakes of pepper, ¼ cup of milk.

Melt the butter in top of double boiler. Beat the eggs slightly, add remaining ingredients and beat four times. Put in double boiler and cook until thick and creamy, scraping the eggs from the bottom and sides of pan, as it sets. Serve alone on toast, or with sausages. Ham or bacon.

NOTE:

If you prefer to use a frying pan, melt butter in it, add egg mixture and cook as above, stirring gently and almost constant ly as it sets.

NOTE:

Some variations I like are the addition of a little Tabasco or Worcestershire sauce and onion and parsley flakes.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

AGNES R. — Because of my mother-in-law's will, we are all miserable.

JANET R. — My mother was only trying to protect me. The others won't.

Agnes R. — My husband inherited a house from his late mother but it had a garage attached. His sister Janet was to be entitled to quarters in the house until she married.

And what a string that turns out to be! It's more like a rope tying us all together so we can't get free. Janet is a crank and a fusspot. She never got along with neither her mother or her brother while they lived together before I entered upon the scene. Now there are constant quarrels and, because of her, our marriage has a rocky time. It's been two years now since I moved in. There's no sign of anyone marrying this "charmer." No one will be foolish enough to think it. Her mother must have known this when she made her will.

I want Janet to come to a lawyer with us and work out a change.

Janet R. — The only reason Agnes and Bob quarrel with me is that Agnes thought I'd move out in a few months and her own mother and sister could move in. I'm getting impatient. Every time her family visits they glare at me as though I'm using something that belongs to them.

Well, the home is my home and I'll live there until I have a better home to move to. I doubt that I'll ever be able to purchase. It's a big house and I have a three-room apartment, complete with my own kitchen and bath, on the top floor.

Naturally I'm interested in the house's receiving proper care and upkeep. Yet Bob resents it when I call his attention to a sagging step. And Agnes can't take it when I do the bathrooms over, right after she "cleans" them. If it were up to those two, the place would cave in from neglect.

The Council: When is a tenant not a tenant? When she is a roommate not a room at all? when she's a relative, of course.

There are many families in which a live-and-let-live pact prevails without spelling anything out. These can occupy adjoining quarters and still adhere to the by-your-leave politeness observed by any considerate neighbors. But the legacy of Agnes's mother-in-law didn't confer wisdom, grace or maturity on her children. Nor did it take into its factors which might disrupt, rather than enrich, their lives.

Even if all were moonlight and roses between Agnes and Janet, the arrangement setup sounds impossible from the privacy angle. Evidently Janet is observed by any considerate neighbors. But the legacy of Agnes's mother-in-law didn't confer wisdom, grace or maturity on her children. Nor did it take into its factors which might disrupt, rather than enrich, their lives.

Even if all were moonlight and roses between Agnes and Janet, the arrangement setup sounds impossible from the privacy angle. Evidently Janet is observed by any considerate couple's quarters to reach her own. And, en route, she "sees everything" that needs to be said to their attention. They in turn, rankle at her criticism. Completely separate, with a separate entrance, the rancor will continue to infect the place.

We disagree with Agnes, however, as to what was in the mother's mind in making the bequest. No mother would agree that her daughter is hopelessly unmarriageable. Surely the senior Mrs. R. assumed that Janet's stay with her brother and sister-in-law would be a short one. At the same time she took the natural precaution of providing permanent shelter for Janet in case the young woman was unable to establish a separate home for herself.

Inasmuch as no one is happy with the present design, we suggest that Agnes and Bob take Janet up on her intention to live with them until I have a better home to move to." And we urge Janet to accompany them to the lawyer and listen openmindedly to alternate suggestions, when she'll also have a safe and spacious apartment, but under another roof. And instead of being "Miss Snot" every day in her brother's home, she can be a pleasant and dignified guest once or twice a month.

A probated will is inviolable. But often, with the help of lawyers, the terms can be adjusted so as to realize the intent even better than was before possible. The intent, here, was to offer Janet a place to live. Surely this can be carried out in a more wholesome way.

U.C.W. Meetings

COLLEGE HILL U.C.W.

The regular monthly meeting of College Hill Afternoon Unit of the U.C.W. was held in the church on Wednesday afternoon with the Unit leader, Mrs. A. Dickens presiding. The meeting opened with the theme hymn, followed by prayer.

After the usual minutes and reports, invitations received by letter were extended to the ladies for the Foxboro bazaar to be held on November 14 and to Plainfield bazaar on October 25. Plans for College Hill bazaar on November 14 were discussed and it was announced that the next general meeting would be held on October 24, and an executive meeting on October 29th.

Mrs. C. Bailey opened the devotional period with the first chapter of the study book "Rim of East Asia" and the Islands between, stating there are 15 million refugees fighting against communism and needing help. The Christians in East Asia are few, but active. Following this a hymn was sung followed by the Scripture read responsively by the Unit leader and ladies.

Mrs. D. Hunter presented the theme "Praying With Others" which tells that fellow Christians in the home, and comfortable parts of the world need our prayers. They say "Please pray for us, that at us, and if you pray with us, it supports the most of all. When a man prays at someone he is placing himself in the seat of judgement. When he prayers for someone there is compassion in his heart, when he prays with another he adds a measure of sharing, of standing as close as he can while they both pray to the same loving Father for the same thing. Can we, who for the most part live in comparative luxury and security, presume to pray with men and women who have known repeated diseases and lived the role of the suffering servant?" A hymn closed the devotions and the ladies retired to the Sunday school rooms where delicious sandwiches and hot tea were served by Mesdames B. Clarke, W. Neal and M. Sprouls.

No mistakes in oil deliveries with our government inspected, truck-mounted meters.

ERROR PROOF DELIVERIES:

We measure our heating oil deliveries by meter to assure accuracy

NOW SHELL Heating Oil is measured by government-inspected meters, very much like those in gasoline pumps.

Our trucks are equipped with these highly accurate meters that measure the exact amount of oil we deliver to your tank.

The meter prints the amount of oil delivered on a receipt. You get the printed receipt as a permanent record for your files.

Metered deliveries are one of the many advantages we offer our heating oil customers.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

A Vanishing Species

Almost exactly nineteen years ago whooping cranes began to make headlines. A bird bander of Dodge Center found "eight of the giant birds have been reported on the company's project at Last Mountain Lake near Simpson, Saskatchewan. Authorities believe no more than 100 of the birds are in existence today."

Yes, at one time they had been as numerous as the passenger pigeon. In 1811 the naturalist, Nuttall, described the migration of whooping cranes down the Mississippi Valley — "the bustle and passage of their mighty armies fills the mind with wonder." One hundred years later, in 1912, Forbush pronounced them doomed to extinction — like the passenger pigeon.

In the last 50 years their numbers have fluctuated to some extent, but the low was reached in 1955 when, as far as could be estimated, the total population was 21.

It seems that several factors have combined to bring about their downfall. As their exact nesting spot (in Wood Buffalo National Park) had not been established until 1952, we know they had not been disturbed in breeding time. However, their territory was being taken for crop land. But it was in addition that they suffered most. Their large size (8 inches long and with a wing-spread of 7½ feet), their spectacular whiteness, and their long migration route (about 2,500 miles) tempt any man with a gun because they are easy targets.

Now the Canadian and U.S. Governments have cooperated in informing and pleading with the general public. Since 1943 we have been told each time the birds leave the south and when they are welcomed in Canada; when they leave us and are once more seen in Texas. Hunters are warned that whooping cranes are protected by law. Both governments had for years been searching for the nesting site that it might be protected. The migration route was carefully chartered in order to discover where it ended — somewhere near Slave Lake. Ottawa brought out a special stamp featuring the whooping crane. The U.S. Air Force changed their plans for a bombing range so as not to interfere with their winter quarters.

When one of the big, white birds was discovered with a broken wing it was kept in captivity at Audubon Zoo, New Orleans. Then a mate was found for it. Each time a baby whooper is born the news flashes round the world. Now there are eight in captivity. The latest report gave the total number as 48.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the service of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. HILLER
Senior Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Dept.

Many taxpayers are unaware that an additional exemption of $500 is allowed to those who reach the age of 65 at any time in the taxation year. This is printed near the top of page 2 of the short form return and the only reason it is missed is because the taxpayer has failed to read the return. I stressed this in an earlier article, and I will again state, that if the taxpayer reads each line on the return, and gives the information required, he will have little difficulty in receiving prompt action by the tax department.

When the claim is made for the additional $500 age exemption, it is of the utmost importance that the year of birth is shown in the space provided. If it is not shown, the return cannot be assessed until the tax department has this information. The first thing the assessor does when an age exemption is claimed is to check the year of birth to see if the taxpayer is 70 years of age or over 70, the assessor will automatically check page 1 of the return to see if any Old Age Pension is reported. The assessor will contact the proper government department to ascertain if any such pensions were paid to the taxpayer or his wife.

All this takes time and the assessment of the return is delayed. If the taxpayer's wife receives the old age pension for the whole year, he will reduce the exemption allowable for her from $1,000 to $590; that is $1,250 minus $660, as a taxpayer's wife may have an income of $250 before he loses any exemption on her behalf.

Question — My wife and I pay both years of taxes and can I claim the additional $500 exemption for her as well as myself?

Answer: No. The additional $500 exemption allowable to those over 65 applies only to the taxpayer and not to his wife or dependents, claimed on his return.

* * *

Question — Do I have to report as income, the old age pension received by my wife. It is her only income received in the year.

Answer: No. You do not report 't as income on page 1 of the short form return, but it does reduce your exemption for her as outlined on page 2 of the return.

Thirty-five Ontario municipal officials attended a four-day orientation course at the Canadian Civil Defence College, Arnprior, from Oct. 9 to 12. Co-sponsored by the Federal and Provincial Emergency Measures Organization, the four day course included such subjects as nuclear weapon effects, shelter, evacuation, re-entry and other problems confronting the municipal emergency planner. A large scale model depicting a typical Canadian community immediately following a nuclear attack was a part of instruction to the delegates. From left to right are: Ald. W. A. Lowen, Belleville, and Councillor E. Todd, Trenton.

Snobbery, Class Distinctions Probably Favorite Field for Social Researchers in U.K.

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—Are Britons the world's biggest snobs?

An average day's reading of the popular press here might well convince you they are.

The word "snob" is always cropping up in headlines over-with-eager arms.

Never, it seems has there been such a national obsession with social rating and impressing other people.

Madison Avenue, New York, may have coined the term "status symbol" but High Street, Britain, has embraced it "excellence is not necessarily popular."

A reviewer in the weekly New Statesman said the runaway success of John Braine's Room at the Top in 1957 was largely due to the hero's throaty hunger for the best things in life—which to him were certainly not free.

"I wanted an Aston-Martin," says Braine's Joe Lampton, ex-viously eyeing a young man from the better side of the guinea linen shirt, I wanted a girl with a Riviera suntan."

This, says New Statesman critic A. Alvarez, struck a responsive chord in the era of "you've never had it so good." It is the same rich vein of consumer-goods snobbery, he says, that boosts the popularity of Ian Fleming's James Bond thrillers.

RIDICULOUS SIDE

But if Britons are absorbed by the subject they can still see the ridiculous side of the status game.

A summer series in Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express provided a lighthearted guide to crashing the ranks of the upper classes, who affect to be aristocracy and sang, "have the upper hand."

Tips to status-seekers included a quick rundown on the snob wedding—reception preferably in St. James's Palace and definitely no white ribbons on the bridal car. Suitable books and records to display, and the most exclusive cocktail-party drink of all—the bellini, made of crushed pech and champagne.

Above all, wrote columnist William Hickey, you must have a passionate interest in riding and hunting.

"The horse is central to the upper-class mystique. You must talk horses and think horses. Small wonder that many of the upper class end up looking like horses."

Says Socreds Opposed to Expropriation

QUEBEC (CP)—Real Caouette, deputy national leader of the Social Credit party, says his party is "irrevocably opposed" to the expropriation of private power firms.

He was speaking on a program shown on 10 private Quebec provincial television stations Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Caouette opposed the provincial Liberal plan to expropriate 11 private power firms "because the people of Quebec will be obliged to pay $80,000,000 a year solely in interest on the debt contracted to reimburse the private companies."

"Have you ever seen a publicly - owned enterprise which gives anything to the people? on the contrary, the people will have to pay for these enterprises in taxes."

His statement was made in the second instalment of a series of Social Credit television series.

Baby Delivered Alive After Mother Died

BERLIN, N.H. (AP) — A normal, apparently healthy girl was delivered Sunday by a doctor from the body of a woman who had been dead about a half hour.

The operation was performed on Mrs. Cecile Berthiaume, 28 killed when her car hit a utility pole as she was driving alone to 7:30 a.m. mass at St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church. She died of a fractured skull in the ambulance taking her to hospital.

Sister Demers, a Catholic nun who serves as night supervisor at the hospital, quickly put in a telephone call to Dr. Leandre Beaudoin.

He said Sister Demers told him the woman was dead but that the baby she was expecting next week apparently was still alive and might be saved.

OPERATES ON BODY

Dr. Beaudoin, who was still in bed, hurried to the hospital even before he was fully awake and operated on Mrs. Berthiaume's body.

He said the child, weighing about eight pounds, had a heart beat upon delivery but was not breathing.

The infant took her first breath some 15 minutes after birth, encouraged by oxygen and mouth-to-mouth respiration supplied by Dr. Beaudoin.

Wellington Cross, medical doctor said later: "The child's breathing and color soon became normal and looks encouraging that she will survive."

Mrs. Berthiaume was the mother of four other young children: Richard, 6, Claire, 5, Claude 3½, and Raymond, 2.

Her husband, Gerard G. Berthiaume, a maintenance man for a local company, said the new child would be named Cecile, after the mother who died before the baby was born.

BOTTLE BRINGS WIFE

IMPERIA, Italy (AP) — He wooed her by bottle and won her by mail. Lonely sailor Giobatta Calvi penned a love note, stuffed it into a bottle and tossed the bottle into the sea a few weeks ago when his ship was sailing off the Balearics. He was married here Saturday to a little Calabrian seamstress who found the bottle, read the note and wrote a letter which led to meeting and matrimony.

Wife Is Jealous Over the Birds

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I built bird feeders for a hobby; also raised goldfish. But my wife complained I was wasting too much time and money so I quit. I am not interested in sports but I need something to do in the evening.

She doesn't even like me to speak to the neighbor's wife. What must a fella do—just hold her hand all evening? I want to keep her happy.—EASY GOING SAM.

DEAR SAM—You'll feel more like holding hands when she shows more understanding. She is too self-centred to see that her best way to hold you is to welcome your hobby.

This time I'd say that the way to keep her happy is to insist on your fun. You'll have a scene or two—which may go against the grain—but there's no happiness for either of you if you knuckle under to foolish possessiveness.

DEAR DORIS—I have a very serious problem. I am sixteen years old and have a cousin (boy) who is nineteen. For the past three years he has been playing up to me sexually. Every time he comes near me, I know what to expect.

I have told him a considerable number of times to leave me alone, and have even threatened to tell his parents, but it doesn't seem to bother him.

I haven't told anyone except my girl friend and we would like an outsider's opinion on what to do, as soon as possible, for I am afraid something serious will come of all this.—E. B.

* * *

DEAR E. B.—In the eyes of some short-sighted parents, cousins have an immunity to human temptations. You aren't the first young lady to face this problem.

If Cuz is fresh, and expects you to co-operate, tell an adult. Preferably your mother. You need protection with a Capital P.

DEAR DORIS—What do you think of a woman who doesn't tell the truth? She is working with me and I don't like it one bit. My mother used to tell me to tell the truth and shame the devil. She's always telling what she's got and it's better than what I've got.

I am thinking about giving up my job. I have not had any time off at all because of the time she takes off, and I should have two weeks. Tell me what to do about this.—FED UP.

* * *

DEAR FED UP—Mother knows best. If your lying friend gets unfair advantages, it can't last.

See the boss yourself. Ask for the time which is coming to you, without acting annoyed with anyone else. Don't quit a job you like without making a bid for a break.

DEAR DEE—Clear the decks. Throw over your treacherous "friend."

Then try the direct approach. No telling how many likes you will have to wipe out. If Tom likes you, he will be glad to know you didn't snub him—and that you have no steady.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I have been going steady with this boy for ten months. I gave him my ring when he asked me to go steady, but he didn't have one to give me because he wasn't working.

But I'm really proud of going steady with him, and now that he's got a job I would like to have something to show the girls at school and to remember him by because he is not going back to school.

So I was wondering how I would mention it to him without hurting his feelings or him thinking I'm terrible to ask for it. I don't want anything expensive, but just something to show I'm going with him.—STEADY.

DEAR STEADY—If your devotion is steady, you'll bide your time. Give him time to pay his debts and think of a gift himself—not because you want it but because he cares about you.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I met a boy about six months ago. He was twenty and I only sixteen. But I really fell for him and when he asked me to go steady, of course I said yes. Later he moved just 33 miles away. He came back to see me and we broke up. I burned all his letters, pictures, gifts, everything he gave me.

Then I started to go with other boys. But I keep remembering him. Just a song he liked or the same place he and I used to go, I could just bawl. I've really tried to get over him.

I don't think he likes me any more. So please tell me what to do. I don't think this was just puppy love.—HEART BROKEN.

* * *

DEAR HEART—Take a little longer to be sure. Any girl with a warm heart is likely to melt more than once. And Twenty is bound to be extra glamorous to Sixteen.

Right now he's just a memory. Real life is beckoning to you. Face it and enjoy it.

DEAR DORIS—I would like to have a pen pal in Cairo, Egypt. I am fifteen. Could you please forward me the name of an organization which could supply me with the name of such a correspondent.—HOWARD.

* * *

DEAR HOWARD—Write to Mrs. R. Tanner, United Nations Association of Canada, Rouge, Markham, Ontario, and ask her about this.

* * *

Rhodesian Leader Predicts Country May Be Another Algeria Unless U.K. Steps In LONDON (CP)—An African nationalist leader from Southern Rhodesia warned Sunday his country may become another Algeria with all the consequences of bloodshed and disaster unless Britain takes a hand in sorting things out.

Rev. N. Sithole, leader of the exiled members of the banned Zimbabwe African People's Union, flew in from the United Nations en route for Dar Es Salaam, Tanganyika, headquarters of the banned party's exile movement. He told airport reporters:

"Unless the British government intervenes immediately we expect nothing less than disaster, disruption and bloodshed."

Sithole's statements followed a double-barrelled blow to Britain's Southern Rhodesia policy at the UN:

1. The resignation, announced Thursday, of Sir Hugh Foot as Britain's spokesman at the UN. Foot told a press conference Friday he resigned because he was "not able to speak with conviction on the matter in question," apparently the Southern Rhodesia issue.

2. An overwhelming vote in the UN assembly Friday for a resolution urging Britain to take urgent steps to lift the Southern Rhodesian government's ban on the Zapu party and free the organization's leaders who have been arrested or restricted in the wake of a wave of terrorism.

Joseph Godber, Britain's minister of state for foreign affairs, reiterated in the assembly that Britain has no right to interfere in the Southern Rhodesian crisis.

He said the government of Southern Rhodesia had exercised "full internal autonomy in the control of its own internal affairs," for the last 40 years and the only power retained by the British government was "a power of veto over some limited categories of Southern Rhodesian legislation within one year of enactment." This veto had never in fact been exercised.

Godber also insisted that the UN had no power "under the charter or otherwise," to intervene in Southern Rhodesia affairs.

However the measure passed on a vote of 84 to 7 with 11 abstentions. Britain and Canada were among those abstaining. Only South Africa and Portugal opposed the motion.

A Southern Rhodesian constitution passed by the British Parliament last January provides for an enrolment system which would produce a 40-10 white majority in the legislative assembly to be elected next spring. It envisions a Negro majority in the legislature within eight to 12 years as more Negroes join the voting rolls.

Sithole Saturday urged immediate British action prevent this constitution from becoming law and asked that it be replaced by a new one on the principle of "one man, one vote."

On one of the YMCA floats, in the United Appeal parade in Belleville Saturday, gymnasts demonstrated trompoline exercises as the parade rolled along.

At the corner of Front and Bridge Streets, Johnny Hayman, 13, was doing the bouncing.

Colorful Parades, Services Mark 150th Anniversary

QUEENSTON, Ont. (CP)—Colorful parades and remembrance services at Queenston Heights and Niagara - on - the-Lake during the weekend marked the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Queenston Heights and the death of Sir Isaac Brock, leader of the British forces.

General Brock was mortally wounded when he led the British and Canadian forces in a charge up the Heights which were held by an invading United States force during the War of 1812. However, the British and Canadian forces emerged victorious.

The idea for the Queenston ceremonies came from the Queen's York Rangers of Toronto, a regiment with a history dating back to 1756 and which also took part in the War of 1812. Troops from Fort Niagara, N.Y., and Lockport, N.Y., also took part in the ceremonies, which began Saturday, 150 years to the day after the battle.

BROCK HONORED

Lieutenant-Governor J. Keller Mackay of Ontario placed a wreath at the base of the Brock Monument on Queenston Heights as a special honor guard gathered around. The honor guard wore uniforms similar to those used in the 1700s and 1800s by the Queen's York Rangers.

A six-man gun crew wearing uniforms similar to those used in the War of 1812 fired an authentic muzzle-loading cannon as the sunset ceremony concluded the Saturday program.

A wreath was placed Sunday on the cairn standing the spot where Brock died and later the Queen's York Rangers attended a drumhead service at St. Saviour's Anglican Church. The church, built in 1870, was dedicated as a memorial to Sir Isaac.

READS ABOUT IT

LONDON (Reuters) — A prisoner was held in prison by mistake four days after he had been officially set free, it was learned today. Douglas Fisher, 26, read in a newspaper that a court had quashed his three-year sentence for receiving stolen property, and showed the article to the prison warden. The surprised warden checked the story and Fisher was set free.

Windsor Mayor Wins Challenge Plowing Match

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Mayor Mike Patrick of Windsor won the mayor's challenge plowing match Saturday during wind-up activities of the 40th annual International plowing competitions held on the farm of Norman Barber, three miles south of here.

Lindsay Mayor Joe Holton was runner-up and Mayor Eddie Sargent of Owen Sound was third.

More than 115,000 persons turned out during the four-day period to watch the plowing competitions or to browse through the fair-like atmosphere created on the 450-acre Barber farm.

Robert Campbell of Churchill, president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, said record crowds turned up each day and more than 640 plowmen entered the various competitions.

Also entered in the mayor's plowing match was which other mayors from as far away as Fort William and Picton—was Reeve Marie Curtis of Toronto's suburban Long Branch, the only female entrant.

During the competition, Mrs Barbara Cunnington, 21, of Inglewood in Peel County was named Queen of the Furrow. The contest was based on a knowledge of farming and an ability to handle a plow.

Police Smash Montreal Purse Snatching Ring

MONTREAL (CP) — Police smashed a purse-snatching ring on Sunday that was small in size but large in ambition.

Five boys ranging in age from 8 to 12 were nabbed when a plainclothes policeman saw them lifting the pocketbook of Magella Quesnel, which contained $100.

Police said the boys worked this way: One would "accidentally" bump the victim and spill her purse. Shortly after, an other would lift her wallet out of it. He would pass it to a third member who collected the money and passed the wallet to a fourth who disposed of it.

About $1,000 was reported stolen from women in the north end Jean-Talon Market area and police assigned the plainclothesmen to find out how it was being done.

Beaverton Hotel Closed Down 'Due to Gas'

BEAVERTON, Ont. (CP)—The 24-room Beaverton Hotel has been "closed due to gas," says a sign on the front door.

Frank McMillan, owner of the building containing the hotel and its dining room, the village's meeting place, an insurance office, an optometrist's office and a variety store, is afraid to light the basement furnace because of fumes and gasoline.

He believes the gasoline is seepage from a service station across the road from the hotel but attempts to confirm this belief have been futile.

J. C. Stevens, an engineer from the fire marshal's office in Toronto, spent nearly a month attempting to discover the gasoline. A trench was dug in front of the hotel and a quantity of pure gasoline was found.

Imperial Oil trouble crews dug out one storage tank and checked the other for leaks. They issued a statement to the effect that its investigations indicated the company was not responsible.

Mr. McMillan said he was notified that his fire insurance policy will not be renewed when it expires in December. His five permanent guests were told to move.

Meanwhile the gasoline fumes are being noticed in the basements of other stores on main street and it is feared they may enter the same fate as the hotel.

Towed by a Department of Works jeep, Belleville Civic Credit Union float for a dry land cruise in the United Appeal parade in Belleville Saturday. Following them, a heavy truck provided a rolling sports field for the Minor Sports Association.

United Appeal Parade Given Fine Reception

Postponed for two weeks due to rain, Belleville's United Appeal campaign parade marched through the downtown shopping district Saturday. Because of the delays, some parts of the show were cancelled, but the parade as produced by Col Angus Duffy was still a processed success.

Led by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Band under Cpl. Crawford, the parade also included the Army Navy and Air Force Veterans Association Kiltie Band, under Gregg Christopher and the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet band from Trenton. Floats, cars and marching groups represented all the thirteen agencies participating in Belleville's United Appeal.

The parade left the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment armories at 10.45 a.m. and marched north on Pinnacle st to Station St., turned left on Station St., down Front and back to the armories via Bridge St.

Robert Nixon New President Of Liberals

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Nixon, 33-year-old member of the Ontario legislature for Brant, Saturday was elected president of the Ontario Liberal Association.

Mr. Nixon, a former school teacher, succeeds former elected to the legislature last January, was the only nomination for president at the association's annual meeting.

Larry Lebow, a Toronto consulting engineer, told the meeting a conflict of interest might occur if Mr. Nixon were elected to head the association. The rank and file of the association might not agree with the decisions of Mr. Nixon and his fellow members at Queen's Park, Mr. Lebow said.

Mr. Nixon — who holds the seat left vacant by the death of his father, Harry C. Nixon, a former premier and Brant member for 42 years — said there would be no conflict of interest between his presidency of the association and his role in party caucus.

Soviet Press Critical of Vatican Council

MOSCOW (AP) — A soviet newspaper said Saturday the Vatican ecumenical council is attempting to find a way out of the Roman Catholic Church's "spiritual and political crisis."

"The Catholic Church is in decline and is going through a crisis," said an article in the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

"The modern Vatican is reminiscent of a live corpse. And no matter what dress this live corpse puts on and no matter what kind of invocations are pronounced over it, nothing can resurrect it."

The Komsomolskaya Pravda article, written by I. Lavretsky, was the first editorial comment on the council to appear in the Soviet press this week. It said the Catholic church hierarchy is split between "cold war advocates" and leaders who oppose what it called the Vatican's "anti-Communist policies."

"The statement criticized Pope Pius XII, saying he had been "seized with hysteria" against communism.

"The present Pope is just as zealous an anti-Communist as his predecessor, Pius XII, but he displays greater political flexibility," it said. "John XXIII . . . refrains from a public defence of 'cold war' policy.

"He speaks out for peace, for the cessation of atomic tests, for the necessity of disarmament and he even congratulated the Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and (Pavel) Popovich on their exploit."

Kennedy's Public Image Facing Its Great Trial In Elections on Nov. 6th

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next month President Kennedy's public image, built so laboriously and so zealously, faces its great trial.

On Nov. 6 U.S. voters choose 435 representatives, 33 senators and 35 governors.

John F. Kennedy's name won't be on any ballot. Many races will be settled strictly on local issues and local personalities. But the results are bound to affect the president's political reputation.

Democratic gains, be they ever so humble, will be seized upon as proof that Kennedy is all but invincible, sure of another term in the White House.

Republican gains, especially in the House of Representatives, will be taken as evidence that Kennedy will have his troubles in 1964.

OPPOSITION GAINS

Making it more exasperating for Kennedy, tradition is against him. Historically the party in power loses ground in these off-year elections.

Republicans may pick up a few governors, where they now trail 34-16.

Democrats are expected to hold their own, or even gain, in the Senate, where they lead 64-36.

Most interest centres in the House, where the standings are 261 Democrats, 174 Republicans, two vacant. Statistically Republicans must gain 44 seats to take over. Actually in this Congress enough conservative Democrats have lined up with them to block pet presidential projects.

Since Kennedy and his advisers insist he can't afford to lose, and indeed must pick up five or six House seats, what the voters think of the president becomes increasingly important.

HAS NEW TOOLS

All presidents have fretted about their image.

If Kennedy differs on this point from his predecessors, it's only in degree and in the new tools available to him. These range from jet planes, which can take him places fast, to private opinion polls, which can tell him what to say and what to avoid once he gets there.

Certainly no other president has given so many interviews, either singly or in small groups, to so many reporters.

No president has a checked more closely on what he has been written and said about him.

No president has been so quick to praise a man he likes, or to remonstrate, in person, when one distresses him.

The voter's impressions are influenced by Kennedy's speeches, his messages to Congress, his vacations, his executive proposals, his press conferences, his trips abroad, his subordinates, his dispensing of favors and his relatives, possibly the most restless political family of all time.

TIFFS WITH PRESS

Possibly too much has been made of Kennedy's differences with news writers and commentators, of his calling up reporters to "protest," of his going to visit a columnist in the hope of fort to persuade him to change his mind.

Rarely is it pointed out that Kennedy, once a newspaper man himself, has always been interested in the written word, especially when it describes him.

During the West Virginia primaries Kennedy had laryngitis, an ailment that plagued him throughout his campaign.

In one story I mentioned that as the crowds improved so did Kennedy's voice. Finally one crowd hit 5,000, and Kennedy miraculously recovered to belt out a rousing speech.

Kennedy didn't like the story. Since he believes in direct access to the people, accepting an adjective that, alas, cannot be repeated in a family newspaper. When a president complains now, he is doing what comes naturally—to a Kennedy.

CONFRONT HAZARD

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sceptical police, investigating a report made by a couple of golfers at the Westborough Country Club, were enough found an alligator in a pond ner the course Sunday. August Willert Jr. of suburban Webster Groves said the alligator belonged to one of his boys and had escaped from his pen Saturday night.

Commons May Settle Down To Hard Work

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative government is hopeful that Parliament will settle down this week to a period of intensive legislative work, setting aside for a while the political controversies which dominated its first weeks.

A Conservative party source said it now seemed apparent that none of the four parties in the Commons is really anxious to precipitate a general election in the next three or four months and that the next big parliamentary crisis probably would not occur until after the Christmas-New Year recess.

Liberal party sources disagreed.

They said that despite the five confidence votes held during the throne speech debate—all won by the minority administration — the Conservatives should be humbled from power and a new election held to usher in majority government.

LIBERALS CONFIDENT

The Liberals are confident their fortunes are on the rise and that they now can push their membership across the critical 133 mark to gain a clear majority in the 265-seat House.

The Liberals now have 100 members, up from 51 at dissolution last spring; the Conservatives have 116, down from 203.

The Conservatives need only the support of one of the other parties to remain in office.

Back-bench Conservative MPs muttered discontentedly about the predominance of publicity given to the support the government obtained in the throne speech debate from the 30 Social Credit members, saying the Liberals can only come close to defeating the government by having the support of the 18 members of the New Democratic Party.

In the last Parliament, there were no Social Credit members, and the old CCF party and its offspring, the NDP, had at their peak only nine MPs.

Two PCs Deny Any Association With Gamblers

TORONTO (CP)—Two prominent Progressive Conservatives whose names came up during last week's hearings of the royal commission on crime have denied any association with known gamblers.

Bev Lewis, member of the Ontario legislature for York Humber, said Saturday he has learned a club he helped organize is suspected of gambling he aided in cancelling the charter.

Roland Michener, former House of Common Speaker, said he once intervened on behalf of a friend but has never had any connection with gambling clubs.

R. J. Cudney, deputy provincial secretary, had testified at Friday's commission hearing that Mr. Lewis and Mr. Michener had helped Toronto social club get charters in the face of police opposition or by bypassing customary pre-issuance investigation.

He also named Ontario Liquor Commissioner Allan Grossman and former licensing branch minister David Walker as helping clubs get charters. Both have declined comment.

Mr. Michener denied he "associated" in helping Club Macdonald get a charter in 1960 without preliminary police investigation.

But he said he spoke to the deputy provincial secretary on behalf of the club's president, Stephen Nicholson, after the club's charter was revoked.

"I was glad to present his views to Mr. Budney that the charter had been cancelled unfairly," Mr. Michener said.

The deputy provincial secretary had testified the charter was cancelled last year because the club was charging players a fee in contravention of its charter.

Mr. Michener said many clubs he belongs to charge fees and there was nothing illegal in the practice.

SUNDAY MUSINGS ¼ ½ ¾ ¼ ½ ¾

There's no truth in the rumor that out California way they're offering two big attractions for the price of one; the seventh game of the World Series and the Rose Bowl.

The 1962 edition, the experts claim, is the longest World Series since World War Two, and since Ford Frick, the commanding generalissimo, says the series will be completed in San Francisco come hell or high water, the Giants and Yankees could conclude their spring training before they split the series loot.

And who knows after Candlestick Park has come up for the third time and passed hydration tests, the final game may again be delayed until Mays, Mantle, Maris, Whitey Ford, Jack Sanford, et al, sign their 1963 contracts.

Mike, the copy boy, has banked the office pools' money. He figures it may as well be drawing interest while the Giants and Yankees are settling gin-rummy championships, splitting penny-ante loot or bridge prizes, soaking up movies or whatever baseball players do when not covered vacations.

The Saturday night bull session took on a new theme. Featured champs instead of champs. It by-passed the famous Fred Merkle caper because modern baseball has come up with skull-crossers just as bad and as costly.

Take the L.A. Angels pitcher Dean Chance. With the bases loaded, one out in the ninth and a 3-1 lead. Chance fired Detroit's Billy Bruton's smash to the mound to first base instead of the plate and a sure double play and victory. The Tigers won 4-3.

And umpires wear horns occasionally. Larry Goetz in the 1947 World Series when Lavagetto hit the famous double to break Floyd Bevens' bid for a no-hitter and give the Dodgers a fantastic win over the Yankees, bent over and started to dust off the plate waiting for the next hitter.

Two years ago the Oriole's Marv Breeding took a second-base toss and thought it was three out for the Yanks. He rolled the ball to the mound and a Yankee runner on third scored to win the game. There were only two out. And remember, in the Dodger-Giants playoffs. Willie Mays with only two out fielded a ball and started to walk to centre field. He thought three were gone.

In the same series the Giant pitcher Gaylord Perry with the sacks loaded, tossed a roller to first instead of the plate paving the way to a Dodger win.

Last year the Boston Red Sox were trailing the Angels 3-2 in the 10th inning. Chuck Schilling walked for the Sox and the tying run and Geiger figured it was the winner. He slowed down, was trapped and tossed out. The game ended in a tie.

And the Pirates' Bob Skinner and Bill Virdon forgot what baseball is was in a game with the Cubs. With two gone in the eighth and the score tied, the Cubs had a runner on third and Cal Neeman up.

Neeman hit a drive which got through Virdon and Skinner and rolled to the faraway wall. Both fielders thought it was the ninth and raced for the dugout. Neeman got at inside home run enough to win the ball game.

And who will forget Max West of the Boston Braves. Max was in the on-deck circle and the Braves had the potential winning run on third base. The ball got away from the catcher and Max, a good guy, picked it up and tossed it back to the plate in time to tag the runner coming in.

Max was heartbroken. He went back to the dugout after popping up and sat with his head in his hands to escape the icy glares of the Braves' manager, one Casey Stengel. But the worst was to come. As he sat there the next batter drove a liner into the dugout hitting Max on the noggin and knocking him out.

Varsity Shades McGill

Queen's Whips Western

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The story in the Intercollegiate Senior Football League so far this season has not been the success of any particular team but, rather, the complete collapse of the McGill Redmen.

Redmen, champions in 1960 and finalist last season, have been drubbed by last year's weak sisters in their first two outings.

Last week at London, University of Western Ontario Mustangs rapped them 23-11. Saturday, at Montreal, University of Toronto Blues capitalized on er- ors to dump McGill 19-13.

In other action, Queen's Golden Gaels romped to a 26-6 win over the Mustangs at Kingston.

The defending champion Gaels, who overpowered Blues 32-13 at Toronto last week, are the only undefeated team in the four-team league.

Western and Toronto, who finished third and fourth last season, are tied with one win and one loss apiece.

And McGill, the team the experts said had the best chance to dethrone Queen's is dead last.

Erkki Puhonen, Bill Watters and Harold Hall scored Blues' touchdowns and Bryce Taylor added a convert.

Willie Lambert and George Telekh made good on one convert attempt.

Bill Edwards and two rookies, Bruce Stewart and John Young, scored Queen's touchdowns. Rookie Ritchie, scoring champion two seasons ago, kicked three converts and two singles and booted a field goal.

Brian Conacher crashed for three Mustang points when John Nash scored a single on the second - half kickoff. The other Mustang points were picked up when Queen's punter Harold Rose conceded a safety touch after chasing a bad snap into his own end zone.

Wings, Bruins Unbeaten In 3 Starts

Habs, Leafs Split Tilts

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Last year they couldn't even make the playoffs. This year Detroit and Boston are probably wishing the playoffs were here right now.

It is a little startling to see Detroit Red Wings leading the National Hockey League, just one point ahead of Boston Bruins, and to see both teams unbeaten in three straight games. They were second-last and last respectively, in the dismal season of 1961-62.

Boston was the team ticketed to go nowhere this season, and Detroit not much farther. How long can their luck last?

Both teams got superb work from goalers as the Red Wings bumped Montreal Canadiens 3-1 Sunday and fought Chicago to a scoreless standstill Saturday and Boston took two 2-2 ties in games against Toronto and Chicago.

Montreal beat visiting New York Rangers 4-1 Saturday. New York inflicted a 5-3 defeat on Toronto Sunday.

ADOPTS MASK

Terry Sawchuck, who after 12 years in the NHL has been converted to the Jacques Plante theory that a goaler's face is best covered from enemy shots, was brilliant in the scoreless game at Chicago with 28 saves.

The masked goaler never yanked out of the nets in the final minutes as Detroit went for the win and nearly lost. Chicago's Bill Hay missed the wide - open net from five feet away. Glenn Hall, Hawks' netminder, made 23 stops.

Sunday, the resurrected Parker MacDonald of Sydney scored two goals and rookie Alex Faulkner of Bishop's Falls, Nfld., one for the win over Montreal. MacDonald has been up and down from Detroit to the minor leagues several times and was left up this year because of a good showing in training camp. He has three goals in three games.

Faulkner, drafted by Detroit from the Toronto chain, fired first NHL goal in the second period of the game. Claude Provost scored Montreal's lone tally.

Sawchuck did an acrobatic job, stopping 25 shots. The Canadiens without their regular goaler Plante, who is ill, and they were using Cesare Maniago, but the audience wouldn't have been able to tell easily. He wears a mask too.

COULDN'T CHECK BOB

Boston goaler Bob Perreault, 31 years old but a rookie to the NHL, was badly outshot in his games but couldn't be cracked. In Toronto Saturday, the Maple Leafs fired 40 shots at him and scored only twice. His Boston teammates fired 25 at Toronto's Johnny Bower.

Against Chicago, Perreault stopped 26 while Hall handled 15.

Old pros Johnny Bucyk and sophomore Cliff Pennington were the Boston scorers against Toronto, while veterans Doug Mohns and Bill McKenzy got the two against Chicago.

Ron Stewart and Bob Nevin scored for the Leafs.

In Boston, the only Chicago players to beat Perreault were rookie Chico Maki and Hay.

New York flubbed a two-goal lead in Montreal Saturday after taking advantage of another Canadiens substitute goaler, Ernnis Wakely, as Donnie Marshall, Andy Hebenton and Camille Henry scored the New York goals.

RICHARD SCORES TWO

Rangers couldn't stand up to a concentrated Monday barrage in the second period, when the Canadiens scored four goals and took a commanding lead. Henri Richard got two goals and Provost, Gilles Tremblay, Red Berenson and Don Marshall the others.

Sunday, in their own arena, the Rangers outplayed through half the game. but came back to pull out the 5-3 win.

Ted Hampson and Ken Schinkel, not previously noted for scoring, rammed in two vital goals that got the Rangers out of a 1-3 hole. Camille Henry, newcomer Jean Ratelle and by defenceman Al Langlois

Eskimos Stop Lions

Stamps Shade Bombers

Two chronic second-division clubs continued their upsurge during the weekend and turned the Western Conference into a tight three-way race.

Calgary Stampeders came from behind in Winnipeg Saturday to beat the Blue Bombers in overtime 19-13 and meat the national champions from first place.

The win gave the Stampeders 17 points, one ahead of Winnipeg, which has dominated the conference for the last five years.

A point behind Winnipeg are Saskatchewan Roughriders, long a league doormat, but now with new life under coach Steve Owen. They consolidated their hold on third place with a 29-21 victory Saturday over Ottawa Rough Riders, in a Canadian Football League interlocking game.

Saskatchewan, on a two-game eastern swing, meets the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton tonight. Hamilton holds down second spot in the Eastern Conference, a point behind Ottawa.

Another victory would give the Roughriders a first - place tie with Calgary.

A third Saturday game saw the return to form of Jackie Parker in Vancouver, where he led Edmonton Eskimos to a decisive 26-7 win over British Columbia Lions.

Both clubs are trying to dig out Saskatchewan for a third and playoff spot. B.C. is three behind Saskatchewan and Edmonton four.

Calgary, which has finished third or worse in the league for more than a decade, was blown 14-5 against Winnipeg going into the fourth quarter, but came up with two late touchdowns for victory.

Pierce, Ford Seek Big One

Giants, Yankees Back In Action

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The oft - delayed sixth game of the World Series between New York and San Francisco "positively" will be played at 12 noon today with the Yankees' Whitey Ford facing the Giants' Billy Pierce. The weatherman promised good weather.

The veteran left - handers had been primed since last Friday but the worst October storm to lash the bay area in 58 years forced Commissioner Ford Frick to postpone the game Sunday for the third straight day.

The sun shone brightly and the skies, bridged and leaky ever since the teams returned from New York, were smiling on Candlestick Park when the commissioner came out to inspect it. But a quick check of the playing field and a brief huddle with head grounds-keeper Matty Schwab convinced him it would be best to wait another day.

"A little more sun and some wind," said Schwab, "and the outfield turf would be 70 per cent improved and definitely playable by game time Monday."

MAY BE FINALE

Late Sunday night, the outfield area had dried to such an extent that the grass was cut. A chemical composition used to open pores in the hardpan adobe base had taken hold.

A sellout crowd of some 44,000 was expected to attend what may be the World Series finale. The Yankees, leading three to two in games, needed one more triumph to bring their 29th championship since they won their first in 1923. That was against the Giants, too.

Both pitchers were well rested. Pierce, who has never lost in Candlestick Park, winning all 12 decisions, had not pitched since he was beaten in the third series game at Yankee Stadium, last Sunday.

Ford, winner of five straight series games, including a 5-2 triumph here in the opener, last appeared on the mound a week ago when the Giants evened the series at two-all with a 7-3 victory. Ford left after six innings with the score tied at 2-2 and was not charged with the loss.

The two teams, bored and physically stiff from four days of inactivity, journeyed by bus Sunday to Modesto, 90 miles away, and worked out for two hours at Del Webb Stadium.

Utilities Nip Smokies, Win Title

Public Utilities finally captured the City Interdepartmental softball league championship Saturday morning by shading the Belleville Firemen 6-5 at the CNRA Park.

The PUC took eight games to win the three-of-five titular series, ousting the Firemen three games to two with no less than three games tied.

The champions jumped into a 5-0 lead in the opening inning Saturday but the nervy say-die fire-fighters battled back to tie it 5-5 in the second frame. A single marker in the fourth provided the PUC's winning margin in the seven-inning contest.

Ralph Sine pitched the victory, with Hess catching, while Ray Reid toiled in defeat. Ryan was his receiver.

Public Utilities will be presented with the championship trophy at the interdepartmental party and dance on October 26.

Says Bobby Richardson

Yanks Welcome Workout

This is another in a series of articles analyzing the World Series by Bobby Richardson, second baseman of the New York Yankees.

By BOBBY RICHARDSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It felt like spring training all over again.

We finally got to throw a ball around and get in a few swings with a bat.

It was strange in more ways than one. First of all, the sun was shining bright, it was beautiful Sunday and the sixth World Series game between the Yankees and Giants was postponed.

Secondly, although Candlestick Park, a beautiful and modern baseball stadium, was unplayable because of its soggy field condition, we were able to work out at a minor league park in Modesto, some 90 miles away.

And the field was beautifully kept. All of us were surprised. The first part of the field was kept as well as that in Yankee Stadium.

The workout was welcomed by all the Yankees. Frankly, the boredom was beginning to tell on some of the players. No matter how nice the city, try sitting in your room or in the lobby for four straight days and you'll get an idea how we felt.

I don't think one ball was missed during our infield practice. And Mickey Mantle, who, along with Yogi Berra, were the favorites of the crowd, staged quite a show for them during batting practice. Mickey hit at least four tremendous drives clear out of the park, one over the fence in deepest centre field. In his first turn at bat.

On the bus ride to Modesto, we passed a turkey farm. There must have been at least 5,000 pure white turkeys. on it. Berra was fascinated by the sight.

"Look, fellas," he shouted "white turkeys. I never seen white turkeys before. They must be rare."

Imagine, 5,000 turkeys, all white and Yogi says they're rare!

Stephens Wrecks Toronto Defence

Als Clobber Argos, Ottawa Beaten

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Toronto Argonauts had been within earshot of Perry Moss Sunday, a few of them might be having second thoughts today about playing football for a living.

"Sandy Stephens," proclaimed the Montreal Alouettes coach, "is the greatest quarterback in the Canadian Football League. And," he added seriously, "he's going to be even better."

A better Stephens than the one who faced Argos Sunday would be a fearsome sight indeed.

The 220-pound rookie from the University of Minnesota scored three touchdowns himself, passed for two more and made a shambles of the Toronto defence as Als rolled to a 50-21 Eastern Football Conference win.

Saturday, Saskatchewan Roughriders, using the pass interception as their favorite offensive play, whipped Ottawa Rough Riders 29-21 at Ottawa.

The westerners play an interlocking game at Hamilton tonight against Hamilton Tiger-Cats who have now lost three in a row.

SOLSTER PLAYOFF BID

Moss bubbled with enthusiasm after Als' shooting in the crucial game. It gave Montreal a two-point edge over Argos in the battle for the last playoff spot and both clubs have only three games remaining — one more against each other.

"I wouldn't trade Stephens for any other quarterback in the country," said Moss. "As a matter of fact, I wouldn't have traded him the day we signed him—before he had ever played a pro game."

Stephens, who quietly credited the last Als' offence and defence "finally jelled" for the win, was flawless. Argos were not.

Besides scoring three touchdowns, Sandy passed 19 yards to Marv Luster and 75 yards to former Ottawa end Jim Reynolds, for scores. Defensive halfback Billy Wayte ran a record 107 yards on an intercepted pass for another touchdown and fullback Larry Hickman raced 28 yards for one. Bobby Jack Oliver booted all seven converts and added a single.

Dick Shatto scored two touchdowns for Argos and Gerry McDougall added the other. Bill Mitchell converted all three.

TEREZE FOR FURDIN

At Ottawa, Ray Purdin scored three touchdowns for Saskatchewan, two of them on passes of 26 and 55 yards from quarterback Bob Ptacek. Ptacek also passed 72 yards to Dale Wetzel for a touchdown. Steve Myhra kicked three converts and he and Fred Burket booted singles.

Quarterback Russ Jackson plunged for two Ottawa touchdowns and Bill Semenko scored after picking up a Ptacek fumble. Moe Racine kicked two converts and a single.

Argos thrilled the East's largest crowd—29,521—by taking a 7-0 lead in the first quarter, then chilled them as Als scored at a better than a point-a-minute clip.

All Montreal's scoring was in the second and third quarters—30 points in 30 minutes—and they counted in the fourth quarter with a 30-7 lead.

TEREZE ARGOS INJURED

Argos lost guard Gerry Patrick for the rest of the season when Patrick suffered a double fracture of his right leg after making a fine pass interception.

Billy Shipp, pinched nerve, and Meanan Schriewer, pulled hamstring muscle, were other injured Argos.

Three Saskatchewan interceptions helped wipe out a 21-18 Ottawa lead going into the final 15 minutes Saturday. Two of them produced touchdowns and the other killed off any Ottawa hopes of catching the western club.

Roughriders also jarred an Ottawa fumble into a touchdown and Ottawa added the same with two Saskatchewan fumbles.

MYHRA PICKOFFS HURT

Myhra made two key interceptions for the westerners. The first gave his team possession on the Ottawa 36 and after two punt exchanges, Saskatchewan scored. The second time, Myhra intercepted a Jackson pass on the 26 and Purdin went over four plays later.

Suddenly behind, Ottawa saw another pass picked off at their own 14, this time off Ron Lancaster, killing any chances for a comeback.

Ottawa had 21 first downs to Saskatchewan's 12 and the winners gained only 78 yards rushing to Ottawa's 183. But Ptacek, completing 11 of 23 passes, picked up 251 yards in the air. Jackson completed seven of 18 and Lancaster three of five for 107 yards.

Rochester, Bisons Tied For Top

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League race appears to be a pretty scrambly affair its first week.

Three teams are tied for the Western Division lead, four tied for second in the east and in the whole six - team circuit, only Buffalo Bisons have yet to get beaten.

The Bisons won their second game Sunday night, 5-3 over Pittsburgh Hornets, with Jerry Melnyk scoring two goals. The win gave them a tie for first place in the west with Rochester Americans, 3-2 victors over Hershey Bears, and Cleveland Barons.

Providence Reds whipped Baltimore Clippers 6-4 and Quebec Aces edged Springfield Indians 4-3 in the other sport Sunday night.

The Aces took a 6-0 shellacking Saturday night when they met the Indians at Springfield. Hershey took Pittsburgh 6-3 and Cleveland beat Rochester 5-3 in other Saturday night games.

Buffalo went ahead to stay Sunday night with Ian Cushenan's second - period goal, but Melnyk's two markers were needed to make it stand up when Howie Menard got one for Pittsburgh in the closing minutes. Cliff Schmautz and Brian Cullen scored the other Buffalo goals. Eddie Joyal and Geordie Redahi scored the first two goals for winless Pittsburgh.

LEAD CHANGES UP

Rochester took a 3-0 lead over a period and a half, then hung on for its narrow edge over Hershey. Ed Lasson, Jim Pappin and Gene Ubriaco got the Rochester goals, while rookie Roger DeJordy scored twice for Hershey.

Guy Rousseau scored Quebec's third goal on a penalty shot in the second period when Rousseau was tripped as he sailed in on a breakaway. Michel Labadie, Bill Sutherland and John Hanna netted the others, while Wayne Larkin, Jim Anderson and Bob McCord scored for Springfield.

Harvey Kuenn Believes

Layoff Didn't Hurt Team

This is another in the series articles appearing in the World Series by Harvey Kuenn, certified for San Francisco Giants.

BY HARVEY KUENN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — I don't think the four-day layoff from the World Series play hurt us but we have all been looking forward to the start of the sixth game.

The delay caused by the rain definitely helped our pitching by giving the rest most of them needed.

I don't believe the layoff took the edge off anybody. After playing almost 200 games during a season, a few days off isn't going to hurt you.

The possible exception could be in mental attitude, and for that reason our workout in Modesto was very doubly valuable. You play all season and into the World Series. Then you lay off four days and it almost seems like the season should be over.

But you see a full house like they had at Modesto with all that enthusiasm and we all had an extra realization there was still a job to do.

WORK LEGS OUT

That was as important as regaining any lost timing and going through routine fielding and batting practice. We also had a chance to run and get our legs back into condition. There won't be any pulls while running hard during the game. This always is something we have to guard against.

Candlestick Park should provide no excuses one way or another. As I said yesterday, it dried it a lot and the infield was covered during the storm. The outfield can't be too firm, but it was fairly soft with hush grass during the regular season. We'll be fairly used to it.

That's not a home park advantage either because i'm sure the Yankees have played on fields that were soft and damp at various times throughout the year.

You know, Billy Pierce actually got a little stronger before he went to Modesto yesterday. The day before, he went into the maintenance room here at Candlestick Park and threw while the rain fell outside. He was that determined to make a fine effort against the Yankees for us.

Skins Tie, Giants Lose

Packers Still Unbeaten

NEW YORK (CP) — Green Bay Packers maintained the National Football League's only unblemished record Sunday by trouncing Minnesota Vikings 48-21 on the accurate passing of quarterback Bart Starr.

Starr, completing 21 of 29 passes while league scoring leader Paul Hornung was on the bench with a twisted right ankle, threw for four touchdowns and gained 296 yards in the air as the defending NFL champions remained out front in the Western Conference with a 5-0 record.

At the same time, Washington Redskins boosted their Eastern Conference lead by gaining a 17-17 tie with St. Louis Cardinals on Bob Khayat's 20-yard field goal with 13 seconds remaining.

Pittsburgh Steelers pulled into a tie for second place with New York Giants, turning two pass interceptions and a fumble recovery into points and a 20-17 triumph over the Giants. The Steelers and Giants are tied with 3-2 records.

Detroit Lions remained a game back of Green Bay in the western sector as Milt Plum moved the Lions toward their only touchdown with a passing and kicked two field goals for a 13-10 triumph over Los Angeles Rams.

Elsewhere in the NFL, Amos Marsh returned a kickoff 101 yards as Baltimore Colts walloped Philadelphia Eagles 41-19; Baltimore Colts posted 23 points before Cleveland Browns got on the first down and beat the Browns 38-16; and ex-Boston Patriot Babe Parilo to Jim Johnson touchdown pass gave San Francisco 49ers a 34-27 victory over Chicago Bears.

In the American League, Genie Mingo scored 15 points as Denver Broncos took over first place in the West from Dallas Texans with a 23-6 triumph over winless Oakland Raiders. George Blanda passed for six touchdowns and gained Eastern leader Houston to a league scoring record for a 56-17 rout over New York Titans.

The Broncos now are 5-1 to 4-1 for the Texans, who beat Boston 27-7 Friday night. Buffalo belted San Diego Chargers 33-10 Saturday.

McClure Wins Over Brennan

NEW YORK (AP)—Staggered twice in the first three rounds, unbeaten Skeeter McClure rallied Saturday night and pounded out a unanimous decision over Gomeo Brennan in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

It was the 12th straight victory for McClure since he turned pro after winning the Olympic light middleweight title in 1960.

He weighed 157 pounds. Brennan, of Bimini, The Bahamas, weighed 156.

Fire Destroys 22 Horses

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — Fire raged through two large stables at Batavia Downs harness track Sunday, killing a stablehand and 22 standard bred horses.

The track estimated its loss in buildings and equipment at $125,000.

There was no immediate estimate of the value of the horses, at least three of which had won more than $100,000 each during their careers.

Officials said Sunday night racing will continue as usual at the track.

The charred body of Jack Jameson, 35, of Butler, Pa., a groom, was found in the ruins of one of the 40-stall barns.

A second man first was reported missing but later was found safe.

Eighteen of the horses that perished had been trained and driven by Bud Gilmour of Hamburg, N.Y., one of the top harness handlers in the United States.

They included Howard Rosecroft, owned by Gilmour and Sheridan Reyington of Lucan, Ont. The nine-year-old pacer had won an estimated $120,000 in his lifetime.

Gilmour drove Howard Rosecroft to victory in the eighth race here Saturday night. He covered the mile in 2.04 2-5 for an $11.10 return on a $3 parimutual bet.

Demon Damsel and Bold Colby, both trotters, also died in the fast-moving fire.

Other horses lost in the fire were owned by John Wehle, president of the Geneseo Brewing Company of Rochester.

A track spokesman said an east wind prevented the flames from carrying to five other 40-stall barns. The frame buildings are 40 by 200 feet.

He said there were 600 horses at the track for the 86-night meeting, which ends Nov. 3.

The cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

About 50 horses were led to safety. Several others bolted from their stalls in the confusion and it took nearly three hours to round them up.

Volunteer fire companies from seven communities were at the scene.

Win Soccer Tourney, Trophy

Parsons Shade Trenton

Belleville Parsons Cleaners won the Bay of Quinte Football League round-robin tournament and the "Pop" Helyer Trophy Sunday.

But it was close. The tournament title and the trophy were decided on the teams' goals-for-and-against 'average, the winners shading the favored Trenton Ambers by a narrow goal margin.

Both clubs were undefeated in the six-game tourney each winning two and tieing one.

Parsons' goal average of 4-2 just topped the 3-3 record of the Trenton club.

Play was close, clean and exciting, with the goalies of all clubs standing out. Only thirteen goals were scored in the six games.

Gregory Zorbas was the star for the victorious Parsons, scoring two of the team's four goals. Mel Sutton and Mike Turner accounted for the others.

Parsons defeated Kingston Lanza's 1-0 and the Trenton RCAF 3-1. They tied Trenton Ambers 0-0.

Ambers, besides the tie, defeated RCAF 2-1, and Lanza's 1-0.

The "Pop" Helyer Trophy was presented to the winners on the Trenton RCAF field after the tournament. The presentation was made by Mr. Lem Helyer.

All league trophies will be formally presented to the various individuals and winners at the league dance scheduled for October 26th at Trenton Legion hall.

Outdoor Writers Blast CBC

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was criticized Saturday when some 30 Outdoors Writers of Canada met to discuss open air subjects coverage in the press and on radio and television.

At their annual meeting, a resolution was approved which said, in part: "It is a known fact and statistics are available to prove it, that millions of Canadians are interested in hunting, fishing, camping, and boating, nature photography, and other nature interests, in accepting this fact—and being in a position to know of this interest—the Outdoor Writers of Canada are amazed and disappointed at CBC's programming on both radio and television.

"This large segment of the population is largely ignored and subjected to an overdose of competitive sports."

90 Per Cent of West Berlin's Sewage Flows Towards East Berlin Despite Dividing Wall

By JOHN FIXIN

BERLIN (AP)—The two Berlins, East and West, are bewitched one city but they are virtually separate countries as far as utilities are concerned.

Sewerage is an exception. Ninety per cent of West Berlin's sewage flows towards East Berlin despite the Wall dividing the city.

West Berlin has 2,200,000 people, East Berlin 1,300,000.

When The Wall came, Aug. 13, 1961, West Berlin's bus and street-car systems were independent.

The Wall cut Berlin's other means of public transport.

The elevated trains, operated by the East German railways and ringing the entire city, stopped running between East and West, except for one line ending in East Berlin's Friedrichstrasse station.

The elevated in West Berlin, boycotted by many West Berliners, runs on power from the East. The station platforms are illuminated by West Berlin power.

The Wall also severed subway links between East and West Berlin. The subway used to be a common route for East Germans escaping to the West. Two West Berlin subway lines still traverse East Berlin, but only one makes a stop—at Friedrichstrasse. Persons authorized to enter East Berlin may leave the train there.

END AT WALL

Each half of the city has its own water and gas supply.

Each side's public transportation system ends at The Wall.

You cannot telephone a friend in the East from West Berlin. Nor can East Berliners call friends in West Berlin.

Since The Wall came up, West and East Berliners can't visit one another.

But the division didn't start with The Wall.

It dates back to the blockade, 1948-49. Since then the Western part of Berlin has striven to make itself independent of the East.

A small part of West Berlin's power consumption is supplied from the East and is paid for under a general trade agreement. A small fraction of the gas consumed by West Berliners comes from the East, to illuminate some border streets.

Not a drop of the 100,000,000 gallons of water West Berlin uses daily is supplied by the East nor do West Berliners sell their water to the Red-ruled part of the city.

Telephone communications with West Berlin.

In 1952, the East Berlin postal authorities overnight cut telephone communications with West Berlin.

Mail was exchanged fairly freely before The Wall. Now it is restricted to a few deliveries by truck and rail each day.

Trucks may cross only at the Helmstedt checkpoint for West Germans, on the border between the American sector and East Berlin.

An intricate network of sewers and conveyors under the city, east and west. Sewage flows to low-lying sumps whence it is pumped to sewage fields in East Berlin and the nearby countryside. Only 10 per cent of West Berlin's sewage is dumped in the West.

Many people made their escape through the sewers soon after The Wall came. Now, all sewer pipes between the halves of Berlin are blocked by steel bars.

RESUMES PUBLICATION

NEW YORK (AP) — The Brooklyn Eagle, which suspended operations seven years ago, will resume publication Monday, it was announced Friday by co-publisher Bob Farrell. Farrell said the newspaper, under new management, will use the photo offset process for its daily, to be published Monday through Saturday. The paper will sell at five cents.

Another Race Driver Killed

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Pat Pigott of Bellingham, Wash., was killed when his Lotus 23 spun into a wall Sunday in the 200-mile Grand Prix for sports cars.

Roger Penske of Philadelphia jumped into an early lead, lost it, then fought back and won the 17-lap event with a record average speed of 92.5 miles an hour. Penske, 25, drove a specially-built Zerlex-Duralite Climax.

Pigott, 37, crashed during the 46th lap. He was pinned in the wreckage and ambulance attendants required several minutes to pull him out.

He died in hospital about three hours after the race.

Dr. Joe Gilman Hall of Texas was second in a Chaparral. Masten Gregory, formerly of Kansas City and now of Paris, was third in a Lotus 19 Climax.

Penske covered the 77 laps in two hours, five minutes and 45 seconds. The victory earned him $9,250 plus a new car (Pontiac Grand Prix). Hall took $2,000 for finishing second.

Sports in Brief

CASPER WINS $40,000

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) Billy Casper, former U.S. Open champion, took charge of the $40,000 Bakersfield Open golf tournament on the first three holes Sunday and went on to win it by four strokes with a last round five-under-par 67.

The 31-year-old Californian birdied two of the first three holes, stretched his lead to three strokes after the first nine and finished with a 72-hole total of 272—16 strokes under par.

Tony Lema, who started the round on even terms with Casper, finished with a 71 for 276. Jacky Cupit had a 70 for 277. He lost an excellent chance to tie Lema when he hit a trap on the 18th and came out far short of the pin.

The victory, worth $6,400 to Casper, was his fourth major tournament win of the year. The Ranch alter put him in third place among the PGA money winners, behind Arnold Palmer and Gene Littler. Casper pushed Jack Nicklaus back to fourth.

OFF CRITICAL LIST

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Boxer Vincent DiNicola has been removed from the critical list at St. Vincent Hospital where he underwent head surgery. The 24-year-old middleweight is now listed in fair condition. DiNicola collapsed Oct. 1 after a sparring session.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gilles Villemure of Trois-Rivieres, Que., is building an impressive reputation as a Western Hockey League goaltender. Villemure, 22, who toiled last season for Long Island Ducks in the Eastern Amateur League, was one of two players who equalled WHL records Saturday night.

He tied the mark of Mike Karakas of the old Portland Eagles by fanning the second of two consecutive shutouts as Vancouver Canucks defeated Spokane Comets 4-0 to stay in a first - place tie with Calgary Stampeders in the Northern Division.

Jim (Jumbo) Powers equalled the other record when he scored five goals as Seattle Totems beat San Francisco Seals 7-6 at Seattle.

Calgary held its position with a 2-1 overtime win over Los Angeles Blades before 1,833 hometown fans.

About 2,500 Spokane fans watched as Villemure kicked out 27 shots. Villemure's only other WHL goaltenders have tied Karakas' record.

George Ford, Phil Maloney, Buddy Boone and Jim Baird scored for Vancouver.

Powers got a game - the fifth player to equal the record set by Eddie Dorohoy of the old New Westminster Royals against Seattle in 1948. Guyle Fielder and Don Chupka got the other Seattle goals. Danny Belisle scored twice for San Francisco and Len Haley, Jim Bedard, Real Chevrefils and Duke Edmundson got the others.

Lou Jankowski's overtime goal broke up the game at Calgary. Stan Maxwell of the Blades and Norm Johnson of the Stampeders also scored.

Third Generation of Huston Family Gets Into Theatre

By ROB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The theatrical tradition of the Huston family has been launched into the third generation, but it won't continue. Not if Papa John has his way.

First came Walter Huston, whom some (including myself) considered the best American actor of his generation.

Walter aired John, who became a fine screen writer (Sierra Sierra, Sergeant York) and then one of the best directors (The Treasure of Sierra Madre, Asphalt Jungle, African Queen).

Now there is Tony, a slender, handsome 19-year old who is playing an important role in his father's The List of Adrian Messenger.

John was asked if he had any advice to give his son about acting.

"No, I just gave him a kick in the pants and told him to remember not to do it again," he said the director.

If the acting bug takes with Tony, his father has no one to blame but himself.

"It was all my idea," the director admitted. "Nobody contracted with the picture knew Tony but me. We looked for a boy who could ride well in a fox hunt sequence, and Tony rides beautifully."

Tony plays the son of Dana Wynter in the film, and he also has some dramatic scenes to play.

After the movie, Tony will be packed off to school in England, where, his father hopes, he will forget any notions about continuing the family heritage.

Opportunity to Establish UN Careers Diminishing

By FRANCOISE COTE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The opportunity for Canadians to establish professional careers in the United Nations' administrative hierarchy appears to be diminishing as UN membership increases.

"We are sacrificing Canadians in key positions in order to favor the new countries," explained a UN official.

The 43 Canadians currently occupying professional positions at the UN have been caught up in administrative manipulations within the broader scope of Cold War manoeuvres for UN posts.

Several Canadian officials say that an international civil servant should be detached in principle from his own country in order to maintain an objective, worldly perspective of UN problems.

In practice, however, UN officials admit they have to count on effective support from the diplomatic missions of their respective countries in order to gain promotion—as good sought by administrators everywhere. It is an open secret that officials appeal to missions of their own countries when they feel shorn of their legitimate rights.

Some international civil servants at the UN say this method works as long as their respective missions give support their causes. However, Canadian officials complain that they have been unfairly ignored in recent years by their mission.

HOPE FOR CHANGE

They foresee a possible change in their attitude with the expressed desire of Paul Martin, the new Canadian ambassador, to meet them.

The 42 officials are 17 fewer than the maximum they set for Canada in the geographical distribution of professional posts which is based on the population of a country and its financial contribution to the world organization.

A total of about 100 Canadians have the various capacities of the UN. While the number of French - speaking Canadians is significant in the clerical and language sections, there are only two among the 43 professionals, although many of these are bilingual.

Of the 1,200 administrative positions, the United States fills the lion's share. There are 365 Americans in key positions at present. The U.S. quota varies between 367 and 400 because of its large population and imposing financial contribution.

The Soviet Union's geographical distribution quota entitles it to 172-229 high positions, but it occupies only 56 at present. This figure, though, is double what it was two years ago because of heavy demands by the Soviet mission.

DON'T FEAR SOVIETS

The new international Soviet officials belong to the younger generation. They speak perfect English.

Reported to be quite competent in their positions, they are quickly noted the difference between Canadian and American officials.

Canadians, they tell you, take part in Western culture and understand the United States, but "are not afraid of being contaminated by communism" in comparison with Americans.

Soviet officials say they prefer to work with Canadians rather than Americans.

60,000 NEW JOBS

We Canadians buy imported manufactured goods at the rate of $235 per person per year. If each of us diverted $100 of this to the purchase of Canadian-made goods, we would help create 60,000 new jobs in Ontario.

We are the world's greatest importers. Contrast our yearly total with that of other countries:

Americans spend $35 per capita on manufactured imports . . .
The British spend $75 . . .
West Germans spend $60 . . .
Canadians spend $235 per person per year!

If these expenditures in Ontario on imported goods could be reduced by $100, we would still be amongst the world's great importers. If that $100 were diverted to Canadian goods we would add $600,000,000 to our economy and help create 60,000 new jobs!

To accomplish this, the consumer must become "label conscious"; it is the sum of all our day-to-day purchases which can add up to the success or failure of our economy.

Whenever the consumer comes out for an imported product, he or she should ask, "Is there a Canadian equivalent?" For in most cases there is a Canadian product that is as good or better. The more money we spend for things we make, the more prosperous the people of Ontario will be!

Astrological Forecast

Tuesday, October 16

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Aid comes from unexpected quarters. Usually reliable information should be double checked. Tendency is for others to press too hard. Thus, you may be provided with false information.

Taurus (Apr. 2 0to May 20) — Trying to push across point of view by direct method may fail. Best to be diplomatic, understanding. Better to give up a little to gain much more. Excellent for friendships.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Put friendship above opportunity for quick profit. You gain more in long run. Caution must be key. What appears "easy" could be complicated. Investigate details.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Confusion apt to be order of the day. Go with tide. Keep track of which forces are scattered. Then take steps to correct situation. Valuable contact could be made today.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Money matters spotlighted. Attention to budget required. You can gain much if you check various sources. Putting all eggs in one basket is mistake. Ask questions.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Surprise action, publicity, recognition emphasized. Key is progress based on personal knowledge. Do things your own way. Be confident. Good day for romance, change, visiting friends.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Solution of long-standing problem shines through today. Best course is one which stresses beauty, sympathy and diplomacy. No time for being coarse or impulsive. Be patient.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Demanding perfection leads to disappointment. Be sensitive and critical, but leave margin for human error. Don't ask others to do things you would not do. Accept advice.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You fall behind if you trust others to decide course of action. Use your own power of discrimination to perceive truth. Be selective. Realize it is difficult to obtain "something for nothing".

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Better for completing projects than for radical, new starts. Financial situation due for improvement. More persons may require your services. Tonight fine for reading, relaxing.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Check out promises. Insist on obtaining payments due.

PILGRIMS KILLED

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—An express train hit a bus carrying Roman Catholic pilgrims near Coimbra Saturday night, killing six and injuring 22. The bus was carrying the pilgrims home from the shrine of Fatima.

Rival Factions Differ in Tales Of Yemen War

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Rival factions fighting for control of Yemen gave a conflicting picture today of military operations in the northern part of the Bitic Red Sea country.

Tribal warriors seeking to restore the monarchy claimed a sweep of the area.

The republican regime said its troops had crushed the royalists in Sada, strategic town commanding all land routes in northern Yemen. The regime also claimed a victory in fighting for the ancient fortress of Kaf, March, 120 miles east of Sa'a, the capital.

Mecca radio, controlled by the Saudi Arabian government, usually supports the royalists, said more tribes have rallied to the monarchists and Egyptian officers of the rebel forces in the north fled in panic."

SUPPORT REBELS

The United Arab Republic has been supporting the republican regime with troops, planes and supplies. The rebels claim Saudi Arabian and Jordanian troops have been fighting for the royalist cause.

Mecca radio and the radio at Amman, Jordan, reported Prince Saad el Abdullah Salem had announced that he was on the soil of his homeland and had assumed the powers of Imam, or king. The broadcasts did not pinpoint Hassan's headquarters.

Hassan has ruled from the throne since Sept. 26, when army rebels headed by Col. Abdullah Sallal set up a republic and claimed Imam Mohammad al-Badr was slain in a shelling of his palace. Later reports confirmed reports from Yemen that Hassan had escaped and taken refuge with tribes loyal to the monarchy.

6th Sidney

6TH SIDNEY — Mrs. S. Lloyd, 4th line, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dafoe Glen and Keith spent the weekend in various parts of Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe attended anniversary service in Wallbridge Sunday morning and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison Sine and girls were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. McInroy, Foxboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Sine entertained Mr. and Mrs. Bleeker and Mrs. Reg. Sine on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cherry, Richard and Janice, Belleville, were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edison Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe and children, Front Road, called on Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe, Saturday evening.

Owing to the illness of the Rev. Robert Reid, Foxboro, the guest speaker for Sunday United church's 70th's anniversary service will be Rev. Jim Rhinesburger, Amelisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pollard attended their brother-in-law's funeral in Kalamazoo, Mich., during the week.

Messrs. Edison and Grenville Sine and Mrs. M. Sine spent one day during the week with Mrs. Reg. Sine at her cottage on Steinberg Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Sine helped Mr. and Mrs. Bleeker of Belleville celebrate their seventeenth wedding anniversary on Saturday evening at a steak dinner and later a dance at Club Cedars.

A large crowd attended the October meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sine on Tuesday evening.

Mr. R. G. Vogue, London, spent the Thanksgiving noon hour with his sister, Mrs. Harley Sine. Along with him were his son, Don Vogan, and his wife, and his granddaughter, Miss Pamela Riley, all of London. They had spent the week-end in Ottawa and were returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison Sine and girls and Mrs. M. Sine called on Mr. and Mrs. George Clare of Thurlow, Sunday evening.

HAVE COLD FEET

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Part of the audience attending a church revival at the municipal auditorium here Sunday night had cold feet. It was no reflection on the sermon. The temperature on the floor of the auditorium had been lowered to 63 degrees from 73 degrees in preparation for making an ice rink.

Bishops Gather To Select Commissions

By JOHN EARLE

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Bishops attending the Roman Catholic ecumenical council here today continued private sessions, mostly in national groupings, to decide on candidates for the council's 10 commissions.

Well informed sources said the new two more against the Roman curia, the church's central government, in the behindthe-scenes battle organized by some Italian newspapers. The sources said it was a normal phenomenon in the world church's fathers intended their council to be run efficiently and democratically."

Two bishops, one French, one German and both considered "progressives," argued at Saturday's first brief working session that there should be consultation among the various national groups before any commission.

The commissions will handle the detailed work before the assembly, ranging from theological matters to church government and discipline.

The sources said "the progressives" — mainly bishops of Austria, France, Germany, Switzerland and The Netherlands — wanted the private sessions to avoid confusion and delays during the voting for commission members in the full council session Tuesday.

RE-ELECT EXPERTS

They said the voting bogged down there might be a tendency to re-elect the various bishops who served on the preparatory commissions which drew up the agenda. These groups were nominated by the Vatican for membership on the council commissions.

Some Italian newspapers suggested that the Vatican nominations, presented in lists to the 2,500 attending bishops, are tacit proposals for final membership on the commissions.

The newspapers said the "progressives" were using the private sessions as a means to get the "conservative" Vatican lists.

Each of the 10 commissions will have 24 members, eight chosen by the Vatican and 16 elected by the assembly in private. Each commission will be headed by a senior cardinal.

The Vatican, far from reacting unfavorably against the setting up of the private sessions, seemed to have indirectly suggested approval of the proceedings and their vital role in the life of the church.

COLD FORECAST

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—The oracle of the Pennsylvania Dutch country has spoken again, chilling its devotees with prophecies of a long, bitter winter. Just off the press and ready for distribution today is the 144th edition of John Baer's Agricultural Almanac gives predictions for a seldom-broken succession of waves, storms and snowballs.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Anniversary Service on Sunday morning in Wallbridge Church was well attended. Mr. Reid of Frankford, was the minister, and gave a very inspiring message. The choir gave a couple of selections with Mrs. Ted Evans pianist. A number attended from the other departments.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Hart, of Centenary, attended the church service at Wallbridge, and were dinner guests of their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hart.

Miss Ella Phillips, of Hamilton, spent Thanksgiving with her mother, her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips. Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost were also dinner guests at the same home.

Wallbridge U.C.W. held its monthly dinner on Wednesday with a good attendance. Proceeds were $28. It was decided at the meeting in the afternoon to hold the Wallbridge bazaar in late November instead of holding it in October as there were two bazaars held on the same date in October.

Sunday Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris were: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Booth, of Hamilton, Mr. George Wallace, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Veach and daughter, Betty, and grandson, Billie Couch, of Newburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Skinner and children, of Foxboro, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evans on Thanksgiving Sunday.

Mr. Frank Harris celebrated his 83rd birthday on October 3rd when he attended Madoc Fair on that day and enjoyed seeing many of his old friends. Mrs. Harris and their nephews and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound, who drove their uncle there, were guests to the fair. The day was perfect and all enjoyed the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet May and family were Thanksgiving Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarents, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cole and children spent Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zaits, of Gananoque.

The country is a beautiful sight arrayed in colors.

KILLS FIVE

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Four children and their father were killed Sunday when a 96-car freight train crashed into their car at Miles on Hwy. The crash occurred at a crossing 10 miles south of Stockton. The father, Samuel DeLeon, 36, a farm labor contractor, died under the wreckage of the sedan.

President Reluctant to Take Steps to Effect Blockade Of Cuba, Could Be War Act

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—If President Kennedy ever decides drastic measures are needed to deal with the massing of Soviet power in Cuba his first use of force could be to throw a naval blockade around the island.

His has the ships and planes to do the job and all the authority necessary. Critics of his present no - force policy have been pressing him to act.

The president, however, is extremely reluctant to take such a decisive step for a reason rooted in international law. A record of law and practice several centuries old treats a full-scale naval blockade as an act of war. The United States has always supported that view.

Actual war might or might not follow imposition of a blockade.

Nations interpret international law according to their own interests and there are no policemen, accepted by all countries, to enforce any contrary views. But the probability as forseen by diplomatic and legal authorities here is that other countries would regard U.S. measures to cut off all shipping to and from Cuba as constituting an act of war.

Against this prospect Kennedy would evidently have to consider an alternative strategy —if the U.S. was going to be at war with the Fidel Castro regime anyway, why not take the big step in a more effective manner—why not employ military power directly to obtain the conclusive result in the shortest possible time?

Kennedy recently ruled out a Cuban invasion under present conditions but warned that the United States would watch each development in the Caribbean with a view to the defence of the hemisphere.

In planning the range of possible action, U.S. officials have been investigating the opportunities and requirements of naval blockade and appear to have come up with as many questions as answers.

What would happen if an American warship tried to halt a Russian arms ship and the Russian refused to stop? Would the U.S. ship open fire, or seize the Russian vessel?

Would Moscow send warships to protect its transports?

Would the U.S. Navy have to seize British, Norwegian or other allied ships carrying peaceful goods to Castro?

Would other western hemisphere nations support—or would they denounce — U.S. employment of force to isolate Cuban communism.

Administration police makers have worked out some guidelines for policy:

1. The United States must cooperate to the fullest extent possible with its allies in order to avoid a split comparable to that with Britain and France over their Suez attack in 1956.

2. If the United States ever is compelled to act alone against Castro it must do so upon evidence of a clear and imminent Communist threat to the security of the western hemisphere. Only by invoking the right to self-defence can the U.S. fulfill its treaty commitments to consult and act jointly with allied countries.

3. Whatever the action taken, the United States must be prepared to follow it through effectively to victory. It cannot risk another blow to prestige such as President Kennedy suffered in the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion three months after he took office in 1961.

In considering the kind of blockade some people seem to have in mind—the use of warships to sever Cuba's maritime trade without regular hostilities—the United States is handicapped not only by international law its own policies since the time it became a nation are a deterrent.

In 1916, State Secretary Robert Lansing notified France that the United States "does not consider the right of a foreign power to interfere with the commercial rights of a (neutral) country by the establishment of a blockade in the absence of a state of war." He was voicing long-established U.S. doctrine on blockade.

Steelworkers Are Victorious In Sudbury Fight

Mine-Mill Union Loses Certification at Inco

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian unionism passed a milestone when the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) won their long-fought battle for certification rights at the giant International Nickel Company Sudbury-area operations.

The more than 14,000 Inco workers at Sudbury, had been represented by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.). Their loss wipes out the bulk of Mine-Mill's Canadian membership.

For Steel, the split decision by the Ontario Labor Relations Board means the successful climax to an inter - union battle with roots going back to 1946 when Mine-Mill was ousted from the old Canadian Congress of Labor amid talk that it was Communist-dominated.

The Steelworkers, Canada's largest union, previously wrested bargaining rights from Mine - Mill at Inco plants at Thompson, Man., and Port Colborne, Ont.

Monday's decision "reduced the Mine-Mill union to virtual impotence," said William Mahoney, Steel's national director. WILL CONTINUE FIGHT

But Ken Smith, national president of Mine-Mill, said his union will continue the Sudbury fight in the courts. He demanded the board reconsider its decision and said the union "rejects it in its entirety."

The Sudbury union hails and other assets, with a total value of about $2,000,000, still remain in the hands of local 598.

But Steel supporters, led by former local 598 president Don Gillis, are hoping to gain control of the local administration in an election that Nov. 7. The local still represents workers at Falconbridge Nickel Mines and Canadian Electrolloy Limited, and a win for the Gillis faction would be another severe blow to Mine - Mill's national office.

After the board'd decision was made known, Larry Sefton, director of Steel's district 6, said top priority will be given to contract negotiations with Inco.

"The Sudbury and Port Colborne locals will join forces to co-ordinate talks with the company and Inco is expected to enter serious negotiations now that the uncertainty over union representation is dispelled," he said.

The previous contract between the company and Mine-Mill expired at the end of last year. Negotiations on a new agreement were held up pending outcome of the certification battle.

VIEWS DIFFER

Inco officials declined comment on the board's decision. Leaders of the rival unions had differing reactions.

Mr. Mahoney said the 13 months required to process Steel's application for certification labor legislation gives lawyers and irresponsible union leaders a chance to practice delay to the point of injustice.

"I sincerely trust the general public should study this case seriously," he said. "Here is a simple matter of workers wanted self-control of their own local union, unity of their local with the rest of the labor movement . . . and emancipation of their local union from an organization which has been dominated for some years at the top levels by followers of a totalitarian philosophy.

"Yet, because of the many excuses for delay contained in the Labor Act, they have had to go without a new union agreement for almost a year, were unable to secure a vote until many weeks after their original application for certification and had to wait for many months more before knowing the results of the ballot . . ."

Mr. Smith said Mine-Mill will decide on its next move after "this gross miscarriage of justice."

Mr. . . . The revelation of blatant forgeries which appeared in the course of the Steel campaign (Sudbury will not be in

HOUSE SIMMERS DOWN TO STEADY QUESTION PERIOD

243 Placed On Order Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — After the thunder of last week's throne speech debate, Parliament simmered down Monday to the relative drudgery of disposing of 243 written questions from MPs and plodding through a 3½-hour discussion on amending the Export Credits Insurance Act.

The 265-seat Commons chamber was half empty for the first time this session.

The amendment to the Export Credits Insurance Act would double to $400,000,000 from $200,000,000 the funds available for the Exports Credit Insurance Corporation. The amending bill received second reading — approval in principle—after prolonged technical discussions on whether an NDP-proposed addition was in order. Speaker Marcel Lambert finally ruled that it was.

Monday the bill was to undergo clause-by-clause study in committee.

The bill provided members with the opportunity of launching full-scale attacks or elaborate defences on the general topic of the Export Credits Corporation.

TIRED OF 'SNIDE CRACKS'

Trade Minister Hees said he was tired of hearing "snide cracks" and "disparaging remarks" about the government's credit assistance for wheat sales and he challenged opposition MPs to stand up and declare they were against those sales.

Arthur Laing (L—Vancouver South), who contended that insurance underwritten by the corporation seemed to be mostly for "unheading" surpluses that couldn't be sold otherwise, said he was in favor of wheat sales. But he added that, where possible, goods covered by the insurance should have a high Canadian labor content.

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) said he was tired of Mr. Hees' "gloating."

Earlier, Social Credit Leader Thompson urged the government should give priority to Canada's friends instead of to Communist nations in inserting export credits for wheat.

While he supported the amendment, he said he had serious doubts "whether we should be assisting a way of life which is the very opposite to ours with us" and asked the government to be "very careful" about our trade patterns."

Agriculture Minister Hamilton announced that all 10 provinces had signed the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act (ARDA) was generally welcomed by all parties, although there were complaints that it was too long overdue.

Assortment of Politicians Offered Helping Hands to Social Clubs, Inquiry Told

TORONTO (CP)—An assortment of politicians—mostly Progressive Conservative but including one Liberal—offered a variety of helping hands to various Ontario social clubs over many years, the province's royal commission on crime has learned Monday.

Former premier Leslie Frost has named as ordering the by-passing of government regulations to allow two Toronto Chinese clubs to have gambling equipment on their premises in 1959, and they remain the only two in Ontario with this exemption.

Other evidence from the testimony and departmental files of R. J. Carder, deputy provincial secretary

...L. Hon. Dana Porter, now chief justice but provincial secretary in 1949 had Mr. Cudney examine applicants for a charter for the Toronto Spadina Social and Card Club after city police had strongly recommended against it on the ground that one of the applicants was a front man for gamblers. The club got a charter, but it was cancelled in 1960 after a gaming conviction.

2. In 1957, E. A. Goodman, now vice-president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association and then counsel for the same club, went over Mr. Cudney's head to the provincial secretary—then George Dunbar — in the dispute turned down the club's application to change its premises. The deputy was over-ruled.

3. When the Timmins-based Tisdale Club was open to charter cancellation for a gaming conviction at its crapshooting Peterborough branch in 1957, the late James Maloney, then legislature member for Renfrew South and later mines minister, wrote Mr. Cudney that he was "most anxious" that the char-

BIG POWERS ASKED TO PAY TEST DAMAGES

Nigeria Requests UN Membership

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The great powers were told by a tiny African country Monday that if they have the money to fling nuclear weapons into space they should be ready to pay for possible damages.

Upper Volta's Ambassador Frederick Guirma told the United Nations General Assembly the United States and the Soviet Union can "throw money out the window" playing a "game" in space.

He proposed that a system of reparations be devised to cover damage to nations from nuclear testing or space experiments carried out by the nuclear countries.

Monday, the 11-member Security Council unanimously recommended that Uganda be admitted as the UN's 110th member—making a total of 22 African-continent members.

Nigeria's Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku, meanwhile, charged that black Africa has been excluded from Security Council membership and demanded that his country be elected in polling scheduled for Wednesday.

Ambassador Luis Padilla-Nervo of Mexico, referred to a recent statement by, Pope John of the ecumenical council in Rome, calling for high human objectives and sacrifice in international negotiations. These concepts and others like them were useful at this "dangerous juncture" in the world's history, the Mexican declared.

Padilla-Nervo — chairman of the UN disarmament commission—referred to Mexico's plea supported by Canada and many other countries, that all nuclear tests be halted before next Jan. 1.

It was a "pipe dream" to think of disarmament if the nuclear weapons race were not halted first, said Padilla-Nervo, adding that the great powers believe they own space and the open seas.

Adequate Staff Is Prerequisite He Tells Probe

Wants Universal Plan Without Compulsion

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Robarts of Ontario declared today that a "pressing prerequisite" to any federal-provincial medical care plan is the assurance of adequate staff to provide the necessary services.

"While it may be said that the ratio of doctors and dentists to population in Ontario is better than the Dominion average," Mr. Robarts said, "the distribution of professional staff leaves much to be desired."

The premier's remarks were contained in a statement introducing the Ontario government's brief to the federal royal commission on health services. Copies of the brief and statement were released to the press in advance of presentation.

Mr. Robarts said that while the provincial health department is taking steps to overcome the maldistribution, medical and dental school facilities and schools for training registered nurses are already strained to the limits in training "only enough graduates to offset the annual natural loss."

AVOIDS DIRECT STAND

Both the premier's statement and the brief avoided any direct statement for or against a national health plan. However, Mr. Robarts let it be known the plan he favors would be universally available, though non-compulsory and not necessarily government-operated.

The premier said the rapid growth of doctor - sponsored plans in the province, to the point where nearly two-thirds of Ontario's residents have medical insurance compared with 20 per cent in 1950, indicates public support for the existing plans.

"We believe such plans could be expanded to provide adequate protection for all of our people who may wish to participate and, moreover, provide this coverage irrespective of pre-existing disease conditions.

"We also believe the professional advisory service scheme can succeed without their full co - operation would welcome the opportunity to help to the fullest possible extent.

"We believe, too, that before any decision is reached, private insurers should be invited to submit proposals for a comprehensive medical care scheme."

The premier said he had no intention of ignoring the "philosophical consideration and discussion of health care—the need for it, what it should comprise and a 'minimum' plan that would provide adequate care, the cost of such a plan, the ability of our people to finance such a plan, the role of government . . . ought to play in the whole matter."

MUST BE VOLUNTARY

However, he did stress the importance of any plan being voluntary. "In a free society, surely it should be left to the individual to determine whether he will prepay his medical care

To Roman People Pope John Is Peculiarly "Their Pope"

ROME (CP)—To the people of Rome, Pope John is peculiarly "their Pope." They speak of him with affectionate irreverence.

The Pope, who strolls about freely and often goes to the zoo in the poor quarter of Rome, is a chubby, grandfatherly figure with walking eye openings that always ready for laughter.

He has the head of a noble senator (imperial Roman type). He has remained doggedly himself since his appointment to succeed Pius Pius XII on Oct. 28, 1958.

Pius was ascetic, thin-faced, aristocratic, austere. Pope John is of peasant origin and his mannerisms of the fields near Bergamo in northern Italy.

The late Pope spoke copybook French; Pope John's conversations are sometimes slurred and his emphasis is pastoral rather than intellectual.

His great contribution, a Vatican observer said, is that he has "opened the windows" and allowed fresh breezes to blow through the sometimes musty corridors of the church of Rome.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis— Scattered showers are expected for most of the province today as a storm centre moves across the northern regions. Cooler air behind the storm should reach the lower lakes tonight. Variable cloudiness and cooler is the forecast for Wednesday.

Today's Chuckle

Growl all day and you'll feel dog-tired at night.

Pope John radiates a simple, human goodness symbolized by his broad smile seems extended to everyone. He is spontaneous and sincere, and he is fond of making jokes.

Two Canadian bishops checking at the pope noticed a reporter little stories of a humorous nature recounted by the pope.

"He has tremendous personality," said a man who has talked with him. "It is almost a physical thing. Though not tall, he is a large man, and he seems to throw his weight into his conversations."

He will be 81 Nov. 25. He suffers from occasional minor complaints but his general health is good and his vigor is remarkable.

This was shown in his recent extraordinary pilgrimage tour of Loreto and Assisi when he stood at train windows for long periods without sign of fatigue. Similarly he has moved easily through the exacting ceremonies of the week of his ecumenical council.

He is tremendously popular, at home and abroad. Perhaps there are some dissenters. At a dinner party outside Rome, this reporter found a certain reticence, an indication that some Roman would perhaps prefer a more dignified and withdrawn personality.

To outside observers, it seems almost an understatement to say that if the Roman Catholic Church needed a figure with something of a public relations flair, it could hardly have picked a better man than Pope John.

Canada Satellite Collects Mass of Info on Inosphere

OTTAWA (CP)—A mass of new information about the upper atmosphere, including conditions that cause radio communications blackouts, is being collected by the Canadian satellite Alouette.

A technical report on Canada's first space craft, launched Sept. 29 from the Vandenberg missile range in California was given Monday by Dr. J. H. Chapman of the Defence Research Board at a joint meeting of the International Scientific Radio Union and the Institute of Radio Engineers. Dr. Chapman later elaborated on his remarks in an interview.

Information received to date from the satellite, he said, "has increased substantially our knowledge of the ionosphere and the aurora or northern lights which are responsible for communications blackouts in Canada."

Dr. Chapman, deputy chief superintendent of DRB's defence research telecommunications establishment, said data from the satellite has disclosed that disturbances in the ionosphere are not confined to the aurora belt. They occurred in all parts of the ionosphere over the Polar Cap area.

He also said that it now is clear that radiation caused by high-altitude nuclear bomb tests by the United States will not seriously affect the satellite's ability to generate electrical power with its 6,480 solar cells.

Acquisition of Nuclear Arms Question When Not Whether

OTTAWA (CP)—A number of reliable sources, some close to the cabinet, say that the question is not whether the acquisition of nuclear warheads for Canadian forces now boils down to "when," not "whether."

None of these sources maintains that the government has taken an irrevocable decision to obtain nuclear weapons or that an announcement in this regard is imminent.

Rather, their feeling is that the government has more or less accepted as inevitable the need for nuclear weapons in the defence establishment and that any further East - West crisis such as that in Berlin a year ago will finally tip the scales. The question of acquiring warheads for Canada centres mainly on this point: Will they be supplied for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles now in position at North Bay, Ont., and now near complete installation at La Macaza, Que.?

In reply to a question put by The Canadian Press, the defence department said there is

Parliament At a Glance

Agriculture Minister Hamilton announced that all provinces have signed pacts to join in the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act (ARDA) program.

State Secretary Halpenny said the government cannot and will not interfere with the CBC's programming arrangements.

Finance Minister Nowlan reported that the federal budget will be presented unusually early, but didn't say how early.

Blames Rising Illegitimacy Rate On Sympathy for Unwed Mothers

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal psychiatrist says the illegitimacy rate in North America is rising because the unwed mother now is getting too much sympathy.

"Sex in many high schools is regarded as a status symbol," Dr. E. C. Lindsay, a staff member of the Montreal General and Catherine Booth Hospital, said Monday night.

He was participating in a panel discussion on illegitimacy at a conference on obstetrical, gynecological and psychiatric nursing.

Dr. Lindsay said the modern unwed mother gets too much sympathy, rather than the sympathy she needs. Not long ago she was condemned, but the pendulum now has swung too far in her favor.

"We should stress to our youth that too early pregnancy often ruins the possibility of a successful marriage."

Dr. Lindsay said a woman should not marry during illegitimate pregnancy but should complete her pregnancy and decide then. This might prevent a child who otherwise would last a lifetime."

Mrs. M. McIlquham, a social worker at the Montreal General Hospital, said most unwed mothers come from unhappy homes where the mother is the dominating figure.

Social workers could help girls by giving them the sympathetic understanding their own parents, but the pendulum now has swung too far in her favor.

Accused Given Two Months For Assault

Rodney A. Sharpe of Belleville was given two months in jail this morning when he appeared in city court after pleading guilty to an assault charge.

Sharpe was charged with assaulting Herman W. Barrigar causing bodily harm. As a result of the assault, Mr. Barrigar lost two weeks' work.

Detective H. Reid told the court that a fight had taken place behind a local hotel between two persons and that the accused and Mr. Barrigar were spectators.

He said Sharpe struck the knocking him to the ground. He then kicked him several times about the head and face.

Crown Attorney John Pringle said he felt this case should be severely dealt with as a warning to others.

ter not be cancelled. It was not, but the Peterborough branch was closed.

4. Allan Grossman, legislature member for Toronto St. Andrew and now a cabinet minister as head of the Ontario liquor control board, got "in touch" with provincial secretary Phillips in 1959 when the charter of the Portuguese - Canadian Association of Toronto was up for cancellation, and cancellation was held up until Mr. Grossman looked into it and eventually approved. Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, the commissioner, expressed some wonderment.

5. James Rooney, 1962-63 Liberal Commons member for Toronto St. Paul's, wrote a letter in 1953 recommending the charter for the two Chinese clubs later brebriended by Mr. Frost, and the file indicated some other—but unidentified — political class also helped.

6. Mayor Frank J. Miller of Toronto endorsed the provision of club quarters in 1960 for a person surrounded by police of gambling intentions and was represented as saying a Conservative organizer — also unnamed—was a principal in this club.

Sentenced Two Months on Assault Charge

A 21-year-old Belleville man, Thomas Henry Rock, was sentenced to six months in jail in city court this morning, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the Club Canara on Hamblly Street.

Evidence in the case was heard last week.

Rock's group, also of Belleville charged in connection with the same offence elected to be tried by a judge and jury.

His preliminary hearing will be held October 22.

ST. HELIER, Channel Islands (AP)—James J. Robertson, who helped fight off Indian natives while working on construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the 1880s celebrated his 104th birthday today. He is the oldest resident of the Channel Islands and has lived here 40 years.

Name Executive at Meeting

Juniors Are Organized

Gordie Bell, coach of Belleville's Junior hockey team for the past two years, was named president of the 1962-63 club, it was announced this morning.

A nominating committee chose Bell to head the organization, backed by the Rooster Town Road native, named Jim "Snipe" Matthews, retiring Minor Club president, as team vice-president.

Tom Lally was named secretary and "Spotty" Mavety treasurer.

Mel Richards, who managed the junior club here when it was known as Lambert-Rollins, was named manager of the team.

A coach has not been named yet but Jim Matthews said this morning that several hockey figures of the city are being considered now. He said he is a coach may be named before the weekend.

Seven directors were named and more may be added. Named last night were Don Whalen, Don Barrett, Dan Cowley, Don McNevin, Bill McCormick, Dick Beare and George Carver. The incoming president of the Boosters Club will be added to the board of directors.

Vice-president Matthews said this morning that the club is setting out to raise $1,500 as soon as possible. "We will welcome donations as of right now" he said.

The team will hold its first practice this Sunday, at Memorial Arena, from 10 to 12 p.m. All players of junior age will be welcome.

Obituaries

MRS. LORNE E. RORABECK

In ill health for some time, Mrs. Helen Irene Rorabeck of R.R. 2, Belleville, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Tuesday morning.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Foster and was in her 40th year. Mrs. Rorabeck had been a resident in Sidney township for the past 13 years and in Rossmore and Wellington before that time. In all these communities she was well known and highly respected.

She was a member of the Anglican Church and is survived by her parents, her husband, Lorne Everett Rorabeck; one son, David Rorabeck, at home; three daughters, Mrs. Thomas (Lorna) Lasher of this city, Miss Linda Rorabeck of Belleville and Miss Cleta Rorabeck at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Earl (Hilda) Evans and Mrs. Arthur (Doris) Morgan, both of Picton and Mrs. William (Marion) Manley of Australia. Also surviving are five grandchildren.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 20 Highland Avenue; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MICHAEL J. WALSH (Read)

Following an illness of two years, Michael J. Walsh, well known district farmer at Read, died Monday evening at the Hotel Dieu Hospital at Kingston. He was born at Read, 72 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Walsh and had been a resident of the district all his life.

He was a member of St. Charles Church and active in the work of the parish. He was a member of the Holy Name Society.

Surviving is his wife, the former Bridgett Donovan, and one sister, Mrs. Daniel (Margaret) Mullin of Canniton.

Resting at his late residence at Read. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

JOHN T. RANSOM

The funeral of John Thomas Ransom, B.A. Sc. P. Eng.; OLS, DLS, C. E., 183 William Street, was held Monday afternoon from the Thompson Funeral Chapel where service was conducted by Rev. Gordon R. Woodcock. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Steve Geneja, Walter Watson, Ben Hurley, Charles Mott, Dr. Robert Allore and William Hurst.

A resident of Belleville for the past 15 years, Mr. Ransom died Saturday in Belleville General Hospital following an illness of four-and-a-half years.

Born in Toronto, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Saunders Ransom. He was a veteran of World War I and also of World War 2 in which he served as a flight lieutenant.

As an Ontario land surveyor he was widely known in Belleville and the surrounding counties for his professional integrity and his strong opinions on municipal affairs, policies and planning.

His land surveying experience extended from Hudson's Bay to the prairie provinces.

Following World War 2 he settled in Belleville, which had been without a resident land surveyor for 25 years.

He was very active on the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board from its inception in 1950 as a member and as a professional consultant. He designed most of the new housing sub-divisions in Belleville and district, introducing modern cul-de-sac and crescents to the older street patterns of the city.

He is survived by his wife, the former Florence A. Haines, and one son Thomas S. Ransom O.L.S., of Belleville. A sister Mrs. Muriel O'Neil of Toronto also survives.

LT.-COL. F. MILLAR

PICTON — The death occurred very suddenly of Lt.-Col. Frank Millar, O.B.E., in Northumberland Township, on October 11, 1962. He had been assisting in digging up a field of potatoes for transplanting and when the friend returned after visiting the orchard on the farm, found Mr. Millar dead. A retired Army officer and auditor at Camp Picton, he was in his 83rd year.

Lt.-Col. Millar served in the regular Army (RCOC) from 1923 - 46, attaining the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. He was for a time Director of Ordnance Services at the close of the war. He retired in 1946 and was with Dominion Arsenals, later joining the Department of National Defence as an auditor.

His military career was in keeping with family tradition as his father having served for 35 years in the Royal Artillery in India and then with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps.

Lt.-Col. Millar was born in Quebec City and resided there until joining the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps in 1923. He served overseas from 1939-45.

Lieutenant Colonel Millar was a member of the Baptist Church; a member of Archimedes Lodge, A.F.A.M. in London, England and had made many friends during his stay in Picton.

Rev. Charles Rutter conducted the service at the Gordon R. Whaligan Funeral Home on Saturday with interment in Glenwood Cemetery. The bearers were Capt. M. G. Davies, Sgt. J. C. Mosher, L. Sprague, P. Lightball, Dr. F. Murphy, H. Royce. Lovely floral devotions included those from Camp Picton, Rickarton Hotel and staff and Lake Hotel and staff.

Survivors are a brother, Alfred Edward Millar, Quebec City and two sisters, Mrs. Heaid Smith, Aubundale, Mass., and Mrs. Ruth Courtney, Kingston and a brother-in-law, Arthur Mrs. Courtney were present for the funeral.

Dr. Flemington To Be Speaker At Convocation

Dr. W. T. Ross Flemington will be the guest speaker at Albert College's fall convocation to be held this Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. Flemington was recently appointed the first education director for the Canadian armed aid offices. Formerly he was president of Mount Allison University, New Brunswick.

The Rev. Allistair Haig, principal of Albert College, has extended an open invitation to the public to attend the convocation exercises and hear Dr. Flemington.

Children Here To Aid Others On Hallowe'en

Most Canadians are still young enough to remember that doorstep-to-door thrill of asking for a door to open to their shouts of "shell out!" Candies, apples, popcorn and—collect all these are traditional treats on the magic night of Hallowe'en when ghosts and goblins rule.

But this year, as previously, many Belleville children will carry with them, along with the familiar shopping bag, a little box labelled "UNICEF." Each year Ontario children collected $162,000 on Hallowe'en, money which went to the International Headquarters of the United Nations Children's Fund to help children in less fortunate countries. Powdered skim milk, vaccines and medicines to cure such diseases as tuberculosis and malaria, trained personnel and equipment for nutrition clinics were provided by UNICEF pennies collected by children shouting "trick or treat."

Youngsters are naturally generous — they love to "share." Soon they'll be grateful for cookies, candies and apples. But they'd also like a few pennies too. Help them share their good fortune with less happy children around the world.

Grown-ups enjoy the fun of treating / pouring on Hallowe'en—but that little extra gift marked "UNICEF" is an investment in the future. Children today "look wide" as world citizens. Help them to share by "shelling out" for UNICEF.

Y's Men Hear Report on Convention

The Y's Men's supper meeting Tuesday evening took the form of an Inter-Club visit. Kingston and Cobourg club members joined with the Belleville group to hear Mr. Bill Prentice, vice-president of the local club, give a first hand report on the International Convention, held last June at Banff, Alberta.

Representing the Kingston Y's Men were President Bob Moonan and five club members. President Morgan Hubbell and ten fellow club members represented Cobourg.

The speaker, Mr. Prentice, gave an extremely vivid description of the Banff Convention, employing tape recorded highlights and colored movies to add interest and meaning to his address. This Friday convention, held annually, was attended by more than eleven hundred delegates, representing 668 Y's Men's Clubs in 39 countries throughout the world.

Mr. Prentice stated that the theme of this, the 38th Y's Men's International Convention was "World Brotherhood Through Y'sdom."

President of the Belleville Club, John Heyman, introduced the speaker. Hugh Watson expressed the appreciation of the group.

no plan to return the now war-headless Bomarcs to the United States.

It was also learned that no plan exists for fast transfer of nuclear warheads to the Canadian Bomarc stations from the U.S. in case of emergency. Reason for this, officials say, is that it would require literally years to fit the warhead to the missile. There are a total of 56 launching pads at North Bay and La Macaza.

It has been known for some months that the Canadian and U.S. defence departments have drawn up a draft agreement providing for control of American nuclear weapons on Canadian soil. The agreement is similar to others governing control of U.S. nuclear weapons in British and European NATO countries.

However, the government, as far as is known, has not yet taken any action to approve or disapprove the agreement.

About the last official word from Prime Minister Diefenbaker's office was that nuclear arms was that Canada did not wish to take any action which might impede disarmament negotiations.

Three District Men to Enter Army Course

Three local men are included among 89 men from Ontario Ontario who have begun training under the army's officer candidate program.

Donald Robert Robertson, of Picton; David Roger Leclerq, of Trenton, and Lewis John Evans, of 223 Bridge St. East, Belleville, are the local men entered in the program.

The instruction received leads to a commission in November in the regular army. The candidates must be single, not over 23 years of age, must have completed junior matriculation and must enroll for five years' service.

Upon graduation, the officer candidates are promoted to the rank of second lieutenant. They then report to an installation of their corps of their choice for further training and employment.

Gas Company Promises to Cover Pipes

The Lakeland Natural Gas Company has promised their maintenance crew will commence repairs immediately on Parrott Drive where gas main laterals were recently installed and covered about ten days ago by the local public works department.

Mayor A. M. Haig said today that the manager of Lakeland Natural Gas has promised their repair crew would be busy on Parrott Drive by this afternoon.

The natural gas laterals running to three Parrott Drive residences were uncovered by a public works crew when they were cleaning out a ditch to relieve flooding conditions in the area.

City Engineer W. C. Purcell said his workmen were greatly surprised when they uncovered the gas laterals only a few inches underground in the bottom of the ditch.

Regulations call for laterals to be at least 12 inches underground.

Film Council Holds Meeting At Library

The Belleville and District Film Council held its second meeting of this season in the auditorium of the Corby Public Library and Mr. Bernard Wright, the president, presiding.

The membership committee reported work was being done to renew membership and to obtain new members. Anyone interested may contact Mr. Gordon Hutchinson, 30 Woodland Avenue.

Since there have been numerous requests regarding the rental of an 8mm. projector, it is hoped that one will be available in the near future.

Three new members have come to our executive this season, Rev. Kenneth Irwin Mr. Oconnors and Mr. McCarton. Such interested members are most welcome and will add much to decisions and work in the future.

During September there were eleven bookings for the 16mm projector, one for the slide projector and twenty-nine films were used. Representatives from the council had attended a federation zone A and B meeting held in Kingston on September 28 and 29. A complete report will be given on the same at our next regular meeting.

It is to be hoped an operator's course will be given in the near future. Some members of the executive are qualified projectionists and have offered their assistance.

A Zone B meeting will be held in the Corby Library on November 13 under the chairmanship of Miss Durie, the president. All members were urged to attend this meeting, if possible.

Miss Durie will purchase a new Christmas film for the film library. There are some 63 films at present owned by the Film Council.

Credit Union Day Will Be Observed Wed.

On October 18th, the credit unions of the Quinte district join with the 28,000 credit unions all over the world in celebrating International Credit Union Day. A proclamation was recently signed by Mayor D. J. MacDonald, mayor of Trenton, proclaiming October 18, as Credit Union Day in Trenton.

Credit Union Day in the Quinte area will be celebrated by the implementation of an intensive educational program. The Quinte Chapter is holding a banquet in the Trenton Legion Hall on October 18, to be addressed by John M. Homer. One of the features of the program will be a beauty contest to select "Miss Quinte Chapter." Prizes will be awarded to the winner and runners-up. The winner will also receive an all-expense trip to Toronto to represent the Quinte Chapter of Credit Unions at the annual "Miss Ontario Credit Union League" beauty contest to be held next spring in conjunction with the annual league convention. The reigning "Miss Quinte Credit Union," the former Sheila Canning, now Mrs. Murray Hunter, of Belleville, will be on hand to crown this year's winner.

JOHN M. HOMER

WIDE EXPERIENCE

Mr. Homer, the special speaker, has had wide credit union experience, starting some 24 years ago when he was elected to the board of the Hamilton Municipal Employees Credit Union. He was vice-president of the credit union for five years and president for 16 years until leaving the city service five years ago when he resigned as president. He is still on the board of directors of that credit union.

Mr. Homer was a national director from Ontario to the Credit Union National Association (CUNA) Board of Directors, and for two years was Canadian vice-president of that organization.

He came to work with the Ontario Credit Union League as a field representative in January 1958, was appointed assistant director of Education and Organization in April of 1958 and made director of this same department in June.

He is past president of the Canadian Institute of Sanitary Inspectors, past president of the Ontario Public Health Association, past president of Hamilton Municipal Employees Association, Local 167; secretary of the Federation of Hamilton Civic Employees for 12 years and secretary of the St. John Ambulance Association, Hamilton Branch, for 19 years.

FORMED BY GROUPS

Credit unions are formed by groups of people who save their money together and make low cost provident loans to each other. Each credit union is chartered by the provincial government as a non-profit corporation. This means that any earnings, realized by the credit union after expenses and necessary reserves are set aside, are returned to the members in the form of dividends on their savings.

Credit unions arose out of a need and, because that need still exists in Canada as well as in the simple societies in underdeveloped countries, new credit unions are being formed every day throughout the free world. There are 19 credit unions in the Quinte area with over 4,700 members and about one-and-a-half million dollars in assets. There are 21,000 credit unions in the United States; 4,500 in Canada; 2,000 in 60 other countries throughout the world. World-wide credit union membership now exceeds 16 million persons.

School Guards Denied Raise By Cost-Conscious Council

TRENTON — Trenton council, austerity conscious, considered a number of items at last night's regular bi-monthly meeting which it felt were beyond this year's budget limitations, and perhaps beyond those of budgets for years to come.

First on the agenda was a request from Trenton's 16 school guards for a two dollar a week increase in pay.

"Not in our budget this year" said Councillor Ed. Todd.

Then, Mr. Joe Gould had come before council to ask that a piece of land back of the town municipal office and adjacent to property owned by Mr. Gould for years, the site of a blacksmith's shop, be re-zoned from "open space" to "commercial" and sold to him.

Council was at rather a loss as to how to handle this item. As "open space", the land might be bought by the town and used for much-needed parking space for municipal employees. But will council even have the necessary funds with which to purchase the land by next year? Mayor MacDonald suggested that Mr. Gould might consider buying the land and leasing it to the town at a later date for substantially the same sum he paid for it. Mr. Gould did not seem adverse to this idea and the whole matter will be thrashed out between Mr. Gould and the finance committee. Then the Ontario Municipal Board would have to be asked to rule on the re-zoning angle of the case.

TATTOO SURPLUS

Councillor Lloyd Worrall reported on the recent Military Tattoo held in Trenton. He said that expenses had come to $1,222.65 and that receipts from advertising for the brochure and the sale of the program itself had been $1,561.12, leaving a surplus of $338.48.

Another topic of discussion was the proposed extension to Elmwood Acres. The BEP Company, developers, have asked council's blessing on a five per cent allotment of land in the upper extension to the sub-division, which would be used for parks purposes. Council feels that as long as the Trenton Board of Parks Management approves, it should do so. There has been talk in the past of locating a park area in the lower, older part of the development, but the parks' board voted this out some time ago, with the feeling that there are at least two parks located within easy access to the area. Elmwood Acres residents will get curbs, under the local improvement system, if the Ontario Municipal Board approves.

MANY APPEALS

Clerk-comptroller J. O. W. Larry asked council for some direction on permitting the door-to-door sale of such things as candy bars, light bulbs, Christmas cards, etc, for charitable purposes. Mr. Larry said that he had had more and more frequent calls recently, asking for official sanction of such activity. Latest was from the Trenton Hospital Women's Auxiliary asking permission to sell calendars from door-to-door. Some organizations check with him; others do not, said Mr. Larry, and this leads to a confusion in dates. Canvasses are running together week after week, with astonishing regularity. For instance, this is VON week; next week is the hospital calendar week; after that, comes the retarded children's week.

Mr. Larry was directed to grant permission, provided the dates wanted are clear of competitive dates, and everything is to be handled on a "first come, first served," basis.

TO DECIDE ROUTE

Although the public works committee, town engineer Eric Aldersey and the mayor will get together with Mr. Kenneth Couch on the matter, council has more or less decided to install sewer and water services along Wall Street in North Trenton, rather than on Canal Street and so on along private property, (owned by Mr. Couch) to provide lead-in services to the new Essex Electronics plant. Council's feeling is that even if the Wall Street route may be twice as long and thus more expensive, this will be balanced by the fact that Wall Street could be decided to the town and the services used for development in the area, which would not be possible if the services were led across private property. Cost of the installation stands around $2,000, no matter which way it goes.

Councillor Ross Burtt said that last month the dog catcher had had four dogs destroyed; two were returned to owners; two sold and two are still in the pound.

Councillor Burtt said that the Trenton fire department had answered 15 calls last month. He said that the question of a bill owing to the town by Murray Township council for fire fighting services had been ironed out and that the bill would be paid. The township council has asked that the fire chief report on fires and false alarms.

Council Refuses Referendum on Sunday Movies

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of Trenton council, councillors voted four to two not to bring the issue, "should Trenton have Sunday movies," to a public vote in the December elections.

Voting to permit townspeople to settle their own fate re Sunday entertainment were Councillors Ed. Todd and Ross Burtt.

Voting against the move were Councillors C. V. Graham, Duncan McDonald, Lloyd Worrall and James Duncan.

Now it remains for the local theatre manager, who claims that public demand indicates that such Sabbath Day entertainment is desirable, to collect approximately 2,000 names on a petition to permit Sunday movies. The 2,000 roughly represents one-fourth of the town's voting strength. The petition must be in the hands of town authorities prior to November 1st.

"I think that Sunday is a family day," opined Councillor Worrall, "there are six days of the week to go to the movies."

"I don't think it's appropriate for us to initiate the vote," was Councillor Duncan's opinion.

"Council shouldn't take a stand for the conscience of the people," thought Councillor Todd. "We should allow them to vote on it."

"When the idea of paid Sunday sports was raised, the ministerial association worked tooth and nail against it," warned Councillor Graham.

tributions of up to $50,000,000 in the next three years for improving marginal farm land.

Liberal farm critic Hazen Argue said he was disappointed that no concrete projects had yet been set up, although the ARDA legislation was introduced to Parliament nearly two years ago.

A. B. Patterson (SC—Fraser Valley) said such efforts to resolve farm problems were long overdue, and H. W. Herridge, New Democratic Party House leader, said there had been irritation and criticism among farmers over the delay.

CANNOT SAY

Among question period replies:

Justice Minister Fleming said it was impossible to say whether companies referred to in reports of the restrictive trade practices commission are subsidiaries of Argus Corporation of which Senator Wallace McCutcheon was formerly vice-president and managing director.

Defence Minister Harkness said the first of eight frigates for the navy will not be started until 1964. There had been a delay in design work.

Vice-President Of OMA Will Be Special Speaker

Dr. R. D. Atkinson of Waterloo, vice-president of the Ontario Medical Association, will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of O.M.A. District No. 6, to be held at the Tops Motor Hotel, next Wednesday.

There are about 250 members-doctors in District 6, which includes the counties of Durham, Haliburton, Hastings, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward and Victoria.

Dr. Atkinson will speak at a dinner meeting in the evening. During the afternoon business session reports will be given by Dr. R. M. Matthews of Peterborough, who represents this district on the O.M.A. board of directors, and by Dr. J. S. Delahaye of Kingston, this area's representative on the council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Dr. Glenn Sawyer, general secretary of the O.M.A., will be moderator of a panel discussing current medical-economic problems.

Chairman of the meeting will be Dr. J. V. Byrne of Trenton, and Dr. A. W. Elliott of Trenton will be secretary.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Society will be host for this year's meeting. Dr. W. Hall of Picton is president of the host society, and Dr. F. W. Murphy of Picton, secretary.

Firemen Sent On Wild Goose Chase in Town

TRENTON—There's a North Murray Street in East Trenton. There's a West Murray Street in North Trenton.

Back we go to East Trenton for South Murray Street.

Last night, two trucks from the Trenton fire department; the fire chief and his car; a police cruiser and what must have been close to 200 cars bearing volunteer firemen and the usual mob of "interested spectators", tore through town and across the town bridge to answer a fire alarm at "48 North Murray."

Arrived there. No fire. Not even a "48" North Murray.

About face!

The cavalcade made its screaming way back across the river; up Front Street to West Murray Street. No fire. No. 48."

The cavalcade limped its way back through town. This time, the wary fire trucks, not to mention the police cruiser, only went as far as their respective stations.

The fire chief, undaunted, continued on back across the river to South Murray Street. You guessed it. No fire. No "48".

Where does the responsibility lie?

Should the "joker" who figured out the situation in advance and put in the panic call for assistance at "48" North Murray", for fear that the conscientious firemen would try to locate the Murray Street the fire was on on the mainland other than the town fathers who have delayed changing the nomenclature on the "Murray Streets."?

Federal Govt. to Co-operate In Bridge Says Member

PICTON—There will be no delay in the construction of the proposed bridge linking Prince Edward County and Hastings county due to lack of co-operation by the Federal government. A. Douglas Alkenbrock, M.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox pointed out yesterday.

"Since application was recently made by the Ontario Department of Highways for approval of the Bay bridge under the Moorgable Waters Protection Act, I have been in close contact with the Minister of Public Works in this matter," said Mr. Alkenbrock.

"I am pleased to announce, after having made representations on behalf of Prince Edward-Lennox to Hon. Dave Fulton, Minister of Public Works, that I am authorized to announce the complete approval of the Federal government of this bridge over the Bay of Quinte. The Federal Department has advised the Ontario government of its complete approval of the project," Mr. Alkenbrock advised.

Mr. Alkenbrock expressed the hope that, in the public interest, that the bridge project should be started as soon as possible, and pointed out that as a winter works project it would help provide needed employment.

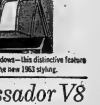
Our exclusive and improved Deep Dip process makes the new 1963 Rambler Classic the world's most completely rustproofed car

That's quite a claim—the world's most completely rustproofed car. But Rambler is perfectly justified in making it. No other automotive manufacturer in the world is so thorough. Our Deep Dip rustproofing process is the most extensive in the industry. And this year, with the introduction of 'Uniside', an exclusive new way of building cars, we have increased the amount of galvanized metal on the car by seven times!



Our exclusive Deep Dip method of rustproofing was developed at the Rambler plant in Brampton, Ontario. It is specifically designed to fight the rigours of Canadian weather and driving conditions. This is what we do: the entire car body is immersed completely into six separate baths which clean, scour and seal the surface of the steel.

After that the car is again dipped to the roofline in a rustproofing primer paint which fills every corner of the car body. In this way, there is not one area of surface of the car which has not been protected. There's no casual spraying in this process that might miss vital areas and leave them exposed.

So you see, it's no idle boast when we claim that we have the world's most completely rustproofed car. Why do we go to so much trouble? Because it's part of our firm policy of providing 'maximum usefulness to the user'. Visit your Rambler Dealer soon, and test drive the new 1963 Rambler Classic and discover how much this policy means to your driving pleasure and convenience.

We Are Not Blameless

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star, in a lengthy editorial, criticizes the Labor Committee for Human Rights for the methods used to secure "dubious evidence" of racial discrimination at Ontario tourist resorts.

The Sentinel-Star has a point. The method used was to place advertisements seeking tourist accommodation in Toronto newspapers and to send to each resort which answered these advertisements two letters, one purporting to be from "a young Negro couple" and the other making no mention of race or color. When some resorts replied to the latter inquiry, but not to the former from the Negro couple, they were marked for investigation. We, as the Sentinel-Star says, sense reason rather than racial prejudice could have been responsible for the failure to reply to the letter from the "colored" applicants. But the Sentinel-Star is not on such firm ground when it declares that "if there is the germ of racial discrimination in any Ontario resort camp, it is not locally engendered."

It is the Cobourg paper's contention that all cases of racial discrimination spring from "the United States' white-man tourist" and "will not stay at a white-black camp." The Sentinel-Star suggests that "all white and colored tourists from the south (there are some colored folk who are segregationists, too) at a point of entry be advised (gee that we'll be denied admission to Ontario if they demand exclusive white or colored accommodation. Integration should begin at our borders."

We have considerable sympathy with this suggestion, but not if it is undertaken in the belief that "racial discrimination (is) never fostered in Ontario." It may be possible to believe this in Cobourg, but not in Ontario communities where there are any considerable number of Negroes. Having resided in a city where there were a number of Negro families (descendants of escaped slaves who had been given refuge by pioneer residents in the true spirit of Christian charity), we know for a fact that they were not accorded equal treatment. They went to the same schools as white children, and played on the same hockey and baseball teams, but they could not get their hair cut at any barber shop in town, except, possibly, after hours, by some blind-headed barber. The Negro shoe collected garbage was a war veteran suffering from wounds, reasonably well educated—but he could never get the letter-carrier's job he coveted, nor any other job better than emptying trash cans. While the schools were desegregated, in practice the churches were not—the Negroes had their own church and most of the other congregations, we suspect, were right glad of it.

Racial discrimination is nowhere as bad in Ontario as it is in Mississippi, for example, but only the ignorant or the hypocrit would advance a claim that the only racial discrimination to be found in our province is imported from south of the border, forced on us against our will by the United States' white-man tourist."

Proved His Ingenuity

A coroner's jury in London, England, has decided that Dr. Robert A. Soblen committed suicide by swallowing a sleeping potion which he had hidden in a secret pocket of his trousers. Soblen was stripped to the skin and searched less than two hours before he gulped down the potion. Presumably his clothing was searched, too; the spectacle of a man being stripped and then being allowed to dress again without his clothes being examined would be just too ridiculous to be believed.

If Soblen was, indeed, a Russian spy, as the U.S. charged and as a court in that country ruled, he appears to have well equipped for his task. The history of that secret pocket might be an intriguing one—how it was constructed, how Soblen got the idea for it, who sewed it into his clothes, whether it was ever used to conceal anything during his activities as a spy. But that, of course, is a story which died with Soblen.

La Marsh Loses Round With Disarming Thompson

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — notes off the reportorial cuff . . .

Jolt for Judy:

Don't let Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson's pleasantly relaxed manner and smilingly handsome face mislead you. And they can.

They misled Judy LaMarsh, the very hep young Liberal frontbencher from Niagara Falls.

Miss LaMarsh, very much an "aware and beware" gal, is not exactly easy to fool.

In fact, La Judy is sharp enough to have been able to cut into the calm Commons composure of Prime Minister Diefenbaker — and not many Parliamentarians are quite that sharp, since the Commons is very much his particular cup of political tea.

It reminded one of the interesting contradictions about the Prime Minister that while he may — and often does — get quite emotional and even warmly excited in the Commons, in the Commons he remains refrigerated, cool, and not infrequently icy.

TRICKY STRATEGY

Judy has been about the only individual in the House who could light a fire under him — using scorn and ridicule as her fuel — and get him all steamed up.

And, Judy being a lady, there hasn't ever been much the Prime Minister could do about it except smile a slow-burn in silence.

Then, it was all the more surprising that with nobody, including the Prime Minister, of any members of the House willing able to take the LaMarsh measure in the Commons, it remained for friendly freshman Robert Thompson to be the first to do just that.

But let La Judy tell the story . . .

. . . She had been tearing great strips off Mr. Thompson for lining up the Social Credit vote with the Government and worse, for having publicly boasted that the Social Credit had outcoaxed the Liberals into supporting the Government on the first, and very much the key, want-of-confidence challenge of the Conservatives.

He had done it, he had chuckled, by framing Social Credit's no-confidence motion against the Government so as to make it absolutely impossible for the Liberals to support it.

And not supporting Social Credit, the Liberals had the choice, then, only of supporting the Government.

It made it "a whole lot easier for us, then, to line up with the Conservatives," as it put it Mr. Thompson, "for with the Liberals reluctantly lining up with it, they could hardly point the finger of scorn at us for doing the same thing."

DELAYED REACTION

Being hookwinked by Social Credit this way into voting for the Conservatives, Judy hinted, naturally were enraged.

And Judy LaMarsh, the sharp-tongued little lady who dips in all the Commons, could carve up the Prime Minister, was selected to slice a few painful strips off the Thompson hide.

This she proceeded skillfully to do.

But Mr. Thompson, listening politely, only nodded pleasantly and smiled.

This obviously was a challenge, and Judy, rising to the occasion, literally flayed him alive.

And when she was all done, what did he do?

"I was rather surprised," she related, still a bit bemused, "when he rose from his seat, waved in the Commissionaire, came walking down the Centre Aisle towards me from the far end of the House.

"He was smiling, and I guess perhaps I was disarmed.

"He took me by the hand, and in a most pleasant voice, proceeded to congratulate me.

"It was quite obvious that he was halfway back to the other end of the Commons that it suddenly struck me what he had said.

"Standing there, smiling as if he had been immensely pleased with what I had been saying about him, he shook my hand and congratulated me on what he called 'a magnificent performance' — a magnificent performance of the most outrageous hypocrisy."

This was the first time that anybody in the Commons had ever been one up on Judy, a gal who specializes in the fine art of "one-upmanship."

"It was his smile," she confessed, "what an actor!"

The RCMP Arctic patrol vessel St. Roch reached Vancouver after an 86-day voyage from Halifax 18 years ago today—in 1944—to become the only vessel to make the trip via the Northwest Passage in both directions. She left Vancouver June 23, 1940, reached Halifax Oct. 11, 1942, after spending two winters in the Arctic because of unusually severe ice conditions.

Monroe Creed Ideal for K

Kansas City Star.

Now that many politicians and several wits in the country pundits have staked the United States case against Cuba on the Monroe Doctrine, it would be better hasten to keep the record straight.

We haven't the slightest doubt that Nikita Khrushchev would be extremely happy to settle for the kind of world military arrangement that is practiced in the Western Doctrine.

It would require the Russians to forget Castro, who has only a dubious value for them. It would require the United States to withdraw missiles, bombers and missile-carrying submarines from the perimeter of the communist world in Europe and Asia. For the defence of the non-communist world the United States has immense bases and China with the greatest destructive power in its nuclear age.

Such an involvement in a world struggle was completely inconceivable in 1823. Keeping out of European quarrels was a major part of what appeared to be the United States foreign policy. George Washington had warned the country against foreign entanglements. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson had reiterated the policy.

In 1823 President James Monroe had a sound case for telling other nations to keep their colonizing out of the Western Hemisphere. He commanded no more of them than the non-interventionist policy that the United States accepted for itself.

How neat and simple it was the American world of 1823!

The Monroe Doctrine reflected the fundamental isolationing of the old principle of spheres of influence. Joseph Stalin is reported to have privately advanced this means of settling the fates of the postwar world. He would have given the United States influence over the Western Hemisphere and taken the rest for himself. In fact, the same idea is advocated by isolationist American politicians.

For reasons that should be apparent, the United States cannot become a party to any division of the world. The United States provides the backbone of the defenses that stand in the way of a communist sweep across Europe, Asia and Africa. If we left the communists fall to communism there would be no security in our own hemisphere.

Nikita Khrushchev could well afford to accept the principles implicit in the Monroe Doctrine to get American power out of Europe and Asia. It would be the ultimate catastrophe for the non-communist peoples.

This morning Mr. G. A. Britton, well-known florist, gardener and horticulturist, called at the office of the Ontario Intelligencer and with a bunch of Cuthbert raspberries which was loaded with berries in the manner that would defy its equal in July. Quite a number of berries were ripe while the bush was heavily loaded with green berries. In Mr. Britton's garden flowers are also still in bloom by frost, he reported, having picked a bouquet of pansies this morning.
